More than 9,000 school buses in Minnesota transport more than 600,000 students to and from school each school day and travel nearly 115 million miles a year. School bus drivers need the cooperation of other motorists to assure safety of bus passengers.

School bus safety week was designated to educate motorists about the importance of knowing and observing school bus laws. Minnesota has had its own school bus safety week for several years. This year, President Reagan has proclaimed October 4-10 as national school bus safety week, which coincides with the state observance.

On of the most common school bus driver complaints, according to Barbara Mittelstadt, AAA traffic safety coordinator, is that other motorists frequently violate the school bus stop law. "Motorists are required to stop for school buses that are displaying flashing red lights and a stop arm," Mittelstadt said.

"During school bus safety week, we hope to better inform motorists about the school bus lighting system and stop law, the penalties involved in violating school bus stop laws, remind school bus drivers of the importance of their task, and keep the public advised of the important role pupil transportation plays in the total educational program" Mittelstadt explains.

"THE KING'S MEN" musical team will make two appearances on October 4. They will sing at the Pioneer Village church in Thief River Falls at 2:30 p.m. and at the Zion Lutheran church of Viking at 8 p.m. Members of the team are Glenn Espe, Orville Trontvet, Everett Kompelien, Ron Trontvet and Earl Hanson. Public is cordially invited.

Steve Olson Participates In NATO Exercise

Spec. 4 Steve A. Olson, son of Harlan Olson, Newfolden, and Betty Olson, Thief River Falls, has participated in "Reforger '81," a series of training exercises conducted by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe.

Olson, a vehicle mechanic with the 3rd armored division, Hanau, West Germany, joined members of his unit to provide vital support for the United States and allied forces taking part in this annual exercise.

The 13th of its series, Reforger '81 tested mobility, plans, capabilities and support agreements between military and civilian transportation agencies of both the United States and its NATO partners.

The exercise, stated department of defense officials, provided soliders and airmen the best possible peacetime training for performance of duty under simulated combat conditions.

Nearly 17,000 people along with 27,000 tons of equipment were sent to Europe from the United States in support of Reforger '81.

The Veterans Administration will develop a national cemetery at Fort Mitchell, Ala. Located near Columbus, Ga., the cemetery will occupy 451 acres of an inactive military reservation.

DAVE KRAGNESS, principal, Marshall County Central high school presented a letter of commendation to Mark Knutson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Knutson, Newfolden, who placed among the top 51,000 participants in the current competition of the 27th annual national merit scholarship program, conducted by the national merit scholarship corporation (NMSC). Of some 1.2 million students who entered the 1982 merit scholarship competition by taking a qualifying test in 1980, about 36,000 are being commended this month, as they begin their final year of high school. These participants scored high, but slightly below students in their respective states who qualified as merit program semifinalists. Only the 15,000 semifinalists will receive further consideration for merit scholarships. In the spring of 1982, NMSC will announce the names of 5,000 merit scholarship winners who will receive awards worth $15 million for college undergraduate study.

Growers Upset With Senate Farm Bill

"The Senate's cut in the wheat provisions of the 1981 farm bill is extremely short-sighted and shows a definite lack of understanding between expenditures that are costs and those that are investments," stated Fred Kreps, Felton, president of the Minnesota association of wheat crowers.

Kreps and wheat grower vice president, Don Loeslie, Warren, recently returned from Washington where they lobbied in both the Senate and the House of Representatives for the passage of an acceptable farm legislation package. "It is very apparent that the effect on the budget is the only criterian viewed by the administration when developing programs," Kreps said.

According to Kreps, the Senate accepted the Reagan administration's proposal to reduce the target price for wheat for 1982 from $4.20 to $4 per bushel without considering the impact on the economy. The 20 cent reduction in target prices for wheat over the next four years will reduce possible government outlays by about $173 million, Kreps said, but it could reduce farmer income protection through 1985 by as much as $2 billion. In addition, Kreps reported, the loss in trade earnings to the U.S. economy from exporting wheat for 20 cents per bushel less could total over $1.5 billion over the four year life of the bill.

"Target prices don't assure higher government spending," Kreps said. "The Secretary of Agriculture has available to him the authorities and the programs he needs to manage stocks and to assist farmers in raising market prices. The new cost of the wheat program would be next to zero if the secretary carries out his authorities," Kreps stated.

"If farm prices drop below the target price and deficiency payments are paid to producers, it is an indication that government officials did not properly exercise the options available to them and that their programs failed," he said.

According to Kreps, the wheat growers are making a strong push in the House of Representatives to retain the wheat program levels that were cut in the Senate's version of the farm bill.

Parents' Night Conducted At MCC School

Parent's night, sponsored by the Marshall County Central Parent Teacher organization (PTO) was conducted recently in Newfolden to acquaint teachers and parents with each other and to familiarize parents with the classroom.

Because of the participation of parents and administrators, the PTO hopes to make the event a yearly one.

Organization's advisory council had gathered three times prior to the event to discuss plans for the special September meeting. Next PTO meeting is scheduled for November 16.

ARDIS KUHLMAN, Strandquist, has been appointed half-time Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) traveling coordinator, with major responsibilities to Pennington and Marshall counties. The Minnesota Board on Aging grated $8,875 in additional funding to RSVP, located at University of Minnesota, Crookston, for the expansion. Kuhlman will begin October 1 with the program, which works to develop a recognized role in the community and a meaningful life in retirement for older adults through significant volunteer service.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

I would like to respond to an article published in the Monday, Sept. 28th issue of the Times. The article was "Food Co-op Members Join Forces for Bulk Orders." In the article a statement was made, quote, "Most of this stuff isn't even available in the stores".

I would like to inform the public that all the items listed (Tanari Sauce, garbanzo beans, Carab Chips, bee pollen, etc) and more are available at Health Food Specialties in small or larger quantities, which ever amount you desire.

We appreciate all those who patronize our store from far and near. We look forward to seeing you.

Chuck Erickson
Health Food Specialties

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Thief River Chamber of Commerce, Bill Hogan, Jerry Sandstrom, Sheryl Novacek and Rep. LeRoy Stumpf for their efforts to provide an interesting and informative stay for members of the Latin American and Caribbean Regional Project.

Visitors from seven countries — Panama, Honduras, Mexico, Uruguay, Paraguay, the Dominican Republic and El Salvador — were in Minnesota for six days to study "The Making of U.S. Foreign Policy".

Although they had visited Washington D.C. and Pittsburgh, and were going on to Durango, Colorado, San Francisco and New York City, this was the only place where opportunity had been provided to visit rural areas and smaller towns.

The Latin American representatives were particularly impressed with tours of the Forsberg and Hydra-Mac plants, as well as by the hospitality at the visit to Mehrkens' farm. Many friendships were formed, a more complete understanding of similarities between individuals of different cultures was experienced, and a groundwork was laid for future economic and agricultural exchanges.

This could not have been done without the enthusiastic participation of the Minnesota Wheat council and Mrs. Carmen Henderson.

The reception at the Best Western motel in Thief River was one of the highlights of the visitors' experiences.

Thank you for allowing us to express our appreciation to the folk of your community through your columns.

Sincerely yours,
-S- Fran Paulu

NOTED HYPNOTIST IN THIEF RIVER FALLS TO HELP SMOKERS & THE OVERWEIGHT

WADE M. GENTHNER, F.A.I.H.
Director of Techniques For Living

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fail time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques For Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Genthner, F.A.I.H. at the Rex Cafe, 218 LaBree Ave., Thief River Falls will be the place for you to be on Tuesday, October 6. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight - Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Genthner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Genthner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes", who referred to him in a nationally televised report as "a well-trained and high experienced hypnotist".

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems", Genthner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Genthner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of over-eating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Genthner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free 1-800-645-3454.

MEA President Don Hill Urges Tough Negotiating

President Donald Hill of the Minnesota Education association told a group of more than 200 teachers attending a meeting of the Kramer-Brown Uniserv unit last Wednesday in Greenbush that strategy for negotiations now underway in most school districts in the state is simple: "Don't settle until you get what you think you ought to have."

"There have been 85 settlements in school districts in Minnesota so far and they range from terrible to not so terrible," Hill said. "What we're working for now is for people not to settle until they mature the right to strike."

Hill explained to the Times in a brief interview at the regional airport prior to leaving for Greenbush that "maturing the right to strike" meant waiting for the 10-day notices of intent to strike to reach that 10-day maturity. He said he resented the settlements which had been made because they were made "without expressing the full extent of the law — selling your soul for a little relief".

He told the teachers at Greenbush that he understood that conditions vaired from one community to another and that some did what they felt they had to do, but he urged MEA members present to fight as hard as they can to reach some of the stated goals.

Among these is a $16,000 minimum entry level salary, compared with the present national average of $11,200. "That $11,200 is a statement about our philosophy and the people who come into our profession," he said.

"You can't expect to continue to get the caliber of people you need in the public schools if you cheat on the entry level salary. Also, if you don't bring that salary up you'll have a hard time bringing the top very far, either. Put that $5,000 into the entry level salary and the average increase ought to be somewhere around $6,000 per teacher in a two-year contract."

After pausing for applause, he added, "And that's no big deal. We're not talking about changing the world structure, nor are we talking about breaking all the school districts, nor anything except bringing teacher salaries into a place where we think they belong.

"And if we do," he said, "we'll probably be only two or three thousand dollars behind other college graduates' entry level salaries by the time this contract is over. We're probably being too reasonable right now."

Hill called for loyalty in the organization — not to himself or to the MEA but to the concept of the education profession. "Be very difficult and strong and tough at the bargaining table," he said, "and with that attitude loyalty will come. MEA will be the vehicle, I'll be the charger out front who's going to get drilled with most of the arrows, but we'll all be going in the same direction."

He also cited the association's effort to reduce class size, asking all teachers who have classes larger than 30 students to let the MEA know. School districts must be held accountable for exceeding maximums, he said.

He said he appeared on a radio talk show in the Twin Cities when a university professor called in and told him he was wrong on class size. The professor said he had 108 students in a class and that what really mattered was quality of instruction. "What I told him," Hill said, "was that if part of your responsibility was to get overshoes on all 108 you'd never say that."

The MEA president urged teachers to do what they could in helping fight the drug scene, building coalitions around the idea that it's OK to be straight and all right for peer pressure to build around those students who aren't chemically involved.

He said he believes society is involved in a great struggle between the haves and the have nots, and that teachers are in the middle because they can sense the people who aren't going to make it; who are going to stray somewhere along the line. What is happening now, with budget and program cuts, he said, "is a slow dissection of what we know to be a good public school system."

"If you can use education to cure people from a life of crime," he said, you sure ought to be able to use it as a preventive. We should be able to reach down into young people's lives and give them some hope and direction."

Hill came to Thief River Falls from Washington, D.C., via the Twin Cities where he picked up a charter flight. He intended to return to Washington the next day for lobbying to save the U.S. department of education which President Reagan wants to abolish.

"In the 1950s there was a clarion call for improvement in the education system," he said, "and we responded by taking money out of the defense budget and putting it into science curriculum. I can't believe it should be a high priority to dismantle the education department instead of pumping new life into it. We can't accept the responsibility for welfare and other programs, but we can accept the responsibility for the public schools."

Hill said that collective bargaining is a part of that fight. It is a statement on where teachers stand as an organization and how they're going to deal with the problem, he said.

"If we allow the sytem to be ground up and balance the budget at the expense of public schools," he predicted, "when our legislature gets back together they'll do it again. And they'll do it again because it seems like the logical thing to do — as if there's something sacred about cutting taxes."

Hill also took a shot at businesses which complain about the state's high taxes.

"For all those businesses in Minnesota who say 'you cut all our taxes or we're going to move to North Dakota or South Dakota', all I can say to you is that the speeches you make to us about how miserable you life is for your business, you ought to livest to us about our public schools.

"Every business that leaves this state is just as responsible for the quality of life deteriorating here as any teacher who ends up on strike over issues that are a hell of a lot more important than whether or not the corporate profit makes it for the family who owns the business."

He said opposition has tried hard to drive a wedge between teachers. "The world needs to know," he said, "that the warm, compassionate, understanding, effective, highly motivated teachers are the same people who are negotiating contracts." He said the people attending the Uniserv meeting were probably among the best teachers in Minnesota because the same people who do a good job in motivating children and know the problems of motivation also know the problems of the school generally.

Hill also announced that Darwin Boutlette, teacher at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, is his first nominee to the new IMPACE committee, representing this congressional district on the political action arm of the MEA.

Alexandria Man Outstanding Tree Farmer

Clayton Amundson

Clayton Amundson, Alexandria, has been chosen as Minnesota's outstanding tree farmer for 1981, according to Ormond Cooper, International Falls, state chairman of the Minnesota Tree Farm committee.

Amundson, industrial arts teacher for 37 years at Central Junior high school in Alexandria, maintains a 400-acre tree farm in southern Hubbard county. Forestry assistance is provided Amundson by Allen Wickman, Minnesota department of natural resources private forest management specialist from Park Rapids.

This annual award recognizes excellence in private forest management.

Amundson's 400 acres were originally covered with scrub oak, low grade aspen and brush. He has planted more than 300,000 trees since he bought the land in 1961. Today, 300 acres are primarily Norway pine and white spruce. He also has established a northern Minnesota arboretum which contains 50 different speicies such as concolor fir, Italian stone pine, black walnut and European larch. Most of the exotics were started from seed.

Amundson will receive awards of a carved walnut plaque supplied by the American Forest institute, a copy of "Woodlands for Profit and Pleasure," a subscription to the "American Forests" magazine a chainsaw and a gift certificate from a forestry supplies company in recognition of his ooutstanding accomplishments.

National tree farm program is sponsored by the American Forest institute to promote and encourage proper forest resource management by small woodland owners and to publicly recognize their achievements. In Minnesota the Minnesota forest industries information committee is the sponsoring organization.

There are presently nearly 1,500 certified tree farms in Minnesota involving some 840,000 acres of forestland. Approximately two thirds of the nation's forestland is owned by small private owners.

Those interested in the tree farm program should contact their local private or public forester, extension of soil conservation office or write to: Ormond Cooper, State Tree Farm Chairman, Boise Cascade Corporation, P.O. Box 1713, International Falls, Minnesota 56649.

STAYING IN TOUCH!

Congressman
Arlan Stangeland

It's a Plane!

At some point in the near future, the House is going to be asked to approve one of the largest single peace-time arms sales in American history. I'm speaking of the proposed sale of five Airborne Warning and Control Systems (AWACS) aircraft and other equipment to Saudi Arabia.

The proposed $8.5-billion sale is controversial. Persuasive arguments have been made by advocates and opponents of the AWACS deal. But after meeting with President Reagan last Wednesday evening, I have decided to support the sale to the Saudis.

And I've made that decision for the only real reason any arms sale should be approved: it is in the best interests of the United States to approve the deal.

It is important to understand what the AWACS aircraft are. They are flying radar platforms that will help Saudi Arabia to protect the crucial oil fields on the Persian Gulf.

With the Saudi's current ground-based radar, there would only be two to four minutes' warning of an attack by low-flying airplanes. The AWACS planes would give Saudi air forces at least 15 minutes to scramble jets protecting the oil fields. Those extra minutes could be the difference between security and burning oil fields.

America and the industrial West depend on oil imports from Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf. Over 45 percent of our oil imports come from this troubled region. This sale will provide added protection for those oil supplies.

A second reason for supporting these sales is that the Saudi-owned AWACS aircraft are compatible with American equipment. If, on some terrible day, we are forced to defend this region from external aggression, the coordination of American forces with Saudi defenses will be easier if the Saudis have our equipment. If Congress blocks the sale, Saudi Arabia will purchase less compatible equipment from other sources.

Another consideration is the fact that $8.5 billion, cold cash, will be coming into the United States. This will create jobs and increase tax revenues.

A fourth reason for supporting the sale is that these aircraft will provide more solid and stable deterrents to Soviet adventurism and Khomeini terrorism in this region. If these planes are on watch, opponents of peace and stability will be less able to disrupt our oil supplies and upset the delicate balance of the Middle East.

Finally, if Congress blocks the sales of these planes for no good reason, it will undermine the credibility of the United States as a dependable ally in the Middle East and around the world. There would be great repercussions among moderate Arab nations if this sale is blocked.

In the long run, we must seek to create understandings between Israel and the moderate Arab states in the Middle East. It will be difficult to bring those moderates to the table if they see the President approve the AWACS deal, only to have Congress overturn it for less than solid reasons.

This deal will not put the moderate Arabs entirely on our side. But it will show that we are willing to act in our own best interests and in a fair and reasonable way.

For those five reasons (protecting the oil, providing compatible American equipment, bringing hard cash into America, deterring Soviet and Iranian aggression, and gaining support of moderate nations in the Middle East), I believe that this deal is in the best interests of the United States.

Now there are three major arguments against the AWACS sale. Some opponents claim that the AWACS deal will threaten the security of Israel. Others contend that if Saudi Arabia is rocked by revolution, the secrets of the AWACS system would be lost to the Soviets. And still others say that this sale will only increase Middle East tension.

Each of these arguments has major flaws.

First of all, the AWACS deal does not present a direct threat to Israel. The AWACS planes are defensive radar systems, which detect incoming attacks from other countries. The AWACS aircraft can't identify tanks or other ground defenses of Israel, and it can't coordinate attacks upon Israel.

As for the other equipment included in the AWACS deal, Saudi Arabia could purchase similar equipment from other countries. The fuel tanks and weapons systems for jets that make up a small portion of the AWACS deal do not represent a unique threat to Israel.

Secondly, if an AWACS aircraft should fall into the hands of the Soviets, all they would gain would be some computer software, which could be changed rapidly and inexpensively in the United States.

Finally, this sale would increase stability, not tension in the Middle East. By increasing the defenses of the oil fields, Saudi Arabia will be taking one more area for conflict out of the power equation in the region.

These planes will make it less likely that anyone will attack the oil fields. With this step, we can now turn our attention to other points of contention in the Middle East.

The sale of AWACS to Saudi Arabia is not the solution to the tension in the Middle East. But it does help to create stability.

The deal will promote peace and is in the long-term interests of the United States. That is why I will vote in favor of the sale.

units manufactured in Norwich, VT.

A brochure on the generator notes that it produces 115 volt AC 60-cycle electricity at all operating windspeeds. Because this electricity is identical to utility power, the generator can be connected to a 30 amp dedicated circuit and the electricity it generates will flow directly to any lights or household appliances on the house side of the utility meter.

A control box is located inside the home and includes watt-meter, windspeed indicator, solid state control, lightning protection, three-way switch and 20 amp fuse. The generator itself rotates freely 360 degrees with the wind.

There are several safety elements built into the unit. The generator cuts out when windspeed reaches 40 miles per hour. Upon loss of utility line power, the generator de-energizes and locks automatically so that it cannot backfeed a dead utility line.

Super said he expects sufficient wind to operate the generator much of the time. The weather service at Grand Forks shows an average wind speed of 16 miles per hour on a 24-hour basis year around, he said, and similar winds in this area would result in a good deal of electrical generation.

Super has been sufficiently impressed with the unit to apply for and receive a dealership. He would be happy to answer questions and discuss his experience with anyone interested. Contact Super Wind Sales at Middle River, phone 222-3767.

There's really only one time that Super probably would prefer that the wind doesn't blow. That is the one day a year when he has to climb the tower to change the synthetic oil lubricating the generator. It seems like the wind ALWAYS blows at the top of a 60-foot pole.

Losses Of Farm Acreage Don't Show Impact

While most of the northwest district's counties have extensive acreage of prime farmland, most also have large areas with less premium quality land, the statistical service notes. It is believed that farmland expansion from 1969 to 1978 occurred in these areas.

The west central district of the state, which includes 10 counties along and east of the North Dakota and South Dakota border, showed some of the largest farmland losses in the state. The area forms the lower part of the Red River valley, extends into the crop and livestock area of southern Minnesota, and forms the northwest border of Minnesota's primary dairy region.

Primarily a cash crop area, it produced from 20 to 25 per cent of the state's 1978 small grain crop. Most counties in this district showed acreage losses from 1969 to 1978 and Douglas county had the greatest loss of farmland proportionately of any county in the state at 12 per cent. In 1969, 84 per cent of the land in Douglas county was used for farming. This dropped to 74 per cent in 1978 — the lowest in the district. The west central district lost over 200,000 acrs from 1969 to 1978.

North central and northeast districts which comprise nearly the northeast quarter of the state has marginal farmland and only a small portion is used for farming — less than 10 per cent in Itasca, Lake and St. Louis counties and less than 25 per cent in the remaining counties.

However, more agricultural land was counted in 1978 than in 1969 in all but one county (Hubbard) and acreage gains varied from a low of 1,700 for Lake county to a high of 32,000 acres for Beltrami.

Definition of "land in farms" is primarily agricultural land used for crops, pasture or grazing. It also includes woodland and wasteland not actually under cultivation or used for pasture or grazing, provided it was part of the farm operator's total operation. Large acreages of woodland or wasteland held for non-agricultural purposes was deleted.

Land in farms is an operating unit concept and includes land owned and operated as well as land rented from others. Land used rent-free was reported as land rented from others. Grazing land was included as land in farms provided it was part of a farm.

Safety Dep't. Reviews Cycle Accidents

Over 60 per cent of Minnesota's motorcycle deaths are occurring when motorcycles are involved in collisions with other vehicles, according to public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

Through Ausust 31 of this year, 49 of the 76 reported motorcycle fatalities in the state came in crashes with one or more vehicles. That is more than 64 per cent, up from 58 per cent for all of 1980.

Of the 44 multi-vehicle accidents involving motorcycles, 24 were with one or more cars, 10 with trucks and two with vans. Vehicles listed in the other multi-vehicle incidents were a motorcycle, mobile motor home, tractor and a dirt bike. In three of the crashes the circumstances were not known. One fatal motorcycle crash happened when a motorcyclist struck a horse, was knocked onto the pavement and was subsequently run over by an oncoming car.

Intersections continue to be the most hazardous traffic situation for motorcyclists. National statistics show that 42 per cent of all motorcycle crashes occur at intersections when another vehicle turns left in front of the motorcyclist.

Commissioner Sopsic urges drivers of motorcycles and other vehicle drivers to increase their awareness of accompanying traffic on highways and freeways.

Energy Expo In St. Paul October 15-18

Minnesota's largest "how to" show, Minnesota Energy Expo '81, will be presented at the St. Paul civic center October 15-18.

Expo '81 will explain how to save energy and money through an efficient lifestyle. In addition to hundreds of product exhibits, Expo '81 will feature workshops led by local and national speakers, demonstrations, films and entertainment emphasizing energy efficiency.

For example, officials from the Mid-American solar energy complex and the Minnesota energy agency will talk about insulation in homes. Meanwhile, vendors will demonstrate the latest insulation products for residential use.

Other topics and products for home energy improvement include window coverings, furnaces and new heating systems.

Other topics and products for home energy improvement include window coverings, furnaces and new heating systems.

Expo '81 also will include the latest in alternative energy products for residential use. A variety of solar products, ranging from hot water heaters to greenhouses, will be on display. In addition, several experts will explain practical solar application in homes.

The show is not limited to home improvement. Minneapolis AAA will offer tips on improving gas mileage, and energy efficient cars will be o display. Special seminars for renters also are planned.

Expo '81 also will include events for children and students. Computer terminals will be featured at several exhibits and multi-media exhibits are scheduled.

Minnesota Energy Expo '81 is a joint venture between government and business in the state. Spokesmen include Mayor George Latimer, St. Paul; Mayor Don Fraser, Minneapolis; and Rep. Ken Nelson, Minneapolis.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled for 12 noon Thursday, October 15. The show will be open until 10 p.m. Thursday, 12 noon to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 12 noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, October 18.

Tickets are $2.50 for adults, free to children under 12. Discount coupons will be available shortly before the event.

RLF Hospital Hosts Cancer Conference

American Cancer Society's Red Lake Falls unit, St. John's hospital, and University of Minnesota community services are presenting a cancer conference Tuesday, October 13, from 8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. at the Minnesota Wheat Growers headquarters on highway 32, south of Red Lake Falls. Cost of the conference is $10 and includes lunch and breaks.

"Coping with Loss", a one day workshop for health care providers, will be presented by John Brantner Ph. D., a professor and clinical psychologist from the University of Minnesota department of psychiatry. Dr. Brantner will present principles involved in loss, grief and living, which will help the care giver deal with these situations.

Six contact hours are available. Anyone interested should register with Marion Bjorgan, St. John's Hospital, Red Lake Falls, Mn. 56750, before October 6.

Chameleon Tryouts Here October 5, 6

Tryouts for the Chameleon community theatre Christmas production of "Mr. Scrooge", will be conducted Monday and Tuesday (October 5 and 6) from 7 to 9 p.m. in the basement of the United Methodist church, 104 N. Horace Ave., Thief River Falls.

The two-act musical play requires a large cast, including children from the third grade level and older. Anyone interested in participating in any way, including preparing props and sets, is urged to attend.

King's Men At Village This Sunday

"King's Men" musical team will appear at the Pennington Pioneer Village church this Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Team consists of a men's trio and quartet with lead guitar, bass guitar and tape accompaniment. Members include Ron Trontvet, Earl Hanson, Everette Kompelien, Orville Trontvet and Glenn Espe.

Lunch will be served following the presentation. Public is invited to attend.

Solar Energy Chapters May Be Formed

Solar energy society chapters may be formed in any community under the corporation and by-laws of the Northern Tier Solar Energy Society, Inc. (NTSES), according to action taken recently by the officers and board of directors of NTSES.

Chapters could run their own programs and promotions of solar and alternate forms of energy under the corporate head and guidance already organized. This action was recently approved to further the cause of energy forms and to conserve on travel.

Persons willing to provide leadership in Northwestern Minnesota for solar activity and energy matters and who want to organize chapters under NTSES should write or contact Gene Miller, president, Northern Tier Solar Energy Society, Box 192, Crookston, Mn. 56716.

NTSES has a complete program plan for the 1981-82 year which includes presentations on solar active, solar passive systems and wind energy by specialists. The group meets the first Tuesday in every month at the agricultural research center, Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston, 7:30 p.m. A membership of $15 per year or a small meeting fee is required to cover presentation costs. Next meeting is October 6.

State Jaycees To Select Top Young Farmer

Plans for the search for Minnesota's outstanding young farmer have been announced by Bruce Pederson, Litchfield, chairman of the Minnesota Jaycees OYF committee.

"This is a part of the nationwide Jaycee program," Pederson said, "to bring about a closer understanding and appreciation of farm problems and agricultural achievements." Local Jaycee chapters throughout the nation will be selecting their community's finest 18 to 36-year-old farmer to represent them in the state judging. State judging will culminate in Litchfield on December 4 and 5, with naming of the state's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1981-82".

The OYF state winners will receive an all expenses-paid trip to the national OYF awards congress on Owensboro, Ken., February 18-20, 1982. This is the 26th year that the United States Jaycees has administered the program.

State Layers Up 5 Per Cent From Last Year

Minnesota's 9.7 million layers produced 200 million eggs in August of 1981, up six per cent from last year's 188 million. Layer numbers were up five per cent from the previous year. Egg production per 100 layers during the month was 2,062 eggs compared with 2,032 a year ago.

Minnesota's hatcheries produced 916,000 egg-type chicks during August, down 54 per cent from the August 1980 hatch. September 1 eggs in incubators totaled 583,000, down 65 per cent from the 1980 level.

Minnesota broiler-type hatchings in August totaled 2.2 million chicks, up 31 per cent from the previous year. The 1.6 million eggs in incubators on September 1 were up 25 per cent from the 1980 level.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Pores

Q. Pastor Don, would you please tell me what you feel is the main reason people are getting a divorce and why?

A. First of all, I would like to say there are several reasons couples get a divorce. But if I was to pinpoint the main problem, I would have to say, lack of communication.

God created marriage for companionship. Loneliness was the first thing God's eye named not good. Loneliness and isolation are contradictions to the purpose in God's creature act. God made man to experience fellowship and companionship with his wife.

Genesis 2:18 L.B. teaches "It is not good for man to be alone; I will make a companion for him, a helper suited to his needs."

The wife shares the life of her husband, draws him out of himself and into a wider area of contact through the involvement they have with one another. She is the one who can enter into responsible companionship.

The companionship and completeness that God intended for marriage grows out of communication as two people share each day and the meaning of their lives. The heart of marriage is its communication system.

Communication means more than talking; it also includes friendship, giving and receiving, sharing together around the same things. It means to enjoy together, to have common interest and intimacy. Learning to build a good husband and wife relationship through all these areas of communication.

The husband's best friend should be his wife, and the wife's best friend should be her husband. When a man cleaves to his wife, they become one flesh. The term "one flesh" is a beautiful capsule description of the oneness, completeness and permanence God intended in the marriage relationship. "One flesh" suggests a unique oneness, a total commitment to intimacy in all of life together.

With all the flap in recent years over womens lib, here is a perfect example of how the Bible views a wife. She is not man's property. She is man's partner . . . a full partner in every sense of the word.

Marriage is the total commitment of the total person for the total life.

New Sunflower Group Formed For Nation

Foreign market development, domestic promotion of sunflower products and support of production research will be three major objectives of the recently formed National Sunflower Association (NSA), Bismarck, ND.

Tom Porter, chairman, a grower from Cando, ND, says the group will be producer-controlled. North and South Dakota councils, the two existing state check-off groups, will be major participants. Other sunflower grower organizations in the United States, and individual growers from all sunflower producing states, will also be eligible to become members.

Non-grower individuals and companies will be included as NSA associate members. Several advisory committees of industry representatives will also be established.

Porter lists three key reasons for formation of NSA: "First, the N.D. sunflower council has been working under a provisional cooperator status with the USDA's Foreign Agriculture Service (FAS) for the purpose of foreign market development. To solidify this working agreement with FAS, we need to have a national grower organization as opposed to a single state," he says. The FAS provides matching funds to producer-controlled commodity groups working to develop foreign markets for American farm products.

The second motive for formation of NSA was to avoid duplication of efforts by two existing state councils and any other state groups. "Much of the research and market development work which goes on is relevant to growers in all sunflower producing states," Porter notes, "it makes good sense for us to work together whenever possible, sharing responsibilities as well as benefits."

Third reason for establishing NSA was to include sunflower growers in those states outside the Dakotas. "We need to communicate with them, get their input and allow them to help finance the organization," Porter remarks, "North Dakota has been carrying the financial ball for the past several years and this is one way to share that load and build a stronger organization."

Porter adds that, effective October 1, the NSA will also become publisher of "The Sunflower," a magazine established in 1975 by the Sunflower Association of America (SAA), a non-profit trade organization based in Fargo, which will be reducing its activities due to budget limitations.

Don Lilleboe, executive secretary of SAA, will continue as editor of the magazine.

The NSA's first annual convention will be held January 6 and 7 in Bismarck, ND. All growers and interested persons are invited to hear speakers discuss the sunflower industry. A trade show will also be included.

State Jobless Rate In August 4.3 Per Cent

Minnesota's unemployment rate in August was 4.3 per cent which compares to 4.6 per cent in July and 5.3 per cent in August 1980, commissioner Rolf Middleton of the Minnesota department of economic security reported. Comparable national unemployment rate for August was 7.2 per cent.

Compared to August a year ago, the size of the Minnesota civilian labor force increased 3.7 per cent; the number employed increased 4.7 per cent; and the number of unemployed decreased 15.2 per cent.

Minnesota's labor force in August was 2,216,000 persons, down 11,400 from July and up 78,800 from August of last year.

Number of persons employed in August was 2,120,300, down 4,400 from July and up 96,000 from August a year ago.

Number of persons unemployed in Minnesota in August was 95,700, down 7,000 from July and down 17,200 from August a year ago.

Production workers in manufacturing were paid average weekly earnings of $328.94 in August for working an average of 39.3 hours at $8.37 per hour.

In August 1980 production workers were paid average weekly earnings of $298.72 for working an average of 39.1 hours at $7.64 per hour.

Meets Planned For Energy Assistance

Energy assistance information meetings for the general public will be conducted during October in four Minnesota cities, assistant commissioner Mary Jo Richardson, training and community services division, department of economic security, announced.

Meetings are scheduled in Mankato, St. Cloud, Bemidji and St. Paul to present information about the 1982 energy assistance program and to obtain suggestions and comments from interested groups and individuals.

Meetings are scheduled from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. at each city.

Bemidji's meetings will be October 13, at the Ottertail power company meeting room.

During last year's heating season, more than 116,000 low income households received financial assistance to help pay heating costs. In addition, energy assistance funds were used to support conservation and self-sufficiency efforts.

State's energy assistance program received $69 million from the federal government last year to assist low income households. This year Minnesota's allocation may be reduced substantially due to cutbacks in Congressional appropriations.

Musical Opens Season At MSU Theatre

Moorhead state university theatre has selected one of the American theatre's greatest musical hits, "The Sound of Music," as its first threatrical fare of the new season. With music by Rodgers and Hammerstein, the play will be presented for five performances only October 22, 23, 24 and 25 in the center for the arts on campus. The four evening performances being at 8:15 p.m. and a special matinee October 25 is scheduled at 2:15 p.m.

Enthusiastically acclaimed at its original New York premiere, the musical became one of the longest-running hits in the American theatre's history. It was also the crowning success in the career of Mary Martin, the first performer among many to play the role of the high-spirited convent novice who became governess to the children of an Austrian naval officer, a man she is destined to marry. The play has continued through two decades to garner further critical accolades and its film presentation starring Julie Andrews and a recent London revival starring Petula Clark were greeted with equal approval.

Based on the true story of the famed Trapp Family singers, an Austrian family who defied Nazi terror on the eve of World War II, the tale became the fourth longest-running Broadway musical on record and the third longest-running Rodgers and Hammerstein show.

Containing one of the richest and most varied of Rodgers and Hammerstein's scores, "The Sound of Music" moves from gentle love songs to liturgical chorales to comic song-and-dance numbers. There is the joyous title song, the inspirational hymn, "Climb Every Mountain," and the enchanting "Do-Re-Mi." "My Favoraite Things," celebrates some simple and lovely ways to banish the blues, and "Edelweiss," the last song written by the well-known pair, has become the unofficial anthem of Austria, a tribute to the warmth and welcome of home.

Dr. Delmar J. Hansen, Moorhead state university theatre staff, will serve as production director while all musical sequences and dances will be staged by new staff member and choreographer, Richard T. Hanson. Thomas M. Ryan will create the multiple stage settings which range from the von Trapp mansion to the Nonnberg Abbey. Dr. William Wilson, orchestra conductor; Michael Olsen, vocal director; and Roray Hedges, technical director and lighting designer, complete the production staff for the production.

Parents' Roles Important In Conferences

"A successful parent-teacher conference should provide a parent with certain specific information about the child's social and academic behavior at school," says Carol C. Steele, a reading specialist, writing in the October issue of "PTA Today" — the journal of the national PTA.

"A parent should be prepared to ask a sufficient number of right questions, if necessary, to obtain specific information," she said.

Parents should ask about their child's pattern of achievement — about overall performance and progress. This will isolate the child's strong and weak areas. If the child is having a problem in one area, such as math, the parents and teacher should review the child's progress in this area to search for clues as to when and why that problem began.

According to Steele, if there is a problem in one or more areas a parent should, "ask for specific examples of any of his child's work habits and social behaviors that may be interfering with the child's attention to the academic tasks at hand."

"The parent should remember that the purpose of obtaining the child's instructional level is to find out where the child is functioning in relation to the grade he is in, not to berate the child for functioning on a low level or on a level lower than the parent had hoped for," says Steele.

Parents need a general idea of the child's scholastic abilities in order to develop realistic expectations, and the teacher should be able to present a fairly clear picture of the child's competencies. Says Steele, "The parent may find that he has been placing undue pressure on his child when the child is actually doing the best that can be expected of him."

If the child is not performing up to indicated expectations, there may be a learning, motivation or work-habit problem that needs to be investigated.

After the parents and teacher discuss the child's progress and capabilities, the parents should ask what they can do to help the child overcome any weaknesses — what specific activities they can do at home that will reinforce what the teacher is doing at school.

Parents should also ask what the requirements are for the child to pass to the next grade. "Sometimes a child who is functioning below grade level has worked hard during the school year and made good progress, but fails to meet the requirements of competency and achievement for passing to the next grade," says Steele. A parent should become aware of, that possibility as early as possible in the school year.

A good parent-teacher conference will provide necessary information about a child's progress and abilities and, if needed, a plan of joint effort for parents and teachers to work with the child.

The school and teacher have the responsibility for making an honest and understandable presentation of facts about the child. But, according to Steele, "Parents must share at least part of this responsibility by asking those questions pertinent to the issue at hand. Knowing what to ask a child's teacher and asking it will undoubtedly give the parent a better understanding of where his child is going academically, and how fast he's getting there."

A new Veterans Administration employee program — the Inspector General Advisory Councils — has been created to review selected agency programs and discuss ways in which they may be vulnerable to fraud, waste and abuse.

14 From Area At NFO State Convention

Fourteen delegates from Pennington and Red Lake counties attended the Minnesota National Farmers organization (NFO) convention Saturday in St. Cloud. Merle Lundeen of Trail was elected a national director at the convention.

National NFO president DeVon Woodland told the convention that, "the farm bill is a disaster, but really we didn't expect much. If there's ever a time farmers need strong representation at the marketplace, it's now with the pending harvest which is purported to be a near record harvest."

Woodland said that the uncertainty of farm income and interest rates emphasizes the need for collective bargaining.

"The consumer is paying a lesser percentage of disposable income for food than ever before in history and the lowest in the world," he said. "It has gone from 20 per cent in 1967 to 13.6 per cent in 1980. Ironically, farm debt has increased from $12 billion in 1952 to $160 billion in 1980. This suggests that farm debt has made it possible for the consumer to have the greatest variety at the least percentage of earned income."

Mike Lamp, Willmar, speaking for the NFO hog marketing division, said that hog volume has doubled at Minnesota NFO collection points during the past year. A doubling next year would provide the NFO with nearly enough volume to stabilize hog prices for farmers, he said.

Merle Lundeen was elected to succeed Paul Sobocinski of Wabasso who resigned at the end of his term and will be officially seated at the NFO national convention in Indianapolis, IN, early in December.

Attending from Pennington county were Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lundeen, Don Erickson, Bill Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Juell Chervestad, Joe Horachek, Karen Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stucy. Red Lake county delegates attending were Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Harmoning and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mathson.

$136 Billion Spent On Farm Production

Farm production expenses totaled a record $136.6 billion last year, according to a recent report issued by the U.S. department of agriculture. That total, while up only 2.3 per cent from a year earlier, is a whopping 67 per cent above the $81.8 billion total of only five years earlier.

The 1980 production expenditure total was up only that 2.3 per cent because sharply higher expenditures for farm services, feed taxes, fertilizers and fuel and energy were offset by sharply lower costs for livestock, farm buildings, fencing and land improvements, farm machinery and farm trucks.

Farm services — which included expenditures for custom work, veterinarian services, breeding fees, insurance, marketing and rents — accounted for the biggest bite, $21.3 billion. That total is up nearly 10 per cent from a year earlier to account for nearly 16 per cent of the overall expenditures.

Feed purchases, at $20.1 billion, were up nearly 12 per cent from a year earlier to account for 15 per cent of the total.

Expenditures for interest, at $10.2 billion, were up 16 per cent; fertilizer costs, at $10.2 billion, were up 20 per cent; fuel and energy expenditures, at $9.9 billion, were up nearly 21 per cent. Expenditures for taxes, at $2.7 billion, were up nearly 11 per cent from 1979.

Labor costs, at $10.1 billion, were up 7½ per cent; seed costs, at $3.9 billion, were up 5½ per cent; and expenditures for agricultural chemicals, at $3.1 billion, were fractionally above those for 1979.

On the other hand, expenditures for livestock and poultry, while totaling $17.4 billion and accounting for 13 per cent of the over-all total, were still of 19 per cent from the $21.5 billion spent in 1979. Poultry expenditures totaled $1.0 billion, up 23 per cent from a year earlier. But, costs for cattle purchases, at $14.2 billion, were off 20 per cent; and those for hogs, at $1.1 billion, were down nearly 30 per cent from 1979.

Expenditures for tractors and self-propelled machinery, at $8.25 billion, were down six per cent; those for other machinery totaled $4.8 billion, down 10 per cent. Building and fencing costs, at $6.7 billion, were down 10 per cent; auto and truck expenditures, at $2.6 billion, were down 19 per cent. Farm motor supply costs, at $7.0 billion, were off 5½ per cent from the 1979 total.

Cost Hike Hits Production Of Major Crops

If you feel that production costs per acre on major crops are higher this year, you're right on the button. They're up 14 to 19 per cent in 1981, according to U.S. department of agriculture economists.

Per acre costs for corn, for example, are seen at $246.12 this year. That's up 64 per cent from the $150.23 cost per acre of 1978, up 15 per cent from the 1980 cost per acre of $213.54.

To set the record straight, these are non-land costs we're talking about, states Ed Curran of U.S. Department of agriculture.

Sorghum costs per acre are seen at $159.35 this year, up 14 per cent from last year, 50 per cent above the 1978 total of $97.68 per acre. Barley costs are estimated at $147.71 per acre, up 15 per cent above the 1978 total of $92.20.

Costs per acre for producing oats are seen at $113, up 14 per cent from last year's $99.02 per acre, 56 per cent above the $72.90 figure of 1978. Costs of soybeans are seen at $149.71 per acre this year, up 14½ per cent from last year's $131.47 and 50 per cent higher than 1978's $99.13.

Wheat costs are seen at $123.52 per acre this year, up 15 per cent from last year's $108.13 total, 70 per cent above the $74.30 total of 1978. Costs of production for rice are estimated at $444.06 per acre in 1981, up 15 per cent from 1980's total of $384.76, up 58 per cent from the $280.72 total of 1978.

"In case you're wondering what the non-land costs take in," Curran says, "here's a breakdown of the costs per acre on corn: Included are fertilizer, $55.29; machinery ownership — including replacement, interest, taxes and insurance — $55.59; agricultural chemicals — $17.62; seed, $15.64; fuel and lubrication, $21.23; repairs, $11.34; farm overhead, $9.55; drying, $9.16; interest, $7.28; custom operations, $4.97; lime, $1.60; purchased irrigation water, 10 cents; labor, $14.36; and management, $22.37. These are averages of course."

Big Farms Keep "Gobbling Up" Smaller Ones

In the past 20 years, the number of farms in the United States has declined by one-third — from 3.7 million then to 2.4 million today. In the next 20 years, according to some U.S. department of agriculture economists, we'll lose another one-third of them, states Ed Curran of USDA.

But, while many people point to the fact we've built too many housing tracts, shopping centers and airports on some of our best farmland in the past, the prime culprit of the future, if this happens, won't be urban sprawl. It'll be big farms gobbling up small ones.

Current statistics show that one per cent of our largest farms now produce about one-fourth of the nation's food. By the year 2000, the economists say, it is quite possible that the largest one per cent of our farms will be producing 50 per cent of our food. Moreover, the smallest 50 per cent of our farms will be producing only one per cent of our food and fiber.

In other words, by the year 2000, farms with annual sales of farm products of $100,000 or more will be producing 99 per cent of our food. It also means we're talking about 200,000 farms controlling about 75 per cent of the nation's farmland.

If you think it's difficult for the new farmer to get started today — and it is — it'll be much more difficult to get started in farming 20 years from now.

Of course, the capital investment needed to get started in small farms will be, comparatively at least, much smaller. But, expansion? That is another thing. By the year 2000, the economists say, new farmers may need about $2 million in assets to get into commercial farming — the type of farming that will generate those sales of $100,000 or more.

That means in the future, opportunities to get into farming will be confined, for the most part, to those who inherit a farm. And, the chances are they won't be inheriting a whole farm but rather a partnership or shares in a family farm corporation that's highly specialized.

"It's scary," Curran said.

Crossing Demo Projects To Be Finished Today

Installation of demonstration projects to improve safety and reduce traffic delays at railroad crossings in six Minnesota and North Dakota communities is expected to be completed today, according to commissioner Richard P. Braun, Minnesota department of Transportation (Mn-DOT).

Cities participating are Moorhead, Elk River and Sauk Rapids in Minnesota and Beach, Casselton and Hebron in North Dakota.

Projects are the joint effort of the Minnesota-North Dakota rail traffic task force (RTTF), Burlington Northern Railroad company, the North Dakota state highway department and Mn-DOT.

Improvements are to determine the effectiveness of low-cost methods of reducing traffic delay problems experienced by the six communities situated on the main Burlington Northern rail lines.

Improvements include more effective warning and signal systems to reduce waiting time at crossings, extended sidings to eliminate train switching at crossings, establishing communications between the railroad and emergency fire and ambulance services to avoid delays at crossings, and conducting public and school safety education projects.

Projects are expected to reduce emergency vehicle delays by 15 to 100 per cent; improve accessibility to work, school and shopping areas by 10 to 40 per cent; and increase safety at rail line crossings from 35 to 70 per cent, Braun said.

Total cost of all the projects is $3.2 million. For projects such as the grade crossing predictors, 90 per cent funding was from federal programs, five per cent from state, 2.5 per cent each from local communities and Burlington Northern. On the lengthening of the siding, and the installation of the power switches, Burlington Northern paid costs.

Projects will be evaluated on their low-cost effectiveness and may be used as models for installations in other areas where there are community-railroad traffic concerns, he said.

Now Is Time To Check Cars For Winter Fitness

Automotive Information Council (AIC) suggests car owners take a few minutes to give their vehicles a "driveway inspection" and then determine whether it's time for a tune-up, oil change and lube or other items by looking in the owner's manual maintenance schedule.

For the quick inspection, start with the engine compartment. Check oil level and fill if needed. Be sure belts are not loose, cracked or frayed. Squeeze hoses and have them replaced if too soft or cracked. Remove air cleaner and make sure baffles are not clogged. Check level of radiator coolant and test for temperature tolerance. Replace the fluid if dirty or rusty. Make sure battery has enough water and clean off corrosion at the terminals. Before closing the hood, check levels for the automatic transmission, power steering, brake master cylinder and windshield washer.

Then go around the car and inspect:

— tire inflation pressures, including the spare. Be sure there is adequate tread for winter driving.

— turn on headlights and have someone switch to high beam while you watch. Do the same with turn signals and tail-lights.

— squirt fluid on windshield and run wipers. If they streak or miss, it's time for replacements.

— Exhaust system — Shake tail-pipe to determine that clamps are firm.

— AIC says it is best to do these things when the weather is nice and before something fails, which usually happens at an inconvenient time or location.

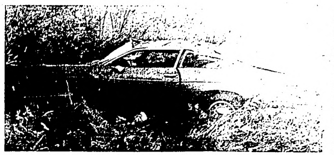
Sobolik Named To Committee On High Court

Praising the action of Governor Al Quie in creating the governor's committee on supreme court nominations, Clinton Schroeder, president of the Minnesota state bar association (MSBA), has announced appointments to the eight-member committee. Named were Dennis M. Sobolik of Hallock and Richard E. Kyle of St. Paul, each long known for active participation in judicial system matters.

Sobolik is a member of the Brink, Sobolik, Severson and Vroom law firm in Hallock, was admitted to the bar in 1959, and served as county attorney of Kittson county for several years. He is past president of the 14th district bar association, and has served on the board of governors of the Minnesota trial lawyers association and is currently a member of the Minnesota state bar association board of governors.

According to Schroeder, "The positive action of Governor Quie in establishing this non-partisan nominating committee indicates once again his commitment and that of the MSBA to a high quality judicial system for the citizens of Minnesota.

"To my knowledge, Governor Quie is the first Minnesota governor to use this merit procedure in the selection of supreme court Justices, and more importantly, the first to rely on recommendations of those legal professionals with an intimate knowledge of the qualifications and capabilities of those who would be possible nominees for the position," he said.



FOUND IN THICK FOG about 8 a.m. Thursday, in the ditch about seven miles west of Thief River Falls off highway 1, this obviously rolled car with Oregon license plates had Highway Patrolman Ed Braaten and Sheriff's Deputy Howard Seim searching the brush for a possibly injured driver. The owner was later traced to a Thief River Falls address through an envelope found in the car and found to be unhurt.

Fall Is Time To Control Weeds, Say Specialists

While the availability of adequate moisture throughout the growing season provided improved crop production conditions, northwestern Minnesota growers nonetheless faced a tough weed year in 1981.

According to Dr. John Nalwaja, small grains weed specialist at North Dakota state university, severe weed infestations are attributable to a combination of weather conditions. "Weed seeds, especially those of cool weather plants like wild oats, had optimum germinating conditions this spring. As a result, multiple flushes appeared all through the season to compete with the crop," he explains.

Known to farmers as a highly competitive, yield robbing annual grass, wild oats was among the most serious weed problems on wheat and barley acres this spring. Able to produce as many as 250 seeds per plant, wild oats present a serious reinfestation problem if left uncontrolled. NDSU studies have shown that a moderate infestation of this highly adaptable weed species can take 30 per cent of a wheat crop, and reduce barley yields as much as 20 per cent. Early control is the key, researchers say.

"Where heavy infestations are present in a field, early control of wild oats is essential to minimize risk inherent in allowing weed seeds to shatter to the ground at harvest, thus posing a more serious problem next season," Dr. Nalewaja states. In an effort to get early, effective control of wild oats, farmers and researchers alike have found that fall herbicide treatments fit well into most northwestern Minnesota grain growers' management systems.

"Research at NDSU and other universities has consistently shown that controlling wild oats pre-emergence before they have a chance to break ground is the best way to prevent a reduction in the quality and quantity of grain harvested," observes David Hanson, product development associate and weed control specialist.

"At the same time, many growers find that treating weeds in the spring puts an extra burden on their work schedule prior to planting, and subjects them to the uncertainty of spring weather conditions," Hanson continues, "the 1980 season is the best example of what can happen when Mother Nature doesn't cooperate."

The weed specialist says recent experience has convinced many farmers that fall herbicide application is an option worth considering. "Applied prior to soil freeze-up, a wild oat herbicide allows farmers the flexibility to get their weed control out of the way in the fall. Best of all, this operation can be incorporated into the grower's regular land management program, so it doesn't require any additional trips over the fields," he contends.

Dorothy Dodds Named To MCA Board

Dorothy Dodds, Red Lake Falls, was recently re-elected to the board of trustees of Minnesota Citizens for the Arts (MCA) for a one-year term, during the board's annual meeting. She has been on the board since 1978.

Minnesota Citizens for the Arts is a state-wide advocacy organization working to insure the availability of arts to Minnesotans by building stronger legislative support for the arts.

Dodds and other MCA board members will be looking at ways to maintain current state funding for the arts until the state's economy improves and allows for any increase to the arts.

"It's vital that people in every part of Minnesota have opportunities to attend or help produce arts activities," Dodds stated.

Other representative of Region one elected to the MCA board is Mil Sahlstrom, Crookston.

Football Streak Ends

When Thief River Falls lost a 15-14 game at Staples Friday, it marked the first Lincoln high school football game this writer has missed since I began working at the Thief River Falls Times in 1970.

Missing Friday's game snapped a string of 101 consecutive Thief River Falls football games I've covered in person — both and home and away — over the past 11, going on 12 years.

The string started with a wild 22-21 come-from-behind win over Dilworth on September 4, 1970. I was 18-years-old, and I had to borrow the post-game statistics from KTRF radio because I couldn't figure out my own numbers.

The Prowlers were 8-1 that fall; unbeaten in nine games the following year; and 8-1 in 1972 when a 36-20 final game loss to Crookston snapped an 18-game winning streak. That was also the year in which the Prowlers out-dueled a highly regarded St. Cloud Apollo team 12-6 in front of perhaps the largest crowd ever to watch a game on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

Success has been harder to come by since those outstanding 1970-71-72 seasons. A more demanding schedule has been part of the reason the Prowlers have been able to produce just two winning seasons over the past eight years. But they have for the most part played competitive, entertaining football.

One of the highlights of those 101 games was the 33-21 victory over Moorhead just last fall when the Prowlers played one of their finest games ever in recording the first Thief River Falls gridiron win over the Spuds since 1940. And they play again Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the Thief River Falls athletic field when this writer will return to the sidelines.

Cuppett Stars On UND Team

Marchell Cuppett, the University of North Dakota women's field hockey goalie who is a senior from Thief River Falls, has posted six straight shutouts for the Sioux.

Cuppett carries a 0.50 goals-against average. All eight UND wins this fall have come on shutouts by Cuppett, who played every minute of every game for the Sioux last year.

Miscellaneous

+Sauk Rapids, one of the 16 schools in Region 8AA of the Minnesota State High School League, is in store for athletic cuts following the defeat of a school tax levy increase, according to a story appearing in the St. Cloud Daily Times.

+Detroit Lakes high school tennis coach Gary Kludh, whose team swept Thief River Falls 5-0 last week, was pleased by his team's strong showing in the recent Little Falls invitational where the Lakers finished second to Virginia, last year's Class AA state runner-up. "The tournament showed us that we can compete with anyone, and that if everyone plays well we could have another shot at the state title in October," Kludt told Ralph Anderson of the Becker County Record.

+Mentor and Erskine will field a cooperative high school football team in 1982, reported Jim Carrington of the Bemidji Pioneer, reducing the nine-man North Tri County Conference from ten to nine teams.

+John Campbell will be the guest speaker Monday, October 19, at a 7:30 p.m. presentation by the Thief River Falls Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Highly recommended as a program speaker, Campbell is a former All-Big Ten tight end at the University of Minnesota where he was a member of the Gophers' 1960 national championship team. He played with Gophers in the 1961 and 1962 Rose Bowl games and made six post-season bowl game appearances during his college career. A Wadena high school graduate, Campbell was drafted by the Minnesota Vikings in 1963. He played with the Vikings in 1963 and 1964, was named to the All-Pro team while with the Steelers from 1965 through 1968 and finished his NFL career with the Colts in 1970. Campbell's presentation here, open to men and women of all faiths, will be free to the public. A free will offering will be accepted to cover expenses.

+Bemidji remained unbeaten Friday with a 13-7 high school football victory over Park Rapids when the Panthers twice had a first-and-goal situation inside the Lumberjacks' four-yard line and failed to score. Park Rapids finished with a 239-109 edge in rushing yardage, holding Bemidji's Troy Hendricks, who had been topping the 100-yard barrier with regularity, to just 36 yards on 15 carries.

Prowlers Matched Against Moorhead Friday

Being the underdog is nothing new to the Lincoln high school football team, and the Prowlers will be cast in that role again Friday when they tackle Moorhead in a 7:30 p.m. game on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

Stinging from a string of tough-luck losses, the winless Prowlers will be decided underdogs against the 3-1 Spuds, who have their own streak going — three straight shutout wins after a season opening 20-14 defeat at the hands of Fargo South. In their last three starts the Spuds have blanked Fargo North 20-0, Superior 17-0 and defending Class AA state champion Burnsville 7-0.

Thief River Falls, meanwhile, after a mistake-filled season-opening 29-0 loss to Grand Forks Red River, has lost three straight games by one touchdown or less, falling to Detroit Lakes 13-8, Grand Rapids 13-6 and Staples 15-14.

And in each case the Prowlers were marching toward a possible game-winning touchdown in the final minutes when they lost the ball on turnovers.

Still, there remains a certain amount of confidence among the Prowlers, who proved they could play on even terms with the best of them in their performance against a Grand Rapids team that is rated high in the Class AA polls.

"The players still feel they can win some football games, and they feel they can win Friday," mentioned Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz. "We feel we can go on the field (and win) against Moorhead, but we have to eliminate the two-three mistakes that have been beating us every game."

Giving Thief River Falls added confidence Friday is the memory of the Prowlers' remarkable 33-21 victory over Moorhead last fall. A near error-free performance that night enabled Thief River Falls to beat Moorhead on the football field for the first time since 1940. Although the two teams met just 13 times during that span, the Spuds' winning streak against the Prowlers included four straight decisions since the often-interrupted series resumed in 1976.

To come close to duplicating last year's performance against Moorhead Friday, Thief River Falls will have to come up with a big improvement in its pass defense. Opponents have burned the Prowlers through the air in every start, and the Spuds' passing attack is expected to be refined enough to cause problems Friday.

"We just didn't get a good pass rush, and we didn't get very good coverage in the secondary," said Schmitz about the Prowlers' most recent defeat at Staples. "We just broke on pass defense."

And what will Moorhead bring to Thief River Falls? "They must have a tremendous defensive club to post three straight shutouts," warned Schmitz.

The Prowlers' offense continued to make improvements Friday, with halfback Tom Ose carrying the ball 27 times for 177 yards — the most yards gained by a Lincoln runningback since Jeff Kosel netted 189 yards on 26 carries against Staples in 1977. Ironically, the Prowlers also lost that one 15-14.

Friday Has Been Designated As 1981 National H.S. Coaches Day

Friday, October 2, has been proclaimed national high school coaches day throughout the United States, with special recognition being given to the men and women who spend countless hours helping shape the lives of the young student-athletes in America.

"As athletic director, I invite the public to join with Lincoln high school in honoring all coaches on national coaches day," urged Russ Smith, who heads the Prowlers' athletic department that includes the following coaches:

Softball — head coach Sharon Stauss.

Volleyball — head coach Sharon Stauss; assistant coach Diane Anderson.

Cross county — head coach Lynn Dyer.

Girls tennis — head coach Whitey Olson; assistant coach Jeanne Olson.

Hockey — head coach Wendell Grand; assistant coaches Dave Peterson, Bill Poole.

Saturday Game Starts At 3 P.M. . . .

Northland Will Play Vermilion

Northland community college football team will be trying to rebound from a poor performance in a 15-0 loss to Mesabi Saturday when the Northmen host Vermilion in a 3 p.m. MJCAA Northern Division game on the Thief River Falls athletic field.

"We just couldn't get anything going," said Northland coach John Helley about last Saturday's loss at Virginia that dropped the Northmen to 1-2. "We were very, very flat."

As usual, Northland's defense kept the game close, but the offense didn't hold up its end of the bargain.

Mesabi returned the game's opening kickoff for a touchdown and that was the extent of the scoring until a high center snap on a punt sailed through the end zone in the fourth quarter to give Mesabi an 8-0 edge. The Norsemen added an insurance touchdown in the final minutes.

"It was a tough defensive struggle," acknowledged Helley, who doesn't plan any line-up changes this week. "We just need a little better execution. I think we'll be ready to play Saturday."

Elsewhere in the Northern Division this week, University of Minnesota-Crookston is at Golden Valley Lutheran, Fergus Falls at Brainerd and Itasca at Hibbing, with Mesabi playing a Thursday game against the Superior State junior varsity.

Fergus Falls blanked Hibbing 25-0, Golden Valley Lutheran stopped Brainerd 19-6, University of Minnesota-Crookston knocked off the Mayville State junior varsity 15-3 and Itasca edged Vermilion 15-14 in last week's action.

Vermilion is still looking for its first win of the 1981 season. The Ironmen, who requested the 3 o'clock start here, lost their first two starts to Hibbing 12-7 and Fergus Falls 21-0.

Itasca blocked two punts against Vermilion Saturday, and both led directly to points for the winners, who overcame a 14-2 third quarter deficit.

Rick Hoard of the Vikings blocked a first quarter Vermilion punt and the ball rolled through the back of the end zone for a safety. Vermilion, ahead 8-2 at the half when a long Dan Hubbartt pass set up a short touchdown run, took the second half kickoff downfield and scored on a ten-yard Hubbartt-to-Roy Eckwood pass for a 14-2 lead.

But Itasca, after losing five fumbles and having two passes picked off, came back to win it when Dave Sura blocked a Vermilion punt in the third quarter, with teammate Dale Carpenter grabbing the ball in the end zone for the touchdown.

Northwomen To Open Home Season Friday

First home appearance of the 1981 season for the Northland community college volleyball team will be made Friday when the Northwomen host Mesabi and Itasca in a 6 p.m. triangular meet in the Northland gym.

A 3-1 victory at Fergus Falls Tuesday improved Northland's season record to 5-6. The Northwomen came back from a 15-6 first game loss to beat the Spartans 15-4, 15-12, 15-7.

"It was a good match," reported Northland coach Deb Jacobson, who was pleased with the way the Northwomen battled back after losing the first game. She cited Marlys Huot for her serving and said Kelly Thompson and Shelly Taggart were the leaders on offense.

"We've been playing really well," noted Jacobson, whose team shared first place with host University of Minnesota–Crookston in last week's Northwest Division quadrangular at UMC. The Northwomen and Trojans both finished with 2-1 records, finishing ahead of perennial division leaders Brainerd and Fergus Falls.

Prowlers Rally To Beat Pirates 4-18, 18-11, 18-8

Beaten badly in the first game, Thief River Falls rallied for a 2-1 victory over Crookston Tuesday in a high school volleyball match played in the Crookston Central gym.

The Pirates breezed to an easy 18-4 first game win over the mistake-prone Prowlers. But Crookston made the mistakes the rest of the night as Thief River Falls rolled to 18-11, 18-8 wins.

"Things were going just terrible in the first game," admitted Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "Everything we touched we hit out of bounds."

Crookston had a tough time of it in the second and third games, reported Stauss, who made several line-up changes and was happy with the way her team was able to come back. "In volleyball, if you lose that first game it seems like you have an awful long ways to come back to win the match, so I'm happy that we were able to come back like we did. But overall, I'm still not impressed with out offensive play."

The win raised Thief River Falls' dual meet record to 4-2 for the year. The Prowlers lost an 18-3, 19-17 match at Moorhead Thursday and Saturday they participated in an invitational meet at Roseau when they beat Greenbush 18-14, 18-7; lost to eventual champion International Falls 18-3, 18-14; and defeated Warroad 18-15, 18-9 in the third place match.

Lincoln high school junior varsity team record fell to 1-5 Tuesday following an 18-10, 18-13 loss to Crookston, but the Thief River Falls freshmen won 18-10, 16-18, 18-10 for a 2-4 record.

Plante Extends Service String As Oklee Wins

Roxanne Plante served 18 straight second game points Tuesday to lead Oklee past McIntosh-Winger 16-18, 18-0, 18-6 in a high school volleyball match played at Oklee.

Plante, a junior, ran her season-long string of successful serves to 137 during the night, with 103 of them producing points.

Oklee coach Ardis Hofstad also cited the spiking of Liz Olson and Mary Johnson as the Bobcats improved their record to 7-1. They visit Waubun Thursday and host Mahnomen Tuesday.

Homecoming At NCC Is October 10th

Northland community college of Thief River Falls will celebrate homecoming October 10. All alumni and other interested individuals are invited to attend.

Northmen football team will host Hibbing community college in a 1:30 p.m. game at Prowler field. All alumni and guests are invited to a post game social hour at 5 p.m. at the Best Western. Dance for students, alumni and guests beginning at 9 p.m. at the Thief River Falls country club will conclude homecoming.

Any area person interested is invited to participate in the 1981 NCC homecoming events.

Mahnomen Is Lone Unbeaten 1980 Champ

Defending Class B football champion Mahnomen is the lone state champion from last year's five titlists that enter the fifth week of the high school football season with unbeaten status.

The northwestern Minnesota school of 235 students, holder of the state's longest winning streak (17), has put together a 4-0 mark this campaign while outscoring opposition 138-6. State playoff participants five times since 1974, Mahnomen visits Warren in its next game on Friday.

While Mahnomen is off to another great start, other defending champions — Burnsville, Class AA; Crookston, Class A; Bird Island-Lake Lillian, Class C; and Hoffman-Kensington, nine-man, haven't fared as well. Burnsville has been beaten twice and Crookston already carries three losses.

LHS Freshmen Defeat South By 32-28 Score

Lincoln high school freshman football team evened its season record at 2-2 Thursday with a 32-28 win over South junior high of Grand Forks.

Ryan Drees scored three touchdowns and passed for another to lead the winners, who built a 20-14 halftime lead.

Scott Fowler scored on a one-yard run and Mark Bondy passed to Drees for the two-point conversion as Thief River Falls grabbed an 8-6 first quarter lead.

Drees scored on runs of 30 and 3 yards in the second quarter, then passed 15 yards to Gus Miller for a 26-14 third quarter edge.

South doubled its point total in the fourth quarter, but Drees broke loose on a 50-yard touchdown run to win the game.

Thief River Falls visits Grand Forks Valley junior high Friday for a 3:45 p.m. game and will be in Bemidji Monday for a 4:30 contest.

KICKOFF RETURN by McIntosh-Winger ball carrier David Balstad was stopped by Plummer sophomore Brian Fisher, who made the tackle during Friday's North Tri County Conference high school football game played at Plummer. Randy Kroshus of the Scots (21) followed the play. McIntosh-Winger defeated Plummer 33-7. The 2-2 Cardinals tackle another tough assignment Friday when they visit Middle River for a 3 p.m. game that will serve as the homecoming contest for the 4-0 Skippers. (Photo by Alice Hofstad).

Swimmers Host Prowler Relays

Fresh from a double-dual meet triumph over Fargo South and Fargo North, the Lincoln high school girls swimming team will play host to the annual Prowler Relays Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. in the Franklin middle school pool.

Bemidji, Fargo Shanley, Park Rapids and Thief River Falls will take part in the nine relay events: 200-yard freestyle, 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke; 800-yard freestyle, 200-yard butterfly, 1-meter diving, 200-yard medley, 600-yard individual medley and 400-yard freestyle.

The Prowlers broke into the win column for the first time this fall last Saturday in the Fargo North pool. Thief River Falls beat Fargo South 51-33 and the same times were good enough for come-from-behind 45-38 decision over host North.

Thief River Falls, 2-3 in dual meet competition, visits Grand Forks Red River Thursday for a 4:30 p.m. dual before staging the Prowler Relays.

Three TRF Archers Are Bowhunting Champions

Three Thief River Falls archers — Dana Klos, Gordie Peterson and Rick Bruggemand — reign as the national bowhunting champions after participating in a unique weekend experience in Wyoming.

The 13th annual national bowhunt, featuring three-man teams from throughout the United States, was held Saturday and Sunday at the Hugh Duncan ranch, 30 miles southwest of Douglas, Wyoming.

Sponsored by the Douglas Chamber of Commerce, the event is the brainchild of Mrs. Hugh Duncan and the national field archery association.

Competitors were after live targets — Mule deer — over the hilly, sage brush terrain. The Thief River Falls trio emerged as the national championship team when Peterson downed a 128-pound buck — the event's largest deer by both weight and rack size in an area not known for large deer — on Saturday and Klos dropped a 90-pound buck Sunday.

Peterson's deer had a 3x2 rack (three points on one side, two on the other) and Klos' animal had a 1x1 rack. Those antlers won the contest for the Thief River Falls team. Points were earned for every pound of animal weight and five additional points were added for every antler point.

It was the first time a Minnesota entry has won the event, even though the state has had archers in the competition every year since it began in 1968. North Dakota was the two-time defending national champion.

Klos, Peterson and Bruggeman were selected to compete in the event through a lottery drawing done by the Minnesota state archery association.

Official championship award is a beautiful handmade arrow case, a traveling trophy in which each member of the winning team places an arrow. Each team member has his name engraved on a brass plate on the case, which is retained by the winning team until August 15 when it is returned to the hunt headquarters for display at the Wyoming state fair.

Klos, Peterson and Bruggeman are trying to make arrangements to present the award to Minnesota Governor Al Quie. The Thief River Falls trio will also be invited back to Wyoming next year to defend their national championship.

Happiness Is The Times

Crookston Is 24-8 Winner

Ahead 12-8 at the end of the third quarter, Crookston pulled away to a 24-8 junior varsity football win over Thief River Falls Monday.

Scott Jorstad scored the lone touchdown for the losers, who trailed 12-0 at halftime. Steve Wiskow caught the two-point conversion pass from Mitch Semanko.

Lincoln high school junior varsity, 0-2 for the year, will be at Grand Forks Central Monday for a 7 p.m. game. Lincoln sophomore team, also 0-2, will host Grand Forks Central Thursday at 6 p.m.

Tennis Tournament At EGF . . .

Pirates Win NWAC Crown

Crookston pulled off a mild surprise Tuesday by shading Thief River Falls for top honors in the 1981 Northwest Athletic Conference (NWAC) girls high school tennis tournament played at East Grand Forks.

The Pirates finished with 14 points, followed by the Prowlers with 11, Fergus Falls 10, Bemidji 9 and East Grand Forks 6.

"We thought we could have played better," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "Crookston played very well."

Individual titles went to Shannon McKenzie of Fergus Falls at No. 1 singles; Kari Huseby of Crookston at No. 2 singles; Kim Lawrenz of Thief River Falls at No. 3 singles; Nancy Swanson and Michelle Olson of Thief River Falls at No. 1 doubles; and Kelly Downs and Leslie Erickson of Bemidji at No. 2 doubles.

Thief River Falls and Crookston will meet again Thursday when the Prowlers host the Pirates in a 3:30 p.m. dual meet. Thief River Falls, scheduled to play a 3:30 p.m. match at Mahnomen Monday, is 8-1 in dual meet competition.

Protected Waters, Wetland Inventory Explained By DNR

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is working to complete the first statewide inventory of Minnesota's protected waters and wetlands. This project is a joint state and county program to develop a map and a listing of protected waters and wetlands for each of Minnesota's 87 counties.

Inventory process was ordered by the 1979 legislature and involves several opportunities for public review and comment. As of September 1, this inventory has been completed for 42 counties and is underway in an additional 21. The remaining 24 counties will become involved in the inventory process by the end of this year.

Concept of protected waters first appeared in state law in 1937. There was additional legislation in 1947, 1973, 1976 and 1979. Protected waters are the lakes, marshes and streams that benefit all of the people of Minnesota by providing water resources for agriculture, industry, recreation and domestic use.

One of the reasons for creating this law (referred to as Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 105) was to establish a permit system to monitor changes made on these waters. Sole purpose in identifying protected waters and wetlands is to prepare a map showing those lakes, marshes and streams where a permit is needed in order to change their course, current or cross-section.

Although the state of Minnesota has had such a permit system since 1937, there has never been a county by county inventory of which waters are protected.

The 1976 and 1979 legislatures established a statutory procedure setting forth how the Department of Natural Resources is to work with each county in preparing an inventory of all protected waters and wetlands. This procedure allows for two 90-day review periods and a final public hearing to resolve any errors. The hearing is held before a three-member panel consisting of representatives of the county board, the local soil and water conservation district and the DNR.

The 1979 legislature also established specific criteria for identifying protected waters and wetlands. In order for a lake, marsh or stream to qualify as a protected water or wetland it must meet one or more of the following criteria:

Protected Waters

1. All water basins assigned a shoreland management classification by the commissioner except wetlands less than 80 acres is size which are classified as natural environment lakes;
2. All waters of the state which have been finally determined to be public waters or navigable waters by a court;
3. All meandered lakes, except for those which have been legally drained;
4. All water basins previously designated by the commissioner for management for a specific purpose such as trout lakes and game lakes;
5. All water basins designated as scientific and natural areas;
6. All water basins located within and totally surrounded by publicly owned lands;
7. All water basins where the state of Minnesota or the federal government holds title to any of the beds or shores;
8. All water basins where there is a publicly owned and controlled access which is intended to provide for public access to the water basin;
9. All natural and altered natural watercourses with a total drainage area greater than two square miles, except that trout streams officially designated by the commissioner shall be protected waters regardless of the size of their drainage area.

Wetlands

All types 3,4 and 5 wetlands as defined in U.S. Fish and Wildlife (FWS) Circular No. 39 (1971 edition), not identified above, which are 10 or more acres in size in rural areas or 2½ or more acres in size within a city.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Circular No. 39 describes types 3, 4 and 5 wetlands as having the following characteristics:

Type 3 — Inland shallow fresh marshes. Soil is usually waterlogged during the growing season; often it is covered with as much as six inches or more of water. Vegetation includes grasses, bulrushes, spikerushes and various other marsh plants such as cattails, arrowheads, pickerelweed, and smartweeds. Common representatives in the north are reed, whitetop, rice cutgrass, carex and giant burreed. These marshes may nearly fill shallow lake basins or sloughs, or they may border deep marshes on the landward side.

Type 4 — Inland deep fresh marshes. Soil is covered with six inches to three feet or more of water during the growing season. Vegetation includes cattails, reeds, bulrushes, spikerushes and wild rice. In open areas, pondweeds, naids, coontail, watermilfoils, waterweeds, duckweeds, water lilies or spatterdocks may occur. These deep marshes may also completely fill shallow lake basins, potholes, limestone sinks, and sloughs or they may border open water in such depressions.

Type 5 — Inland open fresh water. Shallow ponds and resevoirs are included in this type. Water is usually less than 10 feet deep and is fringed by a border of emergent vegetation. Vegetation (mainly at water depths of less than six feet) includes pondweeds, naids, wildcelery, coontail, watermilfoils, muskgrasses, water lilies and spatterdocks.

Again, sole purpose of this inventory is to identify those lakes, marshes and streams where a permit is needed to change their course, current or cross-section. The identification of waters as "protected waters" or "wetlands" does not grant any access to the public, nor is the commissioner of Natural Resources required to purchase access to these waters. This identification does not affect the ownership of the land surrounding or underlying these waters. Furthermore, all provisions of Minnesota law forbidding trespass upon private lands apply to the lands surrounding and underlying these waters. Landowners have the right to utilize the bed of wetlands and protected waters for pasture, cropland and other agricultural use during low water periods, so long as such use does not result in the permanent drainage of the wetland or protected water.

In addition to this inventory process, the legislature has established several programs to compensate landowners who maintain natural wetlands. Under state law, any landowner who applies for a permit to drain a wetland in order to place the area into agricultural use, must be offered his choice of financial compensation under the state water bank program.

Besides the state water bank program, the Minnesota Department of Revenue and your county assessor are implementing a state wetlands tax credit and exemption program. Under this program, "Protected Waters" and "Wetlands" bassins being inventoried by the DNR will be exempted from property taxes, and most natural wetlands over one acre in size that are not inventoried by DNR will also qualify for a tax exeption. In addition, landowners who do not drain these wetlands will receive a property tax credit similar to the present homestead credit. This program is administered through the local assessor, not the DNR.

Cards' Coach Leads List Of Top Winners

Fairmont high school head football coach Tom Mahoney has had 30 years of memories of coaching the interscholastic grid game in Minnesota. Most of those years have been pleasant ones when it concerns wins and losses as he currently boasts 196 victories to top the list of 489 active head coaches throughout the state.

Mahoney's current overall won-lost-tied record as he enters the fifth week of the 1981 campaign is 197-68-8. This season his team has a 3-1 record going into Friday's game against LeMars, Ia.

A University of Minnesota gridder from 1946-49, Mahoney fashioned his 'impressive record while coaching at two high schools. Now in his 26th year at Fairmont, he coached five seasons at Lake City, where his record was 33-8-2.

Averaging over six wins a season, his most monentous seasons came during the 1967-69 years when his teams were undefeated at Fairmont. His most monentous wins during that time were over the Jackson teams, but Mahoney states his most memorable victory was the 7-6 triumph by Lake City over Stewartville in his first head coaching assignment.

The Fairmont head mentor could hit the 200 victory mark this season should his team triumph three times from among their remaining five games.

All-time winningest head coach in Minnesota high school football history is the late Kenneth "Red" Wilson, who had a 212-83-8 won-lost-tied record spanning 38 years. Wilson coached one year at Fosston, three years at Little Falls and his last 34 at Bemidji.

Behind Mahoney among winningest active coaches is LeSueur tutor Bruce Frank. Frank has a 191-86-10 mark covering 33 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Skogen of Bemidji. spent Saturday 19 to Sunday with Rudolph Ostgarden, Mavis and Elmer Halvorson and also visited Saturday evening with Rudolph and Mr. and Mrs. Skogen.

Peter C. Rutkowski from Eden Prairie spent the weekend with his grandparents, the Peter Rutkowski's. He also visited at the Dick Maples and with Nora Maple.

The first Labor Day celebration was held in New York City in September 1882, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1978," published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

'81 Waterfowl Season Opens On Saturday

State officials will be responsible for deciding whether to close waterfowl hunting seasons in the Central and Pacific Flyways because of possible contamination of ducks and geese by the pesticide endrin, according to F. Eugene Hester, acting deputy director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"Although the Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) sets the broad framework for waterfowl hunting seasons, it will be up to each state to decide whether there is a threat to human health in its jurisdiction that warrants closing the hunting season," Hester said. "The Fish and Wildlife Service will endorse any closures that the states determine are needed.

Minnesota's 1981 waterfowl hunting season opens Saturday at 12 noon.

"I want to reassure hunters and other conservationists that we are monitoring this situation closely and are assisting the states by analyzing waterfowl samples for endrin residues. It is my understanding that the states are awaiting the results of these tests and similar tests being conducted at other laboratories before making any decisions about hunting seasons," he added.

Ducks collected from several national wildlife refuges in Montana are being analyzed for endrin at the Patuxent wildlife research center in Laurel, Maryland and additional ducks and mourning doves from Montana are being tested at the independent Raltech laboratory in Madison, Wisconsin.

"Endrin is accumulated mainly in fat, and our initial tests will be to determine endrin residues in fat tissues," Hester explained. "Those results were made available to the state of Montana September 25. Pesticide analyses are complex and time-consuming, however, and after the initial tests are completed we will be conducting more comprehensive tests that should give us a more thorough understanding of the effect endrin may be having on waterfowl.

"Previous research that we have conducted on endrin indicates that it is generally not accumulated to very high levels in waterfowl tissues. However, since we don't know what levels of endrin waterfowl are being exposed to, we won't know how serious this situation is until our test results come back."

Hester said that one reserach study conducted at Patuxent showed that mallard drakes fed endrin-contaminated feed eliminated 50 percent of the endrin from their bodies within three days and 90 percent with 33 days after being removed from the endrin feed and returned to an uncontaminated diet. He cautioned, however, that the laboratory study might not be strictly applicable to wild birds if endrin continues to persist in their food in the wild.

"The Fish and Wildlife Service's major responsiblility is for the welfare of the wildlife resource," Hester concluded. "We will be looking further into this situation to determine whether endrin contamination has caused any significant harm to waterfowl or other wildlife in this region."

Endrin was applied during March and April of 1981 to kill army cutworms in wheat. Based on the amount of endrin sold and the prescribed rates for applying endrin, 120,000 acres in Montana, 100,000 acres in Wyoming, 30,000 acres in South Dakota and 12,000 acres in Colorado could have been treated. Possible endrin contamination of wildlife first came to light as a result of a fish kill in Montana.

Birds from the affected region migrate mainly through the Central, Mississippi, and Pacific Flyways.

According to the National Wildlife Federation, the sun contains more than 99 per cent of all the matter in the solar system, most of it packed into its dense core. Its diameter is more than three times the distance between the earth and the moon.

Rural Delivery Is 85 Years Old Oct. 1

According to Mrs. Lloyd Mercil of Brooks, secretary of the auxiliary to the Minnesota rural letter carrier's association, rural free delivery celebrates 85 years of existence beginning October 1.

Before the late 1890s, all rural Americans had to journey into town to pick up their mail at the post office, until Postmaster General John Wanamaker conducted, in 1891, a free delivery mail experiment in 46 small towns and villages across the country. The service officially began on Oct. 1, 1896 out of Charles Town, Uvilla and Halltown, West Virginia.

Rural delivery has grown from serving over 10 million American families in 1970 to over 15 million in 1980, as the nation's population has shifted to rural areas within the past decade. "For the first time in 160 years, rural areas and small towns are growing at a faster rate than metropolitan areas," according to a study conducted by "U.S. News & World Report". Statistics of the U.S. department of commerce reveal that the population of no -metropolitan areas increased from 53.2 million people in 1970 to 61.4 million in 1980.

Americans moving from suburban and urban areas to rural communities often do not realize that along with country living comes a different type of mail service. Rural free delivery is unique because the rural letter carriers operate as a "post office on wheels," rendering services provided at a local post office.

Specifically, rural carriers sell money order applications and stamps, as well as affix the latter. They register and insure certified mail, delivery and pick up letters and parcels.

Postmaster General John Wanamaker conducted in 1891 a free-delivery mail experiment in small towns and villages, calling it "rural free delivery."

While members of congress did not fully support Wanamaker's idea, the nation's farmers did. They felt discriminated against and realized that home delivery would save time, which meant money. The farmers also felt that they were being taxed so that city people could enjoy home mail delivery which had begun in 1863.

Postmaster General Bissell, who succeeded Wanamaker, refused to institute a rural free delivery experiment with the $20,000 appropriated by Congress. He resigned in 1895 and rural free delivery began under the succeeding Postmaster General William L. Wilson. While Wilson, too, was not enthusiastic about rural free delivery, he said that since the people continued to demand it, he would not stand in the way; Congress only needed to appropriate the money once more and he would do his best to conduct a successful experiment.

With $40,000 a~~ropriated, Postmaster Ge 1 Wilson chose his home... ...of Charles Town and two other villages, Halltown and Uvilla near the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains and the banks of the Shenandoah river, as the first sites where rural free delivery would officially begin.

The five original carriers traveled their 20-mile routes on horse-back, bicycle or horse and buggy. Today's rural carriers daily travel 2,309,313 miles in motor vehicles along the 36,102 rural routes throughout the country.

As a result of rural free delivery, many roads were built and improved in rural areas, linking up communities. Subsequently, the home delivery of weekly and daily newspapers was possible.

Home delivery of mail may be in jeopardy by 1984. The entire public service appropriation (P.S.A.), to the USPS is scheduled for complete elimination by 1984 under the provisions of the omnibus budget reconciliation act which was passed this year. P.S.A. monies have been an historical guarantee for R.F.D. services; they have been provided by Congress to help defray the cost of financing unprofitable postal services like comprehensive rural delivery.

With the elimination of such funds and rising inflation costs, the postal service could decide to eliminate some services, such as Saturday mail delivery, if postal rates and productivity are not increased. A bill sponsored by Congressman Tom Corcoran (R-Ill.) would mandate Congressional approval over any postal service decision to reduce services which would have a nationwide impact.

Order and Notice of Hearing on Petition for Adjudication of Intestacy, Determination of Heirship and Appointment of Personal Representative in Supervised Administration and Notice to Creditors

STATE OF MINNESOTA
COUNTY OF PENNINGTON
PROBATE COURT
COUNTY COURT-
PROBATE DIVISION

In Re: Estate of Willard Peterson, Deceased

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS:

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 12TH day of OCTOBER, 1981, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minnesota, for the adjudication of intestacy and determination of heirship and for the appoinment of GERALD PETERSON whose address is RR 1, BOX 144, THIEF RIVER FALLS, MN, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and any objection thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes, and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Clerk of the Court within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Dated: SEPTEMBER 21, 1981.

LEC Lists 14 Cases Sept. 29

Law Enforcement Center report dated September 29 listed 13 cases handled by the Thief River Falls police department and one case handled by the Pennington county sheriff's department by reporting date.

Cases handled by the Thief River Falls police department included the following:

September 8 — Oliver Swanson, Thief River Falls, reported a tire, jack, lug wrench and tow chain, value $135, which he had left at the car wash had been taken during his absence.

September 13 — Glass Sales Co. reported a possible attempted break-in through a window. Cost of replacing the window was estimated at $10. Also 60 large pop bottles were broken and 10 nylon bags, value $112, were missing from a fenced-in area. The case is under investigation.

September 14 — A break-in was reported at a storage building of the Land-O-Lakes turkey plant, with a 1,200-foot roll of turkey bag mesh unrolled and wrapped around a railroad switch arm. The case is under investigation.

September 14 — Michael Nelson was driving east on Third street when Edward Bruggeman, Thief River Falls, drove out of Farmers Union Oil station, striking him. Damages were $650 to the Nelson car. No damages occurred to the Bruggeman car.

September 15 — Raymond Troy, driving a Hartz Wholesale truck, was turning north on Arnold avenue from the warehouse, and Jeffrey Gilbert was driving south on Arnold when the two collided. Damges were $800 to the Gilbert pickup. There was no damage to the Hartz truck.

Ruth Brown, Thief River Falls, backed her vehicle into a car owned by Charles Easley in the parking lot at Northland Manor and then left the scene. Damages were $508.69 to the Easley car, and $50 to the Brown car. Brown is being charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

September 16 — Mrs. James Vedbraaten, Thief River Falls, reported theft of her son's trumpet, value $280, from the band room at Franklin school.

September 17 — Michael Nordby, Grygla, was driving north on Horace avenue, and Bruce Kolden, Middle River was driving west on Third street when the two collided. Damages were $1,800 to the Kolden car and $50 to the Nordby car.

September 18 — Margaret Torfin, Thief River Falls, was waiting to make a left turn when Lori Swanson, driving west on First street, struck her car in the rear. Damages were $1,200 to the Torfin car. There was no damage to the Swanson car.

September 18 — Daniel Austad, Thief River Falls, reported theft of a battery, value $58, from his car.

September 19 — Rick Wold, Thief River Falls, reported a broken rear window, value $100, in his pickup.

September 19 — Mrs. Art Larson, Thief River Falls, reported a rock thrown through their back door window, loss estimated at $20.

September 19 — Bart Colden, Thief River Falls, reported theft of his 26-inch Hiawatha 10-speed bicycle, value $107.

Pennington county sheriff's department is investigating a September 18 report by Pat Braaten, Thief River Falls, that a half cord of wood, value $40, had been stolen from Norden township.

CORRECTION

New information has been received regarding the high speed chase of a stolen car resulting in damages to a law enforcement vehicle. The law enforcement center reports that the vehicle involved belonged to the Thief River Falls police department rather than the Pennington county sheriff's department, as was reported in Monday's Times. New estimates placed damages at $30 to the squad car and $300 to the Aaseby car.

WHAT DO YOU DO WHEN YOU CHOOSE TO CARE BUT YOU DON'T CARE TO CHOOSE?

When you give through United Way, you don't feel like you're helping some people at the expense of others. Because your one gift helps support services that cover practically the entire range of human needs. And volunteers—local people like yourself—spend long hours going over budgets and needs in order to decide where the money can best be used. So you don't need to choose, when you just want to help as much as you can.

Thanks to you it works. For all of us.

Some simple answers to some very good questions people have asked about our Tax-Break Savings Certificate.

Available October 1, 1981

Just what is the Tax-Break Certificate?
The Tax-Break Certificate is a new investment that offers people an opportunity to earn interest, free of Federal taxes. It's a one-year certificate that will only be available until December 31, 1982.

How much interest is tax free?
There is a limit to the amount of interest you earn tax free, regardless of how much you invest, or even how many certificates you purchase. Couples filing a joint return can earn up to a maximum of $2000 interest free of Federal taxes. Single people, up to $1000. Remember, these are maximum totals. You can never claim more than those amounts.

How do I get a Tax-Break Certificate?
One of two ways. First, you can simply invest in a Tax-Break Certificate with $500 or more.

An alternative is to convert a certificate you already own into a Tax-Break Certificate. It's easy to do, as long as you meet these requirements: your current certificate must be with our bank, your current certificate must mature within a year of the day you convert it, and the rate you're now earning must be higher than the current Tax-Break rate.

If you do convert a current certificate, you won't be penalized for withdrawing your money early.*

What interest rate does it pay?
Currently, our Tax-Break Certificate rate is 11.878% compounded daily, with an effective annual yield of 12.61%. This rate is based on 70% of the most recent 52-week Treasury Bill investment yield. This rate changes every four weeks.

But it's important to know that, even though the rate changes every four weeks, once you purchase your certificate you'll be guaranteed your purchase rate for the life of your certificate.

But can I earn more with another kind of certificate?
Yes, in some cases. But it all depends on your current income tax bracket. Generally speaking, those in tax brackets above 25% would benefit with this certificate.

How can I tell if it's right for me?
The best way is to discuss it with someone who knows and understands investments. But you must realize that if you plan to withdraw it or borrow against it before it matures you lose the tax benefits. And you have to be willing to tie up your money for a year.

Hopefully we've answered some of your questions about our Tax-Break Certificate. If you have additional questions, stop by or give us a call. We'll help you decide if it's right for you.

Because, after all, we've been telling you we're on your side for quite a few years. And we still mean it.

*Only the interest on a Tax-Break Certificate earned after conversion can be considered for a tax exemption. Interest earned prior to conversion is still taxable. If a depositor elects to withdraw interest on a periodic basis prior to maturity, the effective yield to the depositor of this certificate will be lowered.
Substantial interest penalty & loss of tax exclusion for early withdrawal on Tax-Break Savings Certificates.

Peat Meeting At BSU Is October 21-23

Scientists from six countries are scheduled to present papers on the latest research on peat during the international peat symposium at Bemidji state university October 21-23.

The first international scientific conference conducted in the United States devoted primarily to non-fuel uses will stress the theme of chemical technology and microbiology of peat.

"Many people are aware of peat's potential for energy and horticultural use, but few understand the applications of this resource beyond that," explained Dr. Charles Fuchsman, director of the BSU center for environmental study and coordinator of the symposium.

"The chemical and microbiological value found in the world's bogs may far surpass peat's usefulness in easing energy shortages. You can liken the situation to burning a fine piece of wood furniture. It provides immediate warmth, but what is lost in the long term?" Fuchsman said.

Scientists from the United States, Scotland, Finland, the Soviet Union, Canada and West Germany will address that question in depth once the symposium convenes in the Beaux arts ballroom on the Bemidji State campus.

Format for the event involves the presentation by individuals of scientific papers related to the symposium theme. Delegates may then discuss the paper.

Thirty-three papers are being written for reading at the symposium including one prepared by Dr. Jindrich Kazda (Borstel, West Germany) regarding a major advance in laboratory research of leprosy based on the use of a substance found in peat.

Following Wednesday evening registration, deliberation of the conference's theme will begin October 22 when Dr. Dennis Asmussen of the Minnesota department of natural resources will outline the current status of Minnesota peatland policy.

Other first-day presenters include Dr. Morris Schnitzer, Ottawa, Canada; Professor John Gander, St. Paul; Dr. Hirokazu, Morita, Ottawa, Canada; Professor Anh Le-Duy, Quebec, Canada; Kari Hanninen, Joensuu, Finland; Dr. Pirjo Karunen, Dr. Martti Ketola and Professor Kalevi Pihlaja, Turku, Finland; Mrs. Renate Schneider, Hannover, West Germany; Dr. Ivan Lishtvan, Minsk, USSR; Ralph Overend, Ontario, Canada; Professor Esteban Chornet, Quebec, Canada; Dr. Sambhunath Ghosh, Chicago; Dr. Sukhu Mathur, Ottawa, Canada and Dr. James Campbell, Alberta, Canada.

Agenda for the second day features Dr. Kazda, Professor Pihlaja, Dr. Fuchsman, Elon Verry and Dale Nichols, Grand Rapids; Professor Ian Worley, Burlington, VT; Professor Robert Melchior, Bemidji; Dr. Marcel Levesque, Ottawa, Canada; Dr. Robert Sinclair, Dean Dubbe and Ronald Visness, St. Paul; Joseph Sorge, Somerset, NJ; John Davies, Manitoba, Canada; Dr. John Malinka, St. Paul; R. Allan Robertson, Aberdeen, Scotland; Professor Worley and Paul Rundell, St. Paul.

Symposium is being sponsored by Bemidji state university's center for environmental study with support from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

All of the technical meetings are open to the public. Complete transcripts of the proceedings will be published.

More informatin is available by contacting Dr. Fuchsman at Bemidji State University, Center for Environmental Study, Bemidji, MN 56601 (218-755-2910).

Princess Kay of the Milky Way XXVII was crowned recently in ceremonies at the Minnesota State Fair. Jill Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlyn Jensen of rural Blue Earth will wear the crown for one year, promoting dairy products throughout Minnesota.

Pictured with Princess Kay is Terrie Carver, Region I Dairy Princess from Bagley, Minnesota. Terrie was chosen Region I Princess at Thief River Falls in connection with Northeast Dairy Day and participated in the Princess Kay contest sponsored by the American Dairy Association of Minnesota.

Counties included in Region I are Beltrami, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Mercury Is Visible In Sky This Month

Starwatchers who can spot the small planet Mercury, which is visible this month, will have one up on 99 per cent of the people who have ever lived.

This year the second half of September — especially around September 23 — is the best time to try to see Mercury. To try your luck at spotting the elusive planet, go to a place with a clear view of the horizon near the setting sun.

First find Venus as a guide. It is a bright planet and is often called the "evening star." Venus will be in the southwest sky, above and to the left of the point where the sun sets.

Then look about halfway between Venus and the point where the sun disappeared below the horizon. Mercury will barely emerge from the twilight as your eyes adjust to the sky's dim light. It will be about five times fainter than Mercury.

Mercury is hard to see for several reasons, according to Vincent Icke, an astronomer at the University of Minnesota. One reason is that since the planet is so close to the sun it is only visible for a few minutes near sunset or sunrise. Also Mercury is drenched in sunlight and almost invisible except twice each year when it is the greatest distance from the sun — during its "greatest elongation."

Also Mercury's size and the distance from Earth make it appear dim. The planet is not much larger than our moon and it is about 500 times farther away.

Named for the speedy messenger god in Greek and Roman mythology, Mercury moves quickly because the closer a planet is to the sun the stronger the star's gravitational pull.

Mercury orbits the sun once every 88 days. Since Mercury rotates on its axis in two-thirds that time, its surface alternates between two months of sunlight at 800 degrees Fahrenheit, and two months of darkness at minus 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

Since Mercury has almost no atmosphere, its surface is covered with deep craters — the marks of meteor bombardment. The surface is littered with rocks and is covered with a fine dust. Also gravity on this small planet is so weak that a 150-pound person would weigh only about 55 pounds on Mercury.

Life is not likely to have evolved in the planet's four-billion-year existence because of those unfavorable conditions and also because of its closeness to the sun. Mercury is constantly bathed in fierce ultraviolet light and is swept by particles of the solar wind. Even if life forms had begun, they would have had to endure constant mutations during the sunny periods and the devastating cold of the dark months.

TAX EXEMPT ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATES*
OCTOBER 1, 1981

What is the Tax-Exempt All-Savers Certificate?
The Tax-Exempt All-Savers Certificate is a one-year certificate, issued between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1982 with a yield equal to 70% of the average yield on 52-week Treasury Bills.

What is the certificate rate of interest based on?
The certificate must have a yield equal to 70% of the average yield on 52-week Treasury Bills.

The rate will be based on the most recent auction (before the week in which the certificate is issued).

The rate of interest, at the time you are issued your All-Savers Certificate, remains the same for the life of the certificate.

What is tax-exempt under these new savings certificate regulations?
The interest is tax-exempt up to certain maximums. The amount that anyone may exempt from income taxes under the new provision is limited to a lifetime exclusion of $1000 ($2000 in the case of a joint return).

If, for example, you as an individual receive $800 of All-Savers interest in 1982 and $500 in 1983, only the first $1000 of interest income is tax-exempt.

In the case of a joint return, if both parties receive $1600 of All-Savers interest in 1982 and $1000 in 1983, only the first $2000 of interest income is tax-exempt.

What is the minimum deposit in an All-Savers Certificate?
The minimum deposit in an All Savers Certificate is $500.

How long will I be able to earn this tax-exempt exclusion?
First of all, you must make your deposit in an All-Savers Certificate between October 1, 1981 and December 31, 1982.

Although no further All-Savers Certificates will be issued after December 31, 1982, the interest paid on such certificates properly issued through December 31, 1982 will be entitled to the exemption.

This means that all of the interest tax-exempt under this certificate will be earned by December 31, 1983.

What is the maturity period of these All-Savers Certificates?
The maturity period of these All-Savers Certificates is one year.

Can I take my corporate funds and qualify for one of these Tax-Exempt All-Savers Certificates?
No. Any such amounts paid to corporations (including real estate investment trusts, sub-chapter S corporations and regulated investment companies) will be fully taxable.

The interest paid on an All-Savers Certificate is tax-exempt only when earned by an individual or an estate which acquires that certificate by reason of the death of the individual.

Can I use this certificate as collateral or security for a loan?
If you do, then the interest on the certificate loses its tax-exempt status and you will have to pay tax on the interest earned.

If I have to cash in my certificate prior to maturity, can I do so?
Yes, you can. However, you will lose the tax-exempt status on the interest on the certificate and all the interest earned will be subject to income tax.

RATE 12.61% OCTOBER 1-2

This comparison chart shows taxable interest yield required to match the All Savers Certificate tax-free rates.

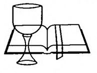
WORLD COMMUNION SUNDAY



The first Sunday in October is a day that unites Christians the world over in the celebration of a cherished Sacrament. Among its many revered names the simplest is The Lord's Supper.

It recalls the eve of Christ's crucifixion when in an upper room in Jerusalem he gathered with his disciples to observe the Feast of Passover. As he shared with them bread and wine he spoke of "my body, my blood."

Everywhere on World Communion Sunday the Christians of our own time will be remembering his words . . . celebrating Holy Communion.

In a world sorely troubled by the divisions of men, cherish this sacred expression of the unity God inspires.

Sunday
- Psalms 40:1-4

- I Peter 2:18-25

Tuesday
- Romans 2:1-11

Wednesday
- Romans 15:1-6

Thursday
- II Chronicles 29:30-33

Friday
- Psalms 51:1-13

Saturday
- Psalms 88:1-12

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

According to the World Health Organization, there are 450 million physically or mentally disabled persons inhabiting the globe. Thirty-five million of them are Americans. In an effort to focus world attention on the vast and often untapped potential of these individuals, the United Nations has designated 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons (IYDP).

The observance of IYDP in the United States is being coordinated by David Kearns, President of Xerox Corporation. Kearns reports that more than 50 percent of working-age disabled people in the United States are unemployed. They and their families account for 50 percent of the poor, and the price tag, in terms of medical care, workers' compensation and rehabilitation, totaled $110

The business community, like most Americans, has become increasingly aware that individuals who may be defined as disabled in one sense, often have other talents which could make them valuable employees. Many companies have instituted programs which seek out talented handicapped individuals for productive careers. Sears, Roebuck & Co., for example, has operated such a program since 1947.

Business will expand these efforts, especially as economic opportunities grow as a result of the turnaround in economic policy in Washington. However, the most promising advantage that disabled Americans have going for them is that they live in a society with a rich, dramatic history of individuals overcoming hardships and realizing opportunities.

This heritage is graphically illustrated in the eloquent new book, Ethnic America by Thomas Sowell–the brilliant black economist who has incurred the wrath of many black political leaders by daring to suggest that a rejuvenated private enterprise economy, rather than additional federal spending programs, offers the best hope for the poor. "Nothing has so vindicated the untapped potential of ordinary people as the American experience," Sowell writes.In fact, the ethnic experience in America offers example after example of individuals who have overcome tremendous odds to build secure, prosperous lives for themselves and their children.

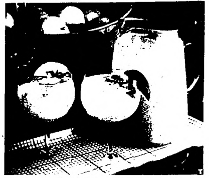
This is a lesson too often forgotten today, expecially by younger generations who are far removed from the immediacy of the immigrant experience. "Progress is so generally taken for granted in the United States that it is necessary to realize that it is not automatic," Sowell reminds us. "In many parts of the world, people still live at an economic level not much above that of their ancestors."

This is not to suggest that hardships did not exist once immigrants reached the shores of America, or that they did not have to fight the bigotry which has, and still does afflict our society. But what makes the American experience different and has enabled many ethnic groups to overcome prejudice and prosper is the private interprise system. "The rich economic opportunities of this country," Sowell explains, "made fighting over the division of existing material things less important than the expansion of output for all, and rewarded cooperative efforts so well as to make it profitable to overlook many differences."

I am confident the same will hold true for tthe millions of handicapped persons struggling to enter the economic mainstream of our country. For America has more than just a "upply side" economic policy; we believe in a "supply side" humanity, a devout conviction that the more free, educated, talented individuals contributing to our society, the more prosperous we will all be. As Walter Lippmann wrote some 50 years ago, "For the first time in human history, man had a way of producing wealth in which the good fortune of others multiplied their own...in which, at long last, the golden rule was economically sound."

Thirty-five million disabled Americans are calling upon the rest of us to remember this and include them in our continuing economic success story. As we have learned many times in the past, there is surely enough opportunity to go around.

Welcome Neighbors With Country-Style Beverage



Late summer often brings new families to the neighborhood and old friends back from vacation travels. Greet them all on your porch or patio with glasses of cool, delightful Peach Refresher.

Blend fresh ripe peaches and lemonade flavor drink mix till it's frothy. Add ginger ale for sparkle, and serve with something simple, such as cheese or nuts. Warmth, informality, outdoor living and the season's best fruit—it all adds up to a country-style gathering where even the city slickers will know they've come home.

PEACH REFRESHER

2 cups sliced peeled peaches (about 5)
2 cups water
3/4 cup (3 scoops) Country Time lemonade flavor drink mix
1 bottle (28 fl. oz.) ginger ale, chilled

Place peaches, water and drink mix in blender container. Cover and blend on high speed until smooth, about 1 minute. Pour into nonmetal pitcher and chill. Just before serving, stir in ginger ale. Serve over ice and garnish with additional peach slices, if desired. Makes about 9 cups or 9 servings.

Steiner

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2, City, 681-3897

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Yonke attended the open house at the Newfolden school Monday evening last week, visiting the different rooms where their son David attends classes and met with the teachers.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson visited with Mrs. Carrie Ness at her home in Thief River Falls Monday last week.

Mrs. Ethel Moe, accompanied by Mrs. Hannah Kisch, Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas and Mrs. Florence Nabben attended the open house in honor of Mrs. Helen Russell's 75th birthday at her home Sunday afternoon. Later in the afternoon they all enjoyed the Nazareth ALCW turkey supper in Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson enjoyed having her sister-in-law, Mrs. Orma Gulbranson of Grand Forks as a house guest several days last week. Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Halvorson and Mrs. Gulbranson were coffee guests at the Carl Swenson home in Thief River Falls.

The West Steiner Homemakers held their first meeting of the fiscal year at the home of Mrs. Clara Jaennette Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Olive Rondorf and Mrs. Evonne Moe as co-hostesses. Mrs. Moe presented a lesson on homemade soups and had prepared deviled chicken soup for the lunch. The Marshall County Homemakers, 1981 cookbooks were distributed and the program booklets filled in. Present besides those already mentioned were Evy Halvorson, Nina Halvorson and her guest Orma Gulbranson, Dianne Kleinwachter and Hope from Strandquist, Harryet Larson, Darlene Muzzy, Violet Muzzy, Irene Rausch, Rebecca Solem, Shirley Yonke and Lori Wicklander, a new member.

Tuesday Mrs. Lloyd Larson drove to Fargo and was a guest at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Roger and Ronda Nelson until Tuesday.

Tuesday Mrs. Lloyd Larson drove to Fargo and was a guest at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Roger and Ronda Nelson until Thursday.

Friday evening luncheon guests at the Alfred Solem home were Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Bakke of Newfolden.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Moe attended the Oak Ridge Lutheran church bazaar last Saturday and the Family Night there Sunday evening when the Kings' Men from Thief River Falls presented the program.

Pam-Swanson-Jay Brekke Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Yonke and David, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yonke, Mr. and Mrs. James Kosmatka from Grafton and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Yonke of East Grand Forks attended the Pam Swanson-Jay Brekke wedding and reception at the Black River Lutheran church Saturday afternoon. They were also guests for supper at the Clarence O. Swanson home at rural St. Hilaire in the evening. Jason, Scott and Steven Yonke spent Saturday and Sunday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Holte at Grygla. Mr. and Mrs. Kosmatka and their children, Brian, April and Sheri Ann spent Sunday to Tuesday at the home of her folks, the Leonard Yonkes.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem went to Rothsay Saturday afternoon and were overnight guests at the home of Rev. Kermit Solem and family. They helped their youngest grandchild, Carson Immanuel, celebrate his first birthday and also met the two newest members of the Kermit Solem family, Giao, age 15 and her brother, An, age 13 who recently arrived from Vietnam.

Many friends and relatives attended the open house honoring Mrs. Helen Russell on her 75th birthday at her home Sunday afternoon. Helen's children hosted the open house. They were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Russell from Stevenson, Wash., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larson from Carrington, N.D., Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grondahl from Buffalo, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Panek from Mavie and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Russell.

Visitors at the Lloyd Larson home following the turkey supper at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kleinwachter, Kent and Hope of Strandquist.

Mrs. Alvin Halvorson and her house guest, Mrs. Orma Gulbranson were Friday dinner guests at the Mike Hart home at Manvel, N.D. Alvin Halvorson was a caller later in the day. Mrs. Gulbranson returned to her home in Grand Forks from there and the Halvorsons returned home in the evening.

The Tables May Turn

It just could be, judging by the tone of some legislators at the hearing in Baudette recently, that the move to ban commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods and Rainy lake may instead result in perpetuation of the industry.

Under existing Minnesota statute adopted in 1948, commercial fishing is to be phased out on Lake of the Woods by attrition. When existing license holders no longer use their licenses actively, they are not transferred. As a result, the number of commercial fishermen on Lake of the Woods has dwindled from more than 40 when the law was enacted to only nine active gillnetters at the present time. Projections are that the phase-out would end in another 15 years or so.

The Save Our Game Fish Committee which has been pressing for the immediate stoppage of commercial fishing of walleyes on the lake may have inadvertently kicked over a can or worms — so to speak.

Following the department of natural resources presentation at the legislative sub-committee hearing in Baudette, the question was asked: "What happens if the law isn't changed and commercial fishing on the lake stops?" Many can speculate but, of course, nobody really knows. The question was asked with a good deal of concern, and rightly so.

The DNR has a pretty good handle on what is happening with the lake under existing conditions. Commercial fishermen are removing many thousands of pounds of rough fish from the lake annually, along with about 20 per cent of what the state believes to be a harvestable walleye total of 500,000 pounds (angling and netting combined). If angling continues but rough fish removal ends, nobody knows what will happen.

Fisheries experts who are trained in their work and practice their profession objecively on a full-time basis maintain that the lake can stand the commercial removal of walleyes at least to the extent of the present level. That has to be a pretty convincing consideration to a legislator, regardless of the attempts to discredit the department, its personnel and its research.

The other pertinent question asked was, "What about the handicapped and senior citizens and others who like to eat walleye but are unable or do not have the money or desire to catch their own? Shouldn't they be entitled to share in this total state resource?"

We think a good point was made by Jim McCarthy, a fish processor from International Falls, who referred to the commercial fishermen as "consumer fishermen" during Saturday's hearing in Warroad. Perhaps the group supporting that industry should entitle itself the "Share Our Food Fish Committee". That might accurately draw the line between the opposing factions.

Minnesota claims 10,000 lakes in its promotional material, with the actual number listed as closer to 13,000. Many of these are fishable lakes, but only Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake are commercially fished for walleyes. Is it too much that the non-angling public should share in the production of fish from this very limited portion portion of the state's waters?

We don't think so, and we don't think the legislature will take that narrow viewpoint if the bill ever gets out of committee. But we can see a counter move to assure perpetuation of commercial fishing through the limited transfer of licenses. If that happens, as well it might, thanks of the public should go to those who brought the matter to public attention. . . the Save Our Game Fish Commmittee.

Washington Games

Following example was provided by the chamber of commerce of the United States:

There is a game Washington bureaucrats like to play with taxpayers, and it's worth explaining in view of the thousands of tourists who visit the Washington Monument.

An authentic version, emanating from upper echelons of the White House, comes from James C. Miller III, executive director of the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

In a recent interview with Editor Hank Cox of "Washington Watch", a monthly newsletter on regulatory matters, published by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Miller was asked to explain the "Washington Monument game." He did:

"That's the old stroy where the President calls his cabinet together and says, 'You've all given your budget estimates to OMB and they're too high. I want you to come up with some budget cuts so we can put the aggregate budget back to reasonable levels.'

"And so the Secretary of the Interior tells the President, 'We've looked over all of our priorities and the thing we feel we can most easily cut out is the Washington Monument.'

"Now no President is going to close down the Washington Monument! This is a game that is sometimes played in order to avoid budget cuts. I don't want to talk about personalities here, but in the abstract I would not be surprised if we heard stories to the effect that if we are really serious about meeting our paperwork reduction goals, then the department of health and human services won't be able to send out social security checks!"

If you hear such a story about social security checks, be forewarned. It's another bureaucratic game.

What Business Is

Following comments by Robert O. Frederick in a petroleum trade magazine called "Drilling" give one viewpoint of what business — especially that which is called "big business" — really is:

If you have paid attention to the news of the day, you know that an evil stalks the land. It is called business, the most virulent variety of which is "Big Business.".

Business will do it to you if you don't watch out. It will blow smoke in your face and dump sludge in your bourbon and water. It is a very wicked force indeed. As many fine folk will attest.

And the world is chock-full of dunderheads who will believe the horror stories because they haven't the foggiest notions of what business really is: Simply the container in which free men and women pool their skills and make their capabilities available to one another.

An man or woman alone on an island must meet all his or her needs for food, shelter, clothing, and the likes through individual personal effort.

Bring several of these individuals together in a primitive community and it soon becomes apparent that some excel as warriors, some as hunters, some as cobblers, some as weavers, some as millers, and so on. It is only logical that each do what he does best, making his skills available to others as needed and drawing in turn on their skills.

We call that cooperative endeavor "business."

Expand the primitive communities to 203 million in the U.S. and 3½ billion souls in the world and your cobbler becomes Florsheim, your weaver Hart Shaffner and Marks, you miller Gold Medal, your wheelwright General Motors and the guy who gathers firewood Exxon or Texaco.

Everything is bigger and more complicated, but the principle is the same — individuals and groups of people doing what they do best, making their skills available to the whole community in exchange for the skills of others.

We call this cooperative endeavor "Big Business."

To society's dunderheads, the companies and corporations in which our modern problems and millers are grouped appear to be inanimate, impersonal — and somehow sinister institutions.

The dunderheads never see that companies and corporations are simply groups of men and women organized and equipped to provide products and services to other men and women.

Organizations may be big and they may be complex, but there is nothing sinister about them.

Business, like government, is simply a vehicle for human cooperation. And neither business nor government can be inherently good or evil. They can only reflect good or evil in people.

In failure to grasp this simple and rather obvious truth lies much of the discord that plagues modern soceity. It has given rise to the ridiculous image of Just Plain Folks in this corner, the Soulless Corporation in that corner, and come out swinging when the bell rings. So we come out swinging and whop ourselves in the chops.

We must be out of our ever-lovin' gourds.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Fifth grade pupils were being given a completion test in history, with part of a statement left blank. One of the statements was, "The Declaration of Independence was written chiefly by . . ." Without hesitation, one enterprising youngster neatly penciled in the blank, "candlelight".

Capsule Sermon: When you stop to think, remember to start again.

QUICK QUIZ

Plush toys have become very popular as gifts for adults and children, and the trend is expected to continue.

If you think knowing about toys is child's play, take this quiz — it just might change your mind.

1. Can you quess which dog is real?
   a. The airedale terrier on the left
   b. The airedale terrier on the right
2. Stuffed toys are among the oldest toys known to society.
   a. True b. False
3. Toys have no real value for children's development.
   a. True b. False
4. Toys are a million dollar industry.
   a. True b. False
5. Nowadays, all toys are designed and produced in an extremely impersonal, automated fashion.
   a. True b. False

Answers:

1.-b. The real airedale is the dog on the right, Champion Sundial Ivy of Scottshire; Cambridge, the dog on the left, is manufactured by Kamar International headquartered in Torrance, California. 2.-b. Stuffed toys did not become popular until the 20th century. 3.-b. Scientists say that one of the basic values of toys is to give youngsters a chance to feel that they have some control over part of their lives. 4.-b. Although underestimated by many, plush toys alone represent a multimillion dollar industry. 5.-b. A manufacturer such as Kamar International one of America's leading manufacturers of stuffed toys over the past 23 years, produces extremely realistic looking toys in a very personal way. Pascal Kamar personally designs every one of the more than 400 different animals and dolls in the line; he also supervises the production facilities and artists who recreate his designs.

Gov. Quie's Column

As a step toward creating technologically-based jobs for the people of Minnesota, I was pleased to announce on Sept. 21 the creation of Minnesota Wellspring, a collaborative effort of labor, business, agriculture, education and government. I believe that this effort can turn out to be one of the most significant initiatives of the 1980s.

Simply stated, the goal of Wellspring is to create good jobs.

The name, "Minnesota Wellspring," was chosen because of one of our state's great virtues: beautiful, life-giving water.

As we all know, Minnesota's economy is not immune from national economic downturns. In fact, Minnesota's economy is lagging behind an already lagging national economy. Wellspring will be an important means to stimulate our state's economy.

Wellspring is designed to generate and expand jobs that are secure, well-paying and interesting. Both private and public sectors must work together in today's interdependent society.

Minnesota is already a center of high technology, as I mentioned in my 1980 State of the State address. This great resource includes a superior pool of skilled labor, entrepreneurial vitality, an excellent education system, a strong agricultural community, and hopefully enlightened governmental leadership.

Twenty-four leaders from labor, business, agriculture, education and government comprise Wellspring's first board of directors. The cochairman are David Roe, president of Minnesota AFL-CIO, and Raymond Plank, chairman and chief executive of Apache Corporation.

I have pledged the complete cooperation of my administration in this project and my role as honorary chairman reflects my personal commitment to stimulating technology-powered economic growth in the years ahead.

cancer answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Canter society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

Our YMCA is planning a series of health awareness classes. We'd like to discuss cancer during one of our sessions. Can you suggest some specific areas of interest for our all-male audience?

C.S.

Dear C.S.:

Your discussion could center on the four types of cancer most common among men: lung, colon-rectum, prostate, and testicular.

Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death in men. The American Cancer Society estimates that nearly 75,000 men will die of lung cancer in this country during 1981. Smoking is the primary cause of 83 per cent of lung cancer cases in men.

Cancer of the colon and rectum is the second leading cause of cancer deaths among men. 55,000 new cases of colorectal cancer will be found this year, however chances for cure are good when the disease is found and treated early. Men over 50 should have regular examinations for colorectal cancer.

The third most common cause of cancer deaths among men is prostate cancer. 66,000 men will learn they have prostate cancer this year. Regular checkups including a digital rectal examination can detect most prostate cancers early.

Testicular cancer is the most common type in men between the ages of 15 and 35. A simple monthly testicular self-examination is a man's best insurance that he will find a tumor early while the chances of successful treatment are excellent.

The Cancer Information Service can provide pamphlets on all these types of cancer as well as guides to quit smoking and instructions for testicular self-examination. You can request these materials in the quantity you will need for your class by calling toll-free 1-800-582-5262 in Minnesota or 1-800-328-5188 in North Dakota and South Dakota.

Dear Cancer Answers:

My husband is a laryngectomee and like all laryngectomees he needs a special kind of first aid if he becomes ill or is in an accident. I think you should tell your readers about this.

Rose

Dear Rose:

A laryngectomee is a person whose voice box has been removed, in many cases because of cancer, and who has a special opening in his or her throat for breathing. The American Cancer society urges that anyone giving first aid to restore breathing should first check the stricken person's neck. If he or she is a laryngectomee: (1) expose the neck, (2) give mouth to neck breathing only, (3) keep the person's head straight, chin up, (4) keep the neck opening clear with cloth—don't use tissue.

Many laryngectomees wear special medic-alert identification bracelets or carry emergency instruction cards. It is advised that the families and friends of laryngectomees learn this special kind of first aid. The American Cancer society has films and literature for firemen, police, ambulance crews, civil defense, Red Cross and medical workers. As in any emergency first aid, speed is critical to giving effective help.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I'm being treated for endometriosis. Is this condition related to cancer?

Mrs. R.S.

Dear Mrs. R.S.:

Endometriosis is a condition in which tissue that resembles the lining of the uterus begins forming in other parts of a woman's lower abdomen. Most often endometriosis occurs in the ovaries and outer uterus. Occasionally this displaced tissue is found in the intestines, the bladder and the ureters.

Only in very rare cases has endometriosis been associated with cancer. Gynecologists (doctors who specialize in diseases of the female reproductive organs) do not consider endometriosis to be a cancer risk.

Dear Cancer Answers:

We've just learned that my husband's mother has a type of cancer called multiple myeloma. We'd like to know more about this disease. She has a lot of pain in her bones. Is that common with this type of cancer? Her doctor has started her on chemotherapy. Will these treatments relieve her pain?

Concerned daughter-in-law

Dear daughter-in-law:

Multiple myeloma is a cancer involving some of the cells in the bone marrow. It causes inflammation and weakening of the bones. Because the blood is manufactured by the bone marrow, this disease also may cause blood abnormalities such as anemia. Multiple myeloma often is described as a type of bone cancer because of its destructive effect on the bones, but it actually is related more closely to other cancers of the blood forming tissue, like leukemia.

Myeloma occurs slightly more often in men than in women and usually between ages 50 and 70. It is one of the slowest growing forms of cancer. Many people who have the disease don't notice any symptoms for years.

Bone pain is almost always the first symptom of multiple myeloma. This pain is usually mild and intermittent at first, but may become increasingly severe if the disease progresses.

It's difficult for doctors to predict how well multiple myeloma patients will respond to chemotherapy. Many patients feel better, have less bone pain and are able to be more active within three to five weeks after beginning chemotherapy. Others take longer to respond and some don't respond to the initial treatments. Radiation therapy is another form of treatment doctors also use to relieve patient's pain.

Doctors usually encourage myeloma patients to be as active as possible. Physical activity seems to slow the disease's degenerative effects on the bones and promotes better circulation.

Dear Cancer Answers:

I have cancer and have received different opinions on treatment from two doctors. One of the suggested treatments involves experimental drugs. Is this safe? What should I do: How do I know which treatment is best?

R.W.

Dear R.W.:

The ideal solution would be to have the two doctors meet with you, but this frequently isn't possible. The next best thing is to have written opinions from each doctor in language you can understand. If you are still confused by this, you certainly have a right to show these opinions to yet another doctor.

You must realize that medicine is not an exact science. Doctors sometimes disagree in their opinions about the best way to treat a specific medical condition. Also, there are many new treatments for cancer that are still in the experimental stage. Many of the experimental drugs are effective and save lives.

Be open and honest with your doctors. Ask them more questions so that you can make an informed decision about your cancer treatment.

Have A Fun Lunch For The Youngsters

Serve the younger set a good-tasting hearty and balanced meal in an eatable container. They'll enjoy it and think it's fun to eat too. Here's a simple recipe made with alphabet and number pasta. Perhaps your enthusiastic youngsters can assist with the funny face garnish.

FUNNY FACE STUFFED PEPPERS

4 large green peppers
1 can (15 oz.) Chef Boy-ar-dee ABC's and 123's with Mini Meat Balls
½ cup fresh, frozen or canned corn
½ can (2.6 oz.) real French fried onions
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
2 black olives, sliced or 4 corn kernels
4 pimiento strips

Scoop out centers of green peppers leaving shells. Blanch green peppers by placing them in a large saucepan with 2 quarts boiling water; cover saucepan and let cook for 10 minutes. Remove peppers from pot; drain; cool 2 minutes. Remove 8 meatballs from the can of Chef Boy-ar-dee ABC's and 123's. Empty remaining contents of can, corn and French fried onions in a medium bowl; mix well. Spoon 4 tablespoons of macaroni mixture into each green pepper shell. Cover the opening of each filled pepper with grated mozzarella cheese and place in a 6" x 10" x 2" baking dish. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. After baking, garnish by making faces on top of the melted cheese. Use 2 meatballs for eyes, 1 slice of black olive or 1 kernel of corn for a nose and 1 pimiento strip for a mouth. Makes 4 stuffed peppers.

It Pays To Shop At Home

Hints For Homeowners

The National Safety Council, esteemed authority on "do's and don'ts" for our protection in daily living, has written a guide to using unpowered hand tools which should be required reading for do-it-yourself homeowners.

Some of the featured points, endorsed by the makers of Cooper Tools such as Crescent screwdrivers and adjustable wrenches and Plumb hammers and axes, are repeated here with the hope that we all get the message.

Hand tools are universally used, accepted — and taken for granted. So much so that their ability to injure is often forgotten. Some general guidelines for avoiding injury are:

Use the right tool for the job — don't use a screwdriver for a pry, etc. Only use tools in good condition — worn, dirty or broken tools should be repaired, cleaned or discarded.

Use tools properly, and wear the proper personal protective equipment — such as safety goggles. Strike hammer blows squarely, with your eyes on the tool and the surface, and never use one with a loose or damaged handle, dents, chips or excessive wear.

The cutting edges of axes and hatchets are for wood — opposite or striking faces are to drive wooden stakes or unhardened nails, never a chisel or the like.

Wrenches and pliers are turning or holding tools — misused they can be knuckle skinners. Whenever possible, pull — don't push — an adjustable wrench. Adjust jaws tightly and apply force towards the fixed jaw. Grip pliers firmly and pull. Cut wire at a right angle, and wear goggles. Screwdriver tips should be sharp, square-edged and fit tight in a screw slot to avoid slippage and hand gouging. Drivers with chipped tips should be replaced.

As the Council says, "Tools are designed and manufactured with safety in mind. Most often, it's people, not tools, that cause accidents."

Fertilize now.
Get the jump on spring.

With crop price outlook good, you'll probably be going for top production per acre next year . . . to cash in. And you don't want to take a chance on not getting enough fertilizer on because of supply or weather problems.

That's why it's a good idea to plow in all your phosphate and potash this fall, and most (or all) of your nitrogen if you have fine textured soil.

So call us now. Let our CENEX Crop Monitor test your soils and work out the optimum fertility program for your farm and your profit goals.

Fertilizer is a better buy than ever. Apply it now.

Senior Citizens News

We used a new record book on Thursday when we met for our weekly meeting. This book was donated to our center by Janice Nelson of rural Warren. Sixteen registered at our center Thursday, September 24. Vy Kostner, Vera Peterson and Clara Nelson, all of Karlstad, were our guests.

It was our fun day, but we worked instead. Inga and Oscar were with us again, and Inga and Polly worked on the painted bird quilt. The rest of us didn't think it was fair for us to have all the fun, so we joined the fluffing circle and fluffed up filling for pillows. We will have our fun day next Thursday. Some prizes are needed if you plan to play.

We want to acknowledge some home work done by Anna Rud, who crocheted the edging on three pairs of pillowcases for our center. Thanks, Anna. We sure appreciated that. Clara Nelson crocheted two pair of pot holders for our center. We did furnish the yarn, but nonetheless, we did appreciate the work done. Thank you, Clara.

Nine door prizes were given away. Inga gave three that Polly, Clara and Vera won. Irene donated two that went to Mildred and Anna Holmstrom. Inga received Anna Holmstrom's. Elsie received Ruth Anderson's, Mabel Stromberg received Anna Brekke's, Irene received Ida's.

We signed a get well card and sent to Ruth Harper. She had surgery on her foot but is home again now.

Mildred was hostess Thursday.

Scott Johnson of Beulah, ND spent the weekend at the Sandy Johnson home at Karlstad and at the James Larson home in Strandquist.

James Stalock of Circle Pines and Lee Wernberg visited at Klines Tuesday afternoon. Last Monday evening Syl and clara Kasprowicz visited at Laurel Klines.

Grace Boen and Ruth Anderson visited at the KMNC Sunday afternoon. They were Sunday evening supper guests at the Edna Berg home.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Olson, Shane and Darcy of Lake Bronson visited with Sally Weiler Sunday afternoon. Later in the day the Olsons took Sally for a ride to Thief River Falls where they did some shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Braff and Violet Lofstrom visited with Sara Wikstrom Sunday afternoon. Others also visiting Sara were Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Staven of Hallock, Marla Bengtson, Shane and Melissa of Roseau and Emma Schev.

Cheryl Sjoden and Vanessa were Friday coffee guests of Ruth Anderson.

Winners at the Saturday night drawing September 26 were Audrey Rud, Rudy Lindgren and Leo Renstrom, who each received a $5 certificate. This was the last drawing of the season and from now on the Larson Hartz store will be closed at six o'clock each evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elma Holmstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Nelson and Kevin and Nels Nelson were among others Sunday who attended the farewell party at Bethel for Pastor and Mrs. Wilkman who are leaving for Arizona. Kevin had part in the service that morning, singing praises to the Lord.

Toby and Joyce Carlson of Warren visited and were lunch guests at the Clarence Borsvold home. Later the Carlsons and Borsvolds visited at Gordon Borsvolds and had another lunch.

Rudy Lindgren visited with Anzelm Stalock Thursday afternoon.

Snack Shake A Winner With Kids And Coaches

As every team member knows, there's nothing like football to work up an appetite. Make a hit with the players by serving an Orangey Banana Shake made from the beverage that kids love.

A glass of Kool-Aid brand soft drink contains 15% of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for vitamin C. Add milk and banana, and the shake is extra-nutritious. Coaches and parents love the goodness, but kids run home for the good taste.

One more hit this fall: Kids' favorite fruit flavor soft drink mix reusable canister for a young athlete's crayons, collections or cookies.

ORANGEY BANANA SHAKE

1 scoop Kool-Aid orange flavor sugar-sweetened soft drink mix
1/2 cup milk
1/3 cup water
1 medium banana
3 ice cubes

Combine soft drink mix, milk and water in blender container. Cover and blend on high speed for 30 seconds. Add banana and ice cubes, cover and blend 30 seconds longer, or until smooth. Serve at once. Makes 1-2/3 cups or 2 servings.

Soil Test!

Don't make a move without it.

Today's successful farmer is a businessman. A producer of food for men and animals. Consider yourself as a manufacturer.

The soil is your factory and a soil test is simply an inventory of the supplies needed to meet your planned production. And the balance of that inventory is as important as its size. (It doesn't help an auto maker to have plenty of wheels if he doesn't have enough lug nuts to put them on the cars.)

So, take that inventory . . . soil test now. Then determine the fertilizer elements (both amount and balance) you must add to your soil's inventory to reach the high-yield goals you have set. Finally, apply that fertilizer according to plan.

Need help? Let our Fertilizer Specialist assist you in every part of your plan, from soil test through application. We can even arrange custom application if you wish. Come in today and let us help you develop a comprehensive crop production program.

DU Group Is Concerned With Chemical Use

"Because Ducks Unlimited (DU) intends to spend a quarter of a billion dollars on waterfowl conservation over the next five years," said DU president Robert D. Marcotte, "we are very concerned about the discovery of Endrin in Montana waterfowl."

He went on to say that Endrin as a poison is a known fact. "However," Marcotte added, "considering the facts that are presently known and understood, the latest assault on man's and wildlife's environment with the use of this pesticide spray has caused what could be described as sensationalized reporting."

Marcotte said that according to Montana fish and game officials, the results of an adequate number of statistically reliable tests are not yet available since each test requires as much as ten hours to complete.

DU's president remarked that professional wildlife biologists are working on the problem, and that cool heads should prevail during this period until all the facts are known. He went on to say that within today's enlightened society, some very pertinent questions must still be answered.

"Why," Marcotte asked, "would a compound like Endrin, whose side effects in wildlife and man are questionable, be so readily available for use? Why couldn't testing have been conducted earlier and the people forewarned of the dangers of the use of this pesticide? Who really is at fault? The people who use Endrin to protect a potential food supply? The chemical company producing it? Those who recommend and license its use? Those who sell it?"

Probably all are at fault, Marcotte said, including the general public, because everyone must share the responsibility for whatever harmful effects Endrin might cause. "If damage has been done," Marcotte continued, "it cannot be reversed. Some of the cold, hard facts show that Endrin is not only used in Montana. Indeed, it is and has been used in many other parts of the continent as well, although it is outlawed in Canada."

Marcotte stated that none of the current facts, charges or claims would have even surfaced had it not been for an Endrin fish kill in Montana this past April. "all of which leads us to a final question," replied Marcotte, "with information concerning this fish kill available since April, why are so many so concerned now, almost six months later, just prior to the upcoming waterfowl season?" While the answer to this and other questions are as yet unknown, one thing is certain, Marcotte said — thousands of sportsmen may well be asked to pay the bill in one form or another.

Marcotte concluded by saying, "Hindsight is always 20/20. What we should be looking at now are the facts, and the ways to prevent future chemical contamination of the habitat that guarantees waterfowl's, wildlife's and, ultimately, man's survival."

Conservation Tillage Grows In Popularity

Minnesota's cropland is experiencing a "great cover-up." The cover-up" results from conservation tillage, which leaves crop residue on the soil surface to protect the soil from erosion by wind and water.

In 1981, approximately 3.2 million acres of corn and soybeans in Minnesota were planted by conservation tillage.

Farmers' interest in conservation tillage has spurred soil conservation agencies to develop programs to encourage farmers to try this farming practice.

In Waseca county, the "untillage" committee, comprised of the soil conservation service,, soil and water conservation district, agricultural stabilization and conservation service, vocational agricultural department and implement dealers have designed the "un-till pledge" program.

Farmers participating in this program pledge not to till their soybean fields in the fall. Because of this program, 62 farmers will protect a total of 4,800 acres from the fall plow.

In previous years, Jim Hersey, district conservationist for the soil conservation service in Waseca, estimates that less than five per cent of the 88,000 acres of soybeans were not tilied in the fall.

"By plowing the soybean residue in the fall, the soil is prone to erosion by wind and water," states Hersey. A no-till effort in the fall leaves residue on the field, which protects the soil from erosion. In addition, the residue acts as a sponge to retain moisture.

"The real benefit to farmers who participate in this program is reduced erosion, comments Hersey. In addition, farmers are eligible to win prizes, valued from $20 to $60, which have been donated by fertilizer and chemical companies.

This fall farmers in 59 counties are eligible to receive payments for trying no-till or minimum tillage through the ASCS cost-sharing for program. Farmers participating in the minimum tillage program can chisel or disk plow, or use other light tillage methods. Cost-sharing for no-till requires that farmmers not till in the fall, and plant directly into the crop residue in the spring.

In the spring, soil conservation service staff determines the amount of crop residue remaining on the field. To qualify for payment, 25 per cent of the field must be covered with residue after the crop is planted. Payments range from $4 to $15 per acre, depending on county guidelines.

In 1981, over 250 farmers in 35 counties received payments for trying minimum tillage or no-till.

INCREDIBLE BUT TRUE!

The oldest army in the world has less than 100 men. It's the Swiss Guard in Vatican City, whose origins date back before 1400.

The tradition of the Army Reserve in the United States is traced to the citizen-soldier of the Revolutionary War. The tradition calls for patriots to leave their jobs and communities to become soldiers in times of National emergencies. It is a program which is thriving still, thanks to concerned and cooperative citizens in the Army Reserve.

New Funds To Help PACER Center Remain

New federal funding and grants from the McKnight and Bremer foundations have given three more years of life to a group that seeks to better inform parents of Minnesota's handicapped youngsters about their children's educational rights, Marge Goldberg and Paula Goldberg, co-directors of PACER center (Parent Advocacy Coalition for Educational Rights), announced.

Questioned about what the new funds would mean for the coalition's future plans, Goldberg commented on the many parents who are still believed to be unaware of potential educational possibilities for their handicapped youngsters.

"We've reached many people in our first three years," she explained, "but we know there are many more out there remaining to be contacted."

Parent information workshops, one of PACER's ongoing projects, are presented around the state to inform parents of their handicapped children's right to a free, public education and, whenever possible, to participateinthesameclassroom with nonhandicapped children.

Workshops also outline the part parents may play in assessing their child's capabilities, in designing an educational program that meets his-her individual needs, and in ensuring that the program does succeed for him or her.

Goldberg added that PACER staff members are also on call to talk with parents who want to phone or visit the center and talk about their individual child's education and any problems he or she may be having.

Persons interested in having a parent information workshop in their community or in talking with the center individually should contact the office at (612) 827-2966.

Workshops have already been scheduled for Albert Lea, Thief River Falls, Crookston, New Ulm, LeCenter, Anoka county, Minneapolis and St. Paul. However, PACER does still have some open dates on the schedule for this school year.

Parents of Minnesota handicapped children may call the PACER office collect.

Besides working with more parents, Goldberg said, PACER is exploring programs that could be used with secondary students to increase understanding of handicapped persons by their peers.

Along the same lines, PACER presently works with, and trains, volunteers to do puppet shows for grade school children on a project called "Count Me In."

Puppets portray children with epilepsy, cerebral palsy, learning disabilities, mental retardation, and vision and hearing problems. They answer questions from the audience about their disabilities and explain how they hope others might better relate to them.

Puppet presentations will continue for grade schools and positive response by its audiences has encouraged the "County Me In" coordinators to design a "handicapped awareness" program for use with junior high and high school students.

Persons interested in the possibility of holding a puppet training session in their community should also contact the PACER officer.

A three year grant from the U.S. department of education, office of special education, will allow the "Count Me In" training, the parent workshops, and the service to individual parents to continue.

An additional $81,000 from the McKnight foundation will be directed primarily towards metropolitan area parent workshops. McKnight funds will also contribute to the support of work with individual metro parents.

A $9,000 grant from the Brememer foundation is targeted for training volunteers to present the puppet shows in St. Cloud, Willmar and Brainerd.

"Everybody is Somebody in Thief River Falls"
Published Twice A Week
THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES 20¢
Volume 70 (USPS 627-360) Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Monday, October 5, 1981 Number 77

AT WORK cleaning roadside ditches are students from St. Bernard's school in Thief River Falls, who joined students from Our Saviour's Christian Academy during the annual marathon for non-public education conducted Saturday. Money raised through the pledges will be donated for the use of private schools. Event was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

30-Unit Housing Complex Halted

A 30-unit family housing development proposed for Thief River Falls has been cancelled by the Minnesota Housing Finance agency (MHFA) citing the current vacancy rates in the rental housing market as a primary reason.

A letter received by Mayor Bob Carlson from MHFA stated, "It was staff opinion that the interests of the city, the agency, and the developer would best be served if no new construction units were built at this time."

Described by City Planning Director Jack Quinlivan as a "million plus project" the development was proposed by Investment Development Co. in the summer of 1980, to be constructed south of Greenwood street between Southern Addition and Allway Acres, as low and moderate income housing.

Described as a "pretty hot item in 1980" by City Clerk-Treasurer Gerald Wigness, the proposal involved the city in two lawsuits and many controversial meetings, all at a cost which probably could not be estimated. Legal fees alone for the two lawsuits cost the city over $6,000, of which about $3,500 was recovered in an out of court settlement from United Fire and Casualty, who provided the city's errors and omissions insurance. "Substantial hours of time" were also involved by the planning commission, staff, mayor, and council, according to Wigness, who called it " a long drawn-out affair."

The lawsuits resulted when city council rejected a request from contractors Seth Twitchell and Associates, Fargo, to have the property rezoned from agricultural to R-2 with a special use permit. The rejection, recommended by the planning commission, cited the incompletion of Greenwood Street, neighborhood opposition, and traffic problems as reasons. Twitchell sued on grounds the decision was arbitrary and capricious, which eventually resulted in the city granting the rezoning request.

The second lawsuit resulted when United Fire and Casualty refused to pay court costs for the first suit, on grounds that it resulted from a deliberate act rather than errors and omissions. The city sued the insurance company, who eventually settled out of court, paying about $3500.

Twitchell was unwilling to comment on how much the project had cost him, other than to say "more than it was worth." He said the cancellation by MHFA put the project "on the shelf. . . probably permanently."

Welfare Board Meets Tues.

Pennington county welfare board will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the Pennington county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Five File For Openings On City Council

Five candidates had filed for election with the city clerk's office as of Monday's publication date.

William Penning filed for reelection as fourth ward alderman on September 29. Dr. Donald Goodrich filed for reelection as alderman at large on September 22.

Candidates filing the first day included Mayor Bob Carlson for reelection, and Bill Hogan and Ken Murphy for second ward alderman, a seat currently held by Ole Engelstad.

The election is scheduled for Tuesday, November 3.

Mayor Carlson To Serve On Advisory Group

Mayor Bob Carlson has been appointed to serve on a policy task force established by the Minnesota Department of Economic Development (MDED) to consider the state's proposed program for administration of the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program.

Administrative responsibilities for the program were passed to the state as a result of congressional legislation in an attempt to decentralize federal programs. The CDBG program was previously administered by the U.S. department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The task force, composed of state legislators, mayors, county commissioners, township officers and regional development commission officers, will be an advisory group to the MDED. Program design issues, (eg. who should get what for what purpose), will be discussed so that MDED can hear the views of elected officials.

The program applies only to general purpose units of government having populations of 50,000 or less.

Heinze Earns Award From UND Hospital

Medical center rehabilitation hospital (MCRH) at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks has recognized several groups and individuals for their continuing support of the hospital and its program.

Awards and plaques were presented as the hospital observed North Dakota rehabilitation week recently.

Receiving MCRH recognition awards were Dr. Amy Lind, chairman of the UND occupational therapy department until her retirement last year; Dr. Genaro Tiongson, MCRH assistant medical director; and John Odegard, chairman of UND's aviation department.

The hospital also presented volunteer service awards for Art Heinze of Thief River Falls, the Foster Grandparent program, greater Grand Forks Sertoma club, Burger King restaurant, South Forks Lions club and Team Electronics. Dennis Everson and the greater Grand Forks senior citizens kitchen band received awards from the hospital's volunteer organization, RAVE (Rehabilitative Action through Volunteer Effort).

TRF Teachers Authorize Strike By Wide Margin

ANY DOUBTS which residents had that they were living in northern Minnesota were put to rest Wednesday night when snow fell throughout the area. While snowfall in Thief River Falls was light, as evidenced by the accumulation on the car above, up to two inches fell in the Middle River area and points north. In parts of northeastern Minnesota up to six inches of the white stuff was recorded. The introduction to winter was short-lived, however, as temperatures climbed into the 50's by the weekend.

"Thief River Falls teachers have authorized a strike and are ready to exercise this right," states a memo released to the news media this morning by the strike authorization committee of the Thief River Falls Education association (TRFEA).

A strike vote was taken Friday evening following a presentation made to the TRFEA by Donald Hill, president of the Minnesota Education association. Faculty members approved the strike authorization by a wide margin with only 20 teachers opposed.

Although a strike has been authorized, the authorization committee noted in its memo that it is willing to delay that option for the following reasons:

(1) To negotiate a fair and equitable settlement comparable to regional schools of similar size;

(2) To give the board of education and teacher negotiators sufficient opportunity to settle the local contract;

(3) To be fair to students and their upcoming scheduled events; and

(4) To afford the community an opportunity to supply input into the contract settlement.

Next scheduled negotiating session between the board of education and the teachers' association is slated for 9 a.m. Thursday when a mediator is scheduled to provide third party assistance.

Under state law the teachers may call a strike at any time during a 20-day period following a 10-day strike notice. That 20-day period began September 25. If a strike does not occur or contract settlement is not reached during that time, another 10-day notice must be given before a strike can take place.

Following receipt of the intent to strike notice from the TRFEA, Supt. Robert Block issued a memo to all certificated employees of the bargaining unit, and a separate letter to school district employees who are not part of the bargaining unit.

Supt. Block informed teachers that school will be open for certificated employees to report to work. Any striking unit employee wishing to cross the picket line

In Hearing On Fishing . . .

Times Charged As Inaccurate In Reporting

Dick Knutson of Moorhead, representing the Minnesota Save Our Game Fish committee, has issued a complaint regarding Times coverage of the recent legislative hearings on a bill to restrict commercial fishing on Lake of the Woods to non-game species only. The hearings were held September 18 in Baudette and September 19 in Warroad.

In a telephone call to the Times Thursday, Knutson said he did not present information attributed to him by the Times during his testimony at Warroad, and that one of the people listed as testifying did not appear. He took issue with the Times for not attending the Saturday hearing in Warroad, during which most of the proponents of the bill testified, but reporting information received from another source in regard to that hearing. The Times editor did attend and report on the hearing held in Baudette.

In regard to his own testimony, Knutson said he did not make the statements attributed to him. The Times reported on his testimony as follows:

"Knutson spoke at the Warroad meeting, emphasizing that the sports fisherman spends more dollars per fish caught than the commercial fisherman, and therefore is a greater benefit to the economy. He also pointed out that continued commercial fishing would cause sports fishing to decline on Lake of the Woods to the point that sports fishermen would no longer go there."

Knutson said he agreed with the statement but did not make it.

He also took exception to the listing of Bill Krause as one of the people testifying at the Warroad hearing, saying Krause did not testify. We apologize for that misinformation, and for any inconvenience or embarrassment it may have caused Mr. Krause. His name was used, along with several others, having been supplied to us by Mr. Knutson following Friday's hearing in Baudette as names of those who would testify at Warroad.

Knutson offered to supply a tape made of the Warroad hearing.

Former TRF Resident Successful In Las Vegas

"THIS IS ME," Ralph Engelstad explained during an interview with the Times editor and a reporter for the Grand Forks Herald Thursday in Grand Forks, referring to his casual dress. "My wife had to look all over to find a pair of pants for my suit; I hadn't worn it for more than a year and we lost the pants." Engelstad was in Grand Forks to receive the Sioux award from the University of North Dakota, the highest award presented by the university to its alumni

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

From a youngster of modest means who raised chickens in Thief River Falls in the early 1940's to a successful businessman who truthfully lives in a Palace, Ralph Engelstad has parlayed hard work, a lot of risk taking and perhaps a little bit of luck into a personal net worth of just under $300 million.

That's three hundred million dollars.

He admits to considering himself a successful person, but refuses to equate success with satisfaction. Few people are ever totally satisfied with their performance because there are always ways to do things better, he said.

Although he enjoys the comforts and independence that wealth can provide, he appears unassuming and not unduly spoiled by his successes. "I like being able to do what I want to do," he said. "I've always had a fascination for cars. Now I'm able to have them — more than 200 of them — and their display is going to be one of the major attractions in Las Vegas."

He dresses casually because that's his choice of lifestyle. He still puts in long days and nights at work because that's the way he is accustomed to operating. He doesn't have any particular hobbies or interests outside his business dealings because he insists he hasn't had time for them. But he does have one project in the planning stages that he is anxious to get underway. More about that later.

Ralph is the son of the late Christ Engelstad and Madeline Engelstad. His mother has lived in Las Vegas for about the past 10 years. He grew up in Thief River Falls where his dad was a salesman for Agsco company, graduating from Lincoln high school in 1948. He received a degree in business from the University of North Dakota and became a contractor in Grand Forks, operating in that area until about 1959.

Deciding to look for greener pastures, he traveled around the country and decided that Las Vegas, Nevada, would be a good place to seek his fortune -- and that's where he found most of it. He sold his contracting business in the Grand Forks area and reinvested the money in contracting in Las Vegas. He build 1,100 to 1,200 houses, then went into government contracting.

While Engelstad says there was no real turning point in his career -- the success of which has resulted from an accumulation of ventures over the years — he does point to the purchase and later sale of a private airport as being helpful in getting his business mushrooming.

Engelstad bought the private North Las Vegas airport in 1965 and operated it for about two years. In 1967 he sold the airport to another well-known Las Vegas resident, Howard Hughes.

"I wasn't making much money on it," Engelstad said about his airport operation, "and he wanted it and paid me good money for it. You might say he wanted it worse than I did."

Hughes was moving into Las Vegas at the time. He had purchased the Desert Inn (the story is that the hotel wanted Hughes to move out because there were other guests coming, but Hughes wanted to stay so he bought the place) and the airport was his second acquisition.

The sale to Hughes made five to six million dollars immediately available — he had owned the airport free and clear — and that gave him the capital for diversification and investment.

In 1971 he purchased a small, run-down motel and put his contracting operation to work on tearing it down and rebuilding on the site. The result is the Imperial Palace, a 900-unit hotel, casino, entertainment, office and shopping complex which is the only privately owned major hotel facility on the fabled Las Vegas strip. The project was long-term with construction on new additions being started every couple of years.

At present Engelstad has his contracting firm building a $27 million addition which will add 650 hotel rooms and related facilities. The firm is also doing about a $1 million project on the top floor of his parking ramp to provide for the car collection — a unique assembly of classic and collector cars including those owned by such people as Adolf Hitler, Mrs. Dodge, Cookie Rockefeller, Al Capone, Franklin D. Roosevelt, General Douglas MacArthur, Cecil B. DeMille, Howard Hughes and others.

The Hughes car, a 1954 Chrysler, is equipped with air filtration in the trunk which cost $15,000 at the time it was installed 27 years ago. The eccentric aviation industry

IMPERIAL PALACE
BRAVO VEGAS

PRIDE AND JOY of Ralph Engelstad — a Thief River Falls native who went to Las Vegas to seek his fortune and found it — is the Imperial Palace located on the fabled Las Vegas strip. The hotel and casino is being expanded to offer 1,500 rooms and Engelstad's own construction company is doing the work. Although Engelstad is cutting back on some of his holdings, he insists that the Palace is not for sale. He and his wife Betty live in one of the building's towers and he has his personal office in the building's other tower. He is the only individual owner of a major hotel-casino on the strip and last week turned down an offer of $125 million for the business.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Jane Louise Brodin And Mark Englund Wed Here

Jane Louise Brodin and Mark Kenneth Englund exchanged marriage vows recently at the Evangelical Covenant church in this city.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Brodin of this city. Parents of the groom are Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Englund of Durban, Manitoba, Canada.

Rev. Donald Peres officiated at the double ring ceremony with the bride's brother, Daniel Brodin giving the meditation. Gina Biamonte, a friend of the couple, sang "Time For Joy," and "Sometimes Alleluia." "Bless His Holy Name," was sung by a quartet composed of Carol Fullen and Daniel Brodin, sister and brother of the bride, Jewel Van de Loo and Mary Thyren, cousins of the bride, with Mrs. Helen Dahlstrom as pianist. Mrs. Dahlstrom also served as organist, playing "Kanon in D" by Johann Pachelbel, as the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Forming the chancel setting were candelabras with ivory candles, flowers and peach bows. Matching tapers with peach bows complemented the sconces between the windows.

The bride was attired in an ivory chiffon gown designed with a cathedral length train. Embroidered lace formed the yoke on her fitted bodice, the stand-up collar and the cuffs on her long, pleated sleeves. She carried a cascade of ivory roses, button mums, stephanotis, and babies' breath, accented with ivy and greenery. Tucked in her hair was a single ivory rose and a sprig of babies' breath.

Elizabeth Brodin of St. Paul attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jean Peterson, Duluth, a cousin of the bride; and Doreen Englund, Minneapolis, a sister of the groom.

Their identical gowns of a small peach floral print on an ivory background, were tied at the waistline with a peach ribbon. Lace trimmed the necklines, wrists and bodice. They carried peach roses with babies' breath, daisies and greenery.

Best man was Eric Englund of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, a brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Brad Syverson, Minneapolis, and Vern Peterson, Edmonton, Alberta, friends of the couple. The ushers were Tom Peterson, Duluth, a cousin of the bride, and Joe Van Alstine, Edmonston, Alberta, a friend of the couple. All wore dark brown tuxedos, high collared shirts, banded bow ties and double peach rose boutonnieres with babies' breath. The groom's boutonniere was an ivory rose taken from the bride's bouquet.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brodin selected a pale blue dress with satin lace trim. Her corsage was of peach roses, ivory button mums and babies' breath. A similar corsage graced the ivory colored dress with lace dollar worn by the groom's mother.

Honor guests at the wedding were the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Brodin of Florida. Following the reception, the bride and groom visited at Northwestern hospital with Mrs. Lillie Ulvin, the bride's grandmother.

Hosts and hostesses at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Larry McDowell, brother-in-law of the bride. Deb Dutee and Connie Peterson, friends of the couple, served the punch. At the guest book was Michelle Lasha, a friend of the bride.

The pillared, three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with peach roses, babies' breath, and greenery, was cut and served by Mrs. Joyce Thyren and Mrs. Jane Fadel, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Dorothy Erickson and Mrs. Dolores Ulvin, also aunts of the bride, poured the coffee. The Kransekake, the traditional Norwegian wedding cake, was served by Mrs. Petra Brodin, a sister-in-law of the bride.

Waitresses were Marsha Erickson, Nancy Hendrickson, Judy Thyren, and Karol Adolphson. Baird McDowell, a nephew of the bride, was at the gift table.

Following a wedding trip to Green Lake, Wis., the couple is now at home in Chicago, Ill. The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Covenant Bible college, Prince Albert, Sask., Canada, and Normandale Community college, Minneapolis, and is employed by Oradent, Association, as a dental assistant. The groom is a graduate of Edmonton Christian high school, Covenant Bible college, Prince Albert, Sask., Canada and North Park college, Chicago, Ill. He is employed by Airoom, Inc., as an architectural illustrator. Photo, R. L. Nieland Studio, Thief River Falls.

Natural Foods Are Studied By Wyandotte Club

"Selecting and preparing natural Foods," was the lesson discussed at the September meeting of the Wyandotte homemakers club held at the Olga Konickson home. Mrs. Konickson served as hostess.

Presenting the lesson was Audrey Donarski, who also brought a variety of foods which she had prepared and which were sampled during lunch by the members. Members also participated in the discussion by naming the natural foods they had eaten that day.

Marlo Solberg presided at the meeting. Roll call was answered by listing the favorite hobby. The door prize was won by Carol Stumpf.

Those attending the meeting, in addition to those mentioned, were Evelyn Erickson, Irene Solberg, Naomi Peterson and Hazel Jesperson.

The next meeting of the Wyandotte homemakers club will be held October 8 at 7:30 p.m., at the Carol Stumpf home. Lesson leaders will be Evelyn Erickson and Marlo Solberg. Donna Mossestad will be hostess.

Eight Highrisers Are Honored At Birthday Party

Highrisers club monthly birthday party was held Wednesday evening at the Riverside Terrace community room.

Seated at the head table and presented with corsages and boutonnieres were the residents having birthdays during the month of September. Birthday honorees and the date of their birthdays were Marie Soiney, September 7; Selma Anderson, September 11; Anna Irvin, September 12; Clifford Sisler, September 14; Josephine McEwen, September 18; Madelyn Johnson and Bill Van Deventer, both on September 20, and Ruth Osied, September 29.

Entertainment was provided by a group of women of the Zion Lutheran ALCW of Viking who gave the skit "Flight 423." The Hoot-N-Toot band of Viking presented several musical selections. Band members are Jeff and Joe Erickson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Erickson; and Marlene, Michael and Lori Wernberg, children of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wernberg.

Lunch served during the social evening included cake and ice cream.

Belmont Will Speak On Funeral Prearrangements

Larry Belmont, local mortician, will be speaking at the meeting of the Catholic Daughters to be held Tuesday at 8:00 p.m., at St. Bernard's Catholic church.

Belmont's topic, "Getting Your House in Order," will include prearrangement planning for funeral, obituary, and disposition of the body, such as burial or cremation.

A question and answer period will follow.

The meeting is open to the public, regardless of church affiliation. Lunch will be served.

Mass will be offered at 7:30.

Algot Erikssons Announce Birth of a Granddaughter

Mr. and Mrs. Algot Eriksson of this city announce the birth of a granddaughter, Whitney Dawn. She was born September 5 to Mr. and Mrs. Merv Eriksson of Missoula, Mont.

The other grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bishop of Conrad, Mont. Mrs. Bella Kompelien of Thief River Falls is the child's great-grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Merv Eriksson have another child, a son, Nicholas.

Mrs. Tom Fillmore to Be Honored Wednesday

Mrs. Tom Fillmore will be honored at a pink and blue shower on Wednesday morning at 9:30 at the Emmanuel Lutheran church at Ringbo.

All relatives and friends are welcome to attend.

Legion Aux. To Hear Boys State Representatives

Meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be held Tuesday at 8:00 p.m., at the Legion club room.

Prior to the meeting, there will be a joint dinner at 7:00 with members of the Post. Special guest speakers will be the American Legion Boys State representatives for 1981.

All members are encouraged to attend. A reminder is given that the 1982 dues are to be paid. They may be paid at the meeting, given to an officer or mailed to Box 325.

All members are also asked to become involved in saving cancelled postage stamps, the Special Children bands on Roman Meal bakery products and Campbell Soup labels. Between September 28-November 21, the Roman Meal bakery will donate five cents to Special Olympics for each Roman Meal bakery product sold in Minnesota.

Campbell soup labels are used to obtain equipment for the Dowling school for crippled children. Items obtained last year were history picture books, headphones, cassette and tape recorders, reading machine, basketballs, record player and records, math materials, printing and writing desk tapes, foam-filled gym mats, and etc.

In addition to Campbell soup labels, Dowling school uses labels from Campbells chunky soup, soup for one, tomato juice and pork and beans; V-8 vegetable juice, Swanson broth, Swanson chicken products, Franco-American spaghetti, gravy, macaroni, spaghettios and raviolios.

Canceled stamps, Special Children bands and labels may be brought to the meeting.

Pack 59 Has First Meeting At Zion Here

Pack 59 conducted its first meeting of the year September 28 at 7 p.m. in the Zion Lutheran church fellowship hall in Thief River Falls.

Webelos opened the meeting with the flag ceremony which was followed by a welcome to all scouts and their parents by Cubmaster Lowell Hoffard. Rev. Roger Hanson led the pack in prayer and conducted a sing-a-long.

Cubs were assigned to their dens and introduced to their leaders before Diane Marshall and Cheryl Lee's den five presented a skit entitled "The Power of Suggestion." Included in the skit were Aaron Marshall, Kris Rokke, Jonathan Anderson, Derek Lee and Rachael Marshall.

Hoffard addressed parents, explaining the program for the coming year and describing the purpose of scouting, before all leaders and committee members were introduced.

Judy Melby, committee chairman, lead the group with "The King With the Terrible Temper." Announcements for the coming month were given and leaders and committee members were reminded of the leaders' training session in Crookston October 10 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cubmaster Hoffard retired the former traveling trophy before presenting the pack with a new trophy won by Den five. Cake drawing was conducted with cakes furnished by Boy Scout Troop 59.

Webelos retired the colors following which lunch was served by leaders and committee members.

Mext leaders' and committee meeting will be conducted October 19 at 8:15 p.m. in the fellowship hall of Zion Lutheran church. Parents are also invited to bring suggestions to the meetings.

Next pack meeting will be conducted October 26 at 7 p.m. Meeting will also be the Halloween party (everyone is asked to come in costume) and the Bobcat ceremony for all new cub schouts.

MSU Opening Enrollment Up 2.5 Per Cent

Opening fall enrollment at Moorhead State University jumped nearly 2.5 per cent over last fall's total, setting another record enrollment for the university.

MSU registrar Don Engberg said that by the end of the quarter, when all the registrations are tallied, over 8,000 full and part-time students are expected to be taking classes at the university.

Preliminary totals after the 10th day of classes show 6,206 day students attending Moorhead State, about 2.5 per cent, or 154 more than last year at this time. Nearly 2,000 evening and off-campus part-time students are expected to enroll later in the quarter.

This is the seventh consecutive year of enrollment increases at the university, amounting to a 40 per cent overall rise in the student population here since 1974 — up more than 1,750 students.

Engberg said that about a quarter of all students at Moorhead state are North Dakota residents attending under the reciprocal tuition agreement between the two states. In the last seven years, North Dakota students attending Moorhead state increased from 500 to 1,950.

University has also shown a 61 per cent increase in women students, up from 2,150 to 3,480 in those same seven years, according to 10th day figures.

Part-time students, including evening and off-campus, have nearly tripled this decade, from 700 to 1970 to about 2,000 expected this year.

Classroom credits are increasing about the same as student numbers, Engberg said. Full time equivalency figure, based on total enrolled credits, went up 2.7 per cent over last year. That number affects how much money the university is allocated under the state university system budget.

This year's figures are still preliminary, Engberg said. "The 10th day of class is a convenient time to look at how we're doing at this stage of the game. We'll still be making changes on fall statistics into next spring, adding transfer, off-campus and evening students and subtracting dropouts."

Moorhead State watched enrollments decline gradually from 1970 to 1974. Since then, however, it's been rising at an average rate of five per cent a year.

Area Students Begin Fall Classes At UMC

Three local students have been accepted as students at the University of Minnesota technical college — Crookston (UMC) to begin studies fall quarter.

Phillip Wold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ingvald Wold, Alvarado, and a graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, plans to major in business in the business computer systems program at the two-year college.

Valerie Sand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Sand, Goodridge, and a graduate of the Goodridge high school, plans to major in business in the fashion merchandising program at the college.

Third student, Debra Daniels of Thief River Falls, a graduate of Lincoln high school, will major in nursing.

Upon satisfactory completion of studies, the students will be awarded associate in applied science degrees.

J. Bronken Deployed To W. Pacific

Navy hospital Corpsman 3rd Class James M. Bronken, son of Marvin T. and Joan A. Bronken, Oklee, has deployed to the Western Pacific as a member of medical section, 2nd battalion, 3rd marines, 31st marine Amphibious Unit (MAU), Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii.

During the six-month cruise, the 1,800 marines are embarked aboard ships specially designed to transport combat troops as they participate in training exercises with units of the U.S. 7th fleet and allied nations. Port visits are scheduled in several Far East countries.

A 1974 graduate of Oklee public high school, Bronken joined the Navy in October 1978.

Applicants Are Sought For State Agencies

Applicants are being sought for 24 vacancies in the following state agencies. In accordance with the Minnesota open appointments law, application forms may be obtained at the office of the Secretary of State, 180 State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155-1299; phone (612) 296-7876. Application deadline is October 27, 1981.

Physical Therapy Council has one vacancy for a licensed physician pursuant to M.S. 148.67. The council advises the board of medical examiners on all matters relating to physical therapy; registers physical therapists and takes action against them. Members appointed by the board of medical examiners, receive $35 per diem plus expenses. For specific information contact the Physical Therapy Council, No. 352, 717 Delaware St. S.E., Minneapolis 55440; (612) 296-5534.

Rehabilitation Review Panel has one vacancy for a representative for employers pursuant to M.S. 176.102, subd. 3. The panel reviews rehabilitation plans and rules and advises the commissioner of labor and industry. Members are appointed by the governor. Compensation is governed by section 15.0575. For specific information contact Rehabilitation Review Panel, Space Center, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul 55101; (612) 297-2684.

Occupational Safety and Health advisory council has one vacancy for a management representative. Council advises the department of labor and industry on administration of the state Occupational Safety and Health Act. Members are appointed by the governor. Meetings held at the call of the chairperson in the Space Center building. Members receive $35 per diem. For specific information contact Occupational Safety and Health Advisory council, Space Center Building, 444 Lafayette Road, St. Paul 55101; (612) 296-6529.

Power Plant Siting advisory committee has 20 to 30 vacancies for members to serve until June 30, 1982. The committee will consider effectiveness of the Environmental Quality Board in carrying out policies of the Power Plant Siting Act. This includes consideration of methodology and criteria to be used by the board and an evaluation of the program. Meetings will be held six Saturdays and some evenings, with members compensated for expenses. Members are appointed by the board. (According to state law, no officer, agent or employee of a utility may serve on this committee). For specific information contact Sheldon Mains, Room 101, Capital Square Building, 550 Cedar, St. Paul 55101; (612) 296-2757.

State Employees Suggestion Board has one vacancy for a state officer or employee. The board manages a state employee suggestion system for classified and unclassified state employees to provide tangible and intangible savings to the state, increase employee morale, and increase the safety of employees and public. Members, appointed by the governor, receive no compensation. Monthly meetings held at the administration building. For specific information contact the State Employees Suggestion Board, 203 Administration Building, St. Paul 55155; (612) 296-6798.

State Jobless Forms Delayed, Deadline Isn't

Employers will receive unemployment tax report forms for the third calendar quarter of 1981 as much as 10 days late, according to the unemployment insurance division of Minnesota's department of economic security.

Normally, the tax reports are mailed to employers on the last day of the calendar quarter, but due to a printing delay, mailing will not be completed until Saturday, October 10. Employers are requested to delay inquiries regarding the forms until after that date.

The October 31 due date for filing the reports will still remain in effect.

Solar Energy Society Meet In Crookston

Northern tier solar energy society will feature Dr. Clark Eid, Fertile, at a meeting Tuesday, October 6 at 7:30 p.m. at the agricultural research center at the Northwest experiment station, Crookston.

Eid will report on his experiences with solar panels which he has constructed on his office as well as at his home in Fertile. Eids' practical experience as well as his complete set of utility records for several years lead to his invitation by the solar group. Membership in the society is open or the public is invited to attend for a small seminar fee.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of Mrs. Lawrence Harder

rural Thief River Falls

Mashed Potato Doughnuts

2 cups mashed potatoes
½ tablespoon salt
2 cups white sugar
5 tablespoons baking powder
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ tablespoon nutmeg
3 eggs
1 cup milk
5 cups flour, sifted before measuring

Method: Sift flour, baking powder, nutmeg and salt and set aside. Beat eggs and sugar until light, and add mashed potatoes, cooled to lukewarm. Add butter and milk, and then the flour mixture. Do not overmix. Chill dough. Roll to one-eighth inch thickness on a lightly floured surface. Let rest about 15 minutes before cutting with a floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat until brown, turning once. Drain and dip in either powdered sugar or granulated sugar. These doughnuts are moist and freeze well.

The Harders live west of St. Hilaire on the Grand Forks cut-across road. They have no children. Mrs. Harder stated that she has little time for hobbies as she is employed on the night shift at the Eagles club. For relaxation, she crochets. Her husband is retired.

They are members of Calvary Lutheran church, St. Hilaire.

Existing Gas Supplies Show Positive Future

Natural gas industry provides more than one quarter of the energy consumed in the United States and 30 per cent of the nation's domestic energy production. Gas supplies over half of all the energy consumed by residential and commercial customers and about 40 per cent of the energy consumed by American industry.

The gas industry has the potential for increasing total gas supply from domestic sources of natural gas and from the development of supplemental sources. Exisiting and potential gas supplies include:

Conventional natural gas resources, Alaskan gas, Mexican gas, Canadian gas, synthetic natural gas from liquid hydrocarbons, coal gasification, western tight sands, Devonian shale, liquified natural gas, nonconventional, peat gasification, oil shale gasification, natural gas from coal seams, geopressured zones along the Golf Coast, insitu coal gasification, methane biomass conversion and gas from urban wastes and animal residues.

There are a number of estimates of the remaining recoverable natural gas resources in the continental U.S. These estimates range from 502 trillion cubic feet (Tcf) to 1282 Tcf. Current U.S. production is about 20 Tcf a year. Most frequently referenced remaining revocerable resource estimates adjusted to Dec. 31, 1979 are as follows: U.S. geological survey 830-1,094 Tcf; national academy of sciences, 743; institute of gas technology, 695 - 1,195; potential gas committee, 1,108.

Each of the above estimates includes proved (known) reserves of natural gas in the ground. At year end 1979 U.S. proved reserves were 195 Tcf.

Recognizing that natural gas supplies are finite, the gas industry has moved on a broad front to undertake development of supplemental supplies. Some time before the turn of the century supplemental gas sources will become a major factor in the U.S. energy supply picture. By the year 2000, supplemental gas sources could provide over 50 per cent of gas each year — with an annual total supply being between 23 and 33 Tcf.

These supplies at the turn of the century are expected to come from the following sources: Alaskan gas, 1.5 to 3.0 Tcf; Canada and Mexico, 1.1 to 4.0; liquefied natural gas, 0.7 to 4.0; synthetic natural gas, 0.1 to 0.5; coal gasification, 1.5 to 3.5; tight formations, 1.5 to 5.0; and nonconventional: — biomass, geopressured zones, etc. 1.0 to 2.5.

Canada has significant natural gas reserves and has been supplying about 5 per cent of U.S. requirements. Canadian petroleum association has estimated the country's latest established natural gas reserves at 88.4 Tcf. In addition, major untapped natural gas deposits are believed to exist in Canadian frontier areas of the Arctic Islands, Beaufort Sea, Hudson Bay and the continental shelves of the Atlantic and Pacific. Canadian policy permits exports of natural gas to the U.S. to the extent that the national energy board deems those supplies surplus to Canadian needs.

Synthetic gas is derived from such petroleum hydrocarbons as propane, naphtha and butane by gasification processes. Gasification plants have been built to convert these hydrocarbon feedstocks into natural gas. These supples have been especially valuable during winter heating seasons as a source to meet peak gas demand.

Natural gas can be imported from overseas sources such as liquefied natural gas (LNG). In many areas of the world outside the U.S., gas is found in conjunction with oil and some of this gas is flared to the atmosphere for lack of an available market. Currently, projects have been approved to import gas from North Africa and Indonesia. By the year 2000, these and other overseas sources could supply as much as four Tcf of gas a year to the U.S.

In 1981, natural gas from Mexico began flowing to the U.S. Initial import of 300,000 Mcf per day is small but by the year 2000, it is expected that Mexican gas could supply annually as much as two Tcf of gas to the U.S.

Potential gas committee of the Colorado school of mines has estimated that Alaska may hold 145 Tcf of natural gas, in addition to the 32 Tcf of proven reserves. Approval of the natural gas pipeline route from Alaska to the lower 48 states offers the possibility that gas may be flowing by 1986.

Coal reserves represent approximately three-fourths of the U.S. fossil fuel reserves. Gas industry has been conducting coal gasification research since 1954. Several commercial plants have been planned. Typically a full scale commercial plant will produce about 250 million cubic feet of gas per day.

By far the largest and most dramatic potential of undeveloped gas reources lies in the Gulf Coast region of the U.S. in deep underground geopressurized, geothermal zones which have been estimated to hold as much as 50,000 Tcf of methane, the chief component of natural gas. Exploration is currently underway to determine the extent and recoverability of these deposits.

Gas is already being produced from western tight sands and eastern devonian shales on a commercial basis today. By the year 2000, production from these two new sources is expected to be in the range of 1.5 to 5.0 Tcf.

Gas research institute and the department of energy, in conjunction with General Electric, is conducting reserarch on the development of marine biomass as a renewable resource of methane.

With all of the existing and potential gas resources in the offing, the gas industry is confident of its ability to supply the gaseous energy needs of the American consumer far into the future.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, our Pastor's wife smokes! How are we supposed to accept something like this? Should we leave our church or try to put up with it? Please help us and quote something for us to see.

A. In Romans 14 the apostle Paul deals with this whole issue of weak and strong Christians, those who judge and those who are a stumbling block to others.

Romans 14:1 (Amplified Version) says: as for the person who is a weak believer, welcome him into your fellowship, but not to criticize his opinions or pass judgement on his scruples or perplex him with discussions.

I realize that when we begin to form certain convictions about different character habits in our lives that it is hard for us to accept other people who do not form those same habits. So we must be careful that we don't judge or citicize them and hinder our relationship in Christ..

Romans 14:13 (Amplified) says, "Then let us no more criticize and blame and pass judgement on one another, but rather decide and endeavor never to put a stumbling block or an obstacle or a hindrance in the way of another Christian.

We know that smoking is not a good Christian habit, and that it reflects a very poor Christian testimony. It does not remind people of the personality of our Lord Jesus Christ, nor does it bring honor, glory and dignity to God.

I Corinthians 10:31 (Amplified) says, "So then, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you may do, do all for the honor and glory of God."

I Thessalonians 5:22 says, "Obstain from all appearance of evil."

Many Christians need to realize they can become a stumbling block by insisting upon exercising all their freedoms regardless of another person's conscience.

Romans 14:21 says, "It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."

We who claim to be stronger or have different convictions, must be careful that we don't become a stumbling block by not loving people who have sinful habits we don't agree with.

We are to love and accept people just like they are, with all their faults and weaknesses. That does not mean we are condoning their sinful habits.

The thing that has helped me overcome many of the sinful habits that were part of my life is the Christian love I received from other Christians who didn't have these habits. They made me feel loved, accepted, cared for, and that I was someone special.

I wanted to be like them, and have that kind of love for others. Little by little I began to realize that some of the sinful habits I had in my life hindered me from having that kind of love for others.

I would like to encourage you to become a friend to your Pastor's wife, love her, accept her just like she is and make her feel special. Little by little as she observes your life and sees something better, she will begin to drop those things that stumble others.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

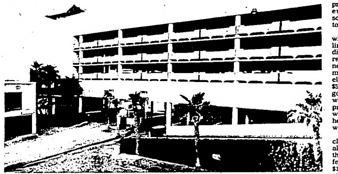
RALPH AND BETTY Engelstad were back in home territory last week when Ralph received the Sioux alumni award from the University of North Dakota. Ralph is a graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and his wife, the former Betty Stocker, is a native of the East Grand Forks community. They have a daughter, Kris, 23, who is single and also living in Las Vegas.



A MAJOR ATTRACTION for visitors to Las Vegas will be opened in a few weeks on the upper level of this parking ramp at the Imperial Palace, owned by former Thief River Falls resident Ralph Engelstad. The display will showcase 200 or more collector quality automobiles which Engelstad now owns — including Adolf Hitler's staff car and classic cars owned by Al Capone, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Cecil B. DeMille, Howard Hughes and others. Engelstad plans to rotate the cars to provide a constant change of vehicles on display.

Former TRF Resident Finds Nevada Success

magnate had a phobia about polluted air, and the windows on the car cannot be opened.

In about three years Engelstad plans to add another tower to the Imperial Palace complex, spending approximately $40 million for that multi-story unit and a convention facility which would have about 50,000 to 60,000 square feet of open space for banquets, large gatherings for conventions or even prize fights or other events. A week ago he turned down an offer of $125 million for the complex. When the planned additions are completed, he said, it will be worth $200 million — but it isn't for sale.

The casino of the Imperial Palace is the "heart of the body", Engelstad says. He employs about 1,500 people at the Imperial Palace, including a security force of about 75 people, primarily for the casino area. "We deal in money and entertainment," Engelstad said, noting that the larger casinos such as his likely have $6 million to $7 million on hand for operating on a daily basis.

"When somebody wins, we pay them right there," he said. The biggest individual winner that he can recall walked away with $150,000 to $175,000. On the other hand, one customer lost $510,000 to the house in one day of playing "21", also known as black-jack.

"It's a business just like selling hardware or anything else," he said. "You have to have a profit margin and you have to earn a percentage. I own the only place on the strip that isn't unionized. My employees are paid the best, they have the best insurance plan, they have the best working conditions and I can talk to any one of them. But I can also operate the way I want to operate.

The Imperial Palace has two towers. The top floor of one is the Engelstad residence where Ralph and his wife, the former Betty Stocker of East Grand Forks, live. They can truthfully say they live in a Palace. The top floor of the other houses his personal offices, staffed with a receptionist and two secretaries to handle the constantly ringing phones and stream of visitors.

On a typical day he will be at the office at 9 a.m., stay there until about 6 or 7 p.m., walk through the complex back to his residence for a nap, then return to work from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. He says this is a seven days a week schedule.

"I always enjoyed working," he said. "I'm not afraid of work. I've had a certain amount of luck, but I've found that if you're willing to put in the time and effort, you create some of the luck. I figure that what I'm doing tonight the competition will be doing tomorrow."

He said he has no idea what his telephone bill would be, but that one WATS line to his office runs $3,500 a month. . . "and that's only one line", he adds. In addition to the Imperial Palace, Engelstad owns a chain of seven light fixture stores, 10 supermarkets, a lime mine in Mississippi, apartments in Texas, office building and related complex and land from Florida to Hawaii.

"There will always be more people but there will never be more land," he said. He has many additional land holdings in the Las Vegas area, most of which he intends to hold and all of which he expects to appreciate in value. He has operated on the theory of buying expensive rather than cheap property because the turn-over usually is more rapid and the appreciation is greater.

His goal early in life was to be a millionaire at age 30, he said, and he reached that goal a year early. He borrowed $2,500 from the Valley Bank and Trusty company in Grand Forks to get his contracting business underway.

"They helped me out when I needed it," he said, and he has maintained his loyalty to the institution. He still maintains his personal account there and bank president John F. Cook admits that Engelstad is now the bank's buggest customer. "In fact," he laughed, "we probably owe him more than he owes us right now!"

And he said he recently ran across one of Engelstad's early transactions with the bank. "You bought a 1958 Edsel and made payments of $100 a month," he reminded Engelstad.

Now Ralph is planning to divest himself of interest in some of the enterprises which seem to make too large demands on his time. He hopes to get away from his desk a little more and to something besides work. "I'm 51 years old," he said, "and I'm probably only going to be around for another 20 years. I think it's about time I do some of the things I want to do."

What does he want to do?

"I'm going over to Hawaii and build a house," he said. "I've owned 176 acres of land on the windward side of Oahu since 1968. It's three blocks off the beach and it rises to an elevation of 600 feet.

Will it be a big house?

Engelstad smiles. "About 12,000 square feet," he said, "but with no special characteristics. I've planned it with the architect that works for me all the time. I'll probably live there about a third of the time."

Betty doesn't share Ralph's enthusiasm for the Hawaiian home — at least not yet. "I'll probably be over there and he'll have to be back in Las Vegas at the office," she said.

But we agree with Ralph. Everybody should have an opportunity at least once in his life to do whatever he wants to do, even if he has the handicap of being a multi-millionaire.

Conciliation Court Useful In Small Cases

Would you know how to defend youself if you were sued in conciliation court, or when to use that court to sue someone else to protect your own rights, asks the community legal education program of central Minnesota legal services.

"Many persons don't know," explained an advocate, "or if they do, then may be too fearful about taking action or defending themselves if they are sued — especially if they are elderly. When such persons are sued and come to us for help, we encourage them, explain the process, help them get their eveidence together, and sometimes accompany them to court," he continued.

"Like Anna, for example, who in her late 70s with limited income and language difficulties, had paid a 1500 rent deposit to a landlord but never moved in. The apartment was rented to someone else, but she couldn't get her $500 back, and thought it was gone forever. Although she was very apprehensive, she prepared, went to the hearing with her evidence, explained her case to the referee, and won," he said.

Conciliation court (or small claims court) was created to allow citizens direct access to the court where, for a small fee and in civil aims involving $1,000 or less, you can tell your story to the judge or referee without having to get a lawyer. Typically, claims in conciliation court may involve traffic accidents, rent deposits, unpaid wages, property damage or purchased goods and services.

If you are sued in conciliation court (or in any other court), always respond, even if you belive the lawsuit is groundless. If you don't you will lose by default, your wages may be subject to garnishment, or some of your property may be taken to pay the judgment. Respond even if you believe you owe most or all that is asked for. There may be laws in your favor or facts you don't think important which may change the case.

A lawsuit brought against you in conciliation court would begin by the court mailing you a summons and notice of trial, with the time, date, place to appear for the hearing, and a brief statement of the claim filed by the person (plaintiff) who is suing you. Normally, you don't need to respond before the hearing unless you countersue. (To countersue, see a court deputy promptly. The best time to have a countersuit may be at the same hearing.)

Otherwise, you need only to show up in court at the time and place specified in the trial notice, but be prepared! Be sure to (1) Be on time; (2) bring any witnesses and evidence you need to confirm your side of the story; (3) tell your story in concise, chronological order — don't ramble; and (4) Wait while the opposing party tells his or her side; don't argue.

The judge will allow both you and the plaintiff time to explain your case and question each other — you'll have your chance to tell your side of the story also. Make sure your questions are clear and specific.

The court's decision is normally mailed out within a day or so to both parties. Call the court clerk if it's later than three or four days, since it can be sent to a wrong address. If you lose in conciliation court, you normally have 10 days from the judgment date to appeal to municipal or county court for a new trial. If for some reason beyond your control, you can't attend a conciliation court hearing, notify the clerk of court before the hearing. If an emergency makes that impossible, you have 10 days after the hearing to ask to have your case reopened and rescheduled for a new hearing. (In some cases, with the help of a lawyer, it may even be possible to reopen the matter after the 10 days.)

In any event, if you have questions, seek help from an advocate or attorney. Conciliation court was created to give you a chance to protect your rights without lengthy or expensive litigation if your case qualifies. Don't fear a process designed to protect you. Instead, learn how the process works. It pays to know the law, the program advocate said.

Wisconsin adopted the first unemployment insurance act in the United States in 1932, according to the U.S. Department of Labor publication, "Important Events in American Labor History."

Annual Cancer Society Meet Held Here

Annual meeting of the Pennington county unit of the American cancer society met recently in the basement meeting room of the city auditorium.

Rita Albrecht from the state staff attended the meeting, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnt Aune were elected delegates to the state convention to be conducted in Rochester October 2 and 3. Committee and officer reports were given. Margaret Race was welcomed as public relations chairman.

A report was given on the "I Can Cope" classes being conducted at Northwestern hospital Wednesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. for five sessions. A committee was formed to formulate plans for D-Day November 19, the day all citizens are encouraged to quit smoking.

All meetings of the American cancer society are open to the public. Anyone with a special interest in the battle against cancer is encouraged to attend.

TRF Teachers Authorize Strike Action

and enter the building will be paid: employees not crossing the picket lines and not reporting to work will have pay terminated immediately.

The school district's contribution to fringe benefits will also be immediately discontinued and employees desiring to maintain insurance coverage will have to reimburse the carrier by check made out to the district and sent to the school business office in time to make the payment.

The board's position is that there will be no make-up days for striking employees and there shall be no leave accumulation or usage during the period of a strike. All professional development meetings, conventions and seminars are automatically canceled during the 20-day legal strike time following a strike notice.

If a strike should occur, it is the district's policy that the strike will continue until an agreement has been reached at the bargaining table with the TRFEA. A brief strike and return to work would not be permitted by the district.

Prior to any strike, the teachers are to turn into their building principal all building keys, equipment storage keys, grade books and sheets, detailed lesson plans, fee books, course outlines, attendance and seating charts, audio visual equipment and other district property as designated by the building principal.

Teachers desiring to work will be provided with safe parking and protection within reasonable control of the district.

All employees of the bargaining unit are to refrain from discussing with students the strike or other activities which may intentionally or otherwise influence behavior or attendance of students during the strike.

It is board policy that all extra-curricular activities would cease upon origination of the strike and state high school league policy would be followed. Unlawful acts would be pursued through legal channels.

In the memo to non-certificated personnel, Supt. Block pointed out that they have a legal and moral obligation to report to work. School will be open at least the first day or two for the striking group to report to work. Should any non-striking unit employees not report to work, they will risk losing their position in the district.

In the event schools have to be closed due to a strike, some layoffs may be necessary. They will take place through proper legal channels in accordance with provisions of master contracts. There will be no make-up days for days not worked and leaves and vacations would be temporarily suspended.

In a letter to parents and other taxpayers in the district, Supt. Block noted that every effort will be made to keep school open. He did, however, encourage parents to make alternative plans for their children if they must be returned to their homes during the school day in the event of a strike.

30-Unit Family Housing Plan Is Halted

Indicating that he hadn't had time to consider all the possibilities, Twitchell said, "I don't know what the final result will be, I don't think that anybody does at this point. We assume that it will not be progressing until the economic situation in Thief River improves."

"I think that there's still demand for housing of this type, but it's just not politically popular when there's so many vacancies," said Twitchell. He commented that "the key is the city itself" noting that if someone took over the Arctic operation, picking up the economy, something would probably be done.

"It's been a long and controversial thing, but there are people that have a need, and that's never really been discussed much," said Twitchell. "We've not attempted to include those people in the issues because it's gotten kind of nasty at times." He noted that people who needed low cost housing could be "hurt by pressures", indicating it could be "hard enough to get a job down there."

On a more positive note, he commented, "there's a need there, and it'll be resolved someplace down the line."

AGDER . . .

Mrs. Jean Nelson left Saturday for St. Paul, to spend several days at the Larry Pruden and Glen Dahlquist homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Hanson of Winger, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hanson of Silverton and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wold were afternoon visitors and lunch guests at the Rueben Wold home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Nyflot and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wold of Thief River Falls were supper guests there Sunday.

Budget Helps Children Cope With Inflation

Kids between six and 16 spend billions of dollars a year. But inflation has eroded their purchasing power because the prices of records, movies and hamburgers rose faster than their allowances or pay from babysitting or delivering newspapers. To help children cope with inflation, teach them some basic money management techniques, says the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs), including budgeting, cash flow and saving.

Over half of the children in the country receive a regular allowance. According to the 1980 nationwide Rand youth poll of 3,100 teenagers, the average weekly allowance for 13 to 15 year olds is $10. For 16 to 19 year olds, the figure is $20. Children under the age of seven may receive 25 to 75 cents a week; eight and nine year olds, $1 to $2.50; and 10 and 11 years olds, $1.50 to $3.50. How much of an allowance you give your child and how often depends upon your particular financial situation, but CPAs offer these guidelines for determining the size of an allowance.

Sit down with your child and list the expenses he or she will be responsible for. These could include school lunches, transportation, sporting activities and entertainment, like movie tickets. Then figure approximately how much will be spent in each category every week or month, depending upon the frequency of the allowance. Over the next month or so, help your child keep a list of his or her actual expenses. This will help both of you decide whether or not the allowance needs to be adjusted. (Don't be surprised if you are asked for a raise!)

This financial exercise is actually ridimentary budgeting. By recording how much is spent in each budget category, your child can estimate how much will be spent over the next few weeks or months. If he or she wants to buy two new record albums, it may be nessary to cut back in another category — candy and gum, for example. A less sophisticated way to budget is to divide the allowance into envelopes marked with the various expense categories. Some children may find it easier to budget by putting more money in the "record album" envelope and less in the "candy and gum" envelope.

Kids are getting part-time jobs at younger ages to supplement their income from an allowance, largely due to inflation. According to an informal study conducted earlier this year by the "Wall Street Journal," the cost of a market basket of goods commonly purchased by children increased 17 per cent in 1980, from the 1979 cost of $17.27, to $20.13. (The market basket held 15 items, including candy, gum, toys, crayons and record albums.) The consumer price index rose only 12 per cent over the same period of time.

Any source of income for your child, whether it be job earnings, allowance or gifts, is "cash inflow." If your child lists cash inflow from the various sources over a certain period of time, and compares this with the "cash outflow" of his or her budget, your child can then see if money is going out faster than it is coming in, or vice versa. For example, if your 13-year old babysits for 15 hours in September earning $30, you give him a weekly allowance of $4, and he receives $20 as a birthday present, his total cash inflow for the month is $66. If his expenses totaled $50, then he carries $16 over to the next month. He is operating in the black, CPAs say.

Even though kids are more likely to hold part-time jobs because of inflation, the pay they get often doesn't reflect the state of the economy. For example, one poll reported the babysitting wage at $2 to $2.50 an hour, but it is quite common for a youngster to earn $1 or $1.50, the wage paid in 1973. A boy or girl can earn $8 for mowing a lawn, but that isn't going up as fast as the cost for a gallon of gas.

Support Group Formed On Use Of Herbicide

Users and producers of the herbicide 2,4-D from many segments of industry have recently established a national, single-issue coalition to safeguard 2,4-D from irresponsible or regulatory action at the federal, state and local levels.

The National Coalition for a Reasonable 2,4-D Policy demonstrates a collective and concerted effort to confront "unreasonable and ill-founded assaults on agricultural chemical tools."

Incorporated as a non-profit organization, the coalition provides a clearinghouse for farmers, foresters, applicators, chemical formulators, agri-women, cooperatives and all others concerned with 2,4-D to challenge unwarranted restrictions on the herbicide use.

"Various social activist groups and certain state and local government regulatory agencies are resigned to restricting this herbicide which has been widely studied and applied for over 37 years with an enviable safety record," said coalition board chairman Robert Miller. "The national coalition recognizes that the availability and cost of food and fiber hinges on the safe and responsible use of herbicides. Our efforts will constructively assist in managing the destiny of 2,4-D and related agri-chemical tools."

The coalition's by-law outline the following objectives:

+ Ensure that scientific facts and risk-benefit considerations are recognized in any 2,4-D regulatory action;

+ Establish a network of pro-pesticide coalitions at state and local levels;

+ Obtain congressional recognition of the benefits of 2,4-D to industry and the public;

While the coalition will concentrate on the 2,4-D issue, involvement is anticipated in a number of generic pesticide issues such as aerial application and water quality standards.

2,4-D or 2,4-Dichlorophenoxyacetic acid is a vegetation management tool used to control broadleaf weeds principally in cereal grain crops, sugar cane, turf, pasture and non-crop land.

Arnold Johnson Services Held At Karlstad

Arnold Johnson, 72, of this city, who moved here in 1975 from Chicago, Ill., died Wednesday afternoon at his home at 837 Crocker avenue South.

Funeral services for Arnold Johnson were held Saturday at 3:00 p.m., at the Karlstad Baptist church at Karlstad with Rev. Harry Ratzlaff officiating. Mrs. Ratzlaff was the organist and Mr. and Mrs. Ingolf Ingebrigtsen sang. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Jack Bothum, Myles Bothum, Willard Brevik, Clifford Johnson, Lloyd Johnson and Kenneth Kain.

Arnold William Johnson, a son of the late George and Aletta Johnson, was born Jan. 18, 1909 in Springbrook township, Kittson county. He grew to manhood in Springbrook township and attended the Karlstad school. From 1941 until he retired in 1975, he was employed in Chicago, Ill., as a machinist. Since then, he and his wife Gladies have made their home in Thief River Falls.

Surviving are his wife, three children: Mrs. Gordon (Emojean) Jenson, Huron, S.D.; Donan Johnson, Park Ridge, Ill., and Mrs. Peter (Barbara) Rose, Las Gatos, Calif.; eight grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Finn (Esther) Abrahamsen, Yucipa, Calif.; and three brothers: John Johnson, Kennedy; Peter, Glendale, Calif.; and Einar, Karlstad.

He was preceded in death by one grandchild, two brothers and two sisters.

Rites Held At Dorothy For Bernice Larson

Funeral services for Mrs. Robert (Bernice) Larson, 68, of Huot, rural Crookston, were held Friday at 10:30 a.m., at St. Dorothy Catholic church at Dorothy. Mrs. Larson died Tuesday morning at her farm home of apparent heart failure.

Rev. Donald Archer served as celebrant at the Mass of Christian Burial. Music was provided by the church choir with Laurie Beyer as organist. Interment was in the Calvary Catholic cemetery at Crookston with the Petterson Funeral home, Red Lake Falls, in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Lawrence Goulet, John Hanson, Willard Brunelle, Florian Pokrzwinski, Ronald Beauchene and Tom Huot.

Mrs. Larson, the former Bernice E. Herold, was born May 6, 1913 in Louisville township of Red Lake county to Joseph and Olivenne Goulet Herold, now deceased. In 1916, she moved to Red Lake Falls with her parents and attended school there, graduating from Lafayette high school and Normal Teachers training. She taught in the Brooks, Wylie, Meyers and Dorothy schools until 1944.

On Feb. 10, 1942, she was married at Red Lake Falls to Robert W. Larson. Since then, they have lived in Louisville township, Red Lake county. She was active in the 4-H club program and the Homemakers group.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Richard (Karen) Hangsleben, St. Paul; two sons: Lynn and Drew Larson, both of Huot; three grandchildren, a sister, Mrs. Mel (Rose) Hoeft, Euclid; and one brother, Joseph Pat Biever, Spanaway, Wash.

She was preceded in death by one son, Gary, who died in 1973, and three brothers.

Mrs. Roy Olson Services Held Fri. At Pencer

Mrs. Roy (Gladys) Olson, 75, of this city and formerly of Pencer, died Monday, September 28, at Oakland Park Nursing home, following a lengthy illness.

Funeral services for Mrs. Roy Olson were held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at the Pine Grove Lutheran church at Pencer with Rev. Ronald Becklund officiating. Interment was in the Malung cemetery. The Helgeson Funeral chapel, Roseau, was inn charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Percy Erickson, Marlin Erickson, Jeffery Fichter, Dale Buley, Donald Buley and Garold Olson.

Mrs. Olson, the former Gladys Roseen, was born April 15, 1906 in Roseau county to Mr. and Mrs. Erick Roseen, now deceased. She grew up in the Pencer area and lived there until 1961, when she came to Thief River Falls. She was married Dec. 3, 1938 at Roseau to Roy Olson. She was a member of the Pine Grove Lutheran church of Pencer.

Surviving are her husband, three sisters: Mrs. Harold (Ellen) Fichter, Roseau; Evelyn Trach, International Falls; and Mrs. George (June) LaCount, Hoyt Lakes; and two brothers: George Roseen, Aurora; and Earl, International Falls.

She was preceded in death by two sisters.

Duane "Swede" Peterson Rites Held At Zion

Funeral services for Duane "Swede" Peterson, 47, of this city were held Saturday at 10:30 a.m., at Zion Lutheran church. Peterson died unexpectedly Wednesday morning, shortly after arriving at Northwestern hospital.

Rev. Richard Larson and Rev. Roger Hanson officiated at the services. Jerry Joringdal was the organist and Mrs. Elaine Larson, the soloist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery. The Green Funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Serving as pallbearers were Mike Hjostek, Elling Iverson, Wally Grovum, George Broadwell, Don Stanlislawski and Roger Skime.

Duane Irving Peterson was born March 26, 1934 in Reine township, Roseau county, to Walter and Ida Dahl Peterson. He was baptized and confirmed at Bethesda Lutheran church, Skime, and attended Roseau schools, graduating from high school in 1951. He was employed at the Red Owl stores in Roseau and Thief River Falls before becoming employed with the L.B. Hartz company as a buyer. He had been associated with Hartz wholesale for 28 years.

He was a member of Zion Lutheran church and the local Elks lodge.

On Aug. 23, 1958, he was married at Goodridge to Janet Lindquist. She survives, together with a daughter, Cindy; his mother, Mrs. Ida Peterson, Thief River Falls; and two brothers: Walter Peterson, Grafton, N.D. and Kenneth, Thief River Falls.

He was preceded in death by his father.

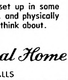
"Quality at a K mart price. Nice."



Dear Readers,

Many older persons lacks the transportation to get to a grocery store six blocks from their homes, or to a doctor's office five miles away - nor are they able to attend church service, having no way to get there. A 'dial-a-ride' service has been set up in some areas. For the isolated, feeble, and physically handicapped, it's something to think about.

Respectfully,

Mental Health Workshops Set October 13-14

A workshop on psychotropic medications and myths and stigma surrounding mental illness will be held 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, October 4, at the community room of Northwest Regional Corrections Center, 600 Bruce Street Crookston.

Designed for individuals, agencies and caregivers who work with individuals having chronic emotional problems, all interested persons are welcome to attend.

The workshop is sponsored by the community support program of the Northwestern Mental Health Center, Crookston, and will cost $5.00.

The morning session, according to Donna Gort, project coordinator, will be presented by Dr. Todd Johnson, and will review psychotropic medications. The presentation is intended to identify effects and effectiveness of such medications, to help recognize intended side effects of particular medications, and to assist caregivers in monitoring medications.

The afternoon session will be presented by Marcia Lovejoy, director of Project Overcome, a state-funded public education and community outreach program which is staffed by former psychiatric patients.

Project Overcome specifically addresses the myths and stigma surrounding mental illness. The afternoon presentation will utilize an experiential rather than lecture format.

A special workshop by Project Overcome will be held from 7 to 8 p.m., October 13, in the Fireside Room at the Presbyterian church, 510 North Broadway, Crookston, for interested persons.

Biomass Farm Might Get In Over Its Head

Water, covering approximately 71 per cent of the earth's surface is now being looked to as a source of an alternate form of energy for the future.

Since most of the solar energy reaching the earth is captured by water, it offers a substantial potential for providing a significant renewable energy source. One of the more feasible ways for harnessing this energy is through the conversion of marine plants such as the California giant kelp, into useful methane.

Plant life provides an inexhaustible source of methane through the conversion of solar energy to biomass by photosynthesis. Because marine biomass can be grown and harvested in the ocean where there is little competition with other space needs, it is a source of considerable potential renewable alternative energy sources.

The Gas Research institute is currently researching the marine biomass potential.

Initial laboratory tests indicate a 10 liter digester is capable of producing yields of gas costing $3 to $6 per million BTU. Preliminary tests also indicate that the anaerobic process could well produce up to six cubic feet of pipeline-quality methane from one pound of dried kelp.

It is estimated that an ocean kelp farm eventually could produce about 114 tons per acre, per year, with methane production of 875 standard cubic feet per ton, or about 100,000 standard cubic feet per acre, per year. This is about 80 per cent of the annual consumption of one residential customer.

The research goal is to demonstrate the technical and economical feasibility of a commercial-size energy production system in the future.

UNICEF Aim — Saving Lives Of Children

This year, it is estimated that more than 15 million small children will die throughout the world, most from hunger and related diseases that could have been prevented. Reaching out to these children to avert such needless tragedies is the primary aim of UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

UNICEF was founded in 1946 as an emergency aid organization to help children suffering from the devastation of World War II. Today, it is recognized as the world's foremost humanitarian organization dedicated solely to the needs of children.

This philosophy, which earned the children's fund the Nobel Peace prize in 1965, is practiced in thousands of grassroots activities for children's health, nutrition and education in 110 developing nations where the majority of the world's children make their homes.

Needs of these children are enormous. Four out of five have no access to health care; nine out of 10 are not immunized against major childhood diseases; nutritional deficiency is common; unsafe water contributes to millions of young deaths every year; and in some areas, a child has less than a 50-50 chance of surviving beyond age four.

Over 30 years' experience has enabled UNICEF to produce successful programs and results. Part of the responsibility for this success belongs to millions of people who support the work of the children's fund through group benefit activities, private contributions, and the purchase of UNICEF greeting cards.

$800,000 Grant Funds Chair At University

The 3M Foundation has announced it will provide $800,000 to support a chair in human resources management in the school of management at the University of Minnesota, the largest grant 3M has ever made to a single institution.

Funded at $80,000 per year over 10 years, the chair will deal with such areas as human resource development, work productivity, organizational behavior and the ability to use human resources to accomplish organizational objectives.

"We are pleased to be able to support the school of management and the university by providing this new chair," said Lewis W. Lehr, chariman and chief executive officer of 3M. "We belive that the development of effective means for managing, training and retaining human resources throughout an organization is one of the greatest management challenges facing American business today."

"Without question, effective management of human resources to deliver goods and services is one of the major ingredients in increasing productivity. Japan's success in recent years in competing with the United States attests to this fact," said David M. Lilly, dean of the school of management.

"This chair will be the focal point for a substantially strengthened program in the school of management in this vital area — one which we expect will be recognized among the leading human resource management programs in the nation. Ultimate beneficiaries, of course, will be our organizations whose management will be strengthened by the increased knowledge this chair and its related programs will create and the consumers who will benefit from the resulting increase in productivity," Lilly said.

The 3M human resources management chair is the fifth new chair in the school of management supported by private funds since January 1979. The other four chairs are the Minnesota banking chair, the Minnesota insurance industries chair, the Paul S. Gerot-Pillsbury chair in marketing and the Honeywell chair in management information systems. Private support to the school of management during that period exceeds $9.7 million.

Farm Prices Decline From 1980 Figures

Mid-September index of prices received by Minnesota farmers declined two per cent from August and six per cent from September 1980, according to the Minnesota agricultural statistics service. The decline in the farm index was partly offset by higher prices for oats, barley, potatoes, hogs, steers and heifers, milk, eggs and wool. Prices declined from last month for the remaining commodities.

The crops index decreased six per cent to 127 during the month. This was 10 per cent below the index a year earlier. The mid-September prices and the changes from last month are: All wheat, $3.71 per bushel, down five cents from the revised August estimate; corn, $2.35, down 33 cents; oats, $1.72, up seven cents; barley, $2.31, up 16 cents; soybeans, $6.08, down 51 cents; flaxseed, $6.41, down 77 cents. Potatoes averaged $7.40 per hundredweight for all grades, up 15 cents. All hay was down $2. per ton to $74; alfalfa hay at $78 was down $1; and other hay at $50 was down $14. All sunflowers at $10 per hundredweight were down $1.80 from the revised August price. Dry edible beans were $21 per hundredweight.

The meat animal index at 149 was two per cent above last month but four per cent below a year ago. All hogs at $49.40 per hundredweight were up 10 cents from a month earlier. Beef cattle averaged $53.70, up $1.90. Calves were down $4 to $67.20. Sheep brought $16.70, down $1.30. Lambs were down 40 cents to $55.20.

The dairy index increased two per cent during the month to 148, three per cent above the index last year. The preliminary milk price at $13 per hundredweight was up 19 cents from the revised August price.

The poultry and egg index at 116 was one per cent below last month and six per cent below a year ago. Turkeys were 38 cents per pound liveweight, down three cents from a month earlier. Eggs brought 52½ cents per dozen for all grades in mid-September, up five cents from mid-August and three and one-half cents above a year earlier.

Save Early To Prepare For College Costs

If you are serious about sending your child to college, you should start planning and saving when he or she is born, or by the time the youngster is in kindergarten, according to the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Although your child may qualify for scholarships and financial aid, there will undoubtedly be a portion of the college expense that you and your family will provide. If you start to save $50 a month, even at 5¼ per cent interest when the child is eight, you will have $8,000 when the child is 18. If you want until he is 13, you'll have to save $145 a month to reach the same goal. Start your planning based on today's cost for college, says the Minnesota Society of CPAs, and increase the amount along with the annual rate of inflation.

Saving for a long-term goal like a college education should involve high-yield earnings and tax sheltering in order to get the maximum performance from your money. If you feel comfortable leaving money in a bank account, be sure you put it into term accounts, such as certificates of deposit, which pay the highest possible interest rates.

Shifting your income to your child, who is most likely in a lower tax bracket, is one of the most common ways to plan for college savings. One of the simplest of these "shifts" is the interest-free loan, which, under current judicial rules, has no tax consequences for the parent. Instead of buying a certificate of deposit, you lend the money to your child and let him buy it. That way, the interest is income for your child, not you. If your child has no other income, then it is not likely he will have to pay any tax on the interetst — unless it amounts to considerably more than $1,000 a year.

Giving your child appreciating stock which could be sold to pay for college, is another idea. His tax on any capital gain would be less than yours, CPAs say. In any savings program that shifts tax from you to your child, consider the possible gift tax liability to be sure the program will have the desired effects.

Custodian or trust accounts earn interest and provide a tax benefit to you. If such an account is open in your child's name, he will pay the tax on the interest or dividends at a lower rate than you would. When the child reaches the age of majority, he controls the money — so you may want to consider this in your planning. Are you willing to give your child the money if he chooses not to go to college?

The Clifford (or short-term) trust is one of the most popular planning tools and here's how it works: You put cash or income-producing property in a trust and make your child the beneficiary. If the trust is set up to last at least 10 years and a day, the income is taxed either to the child or to the trust, depending on when the income is to be distributed. Either way, the tax will normally be less than you would pay.

Before setting up a trust, you need to know the dollar impact, the state and local tax effect, and all the legal consequences, so plan carefully.

If you have less time to accumulate a college education fund, there are other ways to get money for college including refinancing your mortgage, borrowing on your life insurance or pledging your savings account passbook for a loan. Any loan with an interest rate lower than the rate of inflation, say CPAs, is good leverage. You will repay with cheaper dollars.

As Cooperatives Grow . . . .

Word of the recent merger proposal of Midland Cooperatives and Land O'Lakes, Inc., bring to mind the adverse reactions of mergers among private big business operations in the past. Just how is a big cooperative better than a big private industry?

This editorial from the "Progressive Farmer" magazine on cooperative growth points out the importance of staying in touch with all levels of participants:

As farm cooperatives get big, they risk falling into that famous American trap called the "hate big business syndrome."

It's just human nature to pull for the struggling underdog with a good cause. It's also human to turn thumbs down on the underdog once he's made it to the top. And perhaps the fear of power makes many people distrust any large business or organization.

Cooperatives have struggled four years to grow large enough to give farmers clout in the marketplace. Now they're faced with the problem of bigness. Through mergers and steady growth, some have even made Fortune magazine's yearly list of the top 500 companies in terms of sales.

This big business syndrome presents a unique problem for farm cooperatives. Big oil, utility and industrial corporations have a different mission from that of a farm cooperative. Their goal is to satisfy profit-seeking stockholders.

The goal of a cooperative, on the other hand, is to provide the best possible deal for its owners — in markets, services of products. A cooperative survives when it helps members. This means that a majority of the members must like the co-op's work enough to stick with the group whether it shows a profit or not. Members can profit even if the cooperative doesn't.

When a cooperative is small, it's easy for it to keep loyal members. Most of the members know the manager and directors personally. But as the cooperative grows, this personal feeling sometimes is lost. It's easy for the members to turn against their cooperative simply because they don't know or understand what it's doing for them.

We believe that co-ops can grow big, though, without losing the loyalty of their members. Large cooperatives should put more emphasis on keeping members informed.

Even the best of the big cooperatives fall pitifully short on their public relations (PR) and membership relations programs. A whole new attitude on the part of management is needed.

Big cooperatives need to hire the best PR people that industry has to offer. Pay them enough to hire them away from the corporate giants. Adopt an aggressive member relations program. Don't be defensive.

Cooperatives should not waste members' money, but we think that adequate sums should be spent for public relations and membership information. Members who feel left out or forgotten can cost the cooperative more than the salaries of a few topnotch employees.

The Stakes Are High

Following is from the Middle America" column written by Al Johnson in the Anoka Union:

Along with death and taxation, the farm problem seems always with us, and nobody comes up with an effective long-term solution.

The importance of agriculture to the national economy demands a solution. Yet we find the problem assigned a low priority by Congress, the administration and the media. This seeming indifference is undoubtedly the result of the declining political clout of those directly involved in agriculture. They no longer have the votes nationwide they once had.

Regional politics, however, is not a legitimate excuse for shunting the issue to a back burner. If the depressing trend of the past two years in agriculture and agribusiness continues in 1982, the economic impact could be devastating.

The blow would not fall on farmers and related businesses alone, it would hit every segment of our society. The productivity and ingenuity of American agriculture has become the cornerstone propping up an otherwise wobbly U.S. economy. Kick the cornerstone out, and we're going to have an unsupportable economic structure — a lot of bricks are going to fall on a lot of people.

If this sounds like alarmist talk, consider a recent study by Data Resources, Inc. of Lexington, Mass. This economic consulting concern concluded, "The outlook for farm income and profitability has gone beyond dismal and would have to be termed catastrophic."

"Catastrophic" may be too strong a term, but those who don't think the situation is serious have their heads in the sand. Those in a position to alter the course, and choose to ignore the problem, have more than their heads in the sand.

Okay, so what's the answer?

This is the point at which we always fall short. There is no consistency of consensus on the matter. Farmers and farm organizations disagree on approach, agribusiness leaders are uncertain, our duly-elected representatives in Washington can't agree, and the Department of Agriculture, regardless of political persuasion, gropes for a lasting answer.

Strict government control of agriculture has not worked — the Soviet Union provides the most dramatic example. On the other hand, considering the uncertainties of the weather, can we trust our supply of food to the workings of a free market? It would seem we must accept some guidance, support and limited control from the federal government.

Actions now underway to check inflation, reduce exorbitant interest rates and open new markets for our surplus commodities would serve to alleviate the current crisis. Cushioning the inevitable cuts in subsidy programs would also help provide temporary relief.

Even with these aids, however, the persistent farm problem will still be there.

Over the long haul the only practical solution may prove to be a continuation of the steady decline in the number engaged in agriculture — a slow, disheartening bleeding process leading to the survival of the most efficient, or luckiest.

As this trend continues, it seems as though a part of America is dying. And even this unhappy "solution" does not address the acute problems of agriculture at the moment.

Perhaps those of us who live in a farm state attach undue significance to the importance of agriculture. However, I don't think so, nor do I think it unreasonable to push for greater national attention to the problem. The stakes for the entire American economy are higher than many realize.

Poor Management

Following editorial is from the Park Rapids Enterprise:

A friend is still waiting for a check for $10,000 from the state of Minnesota for work performed a while back. He didn't get the check yet — so he had to borrow to meet his payroll. Any profit he had in the job is wiped out.

That is just one example of how the state of Minnesota's financial picture is totally out of whack.

On top of all the numerous miscalculations by the department of finance in the past year, it compounded problems with another unforeseen $40 million shortage last month.

Make no doubt about it — Gov. Al Quie is a "nice guy." But he's definitely over his head — not as much as Jimmy Carter was over his head — but definitely over his head in the governor's chair. He takes the "aw, shucks," type of attitude as his underlings continue to pile mistake upon mistake. Why he hasn't cleaned house in the department of finance is an absolute mystery. If an officer in a private corporation had made similar mistakes, he'd been on his way down the road a long time ago.

The governor has said he's "just a farmer" in the governor's mansion. That is an insult to farmers. They're smart business people and don't make the type of errors that the governor's people do. The governor was dulled by 20 years in Congress — not his days on the farm.

The recession was not the governor's fault; it stems back to the free-spending day of Jimmy Carter and his Congress — and before that. And Minnesota has been hit hard in this recession — perhaps only Michigan has been hit any harder. But good managers plan ahead with accurate forecasts. Quie doesn't have many good managers.

A further disappointing fact is that there is no alternative. Warren Spannaus is just another free-spender of the old "Great Society Days" which are definitely "out" nationally but still holding on in Minnesota. He's no alternative to Quie.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Courses On Real Estate Given At MSU

Three 30-hour courses for prospective and licensed real estate agents will be offered at Moorhead State University this fall.

Courses are designed to meet state licensing and continuing education requirements for agents, but are open to anyone interested in real estate and are approved by the Minnesota commissioner of securities.

"Real Estate Licensing I", a pre-licensing course, will be offered from 6 to 9 p.m. October 19-30, and will cover the fundamentals and professional standards of the business.

A more advanced course, "Real Estate Licensing II," for licensed agents, will cover a variety of topics ranging from state and federal estate laws to land development and investment property. It will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. November 2-6 and from 6 to 9 p.m. that Wednesday.

"Real Estate Licensing III" will examine advanced appraisal, mortgage marketing, financial institutions and investment properties. It runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. November 9-13 and that Wednesday from 6 to 9 p.m.

To preregister contact the MSU continuing education division at 236-2181. Cost is $150 for each course.

State law requires that all real estate agents licensed after July 1, 1976 must complete 90 hours in classroom training through a three-part series of classes.

Agents who received their licenses before the 1976 law, and all newly licensed agents, are still required to update their knowledge by completing a minimum of 15 hours of continuing education every year. That can be done through courses II and III in this series.

Lawyer From China Teaches At University

Attorney who defended the Gang of Four during political trials in the People's Republic of China has arrived in the Twin Cities to spend a year as a visiting professor at the University of Minnesota law school.

Law school dean Robert Stein said the visit of Ma Rongjie is the first step in development of relationships with legal institutions in China, which could help commerce between the two nations.

"The Chinese are eagerly looking for the development of legal doctrine to handle international business relations," Stein said. "This is an opportunity to assist them and benefit American interests."

"Even more important is the general scholarly interest in exchanging views and ideas on common issues," he said.

During his one-year stay Ma will teach two comparative law courses on the Chinese legal system and on Chinese criminal law. An expert on Chinese family law he may teach other classes as well.

"We think the students will better understand our own system of law by having a comparative understanding of how problems are approached under other systems," Stein said. "It's an exciting opportunity for our students to study under scholars from other lands."

One of the youngest practicing lawyers in China Ma graduated with distinction from the Beijing (Peking) school of political and legal studies in 1954. During the cultural revolution between 1966 and 1976, when lawyers were not allowed to practice, he engaged in personal research on legal theories and the Chinese legal system.

In 1978 Ma joined the Law Research institute and headed an editing team which published "Legal Research," the most renowned publication on legal studies in China.

In the last three years, he has written more than 40 articles on Chinese law, which have been published in major newspapers and publications in China. A series of his lectures, given at a national lawyers' conference, was published as a textbook.

In China, lawyers do not challenge the state's case or act as advocates for their clients. Usually an attorney's role is to present mitigating evidence and to urge leniency for the client.

Besides the Gang of Four, Ma has defended Yang Hu, commander of the Shanghai garrison headquarters and a former general in the Kuomintang Army, against charges of treason and defection to the enemy.

He is currently working on three books on Chinese law including "How to be a People's Lawyer."

Journalism Seminar Set In St. Paul

Role of profit in corporate finance and capital formation will be examined in a seminar for journalists and business executives October 30.

Mark H. Willes, executive vice president and chief financial officer of General Mills, will be the keynote speaker. Leonard Silk, author and economics columnist of the "New York Times," will be the dinner speaker.

Program is the first in a series of business-journalism seminars sponsored by the Minnesota journalism center, an arm of the school of journalism and mass communication at the University of Minnesota. Financial support is being provided by the St. Paul Area Chamber of Commerce.

Each seminar, which will focus on a current issue in business, is intended to provide background information for journalists on business subjects, and to provide a forum for the exchange of views between journalists and business leaders on topics of mutual interest.

Attendance is limited to invited participants from Upper Midwest news organizations and senior officers of area corporations.

October 30 seminar will be at the Radisson Plaza hotel in St. Paul, beginning at noon. In addition to Willes and Silk, two panels composed of journalists, business representatives and educators will complete the program.

Panelists include Professor Edward M. Foster, associate dean of the school of management at the University; Harold Chucker, associate editor of the Minneapolis Star; Beverly Kees, executive editor of the Grand Forks Herald; David Hall, managing editor of the St. Paul Pioneer Press; Charles Mundale, editor and publisher of Corporate Report magazine; Peter Vanderpoel, vice president of public relations for Northern States Power Co.; and Dick Youngblood, business editor of the Minneapolis Tribune. Seminar coordinator is Dr. Arnold H. Ismach of the school of journalism and mass communication.

AMERICAN KNOW-HOW — IT'S THE SPECIAL INGREDIENT THAT'S HELPED BUILD A STRONG COUNTRY

That know-how is also the key that has spelled success for America's 50,000 cooperatives and their 60,000,000 member-owners who take pride in what their cooperatives can do. For example, there are cooperatives for electric and telephone service, farm marketing and farm supply, credit unions and farm credit, housing, food, insurance, health care and day care.

The cooperative way of conducting business has proven to be both highly efficient and economical. That's why cooperatives have been around for so long — in urban, rural and suburban areas — located in every state from coast to coast. And that's why new cooperatives are being formed today.

Cooperatives are good for their communities — they provide jobs and services that benefit everyone. And thriving communities mean a better America in every way.

Advertising Is Reviewed In BBB Summary

Advertisers are showing better response to questions raised by consumers due to increasing public demand for accuracy in advertising.

According to Nyla Stegemeyer, operations director of the Better Business Bureau (BBB) of Minnesota, more and more consumers are raising questions regarding advertising.

"Complaints from consumers usually come from first-hand experiences, when they feel an item is incorrectly advertised or not available as advertised," Stegemeyer said.

In its monthly report of local advertising results, the Bureau reported, of the 28 cases closed during the past month, 50 per cent — 14 cases — were initiated by consumers.

However, the fact that more consumers bring their advertising questions to the Better Business Bureau does not necessarily mean advertising is becoming less accurate.

"Of the 14 cases investigated, eight advertisers were able to substantiate their claims; six advertisers agreed to revise their claims," Stegemeyer reported.

Fourteen other advertising cases closed during the past month resulted from the Bureau's own monitoring efforts. Two cases were closed after the Bureau agreed the claims were substantiated, and 12 others were closed because advertisers voluntarily discontinued or agreed to modifications of their ads.

Two Residents Get External Study Grants

Two Thief River Falls residents have been awarded external studies scholarships, according to Norton Berg, financial aid counselor at Bemidji state university.

Diane Stokke, a junior sociology major, and Allan Melbye, a senior criminal justice major, were among 15 students who received $100 grants to cover fall quarter tuition expenses at BSU.

External studies is a program that allows students to earn college degrees through independent study, audio learning package classes and extension courses offered near their homes. Credit is also given for prior training and work-related experience.

Berg indicated that funds are available for 15 more external studies scholarships with new and returning students eligible to apply. For more information, contact financial aid at (218) 755-2034.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We now live in Williston, North Dakota. We came back home to Viking last weekend for our wedding day.

We want to thank the good citizens who were leaving the Best Western in Thief River Falls as we arrived on our wedding night, September 26.

On that night, about 1 a.m., my bride and I drove into the Best Western parking lot. As we entered the parking lot, the wind took the things out of my hands and blew my box of wedding money donations from our wedding dance all over the parking lot.

Out of the lounge came two women. I began picking up money and showed them the box and explained to them what had happened. Their reply was, "Get out of here with your tuxedo and cigar box!"

We sincerely hope you enjoyed our wedding night with the money you picked up from our presents.

Also, we WOULD like to thank the six people that DID help us recover some of the money. It is nice to know that six out of eight are still honest. Thank you!!! Our address in case somebody has a guilty conscience, is: Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Knutson, No. 72 Mobile Village, Williston, N.D.

Ask Reopening Of CCC For Feed Grains

Senator Rudy Boschwitz has urged secretary of agriculture John Block and OMB director David Stockman to open the Commodity Credit corporation's (CCC) farmer-owned reserves by October 1 for both new and old feedgrains.

"This would boost the sagging market prices for corn and other feedgrains," he said.

"The secretary recently opened the reserve to allow the entry of new wheat. This would help offset the negative impact of low prices on this sector of the agricultural community. While this was both responsible and prudent, the time has come to open the feedgrain reserve, too.

"With the corn harvest now beginning across the country, I'm receiving calls daily from farmers who don't know whether to sell their crops or to store them and hope for better prices," he added. "The secretary would be providing the farmers with a great deal of flexibility if the go-ahead was given to allow immediate entry into reserve for corn and feed grains."

Boschwitz cited what he called "persuasive budgetary reasons" for the move. The CCC, he said, already owns more than 200 million bushels of feed grains left over from the embargo.

In order to avoid acquiring even greater stocks of corn, Secretary Block announced on September 24 that CCC feed grain loans maturing on September 30 and October 31 will be extended for two months if the farmer wishes. (Loans maturing August 31 were already extended to September 30 and may now be re-extended.) Minnesota alone has 15 million bushels on which loans come due at the end of September.

Boschwitz said that although he welcomed "this interim measure, "this action will help those farmers who already have CCC loans on corn, and opening the reserve would help all farmers by allowing them more marketing options and hopefully raising the price."

Stockman, he added, seems to be playing politics by withholding approval for opening the reserve until after the President signs the farm bill. Delaying the announcement is designed to pressure the House to meet the administration's provisions of the bill, Boschwitz said.

81-82 Energy Assistance Meetings Set

Northwest community action, Inc., Badger announces that the state department of economic security has scheduled two meetings for the purpose of receiving input from area residents relating to the coming 1981-82 energy assistance program. Meetings scheduled for this area will be conducted in the meeting room of the Ottertail power company building, Bemidji, October 13, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Northwest community action also announces that the fuel assistance program (LIEAP) ended August 31, 1981 and after September 30, 1981 no additional checks will be issued for energy cost.

It is anticipated there will be a fuel assistance program for the year of 1981-82, but this year's allocations may be reduced substantially because of budget cuts.

SNG Offers Supplemental Gas Source

Development of a wide variety of supplemental gas sources is necessary if the United States is to meet the nation's growing energy demands. Production of synthetic natural gas (SNG) from light hydrocarbons such as naphtha and natural gas liquids is one important and easily available source of supplemental gas supply. SNG plants have played an important role in meeting heating demands during the peak winter season.

These light hydrocarbons are usually obtained from refining petroleum or during the field processing of the wellhead production of a mixture of hydrocarbons from which pipeline-quality natural gas is obtained.

Of the 14 U.S. SNG plants, 13 are in the continental U.S. and one is in Hawaii. Total design capacity of the 13 continental U.S. plants is 1.4 billion cubic feet-day (Bcf-d), equating to a production capacity of 210 billion cubic feet for the heating season (November-March).

Because of a worldwide flexibility in raw material sources, relatively low capital requirements and short lead times needed to construct SNG plants, the gas they produce is an available near-term addition to U.S. gas supplies.

A major environmental impact statement of SNG from petroleum feedstocks by the DOE concluded that SNG is environmentally superior to and more resource efficient than direct burning of oil for residential space heating use.

Annual Thief River Falls invitational cross country meet will be held Tuesday on the Thief River Country Club golf course and the 1981 field promises to make it one of the most interesting races in the history of the meet.

Second-year Thief River Falls coach Lynn Dyer started the 1981 season by saying the Lincoln boys were shooting for a Northwest Athletic Conference (NWAC) championship and maybe a top two finish at the Region 8AA meet.

Those were the same goals set by Bemidji. In their only meeting to date, the Lumberjacks edged the Prowlers 38-41 for championship honors at the Bagley invitational Sept. 22. Bemidji won't be here Tuesday, but there are plenty of other challenges for the Prowlers.

Detroit Lakes, Park Rapids, East Grand Forks, Grand Forks Red River and Grand Forks Central will all test Thief River Falls in either the team or individual standings.

The Lakers, for example, also have their eyes set on a high Region 8AA finish. Alexandria has established itself as the team to beat in Region 8AA cross country this fall, with Thief River Falls, Bemidji and Detroit Lakes all figuring they can follow the Cardinals. In fact, Detroit Lakes coach Jeff Mohr told Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes Tribune that he is convinced the Lakers can challenge Alexandria for the Region 8AA championship.

Grand Forks Red River will also be a title threat here Tuesday. Thief River Falls shaded Red River 55-58 for top honors in the East Grand Forks invitational Thursday, with the Roughriders beating the Prowlers by a two-point margin in their previous meeting Sept. 10 in the Grand Forks Central invitational.

While Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes and Grand Forks Red River wage an interesting battle for the team trophy, an intense show should unfold for individual honors, too, when Park Rapids sophomore Mark Lingle, one of the best runners in Region 8AA, matched against area rivals Ted Sundin of East Grand Forks, the best runner in this part of the state, Mark Stahl of Grand Forks Central and Dale Shores of Grand Forks Red River. Thief River Falls' top two runners — junior Lon Aune and senior Bruce Johnson — are also capable of challenging Lingle, Sundin, Stahl and Shores.

While a lot of the attention is going to the team and individual match-ups in the boys' varsity race, the girls' varsity should produce some interest, too, as Thief River Falls and Bagley compete for top team honors.

Bagley, after beating Thief River Falls 34-36 at the Crookston invitational earlier, came up with another two-point victory over the Prowlers Thursday for the team title at East Grand Forks, 32-34. They'll go at it again tomorrow.

Competition starts with the two-mile junior high race at 4 p.m., followed by the three-mile boys' junior varsity race, the two-mile girls' varsity race and finally the three-mile boys' varsity race, which will probably begin about 5 p.m.

Miscellaneous

+Crookston voters will decide on November 3 if the city should buy the financially-troubled civic arena, pay off debts on it and guarantee its future operation. Residents will be asked if they want the city to sell $600,000 in city-backed bonds to buy the arena from Crookston Hockey Boosters, Inc., maybe taking a chance on seeing their property taxes increased in order to guarantee that the arena will be completed and made into a year-round recreational facility. If voters say "yes" to the arena proposition, the city will sell $600,000 worth of general obligation ice arena revenue bonds to put a floor in the arena, complete lockerrooms and bleachers and pay off some $225,000 in debts owed by the Hockey Boosters. Pay-off of the bonds is supposed to come from the total revenues generated by the arena, but if there is a shortfall, the difference could come from a special tax levy.

+Membership in the Detroit Lakes Downtown Quarterbacks Club, the booster organization for the high school football program, has hit 146, the biggest in history. Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club will meet Thursday at 12 noon at the Rex Cafe to name officers for the 1981-82 season.

MOORHEAD QUARTERBACK Phil Ostlie was stopped for no gain by three Thief River Falls defenders in the first quarter of Friday's high school football game played here. Dan Odegaard was the first of the Prowlers to make contact, holding on to Ostlie's ankle until the arrival of teammates Dave Upham (92) and Kent Kainz (43). The Prowlers played well defensively, but managed little success offensively in losing 16-0. It was the fourth straight shutout for the 4-1 Spuds. The Prowlers, 0-5, will host Bemidji Friday in the 1981 Lincoln high school homecoming football game.

Moorhead Defense Shuts Down TRF Offense During 16-0 Victory

A pair of streaks were extended Friday in the Thief River Falls vs. Moorhead high school football game. The Spuds' 16-0 victory was their fourth straight shutout after a season-opening defeat, and the loss was the Prowlers' fifth straight setback.

It was a typically frustrating defeat for the Prowlers, who once again played outstanding defense, but netted little in the way of offense. They've been shut out twice this fall and have mustered only 28 points in five games.

Friday Thief River Falls produced just four first downs and a mere 67 total offensive yards, most of which came during a second quarter drive when the Prowlers, trailing only 3-0, marched smartly downfield on a 14-play series that reached the Moorhead nine-yard line before stalling. All four of their first downs came during that drive that set them up with a first down at the 12 before quarterback Brent Schmitz was forced to fall on a fumbled snap, halfback Tom Ose had to cover a poor pitch-out and the Spuds' John Stearns broke up Schmitz' pass intended for end Keith Grochow in the end zone.

"We just weren't consistent," is the way Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz explained the Prowlers' offensive woes. "We had one nice drive, then I made the wrong call. I'll take the blame for that," he added. "They (Moorhead) have a good football team; an excellent defensive team, and I'm sure that had a lot to do with our problems on offense."

"We made some adjustments at halftime," pointed out first-year Moorhead head coach Dan Kostich, "and we took some of their running game away. But give them credit, Thief River's offensive line was moving us around in the first half."

But those second half Moorhead adjustments held Thief River Falls to an embarrassing 13 yards after intermission.

Adding to the Prowlers' headaches were seven fumbles, three of which they lost, and two pass interceptions.

While Moorhead did net 307 yards worth of offense, on the slick Thief River Falls playing surface, the Spuds were pretty much held in check by Thief River Falls' defense. Their points came on a 24-yard Mark Rice field goal on the first play of the second quarter; a four-yard Rice touchdown run with just 1:12 left in the first half; and a meaningless 31-yard Phil Ostlie touchdown pass to Brian Leines in the game's final minute.

"We made some mistakes and the wet field took a lot away from us," noted Kostich, "but Thief River has a good defensive football team. They play as well as anybody defensively."

Rice set up his field goal when he recovered a Thief River Falls fumble at the Prowlers' 13-yard line late in the first quarter. Four plays later he drilled his three-pointer from the 14.

That's when Thief River Falls' offense made its only appearance of the night, starting with a 16-yard Jeff Imgrund kickoff return that was supplemented by a 15-yard penalty on the Spuds, putting the ball at the Thief River Falls 41.

Schmitz and fullback Jim Dillon combined on a 12-yard screen pass for a first down at the Moorhead 45 and Ose carried four straight times to reach the 29. Dillon carried for two more first downs and the fired-up Prowlers looked like they were going to go in front. But they stopped themselves, and never got that momentum going again.

After taking over on downs at their own 13 with 4:16 remaining in the first half, the Spuds covered ground in a hurry as speedy tailback Steve Hartog ripped off a 22-yard run around the right side and Rice, a strong 205-pound fullback, came up with the game's best offensive play, a nifty run in which he broke tackles, kept his balance and read his blocks for a 48-yard carry to the Thief River Falls 17. Four plays later he bulled his way into the end zone from the four and added the extra point kick for a 10-0 lead with 1:12 on the clock.

That's the way the game should have ended. The Prowlers had a fine goal-line stand to stack up Ostlie on a fourth-and-one quarterback sneak for no gain at their three-yard line with 2:34 remaining.

But Moorhead got the ball back when Stearns intercepted a halfback option pass by Imgrund at the 31 with 1:05 to go. On first down Ostlie passed to the 6-6 Leines down the left sidelines. He took the ball over defensive back Dan Odegaard then used his height to stretch into the end zone with 54 seconds left. The Spuds' try for the two-point conversion came up short.

Thief River Falls hosts former Northwest Athletic Conference rival Bemidji Friday in a 7:30 p.m. homecoming game. Moorhead plays at Fergus Falls that night.

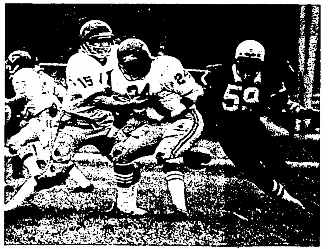
Cross Country Alumni Race Slated Friday

Lincoln high school varsity-alumni cross country meet will be held Friday as part of the Prowlers' 1981 homecoming celebration.

Starting at 7 p.m., the two-mile race will begin outside the Thief River Falls athletic field and will finish on the track in front of the grandstand just before the opening kickoff of the homecoming football game against Bemidji at 7:30 p.m.

Because of the time schedule, both men and women will run the two-mile race together. A map of the course will be made available to the runners, and instructions will be given to all competitors before the race begins. The races will then be scored separately — men and women — and results will be announced sometime during the football game.

Thief River Falls cross country coach Lynn Dyer is extending an open invitation to all former Lincoln runners. For additional information about the race contact Dyer by calling 681-2700, extension 325. Information can also be obtained through the Lincoln athletic director's office, 681-2700, extension 223.



MESSING UP A hand-off, Vermilion quarterback Dan Hubbartt and runningback Roy Eckwood watched as the fumble hit the Vermilion three-yard line near the end of the first half of the MJCAA Northern Division football game against Northland Saturday on the Thief River Falls athletic field. Freshman defensive end Dean Dokkin eyed the ball, but the Ironmen recovered. Dokkin played an outstanding ball game before leaving the game with an ankle injury in the second half. Vermilion won the defensive struggle 7-6.

Sophomores Lose 6-0 To GF Central

Grand Forks Central defeated Thief River Falls 6-0 in a sophomore high school football game played Thursday in Thief River Falls.

Only socring play of the game came in the second quarter when a Thief River Falls fumble was picked up by Central and returned 60 yards for a touchdown. Thief River Falls had one touchdown called back by a penalty.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 0-3 for the year. The Lincoln sophomores will host Grand Forks Red River Thursday at 7 p.m. The Lincoln junior varsity, 0-2, was scheduled to be at Grand Forks Central today (Monday) for a 7 p.m. game.

Bemidji Wins Prowler Relays

Bemidji lived up to its role as the pre-meet favorite, but Thief River Falls, Fargo Shanley and Park Rapids all came up with some solid performances Saturday in the annual Prowler swimming relays in the Franklin middle school pool.

Coach Mark Storhaug's Lumberjills won the four-team, nine-event meet, with 44 points, while the host Prowlers outlasted the others in a close contest for second place with 32 points, followed by Fargo Shanley with 30 and Park Rapids 29.

"It was a good meet," mentioned Thief River Falls coach John Hustad, the meet director. "Bemidji had to be considered the favorite going in, but the rest of us weren't going to lay back and do nothing. Nobody was going to allow Bemidji to run away with it, and they didn't."

Bemidji did win four of the relay events, coming up with firsts in the 200-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, 800-yard freestyle and the 200-yard medley. And the Lumberjills made sure they finished second in the five events they didn't win.

Park Rapids and Fargo Shanley both won two events, with the Panthers taking the 200 and 400-yard freestyle races, while the Deacons won the 200-yard butterfly and 600-yard individual medley.

Thief River Falls' lone win came in the diving portion of the meet where senior Lisa Desrocher, freshman Teri Klopp and eighth grader Rochelle Sandstrom accumulted 145.70 points.

"That was kind of nice," said Hustad about the success of the divers. Despite not winning a swimming event, Hustad was more than happy with the Prowlers' performance. "I was really happy with the way we swam. A lot of individual goals are being met. If we can keep improving like that we'll be okay."

Thief River Falls hosts Moorhead Tuesday in a 5 p.m. dual in the Franklin pool.

TRF Cross Country Meet Draws Top Competition

Coming off an outstanding performance in the East Grand Forks invitational, the Lincoln high school cross country team will play host to its annual Thief River Falls invitational meet Tuesday beginning at 4 p.m. on the Thief River Country Club golf course.

Crookston, East Grand Forks, Roseau, Grand Forks Central, Grand Forks Red River, Grafton, Bagley, Detroit Lakes, Park Rapids, Winnipeg, Beausejour, Fort Totten and Thief River Falls runners will compete in the event, which starts with the two-mile boys' junior high race, followed in order by the three-mile boys' junior varsity race, the two-mile girls' varsity and the three-mile boys' varsity.

"It should be an excellent meet," promised Thief River Falls coach Lynn Dyer. "There are some really good teams coming here."

Thief River Falls runners won two races and came close to making it a clean four-race sweep Thursday in the East Grand Forks invitational.

In the boys' varsity race, Thief River Falls was a winner with 55 points, followed by Grand Forks Red River 58, East Grand Forks 76, Grand Forks Central 84, Fargo Shanley 102, Crookston 140 and Bagley 174.

Ted Sundin of East Grand Forks won his fifth race in six starts with a 15:56 effort over the 3.1-mile course. Rest of the top ten included Mark Stahl, Central, 16:06; Dale Shores, Red River, 16:10; Lon Aune, TRF, 16:13; Bruce Johnson, TRF, 16:20; Scott Carlisle, Central, 16:25; Tom Beal, Central, 16:28; Dave Lee, EGF, 16:36; 9. Dan Forstner, Shanley 16:37; and Greg Lambeth, Red River, 16:47.

Bagley edged Thief River Falls 32-34 to win the girls' varsity race, with Crookston collecting 95 points. The others fielded incomplete teams.

However, Thief River Falls' Sue Hanna was the individual winner, running the two miles in 12:10. Rest of the top ten were Dayna Fahrlander, Bagley, 12:21; Kristy Forsberg, TRF, 12:28; Diane Strong, Bagley, 12:51; Kristi Steinbach, Bagley, 12:55; Julie Larson, Bagley, 13:01; Lisa Sullivan, Shanley, 13:15; Joann Starks, Crooston, 13:22; Julie Finstad, TRF, 13:32; and Georgia Howard, TRF, 13:34.

Thief River Falls also won the boys' junior varsity race with 24 points, followed by Red River 37 and East Grand Forks 132.

Matt Grabanski of Thief River Falls won the three-mile race in 17:52, with teammate Steve Hvidsten placing third in 18:18.

Grand Forks Schroeder beat Thief River Falls 31-48 for the boys' junior high school race title, followed by Grand Forks Valley 114, Crookston 123 and Fargo South 134.

Bill Mitchell of Schroeder was the winner, running a 10:56 two-mile race. Thief River Falls' Stacy Svir was third in 11:23.

"We had some excellent performances," pointed out Dyer, who was esepcially happy with the races run by Hanna and Aune.

"Sue Hanna has been close to first place in several meets, but today she went out hard and held the lead. All of the girl's times have improved the last two meets. They've been running very well."

"Our boys ran great. Lon Aune went out hard and was the closest to Sundin he's been all year."

"I hope we can keep this momentum going," said Dyer. "We have some good teams coming (Tuesday) and it should be a real battle for first place for both the boys and girls."

Swimmers Defeat Red River 104-68

A 104-68 winner over the Grand Forks Red River Thursday, the Lincoln high school swimming team will be shooting for its fourth straight dual meet victory Tuesday when the Prowlers host Moorhead at 5 p.m. in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls, after losing its first three dual meet starts this fall, evened its record at 3-3 with the victory in the Red River pool.

The Prowlers came up with six winners against the Red River squad, claiming both relays and taking the 50-yard freestyle with a 28-96 by sophomore Karla Lokken; the 100-yard butterfly with a 1:19.0 by freshman Connie Geatz; the 500-yard freestyle with a 6:07.46 by junior Sarah Green; and the 100-yard breaststroke with a 1:20.52 by senior co-captain Robyn Dallmann.

Otters Beat Prowlers 2-0 In Volleyball

Fergus Falls swept mistake-prone Thief River Falls 18-7, 18-15 Thursday in a high school volleyball match played on the Otters' court.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 4-3 for the year. The Prowlers are scheduled to play a 7:30 p.m. match at Bemidji tonight (Monday). The Lumberjills are winless this fall.

"I'm really disappointed," said Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss about the Prowlers' performance at Fergus Falls. "We made so many mistakes."

Fergus Falls defeated Thief River Falls 18-14, 17-19, 18-11 in the junior varsity match, dropping the loser's record to 1-6.

Thief River Falls won the freshman match 18-1, 18-5 for a 3-4 record.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

In reference to your coverage of the Goodridge vs. Middle River football game of September 25, I feel a number of misrepresentations of the facts were made by the Goodridge coach.

(1) The Goodridge coach states Middle River was "kicking a team after it was down". It is difficult to understand this statement considering Mr. Sparby did not use his starting offensive players or player in The 2nd and 4th quarter and only used starters on 5 series the whole game on offense.

(2) "Middle River played its starting defense the whole game". The starters did play most of the game when Middle River was on defense. Any coach has a responsibility to give all the players playing time. Defensive teams do not run up scores.

(3) "And they passed on six of the last nine plays". Middle River did pass eight times in the entire game. In the last four minutes three passes were thrown. Of those, two were in the last two minutes. They were done by Middle River's third team quarterback. These pass plays were not called by Coach Sparby; they were called by Assistant Coach Steven Holmes.

It is unfortunate that an opposing coach would make the comments he did. All small schools have games in which they have lost by large margins. Mr. Sparby has been coaching for 11 years in several sports and has lost to other teams by large scores. During this time I have never known him to look for excuses. He will ususally state that he just got beat. Perhaps it is time for the Goodridge coach to realize he just got beat. If Mr. Sparby had wished to run up the score, it would have been considerably higher. Running up a score or kicking a team when down is totally against his personal and private philosophy as can be attested to by anyone who has played for him or coached with him.

Ironmen Edge Northmen 7-6 In MJCAA Defensive Battle

It was the same old song-and-dance routine Saturday for the Northland community college football team as the Northmen wasted yet another sterling defensive effort when the offense failed to show up for the late-afternoon MJCAA Northern Division game against Vermilion on the windy Thief River Falls athletic field. And Vermilion's offense didn't get there until the second half when the one thrust by the Ironmen produced a 7-6 victory.

Vermilion, according to winning coach Rudy Semeja, is having the same type of year as Northland — good defensive play being undermined by a fruitless offense. And as a result both teams are 1-3 and at the bottom of the Northern Division standings.

While defense dominated both sides, the most prominent performer was Northland sophomore Mark Stock, a 5-9, 180-pound sophomore defensive tackle-noseguard from Mahnomen who spent most of the afternoon in the Vermilion backfield, collecting eight unassisted tackles — many of them put on quarterback Dan Hubbartt before he even had a chance to hand the ball off to one of his backs.

"Mark Stock was just great," confirmed Northland coach John Helley. "He was just unbelieveable. He played extremely well; our defense played well."

The Northland defense had the statistics to back up that statement, allowing Vermilion just 81 yards worth of total offense.

Semeja took note. "I was very impressed with Northland's defense," he said. "Number 37 (Stock) is as good a ball player as I've seen. He's an outstanding ball player. He was coming right over Paul Eid, our captain, who is 6-2, 225-pounds. He just couldn't handle him."

The little bit of offense Vermilion mustered came on the visitors' first possession of the second half after Northland punter Jeff Westberg put a high kick into the wind and netted just six yards to the Northland 41.

Seven plays later Hubbartt hit receiver Tracy Blash on a crossing pattern over the middle for a first down at the Northland three-yard line. Vermilion scored, but it took four tries to get it in the end zone as Pat Little put his head down and went straight ahead on a dive play from the two with 7:54 remaining in the third quarter. Wes Hiden added what proved to be the winning points with the conversion kick.

Noarthland produced its touchdown near the midway mark of the fourth quarter after receiving a punt at the Vermilion 40. Sophomore halfback Mike Punton of Baudette broke a 21-yard run off right tackle to get the six-play drive started on the right foot. A six-yard quarterback sneak by Thief River Falls freshman Scott Wiebolt gave the Northmen a first down on a fourth-and-one call from the ten, and the same play worked for the touchdown with 8:13 on the clock.

Helley elected to go for the tie instead of a shot at a go-ahead two-point conversion, but freshman kicker Don Hudec of Kelliher watched his poorly-hit kick float off wide to the left.

It was a tough day for the usually strong-legged Hudec, who also missed field goal tries from the 31 in the first quarter and from the 28 at the start of the fourth quarter. All three kicks came with the wind at his back, but the timing on the first one was thrown off when holder Dave Furbish couldn't come up with a clean placement.

"We lost it in our kicking," sighed Helley. "Both field goal attempts were well within our kicker's range. He's a solid kicker; reliable. He hasn't missed in practice. He just didn't get those today."

Helley said he never hesitated in deciding for the one point conversion. "We thought there was plenty of time left to come back and kick a field goal. We went for the tie first."

Although given good field position on numerous occasions by the defense, the only other Northland scoring threat came on a lengthy drive that began late in the third quarter and carried over into the final period. It began with a 19-yard gain on a reverse by Punton and included an 11-yard Wiebolt pass to receiver Ken Crouch, along with a 23-yard Wiebolt pass to fullback John Dillon when the quarterback scrambled out of the pocket, threw on the run to Dillion over the middle and the runningback went down the left sideline to the Vermilion 7-yard line.

But the drive fell apart when Northland picked up a 15-yard holding penalty that wiped out Wiebolt's second down bootleg carry to the two.

"Big play was the 15-yard penalty," mentioned Semeja. "Otherwise I don't know if we could have held them. We would have been in trouble. But we've lost some tough games this year, so maybe it was just our turn to get a break."

The penalty set Northland back to the 20 and then never recovered, with Hudec getting nothing on his field goal attempt from the 28 with 12:23 to play.

"That one was a tough one to lose," acknowledged Helley, who also lost the services of Thief River Falls defensive end Dean Dokkin who went down with an ankle injury in the second half. He had three quarter back sacks and was playing his best game of the year before the injury.

Northland will observe homecoming Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. game against Hibbing.

Zieman Tops Bemidji State Golf Squad

Bemidji State University golf team was scheduled to travel to the Moorhead Country Club today (Monday) in an attempt to reclaim the Northern Inter-Collegiate championship title. Bemidji putters won the tournament two years ago and, after last year's humiliating fifth place finish, hope to regain the crown largely on the merits of ace golfer Tom Ziemann, a one-time Lincoln high school golfer and a frequent tournament performer here, who averages 73 strokes a game.

"Tom is the best college golfer in the midwest," says BSU coach Dave Lehmann, assistant professor of health and physical education at BSU. "If Tom is hot and the other team members play as well as they can, we've got a chance to win this one."

Bemidji will face stiff competition from Moorhead, Winona, Northern, Morris and favored Duluth, reports BSU sports information director Al Nohner.

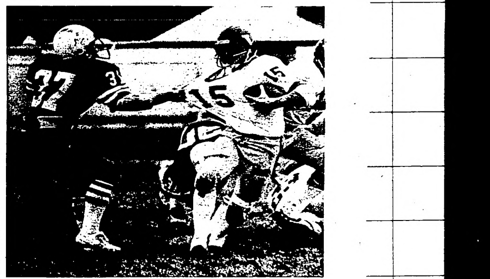
"We're going into this match as the underdogs," Lehmann admits. "Duluth had been a strong team for the last couple of years. But we've managed to place consistently among the top three or four teams in other tournaments and we just might go all the way this time."

NIC championship is a three-day, 54-hole bout that tees-off at noon on Monday. BSU's roster will consist of Ziemann, Dan Mozzetti, Mike Larson, Bob Fitzgerald of Thief River Falls, Kirby Johnson and Tom Hanson.

Karate Classes Begin Oct. 13th

Classes in Shotokan karate will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning October 13 at the Northrop school gym.

Interested persons should show up for the first practice wearing non-constrictive clothing.



STARTING ON THE second play from scrimmage when he broke through and pulled Vermilion quarterback Dan Hubbartt down by his jersey, Northland community college defensive tackle-nose guard Mark Stock had himself an outstanding game Saturday as the 5-9, 180-pound Mahnomen sophomore made eight unassisted tackles — many like this one when he nailed Hubbartt before he could get rid of the ball. However, Stock's feats weren't enough as the Northmen lost to the Ironmen 7-6.

Tennis Team Tops Pirates

Crookston, after surprising favored Thief River Falls to win the 1981 Northwest Athletic Conference (NWAC) tennis meet last Tuesday, was dealt a 5-0 defeat by the Prowlers Thursday in a dual meet played here.

"Our kids played extremely well," praised Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson. "I was real happy with our play."

It was a clean sweep for the Prowlers' familiar line-up that featured senior Christie LaCoursiere at No. 1 singles, sophomore Amy Thorstad at No. 2 singles, sophomore Kim Lawrenz at No. 3 singles, senior Nancy Swanson and freshman Michelle Olson at No. 1 doubles, with senior Marsha Erickson and freshman Penny Johnston at No. 2 doubles.

Thief River Falls, 9-1 in dual meet competition, was scheduled to be in Mahnomen today (Monday) before closing out the 1981 regular season schedule Tuesday at home against Roseau. Both matches start at 3:30 p.m.

Unbeaten status of the Lincoln junior varsity team ended Thursday with a 3-2 loss to Crookston, leaving Thief River Falls with a 6-1 record.

Northwomen Play 21 Weekend Games

Northland community college volleyball team had a busy weekend, playing 21 games in two days.

The Northwomen opened their 1981 home season schedule Friday when they defeated Itasca 15-2, 15-0, 15-6 and outlasted Mesabi 15-12, 9-15, 15-12, 13-15, 15-7.

Northland coach Deb Jacobson was pleased with her team's play that night, especially against Itasca, a team that had beaten Northland earlier in the year. The three-game sweep was highlighted by the second game shutout in which Thief River Falls freshman Marlys Huot came up with 12 service points.

"We had fantastic offense and good serving," explained Jacobson. "We set it up and spiked it back at them; we never let them get going."

The double triumph pushed Northland's record to 7-6 for the year.

Saturday the Northwomen participated in a 12-team invitational tournament at the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC). The 12 teams were split into a pair of six-team pools, playing two 11-point games against each of the other teams within their pool. Teams earned three points for a win (two-game sweep) and one point for a tie, with the top four finishers in each pool meeting in tournament semifinals, where they played two-out-of-three 15-point games.

Northland ended up with a fourth place finish in the preliminary round when the Northwomen split with the Bemidji State junior varsity 11-3, 8-11; lost to Red River community college of Winnipeg 9-11, 6-11; swept Mesabi 11-5, 11-2; lost to Hibbing 2-11, 5-11; and split with host Crookston 11-7, 6-11.

The day ended for the Northwomen when Wahpeton State School of Science beat them 15-4, 15-12 in the semifinals.

"It was really a good day," noted Jacobson. "We saw a lot of good volleyball. I was pleased with the way we played."

Northland has a pair of Northwest Division matches scheduled this week, returning to Crookston for a 7 p.m. match Tuesday and hosting Brainerd Friday in another 7 o'clock start.

LHS Freshmen Defeat Valley 28-8 Friday

Rolling up a 28-0 halftime lead, Thief River Falls coasted to a 28-8 win over Valley junior high of Grand Forks Friday in freshman football game played in Grand Forks.

Scoring started for the winners when Ryan Drees broke free on a 33-yard run in the first quarter and then caught the two-point conversion pass from Mark Bondy. Scott Fowler added a one-yard touchdown run for a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Kraig Kainz scored from five yards out in the third quarter, with Bondy passing to Dan Upham for the conversion. Dan Imgrund scored on a 35-yard run to make it 28-0.

Thief River Falls, 3-2 for the year, was scheduled to be in Bemidji today (Monday) for a 4:30 p.m. game.

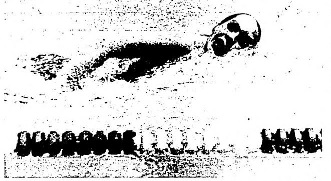
GOING AFTER A loose football, Thief River Falls quarterback Brent Schmitz managed to get his hands on the fumbled hand-off before Moorhead defender Mark Rice got to it in the fourth quarter of the high school football game played Friday on the Thief River Falls athletic field. The Prowlers lost the game 16-0, fumbling seven times in the process, losing three of them. They also suffered two interceptions as they lost for the fifth straight time.



THIRD LEG ON Thief River Falls' meet-opening 200-yard freestyle relay was completed by sophomore Karla Lokken Saturday during the annual Prowler swimming relays in the Franklin middle school pool. Shelley McGann, Loudeen Flom and Shari McGann also made up the relay squad. Bemidji won the four-team meet with 44 points, followed by Thief River Falls 32, Fargo Shanley 30 and Park Rapids 29.

Nordics Beat Greenbush 35-14 . . .

Three MCC Quarterbacks Throw Touchdown Passes

Three different Marshall County Central quarterbacks threw touchdown passes Friday afternoon as the Nordics defeated Greenbush 35-14 in Top of the State Conference high school football action.

The touchdown passes included a game-opening 63-yard toss from Dave Kragness to Rick Van Camp; a 30-yarder from Todd Stokke to Kragness; and a 15-yarder from Van Camp to Jamie Sagstuen. The latter two came in the final period.

The victory at Greenbush snapped a two-game losing streak for the 3-2 Nordics, who host Stephen Friday in Newfolden. But it wasn't a particularly strong performance for the winners.

"We were pretty flat," admitted Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "Give Greenbush credit, though, they played well against us. We made lots of mistakes. We didn't play very well."

Marshall County Central built a 13-0 halftime lead, with the Kragness-to-Van Camp touchdown pass followed by a 39-yard touchdown run by Jeff Dahl, who blocked a Greenbush punt, picked up the ball and ran it into the end zone.

Bill Johnson, who finished the game with 176 yards on 24 carries, made it 20-0 in the third quarter on a 44-yard sprint.

Defensively, Al Lindemoen led the Nordics with 10 tackles while Grant Nelson and Scott Anderson each had nine.

THERE WERE BLOCKERS in front of him, but Thief River Falls runningback Jeff Imgrund (47) was held to a two-yard gain by Moorhead in the first quarter of Friday's football game played in Thief River Falls. Fullback Jim Dillon (34) and quarterback Brent Schmitz (8) led Imgrund around the right side. The Spuds defeated the Prowlers 16-0.

Cwikla Leads Skippers Past Cardinals 35-0

Jeff Cwikla, slowed during the first month of the 1981 schedule by a preseason injury, was back in full form Friday afternoon to lead Middle River to a 35-0 homecoming football win over Plummer.

"He played a real good game," is the way Middle River coach Eldon Sparby described the strong two-way performance by Cwikla, who was credited with a team-leading 14 tackles as middle linebacker in his first duty on defense of the season and contributed 92 yards on 15 rushing attempts.

It was the fifth straight North Tri County Conference victory for the Skippers, who built a 22-0 first half lead and earned their second straight shutout.

Doug Kilen and Steven Bengtson both scored twice for the winners. Kilen reached the end zone on runs of six and ten yards to start it, and Bengtson scored on an 18-yard run. A pair of two-point conversion runs by Cwikla rounded out the 22-point first quarter.

That was all the scoring until the third quarter when Bengtson, playing in the middle of the Middle River defensive line, intercepted a Plummer screen pass and returned it 15 yards for a touchdown.

Cwikla scored from one yard out in the final period, with Jon Neumann adding the extra point kick to complete the scoring.

Bengtson matched Cwikla's 92 yards on 12 carries and Kilen hit 50 yards on ten tries as Middle River produced 319 yards on the ground.

Middle River hosts Erskine Friday at 3 p.m. in a battle of unbeaten North Tri County Conference teams. The Comets were 28-7 winners over McIntosh-Winger Friday to match the Skippers' 5-0 start.

"That one should be the conference," pointed out Sparby. "We've got a job cut out for us. Both teams like to run the football; it's going to be a matter of who controls the interior line."

Plummer, 2-3, will be at Oklee Friday. "They (Middle River) were just too big for us," pointed out Plummer coach Gary Brantl. "They dominated us on the line of scrimmage."

The Cardinals netted only 70 yards on the ground and another 55 yards passing. Defensively, Brantl cited the play of Dean Sletten, Kyle Gustafson, Gary Torkelson and Kyle Mattison.

Bobcats Beat Huskies 26-6

Held scoreless in the first half, Oklee came back after intermission to lay claim to a 26-6 homecoming high school football win over Goodridge Friday.

The Huskies scored the only first half points when Darrell Wiskow reached the end zone from three yards out in the opening quarter.

But the second half of the North Tri County Conference game belonged to the Bobcats, who tied the contest on a six-yard John Cyr touchdown pass to Matt Radniecki in the third quarter and went ahead 14-6 when Darrin Tougas scored on a three-yard run later in the period.

Short touchdown runs by Cyr and Tougas in the fourth quarter completed the scoring, providing Oklee with a 2-3 record and dropping Goodridge to 1-4.

"We were sleeping at the start and they came out fired up," explained Oklee coach Dale Svaren. "We came out in the third quarter and ran the ball."

Tougas and Cyr led the Bobcats' ground attack with 73-71 yards, respectively. Although the passing game was limited in scope, Svaren praised the play of Freshman received Loring Mercil, who came up with a pair of key receptions for the winners.

Ricky Dulka and Mike Vettleson were the Oklee leaders on defense, both earning 18 points in the Bobcats' charts. Cyr had 17.

Oklee hosts Plummer Friday, with Goodridge playing at Clearbrook that same day.

"We were happy with the way we played in the first half," mentioned Goodridge coach Rick Nelson. "In the second half we made some mental mistakes that hurt us."

The Huskies were also hurting physically, playing with a bare minimum number of players in the nine-man game.

County Raises $4,568 During '81 Heart Fund

Pennington county volunteers for the American heart association, Minnesota Affiliate, Inc., raised $4,568 during the 1981 February heart month campaign, announced Myrtle Stromberg, Thief River Falls, 1981 Pennington county heart fund chairman.

This amount surpassed the county goal of $4,200 and enabled the Minnesota affiliate to increase funds for heart research, community programs and professional and public education programs during the 1981-82 fiscal year. The 1981 statewide effort raised over $2,000,000 for the continuing battle against heart disease.

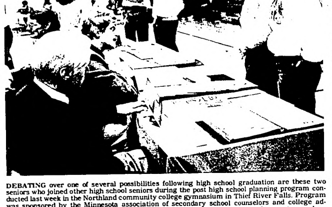
Stromberg praised the Pennington county volunteers for donating their time, energy and enthusiasm to help the year-round effort to reduce heart disease. Although there has been a 20 per cent decline in heart disease recorded nationally in the last 10 years, heart disease is still the nation's number one health problem, affecting more than 41 million Americans and contributing to the deaths of over 17,000 Minnesotans.

Trinity Church Released Time Class Noted

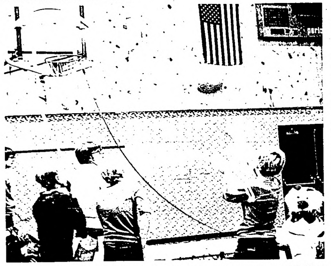
Parish education committee at Trinity Lutheran church has decided to accept only Trinity students in grades 6, 7, 8 and 9 in Wednesday released time classes this year. Grades 4 and 5 will be open to everyone as in previous years. Anyone having questions should call the church office at 681-1310.

Arctic Union Meets Tuesday

Regular monthly meeting of International Woodworkers of America, Local 4-348, Arctic (Thief River Falls) employees, will be held Tuesday at 2 and 3:45 p.m. at Eagles hall in Thief River Falls.



DEBATING over one of several possibilities following high school graduation are these two seniors who joined other high school seniors during the post high school planning program conducted last week in the Northland community college gymnasium in Thief River Falls. Program was sponsored by the Minnesota association of secondary school counselors and college admissions officers and contained information on the education programs of 72 post-secondary schools and military service branches.



A PERFECT shot is made by this youngster at the carnival games conducted at the Middle River school Saturday during the annual Middle River goose festival. Three-day event was comprised of activities for both young and old, and included games, contests, a flea market, parade, senior citizens' white elephant sale and concessions.

AVTI Boiler Maintenance Class Oct. 20

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) is offering a one-day workshop at the Best Western Inn in Thief River Falls dealing with boiler maintenance and operations October 20 from 8:30 a.m.- 4:30 p.m. with a fee of $30 charged (includes coffee, rolls, noon lunch, and a training manual). Workshop leader, Glenn Tucker, South Dakota, coordinator of operation and maintenance training program, has conducted numerous workshops in the midwest states in the sanitation, boiler operators, and energy conservation field.

Workshop will enable participants to obtain maximum efficiency from boilers used in heating and process applications. It will cover boiler types — construction, operation, burners, combustion testing, heating systems, distribution and return systems, and maintenance. A detailed brochure is available upon request.

Pre-registration is required by October 9 by contacting Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; phone 681-5424.

F-M Symphony Series Opens October 10th

Violinist Isabelle Thompson, former concertmaster of the Symphony, returns as featured soloist in the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony's "Concert of Reflections" October 10, at 8 p.m. in the Concordia College memorial auditorium. Concert is under the direction of J. Robert Hanson.

Thompson, a native of Wahpeton, ND, is making her first major appearance with the orchestra since 1974. She was a member of the music faculty at Concordia College until her retirement in 1974, and is currently a member of the first violin section of the Florida Gulf Coast symphony orchestra in Tampa.

She will perform the Mendelssohn "Concerto for Violin in E minor." Program will also include the "Firebird Suite" by Stravinsky and Wagner's "Overture to Rienzi," which was performed at the first orchestra concert in 1931. The concert is being underwritten in part by the Fargo-Moorhead area foundation.

Individual ticket admission is $6 for reserved seating, $4 adult general admission, and $2 general admission for senior citizens and students. Season tickets for the five-concert subscription are still available. For tickets, call the Symphony office at (218) 233-8397 or write Box 1753, Fargo, ND 58107. Tickets are also available at Fargo Straus stores, Marguerite's Music in Moorhead, and the three local college student unions.

Following the concert, a reception will be conducted in honor of Thompson and former members of the orchestra, Symphony board, and Women's association board. Public is invited to attend.

In addition to the Fargo-Moorhead area foundation under-writing, the concert is also partially funded by the Coordinated arts fund, the Minnesota state arts board with funds appropriated by the Minnesota State Legislature, the North Dakota council on the arts, the National endowment for the arts, a federal agency, and the cities of Fargo and Moorhead.

96th MEA Convention October 15, 16

"Education: Investment in Futures" is the theme of the open-to-the-public 96th Minnesota Education Association (MEA) convention.

Two-day event, October 15 and 16, will be centered in the Minneapolis auditorium and convention hall and will feature many exhibits as well as numerous special performances, all free and open to the public.

Many of the convention's activities, including musical and theatrical presentations, are designed to entertain both youth and adults. Among featured programs will be the Minnesota Melikin puppet show, a professional company that has toured America, introducing elementary school children to the world of poetry; the Nancy Hauser dance company; the Black Theatre alliance; and the Sauk Rapids POP group.

Workshops, speeches and luncheon meetings in facilities throughout the Twin Cities and surrounding areas will provide information on educational issues.

Courses For Insurance People Offered

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute is offering two 45-hour courses for insurance people to prepare them for new license exams.

Property-casualty insurance will be covered Mondays and Thursdays starting October 26 from 7-10 p.m. at the AVTI, room 120, with Norris Thune as the instructor. Tuition is $70 and an agents insurance examination preparation manual is $17.85. Class will meet for 7.5 weeks.

Life-accident and health insurance will be covered Tuesdays and Thursdays starting October 27 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at the AVTI, Room 101, with Jerry Wedul as the instructor. Tuition is $70 and the manual, agents' insurance examination preparation manual-life-accident and health issue, is $17.25. Class will meet for 7.5 weeks.

The AVTI needs to pre-pay for manuals and cannot return extras, therefore persons interested must pre-register by October 16 to insure receiving a manual. AVTI will order only for those they have received payment from by that date.

To pre-register or for more information, contact Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; 218-681-5424.

Lutheran Gathering At GF Nov. 14-15

"Be Still and Know That I Am God" (from Psalm 46:10) is the theme that will be explored by adults from North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and southern Manitoba during the Grand Forks adult Lutheran fellowship gathering, November 14-15.

Gathering has been planned by an intersynodical steering committee made up of Lutheran laypersons and clergy from the Grand Forks area. American Lutheran church (ALC) member of Our Savior's Lutheran church in East Grand Forks, Becky Amundson, is chairman.

Various speakers and musicians will be present at the gathering.

Fifteen elective workshops will also be offered to participants in the two-day program. Electives include "Strengthening Family Life"; "Wholeness"; "Developing Family Celebration of Christian Holidays"; "Tools in Memorizing Scripture"; "Dealing with Crisis and Experiencing God's Peace"; and "Developing a Personal Devotional Life."

Gathering will be conducted at the Armory auditorium in Grand Forks, 615 First Ave. N. Registration is $25 for the two-day gathering or $15 for a one-day participation. Registration and program information is available by contacing: Grand Forks Lutheran Fellowship Gathering, c-o University Lutheran church, 2116 University Ave., Grand Forks, ND 58201.

Recipients Of AFDC May Get Added Grant

Under terms of a recently settled lawsuit, Minnesota residents receiving AFDC, or who received AFDC from any Minnesota welfare agency since Jan. 1, 1980, may have money coming to them if their grant had been computed based on income they received two months before each grant was paid, rather than on current income.

If you are in this group, you should soon be receiving a notice from your county welfare agency explaining that you may ask for a computation of your countable income and grants for all months beginning Jan. 1, 1980, through Sept. 30, 1981. If your actual income including grants, fell short of the AFDC need standard during that period, you will receive a payment to make up the amount. However, to be eligible for such a computation, you must request a computation within 60 days of receiving the notice.

This settlement provided that future AFDC grants will be budgeted based on current rather than past income. However, new federal legislation may prevent the new budgeting method from coming into effect.

Nevertheless, this will not prevent you from getting the corrective payment which may be due you under the lawsuit settlement. Anyone with questions should contact Western Minnesota Legal Services, 407 West Litchfield Avenue, Willmar, Minnesota, 56201; or call 612-235-9600.

Upper Midwest Abounds with Public Lands

Sportsmen are indeed fortunate in this part of the country to have vast areas available for hunting.

For example, Minnesota has a total area of 84,000 square miles made up of 80,000 square miles of land area and 4,000 square miles of water and marsh areas.

In addition to the vast water area — practically all of which is open to sportsmen, vast areas of wetlands have been purchased to provide for hunting and trapping as well as the person who just loves the out-of-doors.

Well over 100,000 acres of wetlands have been purchased by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. This is in addition to over 450,000 acres of land purchased by the State of Minnesota under the Department of Natural Resources Wetlands Program.

Add to this 11 million acres of public hunting available in state-owned forest lands. Compare this to a recent report of Texas deer hunters paying private land owners $50 to $100 per day for hunting privileges.

We are most fortunate. Don't abuse the public lands and respect the private land owners privileges when afforded to you.

Triple-Plus® Wad Column is the heart of Federal shotgun shell performance.

The heart of Federal shotshells — Magnum, Hi-Power and Field Loads — is the advanced Triple-Plus, two-piece plastic wad column. This system consists of a special over-powder wad to harness powder gases and a plastic shot cup for improved patterns. Federal combines the Triple-Plus wad with round hard shot, highest quality propellent powder and our No. 209 primer for outstanding power and field performance.

Other features:

Plus No. 1 — Shot protector cup of low density plastic reduces pellet abrasion on the bore surfaces. On exit from the muzzle, petals on the shot cup rapidly flare out pulling the cup cleanly and positively away from the shot charge. This means dense, uniform patterns with fewer strays.

Plus No. 2 — Plastic central pillar crushes on firing to cushion recoil and to reduce initial pellet deformation. Frontal reinforcing flange around the lower base prevents the shot protector cup from tipping, maintains alignment with the bore axis.

Plus No. 3 — Lower sealing flange controls expanding powder gases for efficient burning and full performance. Tough, high density plastic resists cracking in cold weather.

Plus No. 4 — Color-coded hulls of scuff-resistant high density plastic. Brown means 10 gauge; red, 12 gauge; purple, 16 gauge; yellow, 20 gauge.

Plus No. 5 — Highest quality powder selected for consistent power, now and for years to come.

Plus No. 5 — Federal's famous non-mercuric, non-corrosive No. 209 primer for dependable ignition at all temperature.

SHOT PATTERN AND CHOKE

The amount of constriction in a gun's muzzle is referred to as the "choke". Different amounts of constriction gives different sized patterns to a shot charge. For example, a "full choke" forces the shot charge closer together as it leaves the gun, delaying the tendency of the shot to spread. As a result a "full choke" pattern is effective at greater distances. At close range, however, a "full choke" pattern may be too small to insure being on target, or so dense that the game is ruined.

FULL CHOKE:

Shot pattern effective at long range up to 50 to 55 yds., but too small and too dense at short range

MODIFIED CHOKE:

Best pattern at medium range 25 to 45 yds

IMPROVED CYLINDER:

Excellent for short range up to 30 to 35 yds., but pattern may be too thin at long range to insure enough hits

Your Gun's Safety is There for a Purpose

Look at the purpose of a gun's safety as an added safety device — not as a device that allows you to ignore the basic rules of safe gun handling.

The safety should never be relied on as foolproof. As with anything mechanical, it cannot guarantee safety.

Whenever you do not have complete control of the direction of muzzle — as when climbing a tree or crossing fences — do not rely solely on the safety. Always unload your gun in these and similar circumstances.

The only time your shotgun or rifle should be loaded is when you are actually hunting. When you do load be sure to snap the safety into the "safe" position and do not take it off until just before you shoot.

If a bird gets out of range before you shoot, don't forget to put your safety back on before you continue. Never have your finger near the trigger when the safety is being moved to the "fire" position.

Even when the safety is on, always keep your gun pointed in a safe direction. Never assume the safety is on even when it is and never "get excited" and take the safety off before you even see the game.

Even though you properly use the safety on your gun and do have the added assurance against accidental firings, never forget to follow strict gun handling rules including the following:

1. At all times, be sure to have your muzzle pointing in a "safe" direction.
2. Always unload your gun before entering a vehicle or building.
3. Be sure your gun is unloaded when crossing an obstacle such as a fence or ditch or when you take a break in the field.
4. The only time your gun should be loaded is when you are in the field and hunting.
5. When you are through hunting for the day, double-check your gun to make sure there is no shell in the chamber of the magazine. Open your gun and leave it open.
6. Think of yourself and your gun as parts of a system whose safe operations is up to you. Your gun can't think — but you can. Remember gun safety depends on you — make no mistakes about it.

Duck identification

Diving ducks or bay ducks such as the golden eye, bluebill, redhead and canvasback tend to ride high in the water, in contrast to surface — feeding or "dabbling" ducks such as the mallard, blackduck, blue-winged and green-winged teal, shovelor, pintail, widgeon and gadwall. Diving ducks dive from the surface and swim underwater. They are large birds and run along the surface as they take off. Surface — feeding ducks "tip up" to feed and generally do not dive. They leave the water nearly vertically at take-off.

Positive identification of each species takes some practice. Use binnoculars and a bird identification book to sharpen up your duck identification skills. Females are more difficult to identify than males, especially in flight. Light conditions, distance, and speed and direction of flight can affect your accuracy in identifying ducks. The key is to practice your identification in the field. Bird identification provides tremendous satisfaction and enjoyment.

Ruffed grouse behavior

The ruffed grouse or partrige is an exciting upland game bird in our woodlands. Most male and female grouse spend their entire life within a small area of 100 acres. Many grouse spend all their life within a mile from where they were hatched. Consequently, you should expect to find more than one grouse in any one area.

Ruffed grouse habitat

Cedar swamps adjacent to aspen forests are often ideal ruffed grouse habitats. The leaves and berries of ground plants and male aspen buds provide food for feeding grouse. The cedars are often used by grouse at night for roosting and safety from predators.

Wear waterproof boots in these areas, for it is wet for walking. Spend time walking logging trails and road areas with extensive strawberry and clover patches. Grouse will feed most often on these strawberry and clover patches early morning and late afternoon.

Ruffed grouse hunting tips

Small aspen tracts of different size trees located adjacent to each other are ideal grouse habitat. Walk these areas slowly, stopping frequently to note any sign or movement of grouse, both on the ground and in aspen and conifer thickets.

Look for large, fallen logs laying close to the floor of the forest. These logs are often grouse "activity centers" associated with drumming, courtship, feeding, nesting and other ruffed grouse behavior. Usually there are grouse in the vicinity of those fallen logs.

Where there is one grouse, look for another. Most of the time, there is more than one grouse in an area. Listen for a "clucking," chicken-like sound when you surprise a grouse. At this point, it is getting ready to fly. Usually, grouse are on the ground, under the forest canopy striding slowly away from you.

When hunting grouse, hunt slowly, taking time to look closely at the forest and the ground cover. Walking too fast or hunting in a hurry is a common mistake most inexperienced hunter's make. Relax and set your own pace. You'll enjoy the outdoors more and see more grouse.

Home Storage of Guns

Most guns stored in your home are stored in an upright position. In this position, any oil on your gun tends to work downward. Thin oils are not recommended, since they draw down into the action and eventually gum it up. Thin oils also drain off the muzzle leaving it unprotected from the oxidizing effect of air and changing humidity.

The best rust preventative is a high quality gun grease that will spread thin and retains a film of grease on all areas of the gun. During the season when gun is used periodically only a very thin film is needed. When storing for long periods of time such as the off season a more liberal coating should be applied.

Before entering the home make certain all shells or cartridges are removed and the action is open. Make sure the gun is dry. Thoroughly wet guns should be wiped dry with a cloth, then placed near mild heat, but never near open flame or intense heat.

When completely dry, run one or more patches thru the barrel to remove powder particles. After the inside of the barrel is clean of all fouling, push through several times a patch lightly oiled with suitable gun grease so that all inside surface and especially rifling is completely coated. If at all possible, work from the receiver end of the barrel.

A patch of cloth coated with the same grease is then used to wipe all outside metal surfaces. The inside of opened actions, clips, bolts, metal sights, etc., should also be wiped and coated with grease. One exception to this is never allow oil to coat the optics of scopes. Blow dust off the lens, breathe on it and wipe with ordinary facial tissue.

If using linseed oil on the wooden stock, keep it off metal parts. Linseed oil tends to gum up on metal.

Duck habitat

Your strategy in hunting ducks can be geared to the type of water environment you hunt in. The shallow, fertile prairie potholes are abundant with aquatic weeds and small invertebrate crustaceans; These lakes are extremely productive for surface-feeding ducks such as teal, wood duck and mallard.

The big open-water lakes and reservoirs tend to attract bluebills (lesser and greater scaup), canvasback, golden-eye (whistler) and mergansers. These ducks are divers and feed on minnows, snails, leeches, insects, and other invertebrates by submerging totally underwater. Consequently, the deeper lakes are best for their feeding techniques.

The rivers offer a mixed variety and blending of ducks found in both the "pothole" and big lake habitats. River flyways are important in interconnecting many different types of aquatic environments. Therefore, these flyways often act to concentrate diverse types of waterfowl. Note the differences in migrating ducks along these waterways the next time you're outdoors.

Whitetail deer hunting tips.

It is best to scout a hunting area over previous to deer hunting season. Familiarize yourself with the heavily used trails marked by fresh deer tracks located at the forest edge adjacent to an opening or clearing. "Buck rubs" where male deer have worn off the velvet from their antlers are a good sign. Usually, a smaller tree or sapling about 1 to 4 inches in diameter is used by the buck. Also, look for "buck scrapes" on the ground. A buck in "rut" or "heat" will make scrape marks within his territory that he patrols daily.

Deer generally bed down in the fields at night, leaving before sunrise to the forest. Early morning or late evening are the most likely times to see the whitetail deer moving between the forest edge and open fields. These forest edges are ideal locations to build tree stands.

Get in that deer stand early

Just about every time I get to my tree stand in late afternoon, I wish I would have arrived earlier. Ever experienced that heart-jabbing crash in the thickets as you spook a deer going into your stand? Oh, if I would have just reached that stand a half hour earlier! . . . You say to yourself. Generally, you should be in the stand by midafternoon to increase your chances of having the deer come to you, rather than you approaching the deer. Get to that deer stand early! It's really worth the extra effort.

Basics on deer habitat

Trying to find a sure fire area to get your deer this year? Come on now . . . you say . . . is there such a thing as a sure fire deer hunting area? Well, consider this — find an area with the following types of plant communities located adjacent to each other: 1) an open field, farmland, grassland, prairie or forest clearing, 2) a forest with young abundant aspen or acorn-laden oak trees, 3) a cedar-bog swamp for winter cover and browze, 4) a river bed, channel, pond or marsh, and 5) a raised land penninsula extending into a lowland area. All of these plant communities provide ideal food and cover and tend to concentrate numerous whitetail during the hunting season. Walk slowly through these communities and look for deer tracks, gnawed twigs and branches, deer droppings, bedding down (resting) areas, "buck scrapes", "buck rubs" and fresh, permanently established trails. Move slowly, look closely, stop and listen. Patience and close observation are extremely important to your success in locating the whitetail.

In the deer stand

OK. You've been in your deer stand for hours. Your legs and lower back are like stiff boards and seem near paralysis. You have done it all the way it's suppose to be done — the right clothing, bathing, no foreign odors, early to the stand, quiet, practiced, pre-scouted the area and noted deer sign, wind direction, the right habitat, super blind and location. Where are those deer! . . . Now, remember, you've got to be ready at all times. Stay alert. OK . . . Look for a part of a deer. The antlers, legs, head, white tail, anything. Ah! There he is! Peeking through the aspen thicket! You take the shot . . . He's gone? Wait! Stay in your tree stand . . . even though, your feet are running underneath you! Listen. Look. Tell your heart to quiet down, your trying to concentrate. That's it. Now. Concentrate on the deer's escape route before you go after him. Wait a half hour . . . a long half hour. Now, go slowly. Look for any sign of a hit and find the tracks. Effective tracking, patience and perserverance may bring home the venison. Keep on tracking!

Calling Ducks and Geese

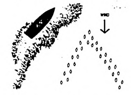
Once the birds are in visual range of your decoys, that is the time to call them. "Talking them in" is an art in itself, and you won't learn it overnight. Hunting with an old timer, using phonograph records produced by experienced callers, study of the sounds made by the birds themselves, are ways to become expert yourself. Above all it will require a lot of practice.

Study the different sounds made by waterfowl under different conditions and circumstances. The low contented gabble of feeding ducks is much different from the harsh quack-quack made by a startled bird. The Canadian honker emits a much different honk when happily flying along to join the flock than the warning sound made when being frightened off the water.

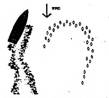
Don't over do it. Too much "talking" arouses suspicion and the birds will flare off. Once they have been invited only an occasional feeding "chuckle" is needed. Not even that if their minds are made up and they are decoying in.

Above all, be patient. Do not shoot until they begin to settle in to your decoys. That's the time. They are moving slower and are off balance for making a fast change of direction.

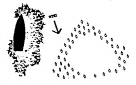
Placement of Decoys



A V-spread layout of decoys can be effective on large waters. Point them into the wind with female decoys placed near the point. The legs can extend for about 75 feet.



The hook-spread is good when there is a small area of water in front of the blind. Since there is not much area for feeding birds would bunch more. This layout works equally well for both deep divers and shallow feeding ducks.,



The triangular placement of decoys can be effective on small bodies of water. This placement leaves an opening in the center for incoming feeds.

Placement of decoys in relationship to the blind is of most importance. Many species, including mallards and Canadian geese make their final swing upwind. Placement of the blind should reflect that waterfowl habit.

Placement of Decoys Important!

In general, waterfowl will decoy to large numbers of their own kind. For this reason, the more decoys you have, the better chance of pulling in birds. Pool your decoys with other hunters and you will pull in more birds than if you shoot alone in separate blinds.

One exception to this is shallow water or "puddle" ducks feeding in small sloughs or pot holes. You might need only a half dozen decoys in a pothole for the reason that this is the natural way live birds would react to the spot.

Each species will decoy to their own kind. Mixing diving duck and shallow water duck decoys just won't work. Again, this is not just the way different species feed and rest.

As usual, there are some exceptions. Mallards will often decoy into a set up containing Canadian honker decoys.

Decoys for diving ducks may be set closer together than those for puddle ducks. Mallards spread out into small groups when feeding and bunch up only when getting ready for take off or when resting along shoreline during bitterly foul weather.

Study the live bird habits and try to make your decoys look as inviting as possible. For instance, when placing decoys in a feeding environment, some should have their heads down as if feeding. When all decoys are bunched and heads are up the flock over head would get the message that they are ready to take off and probably would not suggest security to the over head flight.

Whitetail deer sense of smell

Skip the scented deordorant, soap and aftershave lotion. The whitetail's sense of smell is really beyond our comprehension. Cedar bows and buck scents can be useful, however, they will not totally mask human odor and scents. Your best bet is to wear clothes that have been washed weeks earlier and have been stored in cedar and pine bows.

The direction of wind can have a beneficial or disastrous effect on your hunting success. It is always best to hunt downwind from the most likely areas that deer will be coming to your stand. By scouting the area out ahead of time, you can usually build your stand to alleviate the wind direction problem.

Whitetail deer habitat

Cedar swamps and lowland river thickets are excellent overwinter yards for the whitetail. Look for these habitats adjacent to forests and fields for probable good hunting sites for the whitetail deer. Large bucks will frequently use these swamps and thickets year around. It is unusual to walk up on a deer in these types of cover. Your best bet is to build a tree stand in these thickets to get a good shot.

Seek Out the "New" Duck Waters

Depending on the August and September rainfall in your favorite small and other puddle duck hunting areas, rising water can affect the feeding grounds and habits of shallow feeding ducks.

Do some preliminary leg work and check your areas for flooded fields of crops. Find them and you may be in for a hunting bonanza. Flooded wheat, barley and millet are extremely irresistible to hungry waterfowl. Also, don't pass up flooded fields of standing crops such as corn and soybeans. These crops provide both food and cover.

Observe from a high point, if possible, the movement of the ducks and you may be able to establish a pattern of where they will congregate.

Ducks will probably leave normal haunts and seek these flooded areas — bunching up in sizeable numbers. They may spend the night in your old reliable marshes but will feed all day in the newly flooded areas. Hunting pressure in the usual habitat will also help drive them to the "newly created" habitat and many of them will change their habits and remain. You may need less than a dozen decoys in these spots and often hip boots can replace a boat.

Streams leaving their banks and flooding into low brushy areas, weedy areas and low land crops are often real "hot spots".

Don't just go to last year's blind and wait . . . look around!

Minnesota Pheasant Population Shows Large Increase

The Department of Natural Resources May Roadside census shows that pheasant numbers are about one third higher than 1980.

The population of birds in the fall hunting season, however, will be greatly influenced by success of the nesting season and survival of chicks during this past summer.

The census reports that roosters increased 21% over 1980 and hens increased 45% over last year. More hens were seen than any year since 1968.

At the time of printing, we have not been able to obtain the late August survey that measured the success of the summer hatch. The heavy rains could have caused a considerable loss, but rural area reports have been encouraging.

With the exception of the southeast, all pheasant areas of the state showed an increase in number of birds during the May census. The increase ranged from 13 percent in the south to 64 percent in west central Minnesota.

Hungarian partridge were also censused in May and showed an amazing increase of 58 percent over the spring of 1980. Highest Hun population are found in south central and southwestern Minnesota with largest numbers located in counties of Rock, Pipestone, Lincoln, Nobles and Murray.

Gun Safety is a Matter of Common Sense

If but one single gun-safety rule was followed strictly and continously by everyone, gun accidents would not happen. This simple, single rule is: Never allow a gun to be pointed at a human being.

Even though this rule sounds simple, it does entail a number of facts and details in application. In addition to the cardinal rule of never actually pointing the gun (loaded or unloaded) at a person, it also means never placing a gun in a position where it could accidentally be pointed at people. Do not lay guns in car seats. Do not stand a gun against a tree, bush, fence or object where they may fall or topple over. Do not lean on your gun while resting and do not point the muzzle at yourself, even while cleaning.

The one and only exception to this rule is when looking through the barrels of guns — when the action is open — to check for obstacles in the barrel — a basic safety rule in itself. If your gun allows, always check the barrel from the breach and not from the muzzle.

The Secret of Steady Holding.

Whether hunting from a deer stand or sitting with your back against a tree hunting squirrels, holding the rifle must never be a physical exercise. Do not try to hold by brute strength. Contract your muscles only enough to place your bones in such a position that the bones will hold the rifle up. Then relax every other muscle. Particularly have the comb of the stock high enough so that you can lay or rest your cheek on the comb so as to relax the large muscle at the back of the neck and between the shoulder blades. Relax all other muscles not required to hold the bones in the position. Try to make the bones hold the rifle. Relax, be lazy, quiet, slow and uniform and you will gradually learn to hold steady. If you fuss, fret, put yourself in an uncomfortable position, change positions or try to hold by brute strength, chances are you will never learn to hold steady.

CHOKE — The amount of construction in a gun's muzzle is known as the choke. The more narrow the barrel's bore is, the more contriction there is, and the tighter the concentration of shot will be in flight. If there is no choke, the shot will spread in a broad and loosely held mass. A gun with a full choke, on the other hand, will provide the greatest concentration of shot in flight.

To determine the degree of choke a gun has, shoot the gun at a target of 40 yards. Then draw a 30" circle around the pattern's center. Count the pellet holes within the circle. The pattern and percentage will vary according to shot size, the speed of the shot, and the amount and brand of shot used.

Patterns will vary depending upon the kind of shot and the relative hardness of the pellet. Soft shots, as a result of being forced through the bore and choke, has adverse effects on the gun's pattern. Even though a harder steel shot would be expected to pattern better than a soft lead, it is not necessarily so, since steel shots are still somewhat experimental.

GAUGE — The gauge is the inside bore diameter of the barrel. The largest gauge is 10. A 12 gauge is very versatile and has great popularity. It can offer loads close to a 10 gauge with a lot less recoil. The 16 gauge is ideal for upland game. Many shotgunners, from the skilled to the beginner, enjoy the 20 gauge because of it's fast handling and pointing qualities. Also excelling in handling, are the 28 and 410 gauge. Each use 25% less pellets then the 20 gauge and are used most by highly skilled bird hunter or skeet shooters. Depending on the type of shooting you do will determine which gauge is suitable for you.

BARREL LENGTH: To determine the best barrel length, you should consider the shotgun's weight, balance and sight radius. Longer barrels (30-32 inches) will add weight at the muzzle for steadiness. They also provide a longer sighting plane for shooting at distant targets. Shorter barrels are desired when ease of maneuverability and quick gun-shouldering are preferred. The size of the person should also be taken into consideration. A small individual will shoot more accurately with a shorter barrel, even at great distances, then with a longer, heavier barrel.

RIB — A rib on the gun's barrel directs the eye quickly down a sighting plane. The ventilated rib is a plus in minimizing the distortion caused by the heat of a rapidly fired gun.

GUN STOCKS — There are three important standards in any shotgun stock. They are (1) drop at the comb, (2) drop at the heel, and (3) length of pull. Because there are no rear sights on shotguns, the sportsman must sight along a plane from the breech to the muzzle to the target. So, in essence, the shotgunner's eye is the rear sight. This makes the drop at the comb important because of its effect on shooting. If the comb is too low the shooter's eye will be low, too. Just as when the comb is too high, so the shooter's eye will be. In order to prevent erratic shooting, the shooter must place his cheek against the comb at the same place in the same way for each successive shot. The drop at the heel effects the gun's alignment and if excessive, will cause a noticeable recoil. The correct drop should be 2½-inch at the heel and 1⅜ inch at the comb. Length of pull can affect the shot execution and, therefore, the stock must be neither too long or too short. If too long, the stock can catch under the arm or drag on the lower shoulder. A too short stock can mean more recoil to both cheek and shoulder.

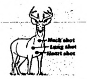
HOW AND WHERE TO AIM

A true sportsman takes pride in taking his game cleanly and quickly. He will do everything possible to prevent crippling game that could later be lost. Knowing how and where to aim are two important skills every big game hunter must learn.



When aiming, it is a good habit to keep both eyes open. Closing one eye restricts vision and greatly reduces your ability to judge distance. With iron sights, always focus your eye on the front sight. This will cause the rear sight and the target to blur slightly, but good sight and target definition are still easily maintained. Above all, practice to relax.

Where, is the best place to aim? There are several lethal areas on all game: lungs, heart, brain, neck or spine. Probably the easiest-to-hit, most vital area is the lung cavity. Even though an animal may not drop immediately, when hit here, it seldom moves far when proper bullet is used. Most hunters prefer this area because shots here will not damage much meat and there is room for error. When a shot is slightly low for the lungs, it may still hit the spine. If the shot is forward from the lung, it will likely hit the shoulder. Bear and other dangerous game are a possible exception to the lung-heart theory. When a bear is struck in the lungs or heart, it may be inclined to charge, and could still cover enough ground to reach you. The safest shot is in the shoulder. Even if it doesn't kill the animal, a shattered shoulder won't allow him to go far. Neck and spine shots are also effective, if they can be made. Keep these vital areas in mind before game is encountered. There is little time afterward!

GROUSE WILD RICE CASSEROLE

2 cups wild rice
2 cups cooked ruffed grouse, diced
1 can mushroom soup
1 cup celery, diced
1 can cream of chicken soup
½ green pepper
1 can chestnuts, diced
1 medium onion
¼ cup slivered almonds

Cook wild rice and drain. Add soup, chestnuts, onions, celery, pepper, grouse and mix together. Bake in a greased casserole, uncovered at 350 degrees 1 hour and 10 minutes — before done sprinkle almonds on top.

Ducks and stream — lake inlets and outlets

Ducks are usually abundant near stream — lake inlets and outlets. The main stream acts as a "mini-flyway" for all the "feeder" streams and backwaters, marshes and lowland in the area. Important small invertebrate food concentrates at the stream — lake inlet and outlet; Therefore ducks are abundant here. With the water current, fish and other aquatic insects are also attracted to the area, perpetuating the abundant food supply for feeding ducks. Patches of weeds bearing edible seeds are often found here. Be sure to note those inlets and outlets of streams and lakes the next time your scouting out an area. They are extremely productive.

The American Water Spaniel . . . Wisconsin's Own "Native Son" Gun Dog

Of all the different breeds of hunting dogs, only two were developed in America. The eastern seaboard waterfowl expert — the Chesapeake Bay Retriever and the American Water Spaniel, developed in Wisconsin.

Small in stature, standing only 15 to 18 inches and weighing only 25 to 40 pounds, the American is nevertheless an outstanding all-pro utility dog. Well at home retrieving ducks and geese from the water, the American is equally efficient flushing and retrieving land based game birds and even rabbits and squirrels.

He has a long tail and an excellent weatherproof and waterproof coat — chocolate colored and tightly curled.

The American is a fast learner, friendly, matures rapidly and loves to please. Being a jack-of-all-trades, he makes a perfect versatile dog for the one-dog hunter. No better duck retriever can be found, and in the uplands the American will sniff back and forth ahead of you, and is easily trained to stay closer in range than springers. Many grouse hunters could appreciate the American after attempting to keep up with a lively springer.

Retrieving is in his blood and he needs very little training, and much upland training is accomplished while actually at work in the field or brush. He is also quite adept in and out of water, muck and dry land.

The American is a practical working dog and should not be expected to perform like the highly trained specialists. He is, however, capable of outperforming even the specialist in some areas — one being retrieving waterfowl.

We were unable to obtain any information as to where or by whom the American is being bred, but it is a good bet that any Hunting Dog Association or club in Wisconsin would know.

A Variable Scope Equips Your Rifle for any Game

Scopes have several basic advantages: (1) you can see better, even in dim lights, (2) the magnification of your target, and (3) you focus only on the target. The scope serves as an excellent substitute for binoculars.

The variable scope has even more advantages. These scopes, which can be changed in power from a low of 2 or 3 power to a high of 9 or 10 power, allow you to use the same rifle for more types of game without the disadvantage of changing sights.

Take for instance, a 243 rifle with scope turned to 9 power is ideal for shooting chucks or small game. Twist the scope to 4 power and your 243, using heavier bullets, becomes a good deer rifle. Equally adaptable on a 284 Winchester with your scope at 3 power is almost perfect for running deer in open country. Set that power to 6 and you have a good chance at that buck 400 yards away, that's watching you, but cannot be approached any closer.

Over the years, scope manufacturers have lessened the bulk and weight of scopes and today's modern models are lightweight and precision equipment.

Camp Storage of Firearms

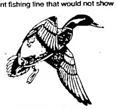
Extremes of temperature causes trouble with guns. Never take a very cold gun inside a heated room or tent. This causes condensations and the rusting process begins.

If you take your gun into an unheated tent or shelter, then build a fire for the night, you will not have a condensation problem as the gun warms gradually with the gradual warming of this shelter.

While it is best to leave cold guns outside, do not lay them on the ground or any material that they could soak up, and cover with tarp or other protective materials.

Don't Let the Birds See your Decoy Anchor Lines

Remember waterfowl are seeing your decoys from a birds-eye view. Use dark colors of line for anchoring. Green, brown, even black. Your best bet is to use monofilament fishing line that would not show at all.



DUCK CASSEROLE

1 duck, cut into serving pieces, skin and carcass removed ¼ cup flour
4 slices bacon
1 chopped onion
Several stalks celery, chopped
1 cup chopped carrots
1¼ cup chicken broth
Medium size can of tomatoes
1 bay leaf

Flour duck and slice bacon. Brown duck in hot fat for 10 minutes, adding bacon half way through. Remove and put into casserole. Saute the chopped onion, celery and carrots. Gradually add the chicken broth bringing to a boil and cook until thickened. Season lightly. Pour over duck pieces, add the tomatoes and bay leaf and cover tightly. Cook in oven at 300° for 2½ to 3 hours. Serve over rice. Serves 4.

How to Zero-In on Game . . . Fast!

Many of your best shots on a hunting trip in the field come out of nowhere — an animal will often set tight and jump up only when you are right on top of it. Game often appears suddenly running across a clearing. A bird flushes unexpectedly — as most do.

To get your sights on the game as fast as possible is made easier by carrying your gun in the position of always having the front sight or the end of the barrel within your sight. As illustrated, this gun position affords watching for the game and at the same time knowing where your gun sight is. It is seen at the same time as the game is seen and you will need less time to aim and fire. It may only be out of the corner of your eye, but you will have both game and gun sight in your sight simultaneously.

An added advantage of carrying your gun in this position is the extra safety factor.

Ruffed grouse hunting tips

The fall color change and the cool, invigorating feel of the forest, always triggers a refreshing, attitude in me. The change in seasons brings the thought of walking through the woods and logging trails in pursuit of those unpredictable ruffed grouse.

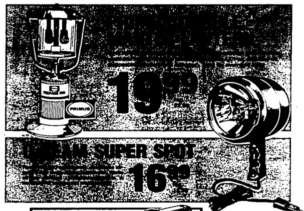
The ruffed grouse can be relatively 'easy' or 'difficult' to hunt successfully. Juvenal birds, or first year birds are not as wary or concerned as are older birds which have survived the seasons. Ruffed grouse can often be found among clover, strawberry and berry patches in the forest floor and logging trails. Aspen forests composed of different age trees adjacent to cedar bogs are often ideal ruffed grouse hunting areas. The plants in the forest floor of both the cedar bog and aspen forests provide food,. cover and nesting habitat.

A 20 gauge shotgun with light shot is preferred by most experienced grouse hunters. Be ready to move when you least expect to flush a grouse, for usually, that's when it happens!

By Jere N. Mossier, Ph.D.

Be smart, be safe

When hunting in the woods, always bring matches, knife and compass. Note the initial direction you enter the forest, and have a map of the area. Common sense and safety go a long way in helping you to enjoy your hunting.



Duck hunting the bays of lakes and reservoirs

Ducks often concentrate and feed on seeds and fruits of rooted aquatic plants in the shallows of bays. The pondweeds are one of the most significant weed types in our freshwater habitats. Different species of pondweeds have many seeds, tubers and plant parts that are sought after by feeding ducks. Some pondweeds appear highly-dissected (fine-mesh) while others have large, smooth leaves of different shape and size. All of these pondweeds concentrate feeding ducks.

The bays of lakes tend to silt in and provide additional food for ducks feeding directly off or near the lake bottom. The combination of abundant invertebrates on the lake bottom and weeds, and the seeds from the pondweeds provide an ideal concentration site of food for ducks.

MARINATED DUCK

1 tbls. sherry
½ tsp. celery salt
½ tsp. celery seed
½ tsp. onion salt
¼ tsp. curry powder
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Flour duck in pan, breast up. Sprinkle each with a tablespoon of cooking sherry, season with the other ingredients. Allow them to marinate in the pan from ½ hour to 1 hr. Chop one small onion and one stalk of celery and place in pan. Add ¼ to ½-inch of water. Bake at 500 degrees F. until breast is brown (about 20 minutes). Turn and bake until back is brown. Cover, reduce heat to 300 degrees F. and cook for 1 hour. Total cooking time is about 2 hours. If stuffing is desired, use any favorite poultry stuffing recipe.

Ruffed grouse

Over 50% of the ruffed grouse population dies of natural death over the winter. Consequently, with present game regulations, grouse hunting should have no negative effects on the overall grouse population.

Minn DNR Deer Report

The short and mild 1980-81 winter did good things for Minnesota's deer herd. Biologists feel the 1980 season was the best since 1968 and they look for a better 1981 season.

Minnesota is looking for another record year this fall. The agricultural counties have the best deer harvest, but look to the area north of Grand Rapids.

Michigan Deer Report

The 1980 deer season was better than expected and the state is looking for another excellent season in 1981. The whitetail herd is figured to be in excess of 1.2 million animals, the result of two mild winters in a row and an excellent fawn crop.

The top hunting areas remain the same year after year. Mecosta County is very good as are Osceola, Clare, Midland, Lake, Newago and Arenac. Dickinson and Menominee are best in the Upper Peninsula.

Iowa Deer Forecast

The whitetail herd is in good shape, thanks to another mild winter. Winter surveys showed the population was slightly up over a similar survey taken the previous year. Last year's harvest — 22,600 — was the highest the state has ever recorded.

The best hunting is found in zones 4, 5 and 6. Last year the highest buck kill was in Zone 3, but the highest harvest was in Zone 6. Either sex permits are available in all zones for both the first hunt in early December and the second hunt later that month. Only shotguns and muzzle loaders are legal arms in Iowa.

Wisconsin Deer Report

The easy winter of 1980-81 boosted by a record fawn crop, should hike hunter success rates this fall. The immediate deer outlook is favorable, and biologists foresee good hunting in the years to come.

Wisconsin has been the most consistent midwestern state in recent years for a stable gun season.

The central counties are best although most are privately owned. The west-central counties have public land, as do northern counties. Deer populations are lower in the South although some trophy bucks are taken.

Importance of Wool Socks

Nothing beats traditional wool for warmth and comfort. Wool won't compress and it holds more moisture without feeling wet. Wool's natural wicking action and resilience provides more warmth and helps ward off blisters . . . something you certainly don't need on a hunting trip.

The Hunter's Side of the Hunting Vs. No Hunting Controversy

There are individuals and organizations who believe that hunting has no place in today's society. On the other side there are over 30 million hunters and many organizations who believe that hunting is part of man's heritage. These are the people who are willing to pay for wildlife management and to assure abundant wildlife in the midst of an industrial and technological age in which we live.

The controversy of wildlife management versus allowing nature to handle the job must be analyzed by accepting the facts that are so valid in today's modern age. No longer is America a vast, uninhabited area of land controlled completely by nature.

Man has, of course, caused the near extinction of some wildlife species. Nature too has taken her toll of some species, causing complete extinction of other species. The difference is that man, through proper management can restore a nearly extinct species of wildlife while nature's history has been to cause complete demise of life and then go on to other items on the agenda.

While hunting pressure has in the past taken its toll of wildlife such as the buffalo and the passenger pigeon, hunting pressure has not been the main villian. The real cause of wildlife's population decrease has been the destruction of habitat caused by the increased population of man. Since the population can no longer exist as small wandering tribes, living off the land, we must manage wildlife as well as our own needs in order to gain the most from both species.

Wildlife management has, in just a few years, increased in great numbers the populations of many forms of animal life. For example, at the turn of the century, the white tail deer herd in America numbered only a few hundred thousand. Today there are upwards of 10 million spread all across the nation. The Canadian goose, through wetland management, and controlled hunting has made a sensational comeback in the last 3 or 4 decades.

Forest management has come under much criticism of late, yet a mature forest, managed by nature alone, is detrimental to most wildlife. The mature forest does not provide enough food to sustain much wildlife. Left to nature, the forest would probably have burned completely. Thus nature's method of control would have been to start all over again, and the young forest, would have provided enough food for the wildlife cycle to begin again. Today's forest management by man is more consistent providing both forest products and food for the existence of wildlife.

Nature's habit of periodic droughts can completely destroy the wetland habitats of migration waterfowl. Through proper management these same wetlands can, to some degree, be controlled by man, thus providing a larger population of ducks and geese. Again, the destruction of wetlands by agricultural expansion has reduced the population of waterfowl much, much more than hunting pressure ever could.

Not too long ago, there lived a man named Theodore Roosevelt, who had the vision to forsee the rapid demise of wildlife, and who fought to combine the best of man and nature and control the weaknesses of both. Today, in the highly commercialized era of mankind, there are thousands of dedicated people working at managing our wildlife. They have done a great job. Backing them up are millions of hunters who by their support will enable the wildlife management to continue to keep man and nature co-existent.

Hunters! Help Yourself to Better Hunting!

Hunters can no longer be concerned with wildlife only during hunting season. We must all become more involved with the total program of conserving and increasing wildlife. This entails saving and creating wildlife habitat as well as controlling hunting pressure.

When agriculture, mining, lumbering and other modern day essentials of life crowd out wildlife, it is most necessary that hunters and wildlife organizations work with industry to maintain compromises concerning use of our nation's lands.

Don't wait for Joe or the government to do it. Get involved yourself. Support those organizations dedicated to the conservation of wildlife and the acquisition of wildlife and the acquisition of more suitable habitat. Take notice of the political decisions being made concerning wildlife. Study those decisions. Many may be more political than practical. Political decisions may buy a lot of votes, but since wildlife is not registered to vote, it is up to you, the hunter, to protect your own interests as well as the future wildlife.

It won't let you down... When you nail your PRIZE BUCK!

LHS Homecoming Slated To Hit Climax On Friday

"You Decorated My Life" is the theme for the 1981 Lincoln high school homecoming celebration and "Spirit Week" which will hit its peak Friday with an afternoon queen coronation and parade and evening football game

Queen coronation will take place at ceremonies beginning at 1 p.m. Friday in the Lincoln gymnasium. The high school band will play, the Prowlins dance line will perform, talks will be given by football team representatives and skits will be presented by each class. Judging will be conducted for the skits and for class floats which will be included in the parade at 2:40 p.m.

Senior candidates for homecoming queen are Robyn Dallmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dallmann; Joleen Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gibson; and Susan Hanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hanna. The queen will be elected by the student body and receive her crown from football captain Rob Jorstad as Danny Odegaard sings the homecoming theme song, "You Decorated My Life".

Junior attendants will be Yvette Loehr and Susie Waale, sophomore attendants will be Shawn Fugleberg and Kristi Thompson; and freshman attendants will be Carla Dick and Leslie Wiegand.

Escorts at the coronatin in the gymnasium will be seniors Steve Olson, Kevin Leach and Kent Kainz, juniors Jeff Ness and Randy Naeseth; sophomores Tim Bottem and Leon Rogalla and freshmen David Olson and Gus Miller. Mistress of ceremonies will be Sue Panek.

Escorts at the football field where homecoming royalty will be introduced to the crowd at halftime of the game between the Lincoln Prowlers and Bemidji Lumberjacks will be seniors Kurt Nelson, Tim Swanson and Bruce Johnson, juniors Mark Gere and Rod Harder, sophomores Ryan Bakke and Kevin Kezar and freshmen Matt Samuelson and Steve Solheim.

Junior attendants will be Kelsie Steiger and Wyatt Smith.

Students at Lincoln are participating in "Spirit Week" by observing different dress-up days. Monday was "Western Day", yesterday was "Punk Rock Day" and today is "Hat Day". Tomorrow has been designated as "Dress-Up Day" and Friday will be "College Jersey Day".

Last night a volleyball "grudge match" was played between volleyball players and senior football players with the football players taking the match by winning two out of three games.

Today at 5 p.m. a powderpuff football game will be played on Prowler field between the junior and senior girls.

The football game with Bemidji is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Concluding event of the week will be the homecoming dance at 9 p.m. in the Lincoln cafeteria with music by "Crossfire".

LEGISLATIVE COMMISSION on Minnesota Resources (LCMR) toured several projects of the Lower Red River watershed management board last Monday. Ground tour of the area was hosted by the Red Lake watershed board which has its offices in Thief River Falls. The group is shown during a visit to the Lost River pool on the Elm Lake wildlife management area. At left in the photo is Rep. Willard Munger of Duluth, chairman of the House environment and natural resources committee and chairman of the soil and water committee of the LCMR.

Soil And Water Subcommittee Tours Projects

Soil and water conservation subcommittee of the legislative commission on Minnesota's resources (LCMR) spent last Monday reviewing water projects in northwestern Minnesota. Red Lake watershed district was host to the ground tour.

Purpose of this tour was to give the legislators some first hand information on the activities of the Lower Red River watershed management board (LRRWMB) and its eight member districts.

The air and ground tour covered 15 existing and proposed projects over a 12-county area and was highlighted by on-site inspections of the Lost River pool and Baird-Beyer dam in Marshall and Red Lake counties. The 15 projects, when completed, will have an estimated cost of $7.5 million, and are expected to play a substantial role in Red River valley flood control.

Besides the actual tour, the committee had a chance to hear from local watershed managers. The subcommittee learned that watershed projects have been designed for multiple benefits.

Of the 15 existing or planned projects, five are actively managed state wildlife areas, eight provide substantial soil erosion protection and five others have been designed to upgrade county and state roads.

State officials also heard a vote of confidence by several key personnel from the Lower Red office and the local districts. LRRWMB chairman Don Ogaard said, "LCMR's financial support over the last two years has played a vital role in project development." Ogaard, representing the Wild Rive watershed, informed the state delegation that all projects have been designed to provide local benefits as well as flow reductions to the Red river and other major tributaries.

One of the concerns expressed by the legislative group was the need to promote further cooperation with neighbors. LCMR laison Bob Hansen noted the local people should turn their attentions to getting talks underway with North Dakota and Canada. Hansen felt interstate cooperation will be a major factor in future LCMR participation and urged the local officials to begin negotiations in an effort to resolve any issues confronting the three groups. "We would be happy

Senior Citizen Open House At Library

Fourth annual senior citizen open house at the Northwest Regional library in Thief River Falls will take place October 14 and 15, at 2 p.m. Programs are free of charge and will include entertainment, films, refreshments, and a door prize. Seniors may attend the festivities on either one or both days.

This year's open house will serve as a "kick-off" for a series of weekly programs for senior citizens. More information about these programs will be available at that time.

Further details about the open house may be obtained at the Northwest regional library, 101 East First.

Arts Council Meet Monday

Thief River Falls community arts council is having its annual meeting 7 p.m. Monday at the Northwest regional library meeting room.

All council members or people interested in promotion of arts in the community are invited to attend and provide suggestions.

Social Security Men Here Tues.

Ted Hoversten and Neil Rowe, field representatives of the Grand Forks Social Security office will be at the Thief River Falls city auditorium Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

School Audit Shows Drop In Fund Balance

Audit report showing a reduction in fund balance of $156,392 during the past operating year was presented to the Thief River Falls board of education at its regular meeting Tuesday evening in the school district service center.

The board was advised that approval had been received for a grant of $200,588 to the school district for energy conservation measures in the school and commendation was given to district financial officer Harry Nelson and buildings and grounds supervisor Jerry Prickett for their work in obtaining the financial assistance.

School District 564 began its fiscal year with an unappropriated fund balance of $1,040,372 and completed the 12-month period with a balance of $883,980. In a separate account, the area vocational-technical institute increased its fund balance by $78,381, beginning the year with $99,344 and completing the period with $177,725.

Prior to the regular board meeting, a meet and confer session was held regarding the 1981-82 AVTI calendar. Proposed changes were approved and will provide for increases in the length of a number of AVTI programs.

Although the board denied a grievance brought through the teachers association, it requested the administration to continue to work on a solution rather than resorting to arbitration if possible.

Supt. Robert Block advised the board that arrangements had been made with Northwestern hospital to provide services for special education services.

Supt. Block was appointed legislative representative and Harry Sjulson alternate for COMNET, a communications system to contact all Minnesota school boards within a 24-hour period regarding urgent legislative matters.

Approval was given to a contract for school social work services with the Northwestern mental health center at Crookston. Authorization was given to the administration to apply for, receive and utilize Title IV funds. Statement of assurance for ESEA Title IV was also approved.

Summer school was approved for make-up course work only in 1982 with additional offerings dependent upon the financial situation of the district. Authorization was given to post notice for a special needs work experience coordinator in the center school.

Hired at the meeting were Bonnie Swantek, long-term substitute for emotionally disturbed students; Donna Vraa, accounting clerk at the AVTI; and Mavis Newton and Violet Muzzy, kitchen helpers at Lincoln.

Next regular meeting of the board is scheduled for October 26 at 7 p.m. A meeting with Judge Larry Jorgenson and law enforcement officials will precede regular board business.

Park Budget Cuts Aired By Council

Park board budget cuts, pop machines, rental subsidies, levy increase and construction bids were among topics covered by the Thief River Falls city council at their regular meeting Tuesday in council chambers at City auditorium.

Parks and Recreation Director Mike Mongoven presented a revised budget from his department which showed cuts of $23,700 from the original proposal.

Cuts in the budget came primarily from the shade tree program. Mongoven suggested that the city remove diseased trees, but do no trimming, other than on an emergency basis. A position for a senior citizen director at the 415 South Arnold complex was also cut. Alderman Milan Borsheim asked whether Mongoven had any other "wild programs" he could cut, referring to a lack of use by "splinter groups" at the complex.

Mayor Bob Carlson noted a lack of personnel cuts, and questioned whether Curt Howe, whom Mongoven had previously requested council to hire as an area employee, was still in the budget. Council had previously asked to delay the hiring until they had reviewed the entire budget.

Mongoven noted the position was still in the budget, and asked that he be hired so he could be trained-in before the hockey season started. A motion was made by Alderman Donald Goodrich that the man be given a contract. A suggestion that the man be hired on an hourly basis until after the budget had been set was defeated when a roll-call vote on the motion to hire on contract approved it four to three.

Goodrich commented that the Park Board had done "what we asked" in cutting the budget and said they "should be commended." Mayor Carlson noted, "We still haven't solved the $149,000 deficit."

A request from the Coca Cola Company, Crookston, to place vending machines in both arenas drew quite a bit of discussion. The letter volunteered to donate profits from the machines to Thief River Falls Area Hockey Association (TRFAHA). Mongoven stated he would "just as soon not have any machines," stating they had put meters on the Pepsi Cola machines already in place last month, which indicated that after the electric bill was paid, they were losing $76 per year. Concern was expressed that council not be giving a monopoly to one pop company. A motion was finally passed that the matter be turned over to the Park Board and TRFAHA to bring a recommendation to the council.

Jan Thorstad, assistant city planner, requested that council pass a resolution in support of reinstatement of a $98,000 block grant through Housing and Urban Development which had been cancelled. The grant was originally intended to subsidize rehabilitation of NW Library Closed Mon.

All branches of the Northwest regional library will be closed Monday, October 12 in observance of the state holiday, Columbus day. This will affect the facilities at Greenbush, Hallock, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Warren and Warroad.

Special Ed Meeting Set At Northland

To expand the goals and role of Persons Concerned about Special Education in Thief River Falls, an organizational meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Northland community college here.

Dr. Leo Ruberto, director of special education in the Thief River Falls school system, will speak to the group, as will Supt. Robert Block and a member of the Thief River Falls board of education. Dr. Ross Taylor will speak for the present PCASE organization.

Especially invited to attend the Tuesday meeting are parents who have children currently receiving special education services within the Thief River Falls public schools. There are presently more than 300 special education students in the Thief River Falls school system.

PCA Plans Open House October 14

Open house at the new office building of Production Credit association in Thief River Falls will be conducted for the public Wednesday, October 14, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The new facility is located on highway 59 on the south edge of Thief River Falls.

Mayor Bob Carlson will cut the ribbon to officially open the building at 10 a.m. Visitors following the ribbon cutting will be given tours of the building by PCA staff members, be served doughnuts and coffee or punch, and be invited to register for a free tractor radio to be given away.

Designed by architect Gordon E. Olson of Grand Forks, the unique building has 9,000 square feet of space and has been in use since about the middle of August. It replaces a building with 2,400 square feet which was built at 123 West Second street in 1966 and has since been outgrown by the association.

Harlow Johnson, president of the local PCA, pointed out that the new building is built with energy conservation in mind. It has a southern exposure and an earth berm ataínst the back, and is equipped with a dual heating system which can use either gas or electricity. The floor of the large lobby area has buried heating cable to make use of off-peak electric heating.

Construction on the building began in October of 1980 with L.A. Anderson Construction company of Grand Forks, ND, as general contractor. The large lobby area, highlighted with an agricultural mural painted by Marvin Espe of Roseau, divides the building into a central administrative area and a branch office concept. The former includes administrative offices and the board room and the latter a reception area, loan offices and secretarial work area.

Production Credit association has existed in Thief River Falls since 1933 and added a branch office in Roseau in 1963. It serves farmers in Red Lake, Pennington, East Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and north Beltrami counties. It is a cooperative whose members are those farmers with active loans. Presently the association (Thief River Falls and Roseau) has about 875 member accounts and approximately $30 million outstanding.

The association deals in short and intermediate (up to seven years) farm financing for equipment, livestock and crop production. It operates on the basis of a margin of eight-tenths of one per cent above the cost of money it must borrow. A nine-month average is used to level out the peaks and valleys of interest

RECEPTION AREA and lobby of the new Production Credit association building on highway 59 south in Thief River Falls features unique lighting, an agricultural progression mural by Marvin Espe of Roseau and a counter and other wood furnishings built by Puetz Cabinets and Millwork of Thief River Falls. Receptionist at the counter is Beverly Sande. Construction of the building began in October of 1980 and it has been in use since about the middle of August. An open house for the public will be held next Wednesday, October 14, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. with refreshments to be served and free registration held for a tractor radio. Mayor Bob Carlson will cut the ribbon to officially open the building at 10 a.m.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

June Alice Hanson And David Shetler Married

Trinity Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, was the scene of the recent wedding of June Alice Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thorbjorn Hanson of Roseau, and David Roy Shetler, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Shetler of Thief River Falls.

Rev. Berton Hushagen officiated at the double ring ceremony. The organist, Kristi Gerardy, played "The Homecoming" as the bridesmaids and flower girl were escorted to the altar by the groomsmen and ring bearer. As the bride was walked down the aisle with her father, Gerardy played the traditional bridal march. Prior to the processional, Jeff Liden, a friend of the couple, sang "When You Created Love." He sang "When Two Become One," after the prayer; and "The Lord's Prayer," prior to the benediction. During the lighting of the unity candle, Kathy Shetler Dahlstrom of Eagan, a sister of the groom, sang "That's The Way." Together Liden and Dahlstrom sang "Wedding Song," before the exchanging of the vows, and "Always and Forever," as the guests contratulated the couple.

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the altar flowers were pink and burgundy mums, carnations and babies' breath.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of white sata peau with narrow Venice lace bordering the skirt and cathedral length veil. Corresponding lace motifs were appliqued at the Queen Anne neckline, on the bodice, and sheer, tapered sleeves, matching the motifs on the skirt. A profile lace headpiece held her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and burgundy white-tipped roses, centered with a large orchid.

Attending the bride were her friends, Linda Mattson, as maid of honor; Priscilla Weston of Roseau, and Julie Odegaard. The flower girl was Christine Shetler, daughter of the groom. The bridesmaids wore red, willow and burgundy accordion pleated gown, draped in front and back. Floral appliques, in burgundy, trimmed the shoulders. The attendants carried lace fans topped with pink and white orchids, burgundy roses and greenery.

The flower girl was attired in a pink, floor-length sundress topped by a floral cape in pink and burgundy, made by Esther Batten, grandmother of the groom. She carried a basket of roses and carnations.

Personal attendant was Susan Lindquist of Minneapolis, a friend of the couple.

Tim Peterson, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Tom Shetler, Minneapolis, and Larry Shetler, brothers of the groom. The rings were carried by Andy Furuseth, a cousin of the bride. Ushering the guests were Tim Dahlstrom of Eagan, brother-in-law of the groom, and Don Shetler, a nephew of the groom. The groom wore a tan tuxedo with deep brown trim, and his attendants and ushers wore toast brown attire. Their boutonnieres corresponded with the flowers in the bride's bouquet. The ring bearer wore a dark brown three-piece suit made by Mrs. James Walker, and a pink shirt matching the gown worn by the flower girl. He carried the rings on a lace trimmed, white satin pillow.

The mother of the bride was attired in an apricot colored, floor-length gown complimented by a corsage of roses and greenery. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother, who wore a pleated, rose-pink floor-length gown. White roses, tipped in burgundy, were pinned on the brown suits worn by the fathers.

Honor guests were the bride's sister, Mrs. Ruby Jean Scott and her two sons: Lee and Billy of Westville, Ind., and the groom's grandmother, Esther Batten of Carroll, Neb.

A reception and wedding dance followed at the Elks club. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Furuseth, uncle and aunt of the bride, were host and hostess. Kay Melvie, a friend of the couple, was at the guest book as Mr. and Mrs. Tim Dahlstrom, Eagan, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, ladled the punch and served the groom's cake.

Pat Dunning, a friend of the couple, cut and served the tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Margaret Rupprecht. The cake was decorated with roses and topped with a filigreed, pearlized, double-gate ornament featuring a pair of love birds perched on a set of double wedding rings. A miniature bride and groom topped the bottom tier.

Pouring coffee was Dolly Shetler, a sister-in-law of the groom. Vernell Grafstrom of Roseau and Pam Engelstad arranged the gifts. Linda Helgeland made all the bouquets, corsages and boutonnieres.

The afternoon following the ceremony, the groom's parents hosted an open-pit barbecue at their farm home for the bridal party, close relatives and friends. At that time the newlyweds opened their gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Roseau high school and attended Northland Community college. The groom is a graduate of Lincoln high school. The couple plans to move to North Dakota. Photo, will Davis, Stromsburg, Neb.

THE JEWEL BOX

Jantzen's attractive knits, with the tailored look of fine wovens, make for easeful living. Much attention is paid this fall to color: new forest green, autumn brown. Crochet trimmed shirt, blazer, tweed skirt, striped shirt, soft sweater pant. Sizes 10-20 only.

Elaine's

Dahlstrom-Shetler Vows Spoken At United Meth.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Gene Dahlstrom are at home at 1355 High Site drive, apartment 109, at Eagan following an exchange of marriage vows at the United Methodist church in this city and a wedding trip to Duluth and along the North Shore Drive.

The bride, the former Kathryn Louise Shetler, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shetler of rural Thief River Falls. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dahlstrom of this city.

Officiating at the two o'clock, double-ring ceremony were Rev. Jonathan Law, pastor of the church, and Rev. Donald Peres, pastor at the Evangelical Covenant church. Organist was Mrs. Jeanne Harger, a friend and former teacher of the bride. She played "Treasures" by Honeytree for the processional and Edvard Grieg's "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen," as the bride entered. Jeremiah Clark's "Trumpet Voluntary," was the recessional. Vocalists were Terry Dunham and Diane Mosbeck, friends of the couple. They sang "God is Here," "Wedding Song," and "I Will Sing."

As a special tribute to the couple, the bride's brothers, Dave and Tom Shetler, sang "Together," written for the occasion by Dave.

For the ceremony, the communion table in the center of the circular santuary was draped in white and centered with a large bouquet of pink gladioli and burgundy and white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was attired in a floor-length gown made by her grandmother, Mrs. Esther Batten. The spaghetti-strapped gown of white, soft silk was styled in empire fashion with a chapel-length train. Topping the gown was a white rose-patterned lace overbodice secured in back by imitation pearl buttons, matching the buttons on the cuffs of the long- puffy sleeves. Daisy trim enhanced the neckline, cuffs and waistline. To complement her gown, she wore a daisy trimmed, walking length veil of bridal illusion held by a lace headpiece etched with pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink, white and burgundy silk roses with greenery and English ivy in a shower of babies' breath, made by Theresa Brighton, a friend.

Linda Bernhardson, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Diane Mosbeck, a friend; June Hanson, fiancee of the bride's brother, David; and Mrs. Brenda Gervais, Red Lake Falls, another friend of the bride. Their gowns, styled like the bride's, but minus trains, were of a soft pink with an overbodice of sheer pink sprinkled with burgundy flowers, accented in blue. They wore gold necklaces and matching earrings, featuring pearl centered roses. The maid of honor carried pink and white carnations, accented with burgundy roses, greenery and babies' breath. The other attendants carried burgundy and white carnations with pink roses.

Flower girl was Christine Shetler of Mentor, a niece of the bride. She wore a pink floor-length gown topped by a cape of floral sheer, matching the gown worn by the bridesmaids. The rings were carried by Derek Dahlstrom, nephew of the groom. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a burgundy tuxedo with a white ruffled shirt with burgundy trim. His peek-a-boo boutonniere was a white silk carnation centered with a burgundy rose.

Attending the groom were his brothers: Paul Dahlstrom as best man, Dave, Dan and Jim Dahlstrom, as groomsmen. The ushers were Scott Bornholdt and Ron LeBlanc of Thief River Falls, Harold Mickelson of Goodridge, Duane Swanson, Fargo, N.D., and Dave Wold of Shoreview.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shetler wore a rose-pink gown with caped sleeves and an accordion pleated floor-length skirt. Her corsage featured two burgundy roses, a white carnation and babies' breath. A similar corsage complemented the light blue sleeveless gown and lacy cape worn by the groom's mother.

Honor guests were Mrs. Esther Batten, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Etta Fisher, great-aunt of the bride; Hattie Dahlstrom, aunt of the groom; and Mrs. Tammy Peterson of Anoka, the bride's personal attendant.

A reception for 250 and a dinner for 100 followed with Mrs. Gail Rux catering. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Shetler. Mrs. Terri Olson was at the guest book and Mr. and Mrs. Don Shetler ladled the punch.

The pillard, five-tiered wedding cake, decorated in burgundy and pink, was surrounded at the base by three heart-shaped cakes. Topping the cake were a miniature bride and groom and a gold Christogram, surrounded by silk flowers. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Karen Dahlstrom and Mrs. Sue Davis of Stromsberg, Neb. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Pat Dunning and Mrs. Polly Reed.

Waitresses were Karla Nygard, Dawn Kalvig of Blackduck, and Sue Lindquist of Bloomington. Mrs. Vicky Dahlstrom of this city and Bradley Nelson of Fergus Falls were at the gift table. Flower hostess was Mrs. Ivadell Reierson.

For traveling on the wedding trip, the bride wore a pair of white slacks and a matching print blouse.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Lincoln high school and a 1979 graduate of Northland Community college. She is student teaching for Bemidji State university at Stillwater. The groom is a 1975 graduate of Lincoln, a 1977 graduate of the Thief River Falls AVTI and a 1979 graduate of Northland Community college.

He is employed by Sperry Univac at Eagan. Photo, Brian Wheeler, Thief River Falls

Leonard Larsons Of Viking Note 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Larson of Viking were honord on their 40th wedding anniversary at a chicken dinner at the Terrace room at the Rex cafe. Hosting the dinner were the couple's children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Thales (Paulette) Grindeland, Darrin and Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Keith (Kay) Maidment, Kristy and Kim of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Larson and Heath of Lowell, Ind.

For the occasion, the table was centered with a two-tiered anniversary cake, baked by Larson's niece, Mrs. Wallace Hanson. It was a gift to the honored couple from the Hanson family. The cake was cut by Kay Maidment and served by her daughter, Kristy. Kristy was also in charge of serving the punch.

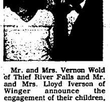
Adding to the table decor were candles and napkins, gifts to the couple from Larson's niece in England, and candies, made by Karen Ranum and a gift to the couple from the Keith Ranum family.

A brief program was given with Mae Osborne giving the Scripture and prayer. All the grandchildren participated in the program by singing, "Jesus Loves Me." Tribute to the couple was given by their son, who also spoke in behalf of his sisters. Following his tribute, his wife pinned corsages and boutonnieres on the couple and Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Anderson of this city, who were attendants when Leonard Larson and Alice Sorenson were married 40 years ago.

After the dinner, the couple opened their many gifts and cards.

Present at the dinner, in addition to the couple's children and their families, the attendants and Mrs. Osborne, were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tangquist, Mrs. Ella Larson and Debbie of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Minnie Potucek of Warren, and Hilda Larson and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustafson of Viking.

Wold And Iverson Wedding Date Is Set



Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wold of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Iverson of Winger announce the engagement of their children, Sonia and Myron.

The couple has chosen December 4, her parents' wedding day, for their wedding. The ceremony will take place at Redeemer Lutheran church, Thief River Falls.

Finstad and Danielson To Wed November 14

Lori Finstad and Joel Danielson, together with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Finstad of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Boyde Danielson of Detroit Lakes, announce their engagment and forthcoming marriage.

Both are employed in East Grand Forks, Miss Finstad, at Whitey's restaurant, and her fiance at Peterson Construction company.

A November 14th wedding is being planned.

Lindquist And Shetler Vows Spoken In Mpls.

Bethany Fellowship chapel at Bethany Fellowship Minneapolis, was the scene of the recent wedding of Susan Marie Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindquist of Princeton, and Thomas Samuel Shetler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shetler, rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. Ernie Haase officiated at the double-ring ceremony in a chancel graced with candelabra, palms and potted ferns. Cathy Brokke was the organist. She played "Thanks Be to Thee," for the processional, and served as accompanist for the vocalists Kathy Dahlstrom, a sister of the groom, who sang "Psalm 23," and Jeff and Carol Kelly, friends of the couple, as they sang "Now and Forever." During the ceremony, the groom sang, "I Could Never Promise You," to the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a bridal gown of white soft silky knit featuring an embroidered yoke with high neckline. Lace edged the collar, trimmed the cuffs on the lace and knit shepherdess sleeves and edged the softly gathered skirt that flowed into a chapel-length train. A profile headpiece held her walking length veil of bridal sheer. She carried a cascade of silk roses, in white and burgandy, centered with a large orchid with a burgundy throat. Her bouquet was borrowed from the groom's sister, Kathryn Dahlstrom.

Nancy Goetsch of Edina, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Kathryn Dahlstrom and Wendy Fredbo, a friend of the bride. Their identical gowns of solid lavender were topped by overdresses of a corresponding floral sheer styled with capelet sleeves. They carried three long-stemmed pink silk roses tied with lavender ribbon.

Best man was Steve Knudtsen of Bloomington, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were David Shetler, a brother of the groom, and Larry Richels, a friend of the couple. Serving as ushers were Edison Ashouri of Iran and Dan Thompson of New York, friends of the couple. All wore gray tuxedos with black velvet collars, vests and bow ties.

The mother of the bride wore a turquoise gown styled with a flared skirt and a matching cape edged with wide turquoise lace. The mother of the groom was attired in the same rose-pink gown with accordion pleated skirt which she had worn earlier in the season at the wedding of her son, David, and daughter, Kathryn.

Honor guest at the wedding were the groom's grandmother, Esther Batten, and the bride's personal attendant, Kirsten Larson of Norway.

A reception in the fellowship hall followed for approximately 150 guests. Michelle Nibbe served as hostess, June Shetler ladled the punch, and Lori Mylander presided at the guest book.

Mary Lindquist and Kathy Lindquist cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake iced in white and decorated with pink and lavender miniature flowers. The upper tier was topped by a Christogram. To correspond with the bride's flower theme, arrangements of pink and lavender flowers were on either side of the cake.

Serving as waitresses were Mai Lou Stiles and Cynthia Barron. Rochelle Harrington arranged the gifts.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, and the Lake of the Woods area, the couple is now at home at 824 Calle 13 S.O., Caparra Terrace, Puerto Rico, 00921. The bride, a graduate of Cambridge high school and Bethany Fellowship Missionary Training school, is employed in Puerto Rico by Bethany Fellowship, where the groom is a student. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, and University of Colorado.

St. John Will Show Martin Luther Film

"Where Luther Walked," a new film based on the life and time of Martin Luther, will be shown Sunday, October 11, at 7:30 p.m., at St. John Lutheran church in this city. The public is welcome to attend.

The local showing is sponsored by Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) branch 1667.

Camera host in the film is Roland H. Bainton, longtime Reformation scholar at Yale university and author of the bestseller, "Here I Stand: A Life of Martin Luther." Bainton not only talks about many of the events in the life of the Reformer, but he acts out some of the eipsodes.

With the same drama Bainton puts into his books, he examines Luther, as a young student nearly struck by lightning who vows to become a monk, the guilt-ridden young priest saying his first Mass, the relationships with his earthly father Hans Luther and his religious father Johann Staupitz, the clash with John Tetzel over indulgences, and the misuse of relics at the Castle church. He also covers Luther's stay at Wartburg, his preaching at the City church in Wittenberg, his ties with his family and his deep respect for the word of God.

The film was shot where Luther lived and worked; at the castle of Wartburg, where he translated the Bible; at Wittenberg, where he taught, married and raised a family; at Erfurt, where he took his vows as a monk and said his first Mass; and at Stadtkirche, where he preached his catechism sermons. Scenes will portray Luther as a human being: tempted, frustrated, challenged and devout.

The film, funded by AAL, Appleton, Wis., and produced by Filmedia, Minneapolis, runs about 33 minutes. It will be shown in connection with the AAL annual meeting, and the election of local and national officers. Door prizes will be given and lunch will be served.

John Steidl, 39, NCC Instructor Dies In Mpls.

John Steidl, 39, a resident of this city and an instructor at Northland Community college, (NCC) died Tuesday at Abbott-Northwestern hospital in Minneapolis, following a long time bout with Hodgkin's Disease.

Funeral services for John Steidl will be held Thursday at 11:00 a.m., at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city with Rev. Keith Prekker officiating. Tyrone Birkeland will serve as organist. Vocal selections will be provided by Northland Community college and AVTI. Interment will be in the Holy Trinity cemetery at Fingal, N.D.

Honorary pallbearers will be David Halvorson and Lee Schulz.

Active pallbearers will be LeRoy Stumph, Gary Fried, Jack Kraemer, Al Nichols, Evan Armstrong, Wayne Alfveby and Peter Solem.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until nine o'clock tonight.

John Alexander Steidl was born Feb. 13, 1942 at Fargo, N.D., to Alexander and Florence Steidl. He grew up at Valley City, N.D., graduating from high school there. He attended the University of North Dakota, where he received his Masters Degree, and at the time of his death was working in their doctoral program.

He was united in marriage to Suzanne Jakes on Aug. 13, 1964 at Valley City, N.D. The couple lived for two years at Grand Forks and for one year in Alaska, where they both taught school. In 1967, they came to Thief River Falls and since then, he had been an instructor at Northland Community college.

Steidl was very active in the Democratic Farmer-Labor party and was serving as chairman of Pennington county.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Liesl; a son, Chris, both at home; his father, Alexander Steidl, Valley City, N.D.; and one brother, Rudolph Steidl, Bismarck, N.D.

His mother preceded him in death.

B. Skjerping Dies Tuesday In Illinois

Bennie Skjerping, 85, of Thief River Falls, died Tuesday morning at a hospital in Effingham, Ill.

Funeral services for Bennie Skjerping will be held Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. J. Hovland of Trinity Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be in the Bethel Lutheran cemetery, east of Thief River Falls.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home, beginning Friday noon.

A complete obituary will be published in Monday's Times.

Services Held For Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski

Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski, 79, of Greenbush, died unexpectedly on Friday morning, shortly after being admitted to the Greenbush hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski were held Monday at 10:00 a.m., at the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church in Greenbush with Rev. Mike Patnode offering the Mass. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, was in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were fellow members of the Senior Citizens group and St. Ann's Sodality.

Active pallbearers were Allen and Timothy Kasprowicz, Steve Gonshorowski, Kevin and Brian Kukowski and Dominick Crzanowski. The Knights of Columbus and St. Ann's Sodality were in charge of Roseary at the Vigil service held the previous evening at the Funeral chapel.

Mrs. Chrzanowski, the former Lucy Mooney, was born Jan. 23, 1902 in Roseau county, near Greenbush, to Andrew and Mary Mooney, now deceased. She attended school and grew to womanhood in the Leo community, near Greenbush, and was baptized and confirmed there in the Catholic faith.

On Oct. 18, 1922, she was united in marraige to Joseph L. Chrzanowski at Leo. The couple farmed in the Leo community until 1959, when they moved into Greenbush. Since then, she had made her home there, working for many years at the Greenbush Community hospital.

She was an active member of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church, St. Ann's Sodality, the Greenbush Senior Citizens group and the bowling league.

Surviving are a son, Leonard Chrzanowski, Greenbush, three daughters: Mrs. Dorothy Kasprewicz, Mrs. Felix (Genevieve) Gonshorowski, both of Greenbush, and Mrs. Edwin (Carol) Kukowski, Coon Rapids, 17 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren; and one brother, Joseph Mooney, Sr., Greenbush.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in January of 1963, and three sisters.

E. Tollefsrud Services Set For Thursday

Elmer Tollefsrud, 78, of Thief River Falls and formerly of Newfolden, died Monday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Elmer Tollefsrud will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel where the body is reposing. Rev. Carl Andersen, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, will officiate. Serving as organist and soloist will be Mrs. Arnold Hammer. Interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery.

Pallbearers will be LeRoy Knutson, Mervin Knutson, Francis Johnson, Forest Johnson, Duane Green and Vernon Olson.

Elmer Tollefsrud was born Feb. 3, 1903 at Fargo, N.D., to Olaf and Julie Evenson Tollefsrud. He lived most of his life in the Newfolden area. He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army. Following his discharge, he returned to the Newfolden area and worked there as a general laborer. For the past year, he had been a resident of Oakland Park Nursing home.

He was a member of the American Legion post of Middle River.

Surviving are a half-brother, Harry Tollefsrud, Torrance, Calif.; and a half-sister, Mrs. Ernest (Eunice) Hanson of Newfolden.

He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and a sister.

The Opal and the Tourmaline

The Opal and the Tourmaline
GENUINE BIRTHSTONE FOR OCTOBER
Opals are only found where once there had been an inland sea. It is as though the dying sea had left this vivid gem in memory of rainbows that arched above it. Some feared the power of the Opal, which was reputed to make its owner invisible so that he could escape the roving eye of misfortune. Like its companion birthstone, the Opal signifies hope.
The Tourmaline also belongs to October. It is another attractive birthstone for jewelry.

TRF Adventist Programs Seek Local Support

Area residents are urged by Rev. Ernest Dobkins, to contribute to the community service programs Seventh-day Adventists offer before the denomination's 73rd annual fund-raising drive in Thief River Falls ends a week from Saturday.

Stop-smoking clinics, health-screening clinics and emergency disaster relief work Adventists sponsor statewide reflect the interest the church has in people, Rev. Dobkins said.

According to "Medical Word News" (Dec. 24, 1979), Seventh-day Adventists had more physicians employed in more overseas countries than the next 13 highest Protestant and Catholic denominations combined. Of the 1,021 doctors working in 59 different contries that year, 438 came from the Adventist denomination.

Annual community service appeal is the only public request for funds made by the Adventist church. Approximately 10 per cent of the total budget for Adventists' humanitarian programs is received through this drive; the other 90 per cent is given throughout the year by church members.

"The donation you give, when the unpaid solicitor comes to your door, will help lessen the misery of this world," the pastor added.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Planets Among Phenomena In October Sky

Planets, some visible to the naked eye and others invisible, are part of the darkening fall sky in the first half of October.

Only two are clearly visible now, but a third can be seen by those who know where to look. Of Earth's other planetary neighbors, three are too distant ever to be seen by the naked eye. One of these distant planets, Uranus, is currently one of the biggest question marks in our solar neighborhood.

Mercury, the closest planet to our sun, is barely visible now, low and dim in the western sky at sunset. Between Mercury and Earth lies Venus, clearly visible now as the brightest object in the southwestern sky after sunset and through out the night.

After Earth in the widening elliptical orbits of planets around the sun lies Mars. Now clearly visible between 2 a.m. and sunrise, this slightly reddish planet is very high in the southern sky just before sunrise.

Beyond an invisible asteroid belt on the other side of Mars, Jupiter and Saturn circle the sun. Neither can be seen now because both are in conjunction with the sun (in a straight line behind the sun) hidden from view.

Further still from the sun although nearer than Neptune and Pluto lies Uranus. All three planets are too far from Earth ever to be visible to the naked eye.

Uranus is the next target on the route of the Voyager 2 spacecraft, which should pass the mysterious planet in January 1986. Very little is known about Uranus. At 2 billion miles away from Earth, it receives and reflects so little sunlight that, only a faint greenish dot reaches even the most powerful telescope. Its distance is so great that Voyager signals will take three hours to reach Earth.

Uranus is a large gaseous planet, similar to Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune in that it has only a small solid core, or perhaps none at all. The swirling mass of hydrogen and helium is large enough to contain 64 Earths. Because of its distance from the Sun, Uranus is a cold planet — its average temperature is -300 F.

Uranus is a ringed planet, each of its rings has hundreds or perhaps thousands of ringlets, similar to Saturn's. Too narrow and dim to be seen from Earth, the ring system was discovered during an "occultation," which occurs when a body passes between Earth and a far-away star. As the star's light is blotted out, the object blocking the light (in this case Uranus) can be studied. As the atmospheric fuzz of Uranus gradually dimmed the light of the star, astronomers could see that its atmosphere was a pattern of rings. The ring system seems to be less than 100 miles deep, circling the planet some 10,000 to 15,000 miles above its gaseous surface.

It appears that only the large planets have rings, because immense gravity is required to create them, said Thijs van der Hulst, astronomer at the University of Minnesota. Rings are formed when small satellites are torn out of orbit or ripped apart, or particles are hurled around the planet at such high speeds that they are never able to combine in satellite form. The information collected from Voyager 2's passage should teach us more about the process, van der Hulst said.

INDIRECT LIGHTING which provides non-glare work light is one of the features of this area of the new Production Credit association building on highway 59 south. Open house will be held at the new building next Wednesday, October 14, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Light fixtures at each side of the photo above direct recessed light upward to the white ceiling, reflecting it down into the work area. High Schoolers Invited To Day On UM Campus

High school students interested in learning about the University of Minnesota Twin Cities campus may spend a day there October 16.

Sponsored by the admissions office, "Sneaker Preview" will offer tours of the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses. Students will have opportunities to meet faculty members and advisors to discuss educational and career plans. Information also will be available on financial aid, housing and student activities.

Visitors will meet at 8:30 a.m. in the Great Hall of Coffman Memorial union on the east bank of the Minneapolis campus. No advance registration is necessary.

Limited accommodations are available for students who want to spend a night on campus before the preview. Reservations may be made by calling (612) 373-3030 collect.

"Sneaker Preview" is scheduled to last until 2 p.m.

COACT Angry At 'Monopoly' Of Timber Co's.

Charging Potlatch corporation with being an illegal monoply and demanding they change their process of buying timber, COACT loggers will be present at the joint select committee on forest management's tour of the Potlatch plant in Bemidji Thursday (October 8) at 3 p.m.

COACT loggers were told by Sen. Gerald Willet, chair of the committee, that "this is an educational tour for the committee. . . but if you feel compelled to follow, it is your prerogative."

COACT loggers are angered by what they consider to be the monopoly control timber companies have over wood products from the forest to the final customer and the lack of concern state legislators have shown toward the problem.

At the committee's hearing in International Falls September 21, COACT logger Larry Leeper handed legislators questionnaires with stamped envelopes addressed to COACT. Sen. Willet assured Leeper the questionnaires would be filled out by each legislator on the committee and returned to COACT by September 30. Of the 12 members on the committee only two, Rep. Irv Anderson and Rep. Doug Carlson, have returned their questionnaires to COACT.

"We made it as easy for them as we could, and still no answer from Willet, Senators Gene Merriam, Dave Rued, Timothy Penny, Doug Johnson or represenatives Robert Anderson, Joe Begich, Willard Munger and David Battaglia. We don't expect them to know it all but it sure seems they should know how to fill out a questionnaire. How can they represent us if they don't keep the lines of communication open?" stated Ralph Fredrickson of the COACT loggers task force.

Loggers from COACT will also be speaking at the committee's hearing in Bemidji at 7:30 p.m. Topics to be addressed include: (1) The purported monopoly of the timber companies, (2) the need for a limit on the number of state auction permits a timber company can hold, (3) the need for reform in the timber scaling process and (4) legislators' disregard for the loggers and the communities of northern Minnesota.

Parent Class Studies Home Environment

In Monday night's parenting class offered at the Northwest regional library, Peggy Johaningsmeir will help parents examine how the home environment can provide varied and stimulating activities for children and at the same time prevent harm. The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. in the meeting room.

This class is sponsored by AVTI adult education and the Thief River Falls babysitting co-op and is open to the public free of charge.

Bruno Presents Talk During Conference

In comments made to the Forensic Chiropractic association last week at the Fort Worth, Texas convention center during a national conference for the chiropractic profession, Dr. Phillip Bruno of Thief River Falls said special effort must be made to accommodate the care and treatment of accidental injuries.

Dr. Bruno said that the working man deserves the best in care and the victim of an automobile accident should seek immediate specialized care. Serious and costly injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.

The new emphasis on accidental injury treatment underscores the role chiropractic has in caring for patients who sustain injuries on the job or while in their cars, Dr. Bruno told the conference.

Project 20 To Operate Fall, Winter

Project 20, the Minnesota state patrol's continuing effort to enforce the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, will operate with one 10-member squad this fall and winter, according to public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

The project, which began in the fall of 1979, is entering its third year. Two 10-member squads have patrolled high-volume, high-speed traffic highways during the spring and summer months. Since March of this year no prior announcement has been made of the project's schedule.

Col. Roger Ledding, patrol chief, said primary attention is given to violations of speed laws but emphasis is also on other violations such as driving under the influence (DWI).

Lindquist And Shetler Vows Spoken In Mpls.

Bethany Fellowship chapel at Bethany Fellowship Minneapolis, was the scene of the recent wedding of Susan Marie Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lindquist of Princeton, and Thomas Samuel Shetler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shetler, rural Thief River Falls.

Rev. Ernie Haase officiated at the double-ring ceremony in a chancel graced with candelabra, palms and potted ferns. Cathy Brokke was the organist. She played "Thanks Be to Thee," for the processional, and served as accompanist for the vocalists Kathy Dahlstrom, a sister of the groom, who sang "Psalm 23," and Jeff and Carol Kelly, friends of the couple, as they sang "Now and Forever." During the ceremony, the groom sang, "I Could Never Promise You," to the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a bridal gown of white soft silky knit featuring an embroidered yoke with high neckline. Lace edged the collar, trimmed the cuffs on the lace and knit shepherdess sleeves and edged the softly gathered skirt that flowed into a chapel-length train. A profile headpiece held her walking length veil of bridal sheer. She carried a cascade of silk roses, in white and burgandy, centered with a large orchid with a burgundy throat. Her bouquet was borrowed from the groom's sister, Kathryn Dahlstrom.

Nancy Goetsch of Edina, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Other attendants were Kathryn Dahlstrom and Wendy Fredbo, a friend of the bride. Their identical gowns of solid lavender were topped by overdresses of a corresponding floral sheer styled with capelet sleeves. They carried three long-stemmed pink silk roses tied with lavender ribbon.

Best man was Steve Knudtsen of Bloomington, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were David Shetler, a brother of the groom, and Larry Richels, a friend of the couple. Serving as ushers were Edison Ashouri of Iran and Dan Thompson of New York, friends of the couple. All wore gray tuxedos with black velvet collars, vests and bow ties.

The mother of the bride wore a turquoise gown styled with a flared skirt and a matching cape edged with wide turquoise lace. The mother of the groom was attired in the same rose-pink gown with accordion pleated skirt which she had worn earlier in the season at the wedding of her son, David, and daughter, Kathryn.

Honor guest at the wedding were the groom's grandmother, Esther Batten, and the bride's personal attendant, Kirsten Larson of Norway.

A reception in the fellowship hall followed for approximately 150 guests. Michelle Nibbe served as hostess, June Shetler ladled the punch, and Lori Mylander presided at the guest book.

Mary Lindquist and Kathy Lindquist cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake iced in white and decorated with pink and lavender miniature flowers. The upper tier was topped by a Christogram. To correspond with the bride's flower theme, arrangements of pink and lavender flowers were on either side of the cake.

Serving as waitresses were Mai Lou Stiles and Cynthia Barron. Rochelle Harrington arranged the gifts.

Following a wedding trip to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, and the Lake of the Woods area, the couple is now at home at 824 Calle 13 S.O., Caparra Terrace, Puerto Rico, 00921. The bride, a graduate of Cambridge high school and Bethany Fellowship Missionary Training school, is employed in Puerto Rico by Bethany Fellowship, where the groom is a student. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, and University of Colorado.

St. John Will Show Martin Luther Film

"Where Luther Walked," a new film based on the life and time of Martin Luther, will be shown Sunday, October 11, at 7:30 p.m., at St. John Lutheran church in this city. The public is welcome to attend.

The local showing is sponsored by Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) branch 1667.

Camera host in the film is Roland H. Bainton, longtime Reformation scholar at Yale university and author of the bestseller, "Here I Stand: A Life of Martin Luther." Bainton not only talks about many of the events in the life of the Reformer, but he acts out some of the eipsodes.

With the same drama Bainton puts into his books, he examines Luther, as a young student nearly struck by lightning who vows to become a monk, the guilt-ridden young priest saying his first Mass, the relationships with his earthly father Hans Luther and his religious father Johann Staupitz, the clash with John Tetzel over indulgences, and the misuse of relics at the Castle church. He also covers Luther's stay at Wartburg, his preaching at the City church in Wittenberg, his ties with his family and his deep respect for the word of God.

The film was shot where Luther lived and worked; at the castle of Wartburg, where he translated the Bible; at Wittenberg, where he taught, married and raised a family; at Erfurt, where he took his vows as a monk and said his first Mass; and at Stadtkirche, where he preached his catechism sermons. Scenes will portray Luther as a human being: tempted, frustrated, challenged and devout.

The film, funded by AAL, Appleton, Wis., and produced by Filmedia, Minneapolis, runs about 33 minutes. It will be shown in connection with the AAL annual meeting, and the election of local and national officers. Door prizes will be given and lunch will be served.

John Steidl, 39, NCC Instructor Dies In Mpls.

John Steidl, 39, a resident of this city and an instructor at Northland Community college, (NCC) died Tuesday at Abbott-Northwestern hospital in Minneapolis, following a long time bout with Hodgkin's Disease.

Funeral services for John Steidl will be held Thursday at 11:00 a.m., at Redeemer Lutheran church in this city with Rev. Keith Prekker officiating. Tyrone Birkeland will serve as organist. Vocal selections will be provided by Northland Community college and AVTI. Interment will be in the Holy Trinity cemetery at Fingal, N.D.

Honorary pallbearers will be David Halvorson and Lee Schulz.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until nine o'clock tonight.

John Alexander Steidl was born Feb. 13, 1942 at Fargo, N.D., to Alexander and Florence Steidl. He grew up at Valley City, N.D., graduating from high school there. He attended the University of North Dakota, where he received his Masters Degree, and at the time of his death was working in their doctoral program.

He was united in marriage to Suzanne Jakes on Aug. 13, 1964 at Valley City, N.D. The couple lived for two years at Grand Forks and for one year in Alaska, where they both taught school. In 1967, they came to Thief River Falls and since then, he had been an instructor at Northland Community college.

Steidl was very active in the Democratic Farmer-Labor party and was serving as chairman of Pennington county.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Liesl; a son, Chris, both at home; his father, Alexander Steidl, Valley City, N.D.; and one brother, Rudolph Steidl, Bismarck, N.D.

His mother preceded him in death.

B. Skjerping Dies Tuesday In Illinois

Bennie Skjerping, 85, of Thief River Falls, died Tuesday morning at a hospital in Effingham, Ill.

Funeral services for Bennie Skjerping will be held Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. J. Hovland of Trinity Lutheran church, officiating. Interment will be in the Bethel Lutheran cemetery, east of Thief River Falls.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home, beginning Friday noon.

A complete obituary will be published in Monday's Times.

Services Held For Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski

Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski, 79, of Greenbush, died unexpectedly on Friday morning, shortly after being admitted to the Greenbush hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy Chrzanowski were held Monday at 10:00 a.m., at the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church in Greenbush with Rev. Mike Patnode offering the Mass. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Greenbush, was in charge of arrangements.

Honorary pallbearers were fellow members of the Senior Citizens group and St. Ann's Sodality.

Active pallbearers were Allen and Timothy Kasprowicz, Steve Gonshorowski, Kevin and Brian Kukowski and Dominick Crzanowski. The Knights of Columbus and St. Ann's Sodality were in charge of Roseary at the Vigil service held the previous evening at the Funeral chapel.

Mrs. Chrzanowski, the former Lucy Mooney, was born Jan. 23, 1902 in Roseau county, near Greenbush, to Andrew and Mary Mooney, now deceased. She attended school and grew to womanhood in the Leo community, near Greenbush, and was baptized and confirmed there in the Catholic faith.

On Oct. 18, 1922, she was united in marraige to Joseph L. Chrzanowski at Leo. The couple farmed in the Leo community until 1959, when they moved into Greenbush. Since then, she had made her home there, working for many years at the Greenbush Community hospital.

She was an active member of the Blessed Sacrament Catholic church, St. Ann's Sodality, the Greenbush Senior Citizens group and the bowling league.

Surviving are a son, Leonard Chrzanowski, Greenbush, three daughters: Mrs. Dorothy Kasprowicz, Mrs. Felix (Genevieve) Gonshorowski, both of Greenbush, and Mrs. Edwin (Carol) Kukowski, Coon Rapids, 17 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren; and one brother, Joseph Mooney, Sr., Greenbush.

She was preceded in death by her husband, who died in January of 1963, and three sisters.

E. Tollefsrud Services Set For Thursday

Elmer Tollefsrud, 78, of Thief River Falls and formerly of Newfolden, died Monday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Elmer Tollefsrud will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel where the body is reposing. Rev. Carl Andersen, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, will officiate. Serving as organist and soloist will be Mrs. Arnold Hammer. Interment will be in the Oak Grove cemetery.

Pallbearers will be LeRoy Knutson, Mervin Knutson, Francis Johnson, Forest Johnson, Duane Green and Vernon Olson.

Elmer Tollefsrud was born Feb. 3, 1903 at Fargo, N.D., to Olaf and Julie Evenson Tollefsrud. He lived most of his life in the Newfolden area. He was a veteran of World War II, serving in the U.S. Army. Following his discharge, he returned to the Newfolden area and worked there as a general laborer. For the past year, he had been a resident of Oakland Park Nursing home.

He was a member of the American Legion post of Middle River.

Surviving are a half-brother, Harry Tollefsrud, Torrance, Calif.; and a half-sister, Mrs. Ernest (Eunice) Hanson of Newfolden.

He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother and a sister.

The Opal and the Tourmaline

The Opal and the Tourmaline
GENUINE BIRTHSTONE FOR OCTOBER
Opals are only found where once there had been an inland sea. It is as though the dying sea had left this vivid gem in memory of rainbows that arched above it. Some feared the power of the Opal, which was reputed to make its owner invisible so that he could escape the roving eye of misfortune. Like its companion birthstone, the Opal signifies hope.
The Tourmaline also belongs to October. It is another attractive birthstone for jewelry.

TRF Adventist Programs Seek Local Support

Area residents are urged by Rev. Ernest Dobkins, to contribute to the community service programs Seventh-day Adventists offer before the denomination's 73rd annual fund-raising drive in Thief River Falls ends a week from Saturday.

Stop-smoking clinics, health-screening clinics and emergency disaster relief work Adventists sponsor statewide reflect the interest the church has in people, Rev. Dobkins said.

According to "Medical Word News" (Dec. 24, 1979), Seventh-day Adventists had more physicians employed in more overseas countries than the next 13 highest Protestant and Catholic denominations combined. Of the 1,021 doctors working in 59 different contries that year, 438 came from the Adventist denomination.

Annual community service appeal is the only public request for funds made by the Adventist church. Approximately 10 per cent of the total budget for Adventists' humanitarian programs is received through this drive; the other 90 per cent is given throughout the year by church members.

"The donation you give, when the unpaid solicitor comes to your door, will help lessen the misery of this world," the pastor added.

Planets Among Phenomena In October Sky

Planets, some visible to the naked eye and others invisible, are part of the darkening fall sky in the first half of October.

Only two are clearly visible now, but a third can be seen by those who know where to look. Of Earth's other planetary neighbors, three are too distant ever to be seen by the naked eye. One of these distant planets, Uranus, is currently one of the biggest question marks in our solar neighborhood.

Mercury, the closest planet to our sun, is barely visible now, low and dim in the western sky at sunset. Between Mercury and Earth lies Venus, clearly visible now as the brightest object in the southwestern sky after sunset and through out the night.

After Earth in the widening elliptical orbits of planets around the sun lies Mars. Now clearly visible between 2 a.m. and sunrise, this slightly reddish planet is very high in the southern sky just before sunrise.

Beyond an invisible asteroid belt on the other side of Mars, Jupiter and Saturn circle the sun. Neither can be seen now because both are in conjunction with the sun (in a straight line behind the sun) hidden from view.

Further still from the sun although nearer than Neptune and Pluto lies Uranus. All three planets are too far from Earth ever to be visible to the naked eye.

Uranus is the next target on the route of the Voyager 2 spacecraft, which should pass the mysterious planet in January 1986. Very little is known about Uranus. At 2 billion miles away from Earth, it receives and reflects so little sunlight that only a faint greenish dot reaches even the most powerful telescope. Its distance is so great that Voyager signals will take three hours to reach Earth.

Uranus is a large gaseous planet, similar to Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune in that it has only a small solid core, or perhaps none at all. The swirling mass of hydrogen and helium, is large enough to contain 64 Earths. Because of its distance from the Sun, Uranus is a cold planet — its average temperature is -300 F.

Uranus is a ringed planet, each of its rings has hundreds or perhaps thousands of ringlets, similar to Saturn's. Too narrow and dim to be seen from Earth, the ring system was discovered during an "occultation," which occurs when a body passes between Earth and a far-away star. As the star's light is blotted out, the object blocking the light (in this case Uranus) can be studied. As the atmospheric fuzz of Uranus gradually dimmed the light of the star, astronomers could see that its atmosphere was a pattern of rings. The ring system seems to be less than 100 miles deep, circling the planet some 10,000 to 15,000 miles above its gaseous surface.

It appears that only the large planets have rings, because immense gravity is required to create them, said Thijs van der Hulst, astronomer at the University of Minnesota. Rings are formed when small satellites are torn out of orbit or ripped apart, or particles are hurled around the planet at such high speeds that they are never able to combine in satellite form. The information collected from Voyager 2's passage should teach us more about the process, van der Hulst said.

High Schoolers Invited To Day On UM Campus

High school students—interested in learning about the University of Minnesota Twin Cities campus may spend a day there October 16.

Sponsored by the admissions office, "Sneaker Preview" will offer tours of the Minneapolis and St. Paul campuses. Students will have opportunities to meet faculty members and advisors to discuss educational and career plans. Information also will be available on financial aid, housing and student activities.

Visitors will meet at 8:30 a.m. in the Great Hall of Coffman Memorial union on the east bank of the Minneapolis campus. No advance registration is necessary.

Limited accommodations are available for students who want to spend a night on campus before the preview. Reservations may be made by calling (612) 373-3030 collect.

"Sneaker Preview" is scheduled to last until 2 p.m.

COACT Angry At 'Monopoly' Of Timber Co's.

Charging Potlatch corporation with being an illegal monopoly and demanding they change their process of buying timber, COACT loggers will be present at the joint select committee on forest management's tour of the Potlatch plant in Bemidji Thursday (October 8) at 3 p.m.

COACT loggers were told by Sen. Gerald Willet, chair of the committee, that "this is an educational tour for the committee. . . but if you feel compelled to follow, it is your prerogative."

COACT loggers are angered by what they consider to be the monopoly control timber companies have over wood products from the forest to the final customer and the lack of concern state legislators have shown toward the problem.

At the committee's hearing in International Falls September 21, COACT logger Larry Leeper handed legislators questionnaires with stamped envelopes addressed to COACT. Sen. Willet assured Leeper the questionnaires would be filled out by each legislator on the committee and returned to COACT by September 30. Of the 12 members on the committee only two, Rep. Irv Anderson and Rep. Doug Carlson, have returned their questionnaires to COACT.

"We made it as easy for them as we could, and still no answer from Willet, Senators Gene Merriam, Dave Rued, Timothy Penny, Doug Johnson or represenatives Robert Anderson, Joe Begich, Willard Munger and David Battaglia. We don't expect them to know it all but it sure seems they should know how to fill out a questionnaire. How can they represent us if they don't keep the lines of communication open?" stated Ralph Fredrickson of the COACT loggers task force.

Loggers from COACT will also be speaking at the committee's hearing in Bemidji at 7:30 p.m. Topics to be addressed include: (1) The purported monopoly of the timber companies, (2) the need for a limit on the number of state auction permits a timber company can hold, (3) the need for reform in the timber scaling process and (4) legislators' disregard for the loggers and the communities of northern Minnesota.

Parent Class Studies Home Environment

In Monday night's parenting class offered at the Northwest regional library, Peggy Johaningsmeir will help parents examine how the home environment can provide varied and stimulating activities for children and at the same time prevent harm. The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. in the meeting room.

This class is sponsored by AVTI adult education and the Thief River Falls babysitting co-op and is open to the public free of charge.

Bruno Presents Talk During Conference

In comments made to the Forensic Chiropractic association last week at the Fort Worth, Texas convention center during a national conference for the chiropractic profession, Dr. Philip Bruno of Thief River Falls said special effort must be made to accommodate the care and treatment of accidental injuries.

Dr. Bruno said that the working man deserves the best in care and the victim of an automobile accident should seek immediate specialized care. Serious and costly injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.

The new emphasis on accidental injury treatment underscores the role chiropractic has in caring for patients who sustain injuries on the job or while in their cars, Dr. Bruno told the conference.

Project 20 To Operate Fall, Winter

Project 20, the Minnesota state patrol's continuing effort to enforce the 55-mile-per hour speed limit, will operate with one 10-member squad this fall and winter, according to public safety commissioner John P. Sopsic.

The project, which began in the fall of 1979, is entering its third year. Two 10-member squads have patrolled high-volume, high-speed traffic highways during the spring and summer months. Since March of this year no prior announcement has been made of the project's schedule.

Col. Roger Ledding, patrol chief, said primary attention is given to violations of speed laws but emphasis is also on other violations such as driving under the influence (DWI).

CPAs Give Advice On Auction Bids

Shopping at auction is often the way to spot a potential good buy. Before you make your bid, however, consider all the financial aspects of an auction, says the Minnesota Society of certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

In addition to the price of the item, you may have to pay a buyer's commission and, in the case of large items like furniture, there will be expenses for getting them home.

At the auction, carefully examine the merchandise and make up your mind not to exceed your preset maximum bid. Know the terms of sale and acceptable means of payment before you bid. If they are not printed in the catalogue, or on the sale bill ask an attendant or the auctioneer. Terms of sale include buyer's commission. Most auctions charge 10 per cent of the final or "hammer" price.

CPAs suggest you carry enough cash to cover bids if you are unsure of terms of payment. Some auction houses take personal checks, but others insist on certified or travelers checks. A few larger auction galleries accept credit cards, although some of the largest do not.

Although all public auctions are free unless otherwise stated, country auctions might require an admission fee as retainer. You can apply this amount to any purchase or reclaim the entire amount when you leave. Most country auctions operate on a cash and carry basis. If you are a regular and have already established a payment record, ask the bookkeeper about opening an account and paying for all your purchases at the end of the day.

If you can not be present at an auction, or if you want to avoid overbidding, ask whether the auction house accepts advanced bids by mail or phone. The house will execute your bid when you provide the sale and lot number and the maximum amount you wish to bid. The item you want is purchased at the next bidding increment. Let's say your maximum is $600 and the next highest bid is $450. With the increments of bidding at $50, you will be charged $500 for the item.

If you are interested in bidding for an item, purchase the catalogue or obtain the list of items included in the sale.

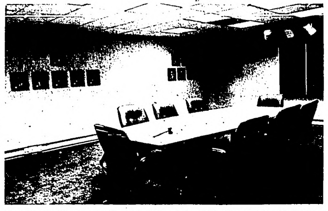
Double check the estimate on any item if you are unsure of its worth. Ask the house expert for an opinion of the estimate and a guess at the final price. Compare the estimate with prices at other auctions, flea markets and antique stores. Decide not only how much the item is worth but how much you are willing to pay for it.

When you bid, be sure of the amount you are offering. The increments of bidding depend on the starting price of the item. For a $50 item, the bids may increase at the rate of $10. A $1,000 item, however, may jump $500 at one time. If the price soars, the increments may change. Ask the auctioneer to clarify the increment if you are not sure and a change has not been announced. A bid can only be withdrawn if the house permits and the withdrawal is made before the hammer.

Be sure you understand terms of sale before bidding at auction. Established auction houses may guarantee that the lot (the item or group of items) is what they represented it to be in the catalogue or at the time of sale. Such guarantees do not assure a refund if you discover your lot to be fraudulent. Auctions which offer no guarantee might refund your money if the error is discovered soon after purchase and the merchandise is returned promptly with your receipt.

CPAs suggest you read the policy statement carefully when returns and refunds are permitted. No returns are permitted for catalogue error. When such words as "probably" or "possibly" assign an item to an artist or period, do not assume the authenticity of the item. A policy of "no returns" is not unusual for smaller houses, but keep in mind that a house with a reputation for nonreturnable fakes will not stay in business long.

The farther away from the city you travel, the more likely you are to find bargains, but don't assume, CPAs say, that all country auctions are underpriced and city auctions are overpriced. Regional tastes affect price; and a general, country auction is as likely to attract a knowledgeable specialist who can spot a bargain as a novice collector. City auctions are usually restricted to one field of collectibles, and offer higher prices. (Although 85 per cent of the lots auctioned at one international auction house, go for under $1,000.) But regardless of where the auction is, knowing how to buy can save you money.



BOARD OF DIRECTORS of Production Credit association of Thief River Falls meet in this room which is part of the association's new building on highway 59 south. Members of the board include chairman Ronald Haugen, Goodridge; Lenord Swanson, Thief River Falls; Dona Rock, Mentor; Edward Moe, Grygla; and Glen Hammer, Badger.

Exhibit On Egypt Featured At Museum

Traditional arts and crafts of Egypt will be featured in "Khanel-Khalili: Bazaar of Egypt," an exhibition opening at the science museum of Minnesota in St. Paul October 16.

Exhibition receives its title from a unique floor plan which attempts to replicate the color and vitality of the Khen-el-Khalili, the famous marketplace of Cairo. Visitors will stroll down a winding street, past shops with Kelim rugs, camel blankets, spices, baskets, jewelry and articles of clothing.

The children of Egypt will be represented in three areas of the Khan-el-Khalili: "Egypt as Seen through the Eyes of Her Children" includes 43 pieces of needlework and drawings. In another exhibit area, tapestries produced in the Harrania district under Ramses Wiss Wassef will illustrate how that master taught children weaving skills which survive in flourishing cottage industries today. Finally, embroidered pictures from Akhmim display the skills of young people who work together in cooperatives.

Local color will be prominent on the Khan-el-Khalili. Antiquities excavated on a University of Minnesota dig in Akhmim, one of Egypt's oldest cities, will be on view. Dr. Sheila McNally, an archeologist in the University's art history department, has assembled textile fragments, pottery and glass dating back to New Kingdom Egypt. Also on display will be art objects collected by Egyptians now living in the Twin Cities metropolitan area.

Dear Editor:

Just a note to make better known the strange policy of one of your city businesses — the Galaxy Twin Theatre. It seems the movie they advertise is not necessarily the movie shown for that particular date. And, unfortunately, they do not care about their business or their customers enough to compensate for their error.

Four members of my family and three relatives drove together 50 miles to see Walt Disney's "Condorman" late this summer. However, when we arrived for the show we found out "The Fox and the Hound" was showing instead. Since all of our party (except myself) had seen "The Fox and the Hound" previously, we drove the 50 miles home again quite disappointed and upset. The theater manager didn't think our being inconvenienced was any big deal. The theater owner has not responded to my letter. Which leads me to believe this must be common policy.

A trip to the movie theater is a rare treat these days when one has to drive so far and the ticket prices being what they are. Needless to say, when we can't count on seeing the movie advertised, it will be even more rare!

Yours truly,
-s-Mrs. Marcia Pederson
Kennedy, Minn.

To The Editor:

An open letter to the board of education of School District 563 and the TRFEA:

Now that the TRFEA has taken a strike vote, we feel it is time that the teachers' negotiations be settled. We think it's time the citizens publicly express their feelings.

A strike will not settle the issue. The issue is how much should the teachers be paid. We believe, with the TRFEA, that they should have parity with school districts the same size in N.W. Minnesota.

A strike will hurt teachers (lost pay), students (lost educational opportunities), and the taxpayers (they pay the bills, but with a strike, they will not get their money's worth). A strike will not hurt the administration or the school board as they will continue receiving their salaries.

Dragging on negotiations hurts everyone because of the stress and emotional pressure of not knowing what will happen. It hurts teacher effectiveness. A hard-line approach, which both sides have taken under guidance from their respective statewide organizations, also creates strain, tension and lost relationships between the parties.

As parents and taxpaying citizens, we call for a settlement of the negotiations NOW! We believe the issue can be settled in short order if both sides will agree, when meeting with the mediator on Thursday, to a non-stop bargaining session. Both sides will have to compromise, but we believe it can be settled if both parties will agree that there will be no coffee, cigarette, lunch, potty or sleep breaks until the issue is settled. We challenge both sides to adopt this procedure.

Nader Opens MEA's 96th Convention

Ralph Nader will address the opening session of the many-faceted 96th convention of the Minnesota Education association (MEA), which begins at 10 a.m. October 15 in the Minneapolis auditorium and convention hall.

All sessins are free and open to the public.

The two-day convention — which will center in the auditorium complex and spread to facilities throughout the metropolitan area for Friday's specialties sessions — is expected to attract more than 20,000 educators from throughout the state.

Others on the program for the opening session include Gov. Al Quie and MEA president Donald C. Hill.

Thursday afternoon and Friday will be filled with hundreds of sessions in the Minneapolis auditorium and convention hall and in commercial facilities and schools throughout the Twin Cities metro area. These sessions — most of which will be open to the public — will provide pertinent information on educational issues and techniques, ranging from academic freedom, censorship and the new right to career changes for teachers.

Also featured will be numerous special performances in the auditorium exhibit hall, including musical and theatrical presentations.

Convention-goers also will be able to visit one of the nation's largest education exhibits in the auditorium exhibit hall.

MN. Banks Hold $2,102,220,000 In Farm Loans

As of the first of the year, Minnesota banks held farm loans totaling $2,102,220,000, according to Michael Leonard, chairman of the Minnesota bankers association agricultural and rural development committee.

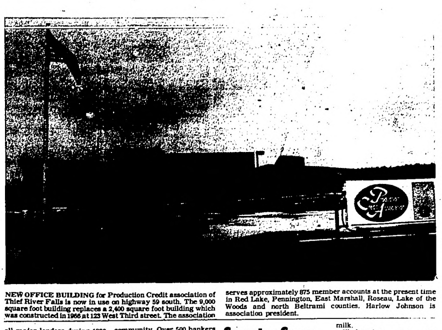
"Of the more than two billion dollars Minnesota banks provided for agriculture, $1,835,705,000 went for non-real estate purposes, while $266,515,000 was devoted to agricultural real estate lending," said Leonard, citing results of the American Bankers association's annual agricultural credit activities report.

By comparison, Production Credit associations provided $956,990,000; the Federal Intermediate Credit banks, $53,906,000; the Farmers Home administration, $382,041,000; individuals and others, $613,337,000; and the Commodity Credit corporation, $662,042,000 in non-real estate farm loans in 1980, Leonard said.

In real estate loans, Federal Land banks provides $1,805,736,00; Life Insurance companies, $295,071,000; Farmers Home Administration, $456,600,000; and individuals and others, $1,751,762,000.

Nationally, banks held a total of $40.3 billion in agricultural loans, 38.3 per cent of the market share on non-real estate loans and 9.5 per cent of the market share for loans secured by farm land. Total farm debt held by all major lenders during 1980 was approximately $174.9 billion, up 11.3 per cent from the year before.

Leonard said that through the programs developed by the Minnesota Bankers association agricultural and rural development committee, Minnesota bankers are better prepared to serve the financial needs of the farm community. Over 500 bankers attend such programs as the Midwest Banking institute conducted at the University of Minnesota, Morris and a special series of agricultural workshops conducted each Spring.



NEW OFFICE BUILDING for Production Credit association of Thief River Falls is now in use on highway 59 south. The 9,000 square foot building replaces a 2,400 square foot building which was constructed in 1966 at 123 West Third street. The association serves approximately 875 member accounts at the present time in Red Lake, Pennington, East Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and north Beltrami counties. Harlow Johnson is association president.

Electric Van Featured At Energy Expo

Minnesota department of transportation's (Mn-DOT) electric van will be on display at the Minnesota Energy Expo '81, October 15-18, at the St. Paul civic center.

The Electra Van, which was purchased in October 1980, has 17 six-volt batteries powering a 20-horsepower electric motor. The van is used to provide Mn-DOT mail service between metropolitan Mn-DOT buildings and other state agencies. The vehicle is driven about 30 miles a day, with its batteries recharged overnight. It takes about 11 seconds to accelerate from zero to 30 mph.

A summary of Mn-DOT's experiences with the electric van in comparison with gas-driven vehicles will be shared with the public at the exposition. Fuel costs run from three to five cents a mile to operate the van in comparison with 13 cents a mile for a gaoline-powered mail van, said Jim Wright, Mn-DOT planning engineer.

Mn-DOT's purpose in using the electric van is to provide leadership in energy conservation and to share the information with other persons interested in electric vehicles, Wright said.

Detailed information will be provided on the capital, maintenance and operating costs at the energy exposition.

Senator Says Congress Gives Up Bad Habits

"The fact that Senate Republicans proclaimed October 1 as New Year's day shouldn't surprise anyone. After all, Congress has traditionally been out-of-step with the real world for years, and just because New Year's day to everyone else is January 1 doesn't stop the government from proclaiming that the new fiscal year rightfully begins on October 1," states Sen. Rudy Boschwitz.

"But what is surprising is that this year, for the first time, Congress has made and kept a New Year's resolution. We're going to give up our bad habits and replace them with good habits. We're going to stop spending money without worrying where it comes from and we're going to stop taxing people as if they had unlimited income," he said.

"I think this is truly a historic occasion, because for once and for all the talk about budget and tax relief has been translated from rhetoric to reality.

"Since I've been here in the Senate I've heard a lot of talk about the budget, but not much action until now.

"When I arrived in Washington," the senator said, "my first votes in the spring of 1979 were on the 1980 budget of $532 billion. Two years later, just before he left, Jimmy Carter submitted the 1982 budget. It was $739 billion. That's a $207 billion increase in two years!"

"What we've now done is to pare the FY82 budget down through the reconciliation process. And from here on in we're going to have to prove we can stock with this. It'll mean more budget cuts and some hard political choices between programs. But I'm going to hang in there with the President, and I think my colleagues will also.

"But to merely bend down the growth line of government spending and leave it at that would be self-defeating in the long run," he added. "Along with spending moderations (and that is what most of them are; very few programs are actually being eliminated) is another side of the coin . . . tax policy. There what we've done is to provide an alternative to government dependency for business, individuals and organizations by promoting a better climate for job creation and some real increases in income. Our society must primarily grow through the private sector, not government.

"I hope that as we move into the new year, that we keep in perspective the monumental nature of the task before us. We shouldn't be impatient if we don't see tangible results by October 2, and we can't just sit back and do nothing further. We have to give the program beginning tomorrow some time to take hold. We also must take further action as it becomes necessary to reinforce the program in the months and years to come," Sen. Boschwitz concluded.

Construction Costs Cut By DOT Control

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) continues to cut construction costs under its construction cost control program, according to deputy commissioner Robert J. McDonald.

Mn-DOT has already adopted 30 major recommendations and many minor recommendations offered by contractors during a 1979 survey to attain greater value from available construction funds, he said.

To illustrate how the construction cost control program works, McDonald cites as examples three of the 20 recommendations adopted within the last year:

Mn-DOT has revised standards and specifications for traffic signal systems including controllers, poles and foundations. Revisions are expected to save $300,000 annually while improving performance of the systems.

A joint associated general contractors and Mn-DOT committee has identified provisions of the Mine Safety Act (MSA) that cause unnecessary restrictions on gravel pit operations. A bill has been introduced in the U.S. Senate that would exempt gravel pits from MSA. Passage of the bill would allow operating costs to be lower and still provide for necessary gravel pit operating safety measures.

Mn-DOT's office of research and developemnt now keeps counties and cities informed about new developments such as bituminous and concrete recycling for resource conservation and cost savings. Mn-DOT publishes the "Research and Publication Review" which contains abstracts and articles from various publications that are of interest to local units of government. Research and development employees also present seminars on selected topics for county and municipal engineers.

"Many of the other recommendations that have significant cost-reduction value will probably later be adopted and used by Minnesota counties, cities and other governmental agencies," he said.

For further information, contact Leo Ryan, Mn-DOT chief value engineer, 505 State Transportation Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 or phone (612) 296-2743.

The Labor Department's Office of Workers Compensation Programs (OWCP) administers benefits for federal employees and certain other groups who suffer job-related injuries, diseases and deaths, according to the publication, "U.S. Department of Labor."

Washington Report

Sen. Dave Durenberger

The recent snowfall (up to 2 inches in some parts of the state) and sub-freezing temperatures tell us that winter is right around the corner in Minnesota. And that always brings to mind the threats of heating oil shortages we had a few years ago.

Minnesota is at the end of the nation's energy pipeline. If there is a cut-off of imported oil it means that Minnesotans — especially farmers and rural residents — are the first ones to suffer.

The situation became even more serious midnight Sept. 30. That's when the Energy Petroleum Allocation Act expired. This legislation gave our country the measures necessary to deal with an oil shortage. As it stands now, if there's an oil shortfall, we're unprepared to deal with the problem.

Recently, I spent an afternoon at the White House talking about this situation with President Reagan's top aide, Ed Meese. I laid out for him the Minnesota facts of life, and asked him for administration support of my Petroleum Disruption Management Act which calls for phased-in solutions in the event of a crude oil shortfall.

Minnesota gets 80 per cent of its oil products from independent refineries. These refineries don't have their own sources of crude oil. They're dependent on imported oil. My legislation would re-establish a "buy sell" program that guarantees access to crude oil supplies for independent refineries even in case of a shortage.

Another part of my bill would give the president the authority to allocate crude oil among the nation's 240 refineries, moving supplies to regions of the country where they are most needed.

Finally — and this is especially critical for Minnesota farmers and rural residents — my bill establishes a system of product allocation to make sure that critical industries (and what's more important than farming?) receive supplies during an oil emergency.

I told Ed Meese that my legislation has been endorsed by the National Farmers Union, the AFL-CIO, the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, among other groups. In fact, the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee included most of the provisions of my bill in legislation that it recently approved.

I also told Meese that I would oppose efforts to sell Alaskan oil to other countries. If we start selling Alaskan oil to Japan, for example, I'm afraid we will never get that oil to Minnesota where it's needed.

I expect the Senate to act quickly on my bill and give Minnesotans the protection they need.

Local Realtor Attends Class In Marketing

Norman Anderson, realtor, Great Northwest Agency, Inc., Thief River Falls, recently completed a three-day course in exchanging and creative marketing techniques in the real estate field. The course was conducted by the farm and land institute of the National Association of Realtors.

The course showed how to deal in real estate when financing and taxes create barriers to transactions.

AVTI Course For Drivers Begins Oct. 14

A 12-hour course designed to meet the criteria for training special transportation personnel will be offered by the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute (AVTI) starting October 14 from 6-10 p.m. at the AVTI, room 120, for three consecutive Wednesdays. Another session will be offered at the Crookston Central high school, room 205, starting November 4 from 6-10 p.m., running for three weeks also. Cost of the training is $18. Ila Flesche, RN, is the instructor.

Purpose for training the vehicle driver or passenger assistant is to provide him with information on the particular needs of the elderly and handicapped passengers and to suggest ways these needs can be met. Course includes four hours of first aid, eight hours on characteristics of aging and attitudes toward elderly and handicapped, and four hours covering moving, lifting and transferring passengers, and operation of lifts, ramps, and wheelchair securement devices.

Interested persons may preregister by contacting Adult Education, Thief River Falls AVTI, Highway One East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; 681-5424.

Quie Expresses Concern Over Job Climate

Minnesota's job climate is "tied like a steel knot" to the state's ability to maintain a high quality of life, Gov. Al Quie said in Duluth Saturday.

Blaming DFL politicians for consistently taking the business community for granted and for taking business "to the cleaners," Quie called Attorney General Warren Spannaus a recent and perhaps less than sincere, convert to the business climate issue.

And the governor implied that much of Minnesota's economic trouble can be traced to DFL control of the Minnesota Legislature since 1973.

The Impendiments that state government put in the way of business and job growth in the 1970's are taking their toll in the 1980's. We're reaping what we sowed unwisely," he said.

Quie's remarks were prepared for the annual fall meeting of Minnesota Associated Press editors and publishers.

The speech was Quie's toughest comment to date on the issue of jobs and the attitude of state government toward business an issue that likely will be the centerpiece of 1982 campaigns.

"Without good jobs, and without a strong tax base, Minnesota cannot work. It's as straightforward as that," Quie said.

His comments largely echoed complaints by business lobbyists, such as the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry. Quie called high workers' compensation costs the single biggest obstacle to expansion of manufacturing industries in Minnesota.

But he said a combination of taxes, costs and government attitudes have led to a perception that Minnesota is a poor place to do business. If government is indifferent or hostile in good economic times, it would be short-sighted, Quie said.

"During troubled times, such as now, any vestige of it is self-destructive," he said.

"We are imagining the impossible if we think we can compete successfully with other states for new jobs unless we continue righting our course. Other states, to their profit, are not nearly as aloof as Minnesota has been about these things," Quie said.

The Independent-Repulican governor said a package of job-climate proposals, including tax cuts, will be the heart of his legislative program.

He said the key to economic recovery in Minnesota is the same as it is nationally — revitalizing the private sector — adding that President Reagan is correct in arguing that a strong and compassionate nation depends on a "receptive business climate and an optimistic business community."

Spannaus, who is seeking DFL Party endorsement to run against Quie next year, said he resented Quie's suggestion that he is insincere on the business climate issue and he challenged the governor's record on jobs.

"He's been in office for nearly three years, and there's not one shred of evidence that we have made any gains in jobs during that period," Spannaus said.

"I'm afraid, though, that I just can't take seriously his attempt to outflank me on the issue of jobs," Quie said. "It's been the DFL, after all, that has consistently taken the business community both for granted and to the cleaners. And by so doing, they have weakened Minnesota's capacity to provide good jobs for our people."

Quie outlined the following 10-point program, although he was not specific how much of it he would seek in the 1982 legislative session and how much would be left for 1983:

+ More reform of workers' compensation insurance, beyond 1981 changes, but without denying "fair benefits" to injured workers.

+ Use a graduated system for corporate income taxes, to help smaller firms which do most of their business within the state. All corporations now pay a 12 percent rate. (Quie said in an earlier interview he would suggest a 6 per cent rate on the first $25,000 of taxable corporate income.)

+ Reduce unemployment insurance costs, expecially by cutting down on abuses.

+ Review state regulations and mandates.

+ Allow the same depreciation schedules for business as in the new federal tax law.

+ Reduce property taxes on commercial and industrial property. Quie said rates in Minnesota are higher than they were in California prior to Proposition 13.

+ Reduce capital gains taxes.

+ Reduce estate taxes, so that retired persons have an incentive to stay in Minnesota.

+ Reduce estate taxes, so taxes, putting the highest rate at 14 per cent instead of the current 16 per cent.

+ Continue reductions in state spending.

Boschwitz Pushes Commodity Food Program To Senate

Extending the commodity supplemental feeding program to low-income elderly who are at nutritional risk was discussed recently by Sen. Rudy Boschwitz on the floor of the senate during deliberations on the 1981 farm bill.

He said he would hold hearings on this concept later this year.

"The commodity supplemental feeding program is not new, but now serves only pregnant and breast-feeding women and children up to the age of six," Boschwitz said. The project he will introduce extends that program "to the low-income elderly who are at nutritional risk."

Boschwitz admitted that extending such a program in the days of the budget cutter would "raise a few eyebrows."

But, he said, "as the government reduces the growth of some of its programs, we must be looking for alternative cost-effective means to help those who are truly needy."

Of particular interest is the CSFP program's heavy use of volunteers.

"Public service organizations operate the programs on a largely volunteer basis. There are few paid staff in the programs; rather, the majority of the work is done by volunteers — doctors, drivers, dock loaders and others. This program depends for its livelihood upon the commitment and involvement of the private sector.

"Public service organizations contract with the department of agriculture to receive commodities — juice, canned vegetables and meat, cheese, dried milk, and so forth — and set up an establishment like a grocery store in a warehouse or similar building. The CSFP then provides packages of USDA commodities to pregnant mothers and their children under the age of six who are food stamp eligible — 130 per cent of poverty and asset test — and at a nutritional risk.

Those pregnant mothers in the area who meet the food stamp income test and who have been examined by a health professional documenting that they are at nutritional risk can participate in the program. Doctors who volunteer their time for these examinations prepare a food prescription. The participant takes this prescription to a food center and receives a food package based upon the participant's nutritional needs.

"The commodity supplemental feeding program has been one of the most cost effective nutrition programs because of the involvement of volunteers and the private sector and because administrative costs are limited, by law, to 15 per cent of the value of the commodities," Sen. Boschwitz said.

"Compare this program with the women, infants and children (WIC) nutrition program. The WIC program is widely recognized as one of our most effective nutrition programs and that program costs the government about $27.49 per food package, according to the USDA. A similar package in the commodity supplemental feeding program costs the government $17.50. Compare this also with the food stamp program, which in 1980 had an average monthly cost of $34.35 per person and in June 1981 was over $41.

"In my estimation, the two most determinative factors in the cost effectiveness of the commodity supplemental feeding program are the use of commodities rather than retail goods as in the food stamp program and the heavy reliance of this program on volunteers and the private sector.

"Again, it is well known that the elderly do not participate in existing programs nearly to the extent of the rest of the population. In November of 1979 there were 19.1 million people eligible for the food stamp program. Of those eligible, 17.2 million participated and 90 per cent of the total population participated. During that same month, according to the USDA, however, only 1.8 million of the 3.6 million eligible elderly participated in the food stamp program. Only 50 per cent of the eligible elderly participated as compared with 90 per cent of the eligible total population," he said.

"What causes so little representation? According to the USDA, the two principal reasons for lack of participation by the elderly are welfare stigma and lack of transportation. The commodity supplemental feeding program would alleviate these problems. The visit to the doctor and the food prescription help eliminate the welfare stigma. The transportation problem is solved through the use of volunteers to deliver the commodities to the homes of the participants and take the participants to their semiannual doctor visits.

"The one feature that distinguishes this program from any other elderly nutrition program is that it will specifically serve those elderly people who have nutritional needs. It will serve these elderly people through a program that is already in place, and operating most effectively," Sen. Boschwitz added.

"Finally, I stress that this program, unlike any other, would serve only those elderly people who are found to be at nutritional risk. There is a population of low-income elderly that is not being reached through existing nutrition programs for the elderly and these people need, and certainly deserve, a program such as this."

ONE EXAMPLE of cooperative efforts by local landowners, watershed district, agricultural stabilization and conservation service, soil conservation service and other agencies is the Baird-Beyer dam built in 1979 in Red Lake county. This aerial photo shows the pool of water held behind the earthen dam. The impoundment can hold up to 400 acre feet of flood water and provides erosion control benefits. It was one of the projects tourned by air by members of the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources (LCMR) last Monday.

English Tutors Workshop Set For Oct. 12-13

"Befriend someone from another country," read posters for the English as a second language tutor training workshop scheduled for 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. October 12 and 13, in the food service building, room B, at the University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC).

Purpose of the workshop is to teach people to be volunteer tutors, said Mary Larson, assistant director of UMC's reading center and coordinator of the event. The workshop, sponsored by UMC, is certified by the Minnesota Literacy Council and the State Department of Education refugee program.

Fee for the workshop is $8, which includes cost of materials. Preregistration, required by October 8, may be accomplished by calling Larson at 218-281-6510, extension 388.

Workshop For Nurses At HCC Nov. 13

An all-day continuing education workshop for nurses will be conducted in the Hibbing community college fine arts auditorium November 13 beginning at 8 a.m. An open invitation also is extended to all area clergy and counselors.

Seven-hour workshop is titled "Communication: The Challenge of the Long-Term and Terminally Ill Patient."

Featured speaker will be communications consultant Mary Jane Madden, a doctoral candidate in speech-communications at the University of Minnesota, Minneaplis.

Completion of the workshop will enagle participants to enhance their skills in recognizing and overcoming the problems encountered which influence communications in the care of the long-term and terminally ill patient.

Seven contact-hour workshop is designed to meet the Minnesota board of nursing requirements, and is co-sponsored by the American cancer soceity and the HCC community services department.

To register contact Pat Barner, director of A.D. nursing, Hibbing Community College, Hibbing; phone 262-3877, extension 56. Registrations should be made before November 9.

Increase In Mexican Gas Sales Likely

Agreement to sell Mexican natural gas to the United States last year started the flow of a new source to the American consumer.

Although the initial amount of gas transported to the U.S. is only about 300 million cubic feet a day, the agreement is expected to pave the way for larger sales after both nations have had an opportunity to consider the impact on their economies. Current imports represent about one-half of one per cent of all gas consumed in the U.S., or about twelve per cent of U.S. Natural gas imports.

Mexican gas began flowing into the U.S. on January 15, 1980, at an initial price of $3.625 per million Btus, which is equal to approximately $21 a barrel for oil. The agreement allows for the price to be adjusted quarterly and ties the gas price to that of the world oil market.

Latest estimates place proven Mexican oil and gas reserves at 65 billion barrels of oil equivalency. This could include as much as 103 trillion cubic feet of gas.

600 Expected At 72nd Annual AMC Meeting

More than 600 county officials and their spouses from throughout Minnesota will convene at the Kahler Hotel in Rochester November 8, 9 and 19, for the 72nd annual conference of the association of Minnesota counties (A.M.C.). This year's theme is "The Challenge of County Leadership in a Climate of Cutbacks."

Conference attendees will hear from Gov. Albert Quie, attorney general Warren Spannaus, state Sen. Roger Moe and Minnesota's senior U.S. senator, Dave Durenberger. Conference planners believe that this roster of speakers will help to provide a summary of government realities at the state and federal levels, particularly in light of the "new economics" that present fewer available funds and reduced government expenditures.

Opening general session November 8, will feature Roger Blackwell, Ohio state university, a nationally recognized expert in public sector concerns and management, who will focus on "Changing Lifestyles: Implications for County Government."

Monday's activities will include workshops intended to provide county commissioners, other elected officials, and county staff persons with information and insight regarding current topics such as: "Identifying Fiscal Crisis in Your County," "Water Resources," "Solid and Hazardous Waste," "Cutback Management," "Developing an Effective Decision Making Process," and "Parliamentary Procedures."

Monday's activities will also include a spouses tour to Mayowood, Mantorville and the Dodge county courthouse (ranked as the oldest working courthouse in Minnesota — construction was commenced in 1866).

Luncheon speaker Monday will be Blackhawk county (Iowa) commissioner Lynn Cutler, who will present the topic "Can We Do More with Less?" Monday evening's activities include a social gathering that will feature a concert and dance program by the New Wolverines classic jazz orchestra from the Twin Cities.

Tuesday's activities include a special workshop for spouses and concurrent round-table discussions on various topics of county interest such as: "Social Serrvices and In-Home Care for Seniors," "Public Official Liability," and "County Recycling Programs."

Tuesday afternoon the delegates will take part in the annual business session and elect officers for the coming year. Current A.M.C. president, Frank Jungas of Cottonwood county, will preside. Three day conference will conclude Tuesday evening with the annual recognition and awards banquet at which time several individuals and counties will be honored for outstanding achievement.

This year's meeting at the Kahler Hotel in Rochester marks the second time A.M.C. has met in southeastern Minnesota in the past decade.

Music Fest At Plummer Sun.

Third annual Christian music festival will be conducted Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Plummer.

Program will feature the Trochmann family, the Zionettes, the Christian Fellowship Singers and a number of other area musicians.

Public is cordially invited to attend.

Varhus Dance Orchestra At Grand Forks

Varhus dance orchestra will play for a concert and dance in Grand Forks, ND on October 15 at 8:15 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, sponsored by Sons of Norway Lodge 21 in Grand Forks.

Appearance of Varhus dance orchestra is part of a cultural exchange between Norway and the U.S.A. This group will participate in the international Hostfest at Minot, N.D., October 23 and 24.

Combination Service At Our Saviour's Sun.

Our Saviour's Free Lutheran church of Thief River Falls will celebrate a combination service this Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Installed during services that day will be Rev. Les Galland, who will serve as pastor of Our Saviour's Free Lutheran church of Thief River Falls and Reiner Free Lutheran church of Goodridge.

Also taking place that day will be the dedication of the new organ at the church. Mark Gronseth, music company representative, will play the organ during the service and will present a short organ recital.

Richard Snipstead, president of the Association of Free Lutheran congregations, will perform the installation service as well as bring the morning message.

Galland, a native of Mentor, graduated from Bemidji state university and the Association of Free Lutheran theological seminary. He has served parishes at Stacy, Spicer and Willmar in Minnesota and Everett, WA.

Galland and his wife, Jan, have three children, Janeen, a student at Northland community college; and James and Jonathan, students at Our Saviour's Christian academy.

A fellowship (potluck) dinner will follow the service. Public is invited to attend.

Legislators Tour Projects In Watershed

to meet with North Dakota officials in St. Paul or in Bismarch," he said.

The LCMR subcommittee was also interested in encouraging more joint projects between state agencies. One suggestion was to look at the feasibilty of installing gated outlets on several sites to afford even further protection during peak flows.

The legislators also hoped more cooperation between local and state transportation officials would result in some dollar saving measures through the construction of multi-purpose flood control structures and bridge replacements.

Chairman Ogaard also informed the St. Paul delegation that efforts are now underway to monitor all substreams on the Minnesota side of the Red River valley. When completed, this data should assist in determining a sound overall plan for flood control. The chairman noted "this is the first time any agency has attempted to analyze the contributing factors of the valley's flooding problem." Ogaard said this information would be made available to all government agencies when completed.

At the conclusion of Monday's activities, the senators agreed the tour had been an informative one. Rep. Willard Munger (DFL, Duluth) said, "I am in favor of what you've done and am willing to support this activity." Sen. Gerald Willet (DFL, Park Rapids) echoed Munger's sentiments saying, "I found today very informative and can appreciate your efforts." Other legislators in attendance were Rep. Gary Laidig (IR, Stillwater) and Sen. Clarence Purfeesrt (DFL, Faribault). Staff members from the LCMR and the DNR were also present.

Park Budget Cuts Aired By City Council

moderate income rental housing. Alderman Ambrose Wysoski stated opposition to the plan commenting he would "rather cut public housing than school lunch." He referred also to a recent cut of financing for new rental housing. Thorstad noted the grants were for improvements to existing rental units, where the tenant pays 25 per cent of their income. A comment was made that "a lot of those houses probably shouldn't be fixed." The resolution passed with Wysoski opposed.

City Clerk Gerald Wigness informed council that the state had revised its levy limit figures to $411,166 from $408,742. Council voted to raise the levy to the new maximum which would adjust the levy total from $892,341 to $894,765.

Bids were reviewed for the extension of water mains on Dewey Avenue from 11th to 10th street. The bids was awarded to Sellin Brothers Inc., Hawley, for $8,484.43. City Engineer Dave Kildahl noted the top three of the four bids received were all within $100 of each other. Property owners will be assessed $9.13 per front foot at 9 per cent interest for ten years. Clerk was asked to have property owners waive requirements for hearing to expedite the project before freeze up.

One bid was received from St. Regis Culvert Operations, Bemidji, at $16,872 for an aluminum box culvert to be installed on Barzen Avenue. Mayor Carlson questioned why only one bid had been received, and why an aluminum culvert was being used. Kildahl said they had advertised for alternative culverts, noting that a corrugated steel culvert would be about 15 per cent cheaper, but had gotten no takers. He explained the box culvert was needed because of a lack of clearance between the ditch grade and the road surface. He said that the aluminum culvert could be installed by city employees without use of a crane, saving expense of hiring a machine.

Quotes received for improvements to the Eighth Street boat ramp were all over $10,000, necessitating a legal advertisement for bids. Mongoven was instructed to inquire whether more funds were available from the Department of Natural Resources for the project. The matter was tabled until more information was received.

In other business the council:

—approved a new three-year lease for the nursery school using old library building until November, 1984, with the stipulation that a 90 day cancellation clause be included and that rental be established at $2 per month per child, effective September 1, 1982.

—approved a request from Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice-president Jerry Sandstrom for limited parking signs in front of the Chamber building which will now be used as a depot for the Red River Trails bus line.

—were notified the New Solum dumpsite was now closed, and instituted measures to legally advertise the fact.

—applied for a permit to use the dumpsite for open burning of diseased shade trees.

GTA President, Ass't. Manager Are Retiring

Major change in executive management of the Grain Terminal association (GTA) will take place early next summer. B.J. "Barney" Malusky has announced his decision to retire as president and general manager on June 30.

Malusky also announced that Lowell L. Hargens, GTA assistant general manager, will retire May 31.

Gordon Matheson, Conrad, MT., chairman of the board of directors, said a search committee is being formed to name Malusky's successor. No timetable has been set for completion of the selection process, Matheson said. Malusky, 61, was named GTA general manager in June, 1968, and became president and general manager in June, 1971.

Malusky began his career with GTA in 1947 as a field auditor in the Williston, ND, area. In 1958 he was named head of what has become GTA's country operations division. He was appointed assistant general manager in 1965.

Hargens, 62, joined GTA in 1940 as an accountant in its Great Falls, MT office. He was named head of line elevator operations in 1961 and also headed country operations before becoming assistant general manager in 1968.

Under Malusky's management, the regional grain marketing cooperative went from a loss of $1.3 million in net savings in 1969 to net earnings of $28.9 million in 1980. Revenues in 1980 totaled almost $2 billion.

During that time GTA's annual grain handle increased from 164 million bushels to 400 million bushels.

Services At Fisher's Travel Center Limited

Fisher's landing travel information center, located on US 2 between East Grand Forks and Crookston, will be closed for the winter season, beginning October 12. Rest area facility, which includes indoor restrooms and off-highway picnic and parking, will continue to serve motorists on a 24-hour basis.

Minnesota department of transportation (Mn-DOT) officials cite economic pressures as the main reason for the cutback in service at the Fisher's landing facility.

Fisher's Landing first opened as a rest area in November of 1980. The travel information center service was added in June of this year. Despite the encouraging response throughout the summer months, officials are concerned that the desire and need for these services would be substantially reduced during the next six to seven months. Staffed information center operation is scheduled to be restored again next spring.

The Mn-DOT operates five other travel information centers, all at entry points and on interstate highways. A seventh center is located on US 53 near Eveleth and is operated by another state agency. Travel information service is scheduled to remain available at all of these facilities year around.

R. Douglas Olson, coordinator of Mn-DOT's travel information centers, said that visitors from the northwest can still receive travel information regarding road and weather conditions, winter vacation opportunities and Twin Cities attractions by entering the state and visiting the Mn-DOT center on Interstate 94 at Moorhead.

Views On® Dental Health

By Donald R. Goodrich, D.D.S.

THE FRACTURED TOOTH

Every year thousands of people have accidents that cause damage to face and mouth, sometimes resulting in a fractured tooth. It may be caused by an auto accident or sports or an accidental fall at home. Whatever the cause, a fractured tooth presents a serious problem and should be treated by the dentist immediately to prevent infection and loss of the tooth.

If the fracture hasn't penetrated to the pulp of the tooth, the dentist will apply medication to ease the pain and place a temporary cap over the tooth to protect it. Later the tooth will be crowned to restore its appearance.

If the pulp has been exposed by the fracture, the tooth must be treated within 24 hours to prevent infection and other complications. Any pulp that becomes infected will have to be removed to save the tooth. Eventually the pulp will heal when the dentin or inner wall of the tooth knits back together.

Whatever the cause, there should be no delay in seeking treatment when a tooth is fractured.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of DONALD R. GOODRICH, D.D.S., Professional Bldg., Thief River Falls. Phone: 681-4506.

Inter-City Gas Corporation filed a general rate increase with the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission on June 1, 1981. The Commission must decide by June 1, 1982, how much of an increase, if any will be approved. The Public Hearings will provide an opportunity for persons affected by the proposed increase to present their views.

The summary below describes the average percentage impact of the rate increase upon annual revenues by classes of service. Individual rate changes may be substantially higher or lower.

	Present Rates	Proposed Rates	Increase Amount	Percent
Residential	$10,322,00	11,107,000	785,000	7.6
Commercial	8,698,000	9,892,000	1,194,000	13.7
Industrial	719,000	824,000	105,000	14.6
Interruptible	1,827,000	1,928,000	101,000	5.5
Special Contract	28,445,000.	29,088,000	643,000	2.3
Other Revenue	133,000	133,000	—	—
Total	50,144,000	52,972,000	2,828,000	5.6

The rate changes described in this notice have been requested by Inter-City Gas Corporation. The Minnesota Public Utilities Commission may either grant or deny the requested changes, in whole or in part, and may grant a lesser or greater increase than that requested for any class or classes of service.

Evidentiary Public Hearings for presentation of direct testimony and cross examination are scheduled for January 25-28, 1982, in the Board Room of the Middle School in Cloquet, Minnesota, during the hours of 9:30 a.m. - 12:00 noon and 1:30 p.m. -5:00 p.m. Information about the hearings may be obtained from the Office of Administrative Hearings, 1745 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota 55104.

Gas Conservation Is Priority Item With AGA Firms

American gas association (A.G.A.) and its 300 member companies have been Americans to become more energy conscious. Because demand for natural gas is high, conservation continues to be an important priority.

A.G.A. and its member companies have supported legislation to provide tax credits for upgrading insulation, installing energy-saving devices in homes, and for modifications of existing oil or gas-fired heating systems to increase their efficiency.

Major objective of A.G.A. members is to educate customers to energy savings payback opportunities of newer, more efficient appliances. In many areas of the country consumers receive direct help in determining which conservation actions will save energy and money. Home energy audits, information on efficiency-related products and financing assistance are available.

A.G.A.'s Halt excess energy drain program monitors conservation ideas and technology for industry and government decision makers. An industry-wide program to determine usefulness and safety of various options and adjustments to improve efficiency of gas home heating systems, the Space heating efficiency improvement program, encourages use of properly sized furnaces, develops new furnace technology, and tests modifications of existing residential heating equipment.

In further support of conservation goals, in 1967 the gas industry initiated a sophisticated computer program and modeling technique to assist architects, engineers and building owners in solving problems associated with energy use in buildings. The program is one of the most used energy analysis computer programs today.

During the 1970s, A.G.A. research committees and staff managed or guided more than $40 million in research and development programs, with a major protion oriented toward energy conservation and optimum use of energy resources.

The Gas Research Institute (GRI), Chicago, plans to spend $26.9 million (39 per cent of the research budget) in 1981 on studying "efficient utilization." by 1984, the GRI budget calls for $33 million to be spent on that area of research.

With continued conservation efforts, proven and potential reserves of natural gas are expected to last well beyond the year 2000 as supplemental gaseous fuels are developed.

A.G.A. studies show that the nation's gas users have made progress in conserving energy. The most recent A.G.A. data available on residential gas usage shows that energy consumption per customer for heating in the U.S. during 1977, 1978, and 1979 was down 16, 13, and 18 per cent respectively from pre-1973 levels.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peros

Q. Pastor Don, a friend of mine said Jesus Christ never existed. How do you answer something like this? I don't know what to say.

A. There are still many people today who make the claim that Jesus Christ never existed, that He was only a mythical character.

However, those who make such an accusation are certainly not historians, but are surprisingly ignorant of the facts.

The New Testament contains 27 separate documents which were written in the first century A.D. These writings contain the story of the life of Jesus and the beginnings of the Christian church from about 4 B.C. until the decade of the A.D. nineties.

The facts were recorded by eyewitnesses who gave firsthand testimony to what they had seen and heard. I John 1:1 says "That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of the word of life."

Moreover, the existence of Jesus Christ is recorded by the Jewish historian, Josephus, who was born in A.D. 37. He claimed that such a man performed many wonderful works, a great teacher, and influenced many Jews and Gentiles alike.

Cornelius Tacitus (A.D. 112), a Roman historian, writing about the reign of Nero, refers to Jesus Christ and the existence of Christians in Rome.

The testimonies of both Christians and non-Christians is more than sufficient to put to rest any ideas that Jesus Christ never existed.

After examining the evidence about the life of Christ from contemporary sources apart from the New Testament, there isn't even the slightest hint or ideas that he was not a real historical person.

If you have any questions you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peros, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

SUPERLUBE 518 MULTIGRADE

Worn-out oil in the crankcase can cause a shut-down gas or diesel engine to lose up to 60 hours of operating life to internal corrosion in only three weeks. That's because worn-out oil contains harmful combustion acids and water. Together, they can pit precision surfaces and form abrasive rust particles. In the long run, you lose performance—and money.

Changing worn-out oil with fresh CENEX SUPERLUBE 518 MULTIGRADE protects shut-down engines by neutralizing corrosive acids formed during engine warm-up. Run through an engine just before it goes into storage, CENEX SUPERLUBE 518 MULTIGRADE coats moving parts with an acid-neutralizing barrier that protects an engine right through winter layover.

Much of the talk in the early portion of the 1981 high school football season centered around the independent status of former Northwest Athletic Conference members Thief River Falls, Crookston and East Grand Forks, and the apparently easy route open for one of them to qualify for the post-season Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) Class A state playoffs.

All the Prowlers, Pirates or Green Wave had to do, afterall, was to beat the other two teams in the informal three-way arrangement and finish with a better than .500 season record. A tie-breaking system was developed in case the Prowlers, Pirates and Green Wave split amongst themselves. The MSHSL stipulation that the qualifier was required to have a winning record hardly caught anyone's attention.

However, at this point — going into week No. 6 of the 1981 season — it's unlikely the area will have a Class playoff representative.

Thief River Falls' demanding schedule and tough luck has already eliminated the Prowlers from playoff possibilities. They're 0-5 and even a sweep over the final month against Bemidji, Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston would make them just 4-5 — one game short of the playoff requirement that they be at least 5-4.

Crookston and East Grand Forks are still alive in the playoff hunt, but barely. The defending Class A champion Pirates are 2-3 and they have just three games remaining because of an open date on their schedule. You must have a better-than .500 record to advance into post-season play, says the MSHSL, meaning Crookston must sweep East Grand Forks, Barnesville and Thief River Falls to finish 5.3. If they lose just once the rest of the way they're 4-4 and out of the race.

East Grand Forks is also 2-3 and will need to win three of its final four games to qualify for the playoffs. The Green Wave finish with Crookston, Devils Lake, Thief River Falls and Fergus Falls.

Should either the Pirates or Green Wave turn things around and meet the MSHSL standards, they would be involved in one of seven preliminary qualifying games featuring Class A conference champions. The area representative would be matched against the Sea Range Conference champion (Aurora-Hoyt Lakes, Eveleth, Greenway-Coleraine, Hermantown, International Falls Proctor, Silver Bay, Two Harbors, Virginia) Nov. 3. Those games would precede the actual start of the eight-team Class A playoff quarterfinals Nov. 7.

Tough-Luck Season For Prowlers

Its been a disappointing start to the 1981 season for the Lincoln high school football team, winless in five games. Early expectations had some thinking in terms of a 7-2 or 6-3 season for the Prowlers.

But few eligibility problems at the beginning, a strong schedule and some plain tough luck all helped shatter those high expectations.

However, despite the five straight losses, Thief River Falls has shown a lot of character, drawn praise from their opponents and displayed the ability to compete on even terms with the stronger teams.

Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz has repreatedly said he feels the Prowlers should be playing the type of competition others might shy away from. The results might not look too good in the won-loss column at this point, but the schedule for the most part brings out top performances from the team members and provides some quality football for the fans.

Don't be surprised if the Prowlers gather their pride, play up to their potential and finish the 1981 season with four straight wins over former Northwest Athletic Conference rivals Bemidji (Friday in the Thief River Falls homecoming game), Fergus Falls, East Grand Forks and Crookston.

Area Teams Eye Playoff Spots

While northwestern Minnesota may be shut out of the state football playoffs at the Class A level, the area will have teams in post-season play. Mahnomen looks like a sure bet to go after another Class B trophy, while several teams have their sights set on extending their schedules in nine-man play.

Close to home, Middle River can all but wrap up the North Tri County Conference nine-man title Friday if the Skippers get by Erskine. Both teams will enter the 3 p.m. game at Middle River 5-0.

The area nine-man state playoff format starts with the Northern Lights Conference champion playing the Top of the State Conference winner (at this point it looks like Argyle). Winner of that game will meet the North Tri County Conference champion in the preliminary qualifying game round. That winner, in turn, will face the Agassiz North vs. Agassiz South playoff champion in the nine-man state quarterfinals.

Lincoln, Northland Play Homecoming Games

Spittin' images of each other, the Lincoln high school and Northland community college football teams will share the Thief River Falls athletic field this weekend when both the Prowlers and Northmen feature their 1981 homecoming games.

Lincoln will host long-time athletic rival Bemidji Friday at 7:30 p.m., with Northland entertaining Hibbing Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in an MJCAA Northern Division game.

The look-alike teams have three things in common this fall: outstanding defenses; little offense; and a lack of success in the won-lost column.

Neither defense has been embarrassed, earning the respect of opponents and fans for their hard-hitting style of play that has for the most part held the opposition in check. But the offenses have struggled. The 0-5 Prowlers have been shut out twice and have produced just 28 points in five games. The 1-3 Northmen have been shut out once and outside of a fourth quarter rally against the University of Minnesota-Crookston (set up, incidently by defensive-forced UMC turnovers) that netted a come-from-behind 26-13 victory, they have mustered just 19 points in 23 quarters of football.

Unbeaten Bemidji will present a real challenge for the Prowlers. The Lumberjacks own wins over Crosby-Ironton 28-0, Little Falls 21-20, Detroit Lakes 19-6, Park Rapids 13-7 and last week were very impressive in shutting out Fergus Falls 13-0.

Bemidji dominated Fergus Falls, posting a 21-6 edge in the first down department, finishing with a 310-141 advantage in total offensive yards and never allowing the Otters to mount a serious scoring threat. It could have been more one-sided on the scoreboard, but the Lumberjacks had potential scoring drives messed up by two penalties, a fumble and an interception.

Dives, counters and slants over the left side behind the blocking of 5-10, 185-pound tackle Eric Bakke and 5-7, 170-pound guard Bob Hirt enabled Bemidji to have two 100-yard runners. Troy Hendricks, a 6-0, 180-pound senior who is the Lumberjacks' top offensive threat, rushed for 121 yards and 5-11, 170-pound senior Gordy Anderson added 109. Junior Craig Smith, in his first start in the backfield, scored on a 13-yard run in the second quarter and Hendricks capped an eight, play, 70-yard drive with a 22-yard scoring run early in the third quarter.

Bemidji beat Thief River Falls 26-12 in their 1980 meeting, but two years ago the Lumberjacks brought an unbeaten, highly-rated team here and suffered a 22-21 loss that began a season-ending tailspin for the Lumberjacks.

Northland, meanwhile, will be trying to pull itself out of the Northern Division basement against a team that did just that a week ago when Hibbing surprised an Itasca team that had been making noise in the MJCAA, 24-6.

That evened the Cardinals' record at 2-2. Earlier they beat Vermilion 12-7 in their 1981 season opener, then lost to Brainerd 17-7 and Fergus Falls 25-0.

Playing in the cold, the rain and a strong wind Saturday night, Hibbing scored 18 unanswered fourth quarter points to snap a 6-6 tie with Itasca — against the wind. A fumble recovery and an interception set up two of the scores, with another coming on a 50-yard run.

One thing the Cardinals did not do well was to kick extra points; they had four of them blocked.

ALL SEVEN MEMBERS of the Lincoln high school varsity squad are visable in the middle of the photograph taken at the start of the Thief River Falls invitational cross country held Tuesday on the Thief River Country Club golf course. Starting with the fourth runner from the left, the Prowlers include Kurt Wagnes, Matt Grabanski, Kevin Kezar, Tim Bergland, Lon Aune, Bruce Johnson and Steve Kruta. The Prowlers, paced by Johnson, who placed second, and Aune, who ran fourth, won the nine-team event by a 47-50 margin over runner-up Detroit Lakes. The Lakers took the girls varsity race.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL teammates Kristy Forsberg (left) and Sue Hanna ran 1-2 for nearly the entire race Tuesday in the girls varsity portion of the annual Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet. Forsberg sprinted past Hanna down the stretch to win the two-mile event in 12:17, with Hanna turning in a second place 12:21.

Prowlers Shine In TRF Cross Country Results

Outstanding performances at every level — boys varsity, girls varsity, boys junior varsity and boys junior high — by the host Prowlers brought a big smile to the face of Lincoln high school cross country coach Lynn Dyer Tuesday during the annual Thief River Falls invitational run on the sunny, but soggy Thief River Country Club golf course.

The Prowlers won three of the four races and took two of the four individual titles in the multiple-team meet.

Thief River Falls won the boys varsity feature by a 47-50 margin over a Detroit Lakes team that expects to challenge Alexandria for Region 8AA honors later this month. Grand Forks Red River was third with 57 points, followed by East Grand Forks 84, Kelvin high school of Winnipeg 155, Crookston 177, Roseau 178, Bagley 206 and Beausejour, Man. 214. Two other strong entries who indicated they would participate — Grand Forks Central and Park Rapids — did not show up for the meet.

Area standout Ted Sundin of East Grand Forks, the pre-meet favorite, won the three-mile race in 15:43, but had to hold off a serious challenge by Thief River Falls' Bruce Johnson, who lost ground only at the end of the race and finished second in 15:53.

Guy Hummel of Detroit Lakes finished third in 16-minutes, followed by Lon Aune, Thief River Falls, 16:05; John Gronas, Detroit Lakes, 16:16; Dale Shores, Red River, 16:24; Jon Grabow, Detroit Lakes, 16:27; Conrad Hoy, Kelvin, 16:28; Greg Lambeth, Red River, 16:30; and Steve Kruta, Thief River Falls, 16:37 to round out the top ten.

"I know I've said this for the last three meets, but again we had some excellent performances, all the way from our junior high to the varsity," said Dyer. "It's always nice to have a good showing at home, and maybe we were just a little more fired up than usual."

"The boys varsity sort of stole the show," acknowledged Dryer. They ran just fantastic. If Detroit Lakes thinks they can challenge Alexandria in the region, they know they can add Thief River Falls to the list, too. And now we have two guys who have shown they can stay close to Sundin — Aune (a week earlier in the East Grand Forks invitational) and Johnson."

Detroit Lakes edged Bagley 49-50 for top honors in the girls varsity race, followed by Thief River Falls 58, Beausejour 118, Kelvin 168, Fort Totten 170 and Crookston 212. Roseau, Grafton and East Grand Forks fielded incomplete teams.

But while the girls were the only Thief River Falls team unable to secure a team victory, the Prowlers boasted a 1-2 finish with Kristy Forsberg and Sue Hanna, who led the pack the entire race. Forsberg overtook Hanna down the stretch and finished with a 12:17 for the two-mile run. Hanna came in a 12:21.

Rest of the top ten finishers in the girls varsity race were Michelle Mallow, Detroit Lakes, 12:41; Kristi Steinbach, Bagley, 12:48; Diane Strong, Bagley, 12:49; Leona Winnemuller, Beausejour, 12:50; Jenny Carlson, Detroit Lakes, 12:59; Sue Blank, Detroit Lakes, 13:00; Dawn Bowcott, Beausejour, 13:01; and Jule Larson, Bagley, 13:14. The Flyers were within one point of the Lakers despite missing their No. 1 runner — Dayna Fahrlander, one of the top runners in Region 8A.

"Some of our girls did not have their best day," admitted Dyer, "but to place 1-and-2 with the competition we had is fantastic. Kristy and Sue have both run so well this year. They have each finished consistently in the top five or six in all our meets. I think they both have a good chance to place in the top ten in region, and with a good day, the top five."

Thief River Falls won the boys junior varsity race with 53 points, followed by Fort Totten 60, Grafton 69, Detroit Lakes 75, Red River 104 and East Grand Forks 197.

Terry Iceman of Fort Totten was the individual winner with a 17:02 for the three miles. Steven Hvidsten paced the Prowlers with a fourth place 17:39.

Thief River Falls also won the boys junior high event with near-perfect 17 points, followed by Fort Totten 65, Beausejour 94, Grafton 127, Detroit Lakes 134, Roseau 228, Crookston 252 and Beausejour II 318.

It was a clean sweep of the top four places for Thief River Falls, with Stacy Svir winning the two-mile race in 11:57, followed by teammates Mike Booren 12:05, Mike Purdy 12:09 and Chris Helle 12:10.

"We have some young runners who are running very well," noted Dyer. "I can't believe how well our junior high ran; I had hoped they would be in the top three."

First Thief River Falls varsity-alumni meet will be held Friday in conjunction with the 1981 Lincoln homecoming celebration. Starting at 7 p.m. near the Thief River Falls athletic field, runners will cover a two-

Spuds Defeat Prowlers 97-75

No less than 20 of the 23 Thief River Falls entries turned in either their best performances of the year, or in some cases their best efforts ever, but it still wasn't enough to beat a strong Moorhead team Tuesday as the Spuds defeated the Prowlers 97-75 in a high school swimming meet in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls coach John Hustad was more than happy with the Prowlers' performances, despite the final results that showed the Spuds winning nine of the 11 events. "That's reality," he offered.

Winning for the Prowlers were Robyn Dallmann and Lisa Desrocher, two of the only three seniors on the youthful Thief River Falls squad. Dallmann won the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:18.93, with Desrocher winning the diving competition with 191.85 points. Lori Swanson, the third Thief River Falls senior, was second in diving with 171.45 points.

Judi Dailey and Holly Corner were double event winners for the Spuds, who are expected to be grouped with Brainerd, Bemidji and Alexandria in a close four-way first place battle in the post-season Section 3 swimming and diving championships Nov. 24 at Bemidji State University. Dailey won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:26.06 and took the 100-yard butterfly in 1:10.44. Corner covered the 50-yard freestyle 26.50 and did the 100-yard backstroke in 1:09.24.

Thief River Falls, 3-4 in dual meet competition, will host Detroit Lakes Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the Franklin pool, but will first compete Friday in an invitational meet at Minot, N.D.

MATCHING EACH OTHER stride for stride, Detroit Lakes' Guy Hummel and Thief River Falls' Lon Aune were constant companions Tuesday in the annual Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet. Hummel finished third with an even 16-minute clocking over the soggy three-mile course on the Thief River Country Club, with Aune a close fourth in 16:05. Ted Sundin won the race in 15:43, with Bruce Johnson of Thief River Falls finishing second in 15:53.

Unbeaten Middle River, Erskine To Play Friday

Unbeaten North Tri County Conference co-leaders Middle River and Erskine tangle Friday at 3 p.m. in Middle River to highlight the sixth week of the 1981 area nine-man high school football season.

Both teams will bring 5-0 records into the game and a victory means the edge going int the final three weeks of regular season play, although the Comets still must face Oklee, Clearbrook and Gonvick-Trail, while the Skippers have an easier finish against Mentor, McIntosh-Winger and Grygla-Gatzke.

Erskine came up with an impressive 28-7 victory over McIntosh-Winger Friday, while Middle River was blanking Plummer 35-0, Grygla-Gatzke edged Mentor 12-6 in a match-up of winless teams, Gonvick Trail handled Clearbrook 30-8 and Oklee defeated Goodridge 26-6.

Elsewhere this week, Goodridge is at Clearbrook, Plummer at Oklee, Grygla-Gatzke at Gonvick-Trail and Mentor at McIntosh-Winger.

In the nine-man Top of the State Conference Friday, Stephen and Marshall County Central meet at Newfolden, Greenbush is at Argyle and Tri-County high school of Karlstad will be at Hallock.

Argyle remained the only unbeaten Top of the State Conference team Friday with a 58-0 rout of winless Tri-County, with Marshall County Central beating Greenbush 35-14 and Stephen taking Hallock 12-7.

Sixth week of the 1981 season completes the traditional Friday scheduling for many area teams, who will play their final three games during mid-week, beginning with the MEA-week games Tuesday, October 13, when Gonvick-Trail will be at Goodridge, Mentor at Middle River, Clearbrook at Plummer, Oklee at Erskine and Grygla-Gatzke at McIntosh-Winger for a full round of North Tri County Conference games, with Marshall County Central at Tri-County Thursday, October 15.

Northern Lights Volleyball Matches Scheduled Saturday

Fourth annual Northern Lights invitational volleyball tournament will be played Saturday in the Lincoln high school gym, featuring Thief River Falls, Crookston, Bemidji, McIntosh-Winger, Roseau, East Grand Forks, Warroad and Greenbush.

First round matches will find McIntosh-Winger playing Thief River Falls at 9 a.m.; Bemidji vs. Warroad at 10; Greenbush meets Crookston at 11; and East Grand Forks is paired against Roseau at 12 noon.

Semifinal matches will be played at 1 p.m. (Scots-Prowlers winner vs. Lumberjills-Warriors winner) and at 2 o'clock (Tigers-Pirates winner vs. Green Wave, Rams winner), with consolation matches set for 3 and 4 p.m.

Third place match is scheduled for a 6 p.m. start, followed by the consolation championship match at 7 and the tournament title match at 8.

Thief River Falls improved its season record to 5-3 Monday with a 2-0 sweep over winless Bemidji. The Prowlers beat the Lumberjills 18-10, 18-16 in a performance that wasn't given a very high rating by Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss.

It was a clean sweep for the visitors as the Lincoln junior varsity rallied to beat Bemidji 17-19, 18-13, 18-15 for a 2-6 season record and the Lincoln freshmen evened their season record at 4-4 with their third straight win, 18-9, 18-15.

Thief River Falls visits Red Lake Falls Thursday for a 7:30 p.m. match.

Freshmen Lose To Bemidji 6-0 For 3-3 Mark

Bemidji scored in the fourth quarter Monday to edge Thief River Falls 6-0 in a freshman high school football game played at Bemidji.

The loss dropped Thief River Falls to 3-3 for the year, with a Monday, October 19, game against Crookston closing out the 1981 season. Game time on the Thief River Falls athletic field will be 4:15 p.m.

Meanwhile, wet grounds forced postponement of Monday's Thief River Falls vs. Grand Forks Central junior varsity football game in Grand Forks. The game has been rescheduled for Monday, October 12, at 7 p.m. at Cushman Field in Grand Forks. Thief River Falls junior varsity is 0-2.

Lincoln high school sophomores, 0-3 for the year, will host Grand Forks Red River Thursday at 7 p.m.

Prowlers End 10-1 In Dual Meet Matches

A 5-0 sweep over Roseau Tuesday closed out the 1981 regular season schedule for the Lincoln high school tennis team. The Prowlers, who finished 10-1 in dual meet competition, saw a scheduled Monday match at Mahnomen erased by rain.

Post-season North Half Region 8AA play starts with team matches Monday and Tuesday, followed by individual competition Wednesday. Team play will be held at East Grand Forks, with the individual matches scheduled for the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Lincoln junior varsity finished with a 5-2 victory over Roseau Tuesday and a 7-1 dual meet record.

Eagles Rally, Defeat Rams

Junior Becky Klein came off the bench in the final game and served six points to lead Grygla-Gatzke to a come-from-behind 16-18, 18-7, 18-16 high school volleyball win over Roseau.

It was the Eagles' second win in two nights. On Monday, Jean Verbout and Kim McLern came up with 14 and 11 service points, respectively, in an 18-10, 9-18, 18-6 victory over Lake of the Woods.

Elsewhere, Climax defeated Goodridge 18-4, 18-3 Tuesday, dropping the Huskies to 1-7

October 18-24 Is National High Schools Activity Week

Week of October 18-24 has been proclaimed national high school activities week, reminds Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith.

"At Lincoln high school, students are offered different athletic activities, along with instrumental and vocal music, speech, drama and a host of different club activities," reports Smith.

"Close to 50 teacher-coaches work with the students in these programs. So far this year, we have 263 students involved with a fall sport activity along with 270 taking part in the instrumental and vocal programs. Club activities are just now getting organized for the year and it appears they are again drawing many interested students and will enjoy another banner year."

"We at Lincoln feel that although we already have a very high percentage of our students involved in various school activities, we would still like to encourage the parents of students not yet involved to have their children take advantage of the opportunities these activities offer," added Smith.

Fall State Tournament Events Will Start October 28 In St. Paul

First of eight Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) sponsored fall sports state tournament events being held during a six-week span will begin October 28 when the eighth annual state Class AA and Class A girls tennis tournament gets underway.

State tennis tournament starts on that last Wednesday in October and runs through Saturday, October 31, at the Rein Tennis Clubs (Como, Phalen, Lilydale) in St. Paul. Team play will be conducted on Wednesday and Thursday while singles and doubles competition is slated for Friday and Saturday.

Defending Class AA team champion is Edina East, who also won in 1979 and 1978. This year Edina East merged with Edina West and will play under the name Edina, a name the school had from 1950 until 1972 when the school split into two schools. In Class A, two-time defending team titlist is St. Paul Academy.

One singles champion from a year ago has graduated: Class AA victor Anne Lemieux, Edina East, who also won title honors during her junior year. In Class A, St. Paul Academy senior Lisa Martin will try and become the first girl ever to win three successive state individual championships if she should qualify in 1981.

New doubles champions in both Class AA and Class A divisions are certain.

Next in line among the eight fall sports state meets is the annual state Class A and Class AA cross country meet and the state Class A and AA girls cross country meets. Those running affairs take place at the University of Minnesota golf course in Falcon Heights on Friday (Class A) and Saturday (Class AA), October 30 and 31.

Girls will run 3,200 meters each day beginning at 1 p.m. with the boys covering 5,000 meter terrain starting at 2:30.

Girls cross country has a six-year history in the MSHSL. Cross country first became an MSHSL activity back in 1943. Class A has 125 girls teams registered throughout the state, while Class AA registration of girls teams total 120. Registration of boys' teams numbers 129 in Class A and 122 in Class AA.

Defending Class AA girls team champion is Eden Prairie, while Esko captured top honors a year ago in the Class A girls division. Minneapolis Southwest, who won their 18th state title in the 38-year history of the meets, is the defending Class AA boys titlist, while three-time defending Class A boys champion Rochester Lourdes is again expected to seriously challenge for another title in 1981.

Only one individual winner from among last year's four state champions was not a graduate, so new champs are certain in three races. Lisa Koelfgen, last year's Class AA girls victor, is expected to win her way back again in 1981. Two years ago as a sophomore, Koelfgen finished third.

Following the girls tennis tournament and the cross country meets the second annual state girls soccer tournament will take place on Tuesday and Thursday, November 3 and 5. Four schools from among the state's 41 that are participating will enter state tournament play. Semifinal action on November 3 will pit champions against one another from among the section tournament winners. The championship game is set for November 5. All games are scheduled for 7 p.m. Section 2 champion will play at the Section 3 titlist in one semifinal pairing. The other has Section 1 playing at the Section 4 winner. The title game will be played at the school that has played away from home during semifinal action. If both semifinal winners were either away or at home during semifinal play, then a coin flip will determine which school will play host to the game.

Bloomington Jefferson is the defending state champion.

Eighth annual state soccer tournament will be conducted during the same week as the girls soccer state playdowns. For only the second time in the event's short history, eight teams will qualify for state playoffs. Previously, four section winners had advanced.

Quarterfinal games will be played on November 3, semifinal games November 5 and the championship game is set for November 7. Quarterfinal and semifinal action will begin at 7 p.m. with the title game set for 1 p.m. Sites of games will be known once section titlists are determined. There are 61 high schools sponsoring interscholastic soccer programs this fall. Burnsville is the defending state champion.

Adding to the excitement of those early November days will be the tenth anniversary of the state football playoffs, scheduled for November 6-7 (quarterfinals); 40 of them (eight in each of the five classes) will advance to the state playoffs. Competition will again be conducted in classes — AA, A, B, C and nine-man.

Sites for all games will be determined once qualifying teams are known. Defending champions include Burnsville in Class AA, Crookston in Class A, Mahnomen in Class B, Bird Island-Lake Lillian in Class C and Hoffman-Kensington in nine-man.

Eight annual state girls Class AA and Class A volleyball tournament is also in the November 20 and 21, that event will bring together eight region champions in each class for three rounds of championship series play.

Armstrong in Class AA and Moose Lake in Class A are defending champions.

There are 498 high school interscholastic girls volleyball teams in Minnesota, with 124 of them in Class AA and 374 in Class A.

Two state events held during the first week in December round out the fall sports season state tournament calendar.

Fortieth annual state gymnastics meet, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, December 4 and 5, will take place at Edina West high school. Team and all-around winners will be named on Friday. Competition on Saturday will result in the naming of champions in six individual events.

Park Center is the defending state champion. Some 28 schools sponsor interscholastic gymnastics among Minnesota's high schools.

Twenty-sixth state girls swimming and diving meet, scheduled for Friday and Saturday, December 4 and 5, is the other state event during the first week of December. Cooke Hall pool on the campus of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis is the site for that championship event.

Preliminaries in all 11 events is scheduled for the first day with finals set for Saturday.

Richfield is the defending state champion. That school is among 129 that sponsor interscholastic swimming and diving for girls in 1981.

Edina Teams Lead List Of State Champions

Since first becoming a high school in 1950, Edina athletic teams have won 42 Minnesota State High school league-sponsored state tournament championships. The total is tops among the 512-school membership of the MSHSL.

State titles by Edina is five more than that achieved by Duluth Central, who accumulated its first places in five sports between the period 1923 and 1979. In third place tied with 23 championships are Minneapolis Southwest and Virginia.

Rochester high school with 20 titles rounds out the top five. In all, 172 schools have had the honor of winning a state championship.

Known through its 31 year history as Edina, Edina-Morningside, Edina East and Edina West, the Edina school district split into East and West high schools in 1972. This school year they are back to one high school.

Before splitting into two high schools in 1972, Edina won 19 of its 42 total championships in seven sports. Since 1972, Edina East captured 13 titles and Edina West 10. Girls teams have won six of those 42 titles, all since 1978. The sport of tennis has been Edina's most successful in terms of state titles. Fifteen of its 42 titles were garnered by tennis teams.

Duluth Central, meanwhile, had skiing teams win 20 of their 37 titles. Minneapolis Southwest can thank its cross country teams for putting that school in third place on the all-time list. Southwest cross country teams have won 18 state titles. Most of Virginia's 23 championships were won by girls swimming teams (15).

Rochester's 20 total were achieved by swimming (10), tennis (9) and basketball (1) squads.

Record for most titles won by a school in a single sport is 20 by Duluth Central skiing squads.

Northwomen Beat Trojans In Volleyball

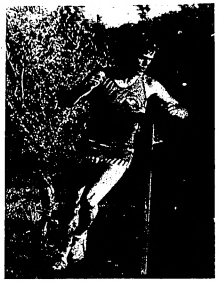
Northland community college remained unbeaten in two Northwest Division-counting volleyball matches Tuesday with a 3-1 victory over the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Northwomen, 8-7 overall, defeated the host Trojans 15-6, 11-15, 15-13, 15-9.

"We played well enough to win, but it wasn't pretty volleyball," admitted Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "Both teams were kind of flat, but we were able to pick up the pace a little bit."

After opening with a 15-6 win, Northland trailed 13-5 in the second game before rallying to within 15-11. It was a loss, but "that rally got us going," according to Jacobson.

Northland will host Brainerd Friday in a 7 p.m. Northwest Division match in the Northland gym.



BEATEN JUST once this fall, East Grand Forks runner Ted Sundin was a winner again Tuesday in the Thief River Falls invitational high school cross country meet on the Thief River Country Club golf course. Sundin made one of the final turns on the three-mile course and checked over his shoulder to see what kind of lead he had over second place Bruce Johnson of Thief River Falls. Sundin won in 15:43, with Johnson placing second in 15:53.

Minnesota Outdoors

by Stu and Dee Mann

Pelican Lake

When you come to Pelican Lake near Orr, you will find it one of Minnesota's most productive fishing lakes. It is noted for its excellent small mouth and black bass, northern pike and pan fish — especially crappies and blue gills. Muskies have been recently stocked.

It is one of Minnesota's larger lakes, having 56 islands and 54 miles of shoreline. No guides are needed to find fishing spots or to keep getting lost.

Hutchinson

Not enough people in the Twin Cities realize that less than 50 miles west of Minneapolis, on highway 7, is located on of the finest fishing areas in the state. The heart of this area is Hutchinson, home of the Gopher Campfire, oldest sportmen's organization in the sate.

There are many fine lakes here, producing fine catches of walleye, pan fish, bass and pike. Some of the better known lakes are Belle, home of the Gopher Campfire group, Lake Washington, Lake Stella, Manuella, Cedar Lake, Lake Hennie, Minnie Belle and Stahls Lake.

St. Cloud

Thriving city of St. Cloud is the junction of many Minnesota highways which lead to the fine fishing areas of marvelous Minnesota. In addition, St. Cloud offers fine fishing right in its own area, with smallmouthed bass and muskie fishing in the Mississippi river which flows through town.

Glenwood

Pelican creek from Pelican Lake to the west enters Minnewaska lake at the northeast and near the town of Glenwood. The lake flows out to the Chippewa river at the southwest end. Most of the shoreline is firm. About 60 per cent is sand and 30 per cent either boulder, gravel or rubble. Only about 10 per cent is soft bottom or muck.

This lake is contained in a vast shallow elongated basin oriented in the northeast, southwest direction. The deepest water is found in a small hole 31 feet deep in the center of the lake. Most of the bottom lies under about 20 feet of water. There is a gradual slope to the shoreline over most of the lake and there are many large panfish spawning shoals.

Among the fish to be found here of interest to the angler are walleye, northern pike, large-mouthed bass, smallmouthed bass, bluegills, pumpkinseed, black crappies, perch, brown bullheads and yellow bullheads.

If you have never visited this area for fishing or hunting, we suggest you do so. This is a year-around fishing area with many big walleyes being taken summer, fall and winter. By big walleyes, we mean fish in the five, six and seven-pound class.

Bear Facts

More information vital to hunters has been supplied by the Department of Natural Resources. Mail additional requests about bears to that department.

Department of Natural Resources reported that black bears have been causing problems around homes and farm buildings in northern Minnesota.

"There was a poor berry crop in some areas this summer and the bears are evidently seeking alternative sources of food," they report.

Although state law provides that bears may be taken to protect property, anyone so doing must report such taking to a conservation officer within 48 hours. These reports are not only required, but are also important to help monitor the size of the bear population.

"Bear that are making a nuisance of themselves can often be live-trapped and relocated and do not have to be killed," said the DNR.

Baudette

Lake of the Woods reported fishing is still slow this week, although walleye limits are being caught using minnows along the Pine Island and the Gap.

Northern activity is still active in the Rainy River along the weed beds.

DU Funds Are Earmarked For Montana Use

Expressing Ducks Unlimited's concern over the reaction to the recent endrin problem in Montana, DU president Robert D. Marcotte announced that "the organization has pledged $25,000 to Montana's Fish and Game Department to further research the use and effect of the pesticide.

According to Marcotte, this unprecedented grant is being made available so that wildlife professionals can assess the pesticide's impact.

"Pesticides are a fact of life today," Marcotte explained, "and if we are ever going to make this continent a fit place for all life forms, we had better start answering some of the obvious questions on just how pesticides like endrin impact wildlife and human populations." Marcotte went on the say that he hoped Montana will use the funds to pinpoint the short- and long-term effects this persistent pesticide could have on waterfowl, their habitat and those who use them.

"After all," Marcotte said, "answers to these kinds of questions must be based on facts and not assumptions or emotions that can lead to unjustified overreaction." The DU president concluded by saying, "we hope our grant encourages other conservation organizations concerned over this endrin situation to put their money on the table."

DURING OCTOBER WE HAVE THREE WAYS TO HEDGE AGAINST THE HIGH COST OF FARMING

CASH REBATE OF UP TO $4,700

Our offer is simple. When you come in and buy any new, in-stock Harvest Boss® combine, Field Boss® tractor or implement you can get up to a $4,700 rebate directly from White Farm Equipment Company. Just buy and take delivery between now and October 31, 1981. Come in and see us today for a complete list of rebates. Offer subject to inventory.

SAVE WITH FINANCE RATE AS LOW AS 10%

Tractors, combines and implements...we've got the equipment you need plus low financing. Just buy and take delivery of the new, in-stock equipment you want between now and October 31, 1981 and we'll finance it for one year at 10%. Or finance for two years at 12.5%, three years for 14.5%, four at 15.5% or five years for 16.5%. This special financing is in lieu of any other savings option listed in this offer.

GET WAIVER OF FINANCE UNTIL APRIL 1, 1982

Instead of a cash rebate or low interest financing, we can also offer you waiver of finance charges until April 1, 1982 on any new White Farm Equipment purchased and delivered before October 31, 1981. See us today for complete details on three great ways to fight the high cost of farming.

Public Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Thief River Falls water utility announced today that the State maximum allowable limit for turbidity in drinking water is being exceeded.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chlorine disinfection. However, the high turbidity levels, do not create any health hazard because the water utility is able to maintain effective levels of chlorine for disinfection.

The Thief River Falls water utility staff is working closely with State Health Department officials to reduce the turbidity to acceptable levels.

Any citizen seeking addition information should contact Allen Lemon at the Water Plant, phone number 681-3809.

Technology Said Key To Future Of State Industry

Exploiting technological opportunities to create new industries was suggested as a key to Minnesota's economic future by Harlan Cleveland, director of Hubert H. Humphrey institute of public affairs, speaking recently at a meeting of Minnesota Wellspring, a coalition of business, government, labor and academic leaders proposing to stimulate technological growth.

Cleveland told the group that Minnesota needs to take a hard look at areas that have so far been undeveloped on a large scale, citing recycling, new sources of usable energy, microbial processes, genetic research, and the convergence of fast computers and satellite communication as examples.

"Every form of garbage, sludge and throwaway is a possible basis for a new recycling industry," he said, adding that cast-off items should be seen as unused raw material rather than waste.

Stating that some of the most promising sources of alternative energy, including synthetics and shale, are very water-intensive, he commented, "It may be better to bring the raw materials to Minnesota's water rather than send Minnesota's water to create jobs elsewhere."

Cleveland said microbes have the potential for use in a variey of fields, including agriculture, energy, chemicals and mining. Microorganisms make up one-fifth of the world's biomass by weight, but are still "underemployed," he said. At present, industry uses microbes primarily in making cheese and sauerkraut and in fermenting beer and wine.

Genetic research also promises to be a fertile area for future development, Cleveland said. Genetic research into the development of human insulin, nitrogen for fertilizer, and antibiotics can be put to work to create jobs, he said.

Minnesota has been an important center for the information industry for years, but has only begun to exploit its potential, he said. "Unlike our nonrenewable minerals and our merely renewable bioresources, the information resource is not scarce, not depletable," Cleveland said. "It's rapidly and continuously expandable, so the next challenge is to put this information gusher that microprocessing has turned on to widespread and equitable use in the service of human needs and purposes."

"More than 50 percent of the U.S. national product now comes from people collecting, generating and using knowledge and information," he said. "The hardware side of the computer industry is still less than one percent of our national product. Even with software added, it's somewhere between two and three percent. But the ripple effect of faster, cheaper computers and faster, cheaper telecommunications now affects more than 80 per cent of our economy, and will soon touch every home and work-place."

Cleveland said he sees Wellspring as a group of Minnesotans who will ask "Why not?" The group's task will be to define the key areas for job-creating innovation and then focus community attention on them. "Wellspring should look for the Minnesotans with good ideas," Cleveland said, "and then sniff out the capital that could help Minnesota more if it were invested not in the rate of inflation, but in the race for new ideas."

Managing the future, he said, will necessitate upgrading education so that people learn to integrate informantion as well as analyze it and to use their intuition as well as their calculators.

Prepare Now For School Expenses Later

If you have children in school you know that there will be expenses during the year which will probably make a sizeable dent in your family budget. With the Consumer Price Index for school books and supplies up 12 per cent this year, the wise parent is doing some financial planning now, says the Minnesota society of certified public accountants (CPAs).

If your children are involved in extracurricular activities such as team sports, or the school orchestra or band, there may be uniforms or special equipment to rent or buy. Include the cost of these items in your budget.

Other expenses that you should budget for are class trips. Have your child ask the teacher at the beginning of the semester where and when the class will be going and how much the trip will cost. (Trips or sports often involve special accident or health insurance which may be a tax deductible expense).

Schools often require that children in certain grades have physical or dental checkups, or immunization shots for particular diseases. Find out early in the school year, so that you can consider this in your tax planning, CPAs advise. You can plan to have such routine checkps scheduled when it will be most advantageous. For instance, if your dental and medical expenses this year will amount to more than 3 per cent of your income, you will probably want to add the cost for any additional checkups to the same year's deductions. If your expenses are not likely to add up to that amount, then you may want to hold off on these additional medical expenses until after the first of the year, including them with next year's deductions.

Besides keeping a close eye on school-related expenses, CPAs suggest you help your child budget for things he or she wants during the school year. For example, if you give an allowance from which school lunches or bus fare will be paid, encourage your child to get into the saving habit. Open a savings account in the child's own name. It will be easier for your son or daughter to make regular deposits if he or she is saving toward something tangible, something that can be achieved in a reasonable length of time. Your child may be motivated to save for a class field trip, or for a baseball uniform.

It used to be that a child could save for a big-ticket item, like a 10-speed bicycle, and the bike could be purchased for the same price it was when the saving started. With inflation, that may not be true, so you may want to lend your child the money for the bike. Have your child repay in regular installments, either by withholding a portion of the allowance or with job earnings. This is a basic lesson in credit.

Even with all this planning, there are bound to be school-related expenses that come up unexpectedly during the year. So plan to set aside a small amount of extra money. If your budget reflects as accurately as possible most of the expenses needed during the school year, CPAs say, there won't be any surprises which will upset your budget.

Little Oak

Mrs. Arnold Haugen, Goodridge

There will be a fancy work and bake sale at the Nazareth dining hall of rural Trail on Oct. 16. Bake sale starts at 7 o'clock in the evening and the fancy work sale at 8 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

Friends and relatives here received word of the passing of Edgar Haugstol of Fosston. He was married to the former Ingeborg Risen of Hickory township. He was a former partner with his brother in the Haugstol Oil Co. at Fosston. Edgar and Ingeborg were honored by a golden wedding in 1980. He is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter and six grandchildren.

Howard Sjulstad and Ricky, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bjerklie and children were recent callers at the Clara Bjerklie home.

Clara Bjerklie called at the Gene Marquis home on Thursday. She was an overnight guest there.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mugaas, Sarah and Emily visted at the Ernest Mostrom home on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Haugen called there in the evening.

This is a very special moment in Kenny's day. He is about to have his talk with God.

Kenny has these talks with God every day. He knows they are important . . . to God as well as Kenny.

Have there been any very special moments in your day lately? Have you thought about having a talk with God?

It was Jesus who pointed to a child's humble faith as an example for all Christians.

Learn how important a talk with God is to you Both. Make prayer a vital part of every day.

Kenny has!

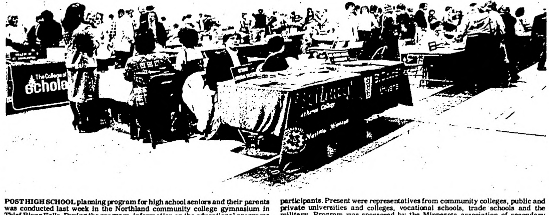
LNG Important In Meeting Energy Needs

Development of liquefied natural gas (LNG) technology has made it possible to tap the world's large supplies of natural gas for United States consumers. LNG imports can play a significant role in meeting growing U.S. energy needs. However, economic and government regulatory problems are hampering the growth of LNG trade.

LNG is gas cooled until it becomes a liquid at -260 degrees. At this temperature natural gas shrinks to one six-hundredth of its original volume, so that large amounts of energy can be transported and stored economically.

Although natural gas has been an energy resource in this country for over 150 years, the importation of gaseous energy is a recent phenomenon. It wasn't possible to lay pipelines across oceans or feasible to transport natural gas in its gaseous state. Changing natural gas to a liquid, however, made ocean transport practical.



POST HIGH SCHOOL planning program for high school seniors and their parents was conducted last week in the Northland community college gymnasium in Thief River Falls. During the program, information on the educational programs of 72 post-secondary schools and military service branches was available to participants. Present were representatives from community colleges, public and private universities and colleges, vocational schools, trade schools and the military. Program was sponsored by the Minnesota association of secondary school counselors and college admissions officers.

In the past decade LNG has become widely used in this country to provide supply during periods of high demand for gas, generally in the winter. This is called peak shaving. One popular method of peak shaving is to liquefy a portion of the domestic supply during the periods when gas demand is low and to store it for use during the times when customer demand exceeds the capacity of the transmission system.

Today, LNG is imported in large specially constructed ships, (double-hulled vessels) to supplement normal year-round gas supply.

By employed LNG technology that has been demonstrated to be reliable and safe, natural gas can be moved from large producing areas thousands of miles away to customers anywhere in the U.S. Once the LNG tankers reach U.S. shores, the LNG is regasified, piped to receiving terminals and injected into the existing million mile U.S. natural gas transmission and distribution system.

Today, over 100 LNG storage facilities are in operation in the U.S. These include large peak shaving facilities and smaller remote storage facilities which receive, liquefy, store or regasify LNG as needed.

In the early '70s, industry planners projected an LNG import level of some 2.2 quadrillion British thermal units (Btu) or quads by 1976. In contrast, actual 1978 LNG imports totaled only about 0.1 quads due to lack of a firm government policy and to regulatory delays in gaining project approvals.

The first U.S. LNG import project, operated by the Distrigas Corp., has been in operation since 1971 and now is authorized to import 42 billion cubic feet (Bcf) from Algeria to Everett, MA.

Another project, planned for Point Conception, CA, has received approval of the DOE and the public utilities commission of California and is currently in the advanced design stage.

In addition, there are several other long-term LNG import projects presently pending before the DOE. Those LNG projects could result in a modest growth of U.S. LNG imports to about 2.0 quads annually by 1990.

Imported LNG has many advantages over imported oil: consumer costs are less, the U.S. balance of trade will be improved, it will provide more U.S. based jobs, natural gas is environmentally superior, and the foreign supply is more politically secure than oil.

Liquefied natural gas can serve an expanding role in increasing the level of the nation's gas supply.

Common Cold Serious As Cat Infection

by Robert Stear, DVM

Cats are as susceptible as their owners to viruses that cause respiratory distress. However, the cats rarely escape with the feline equivalent of the "common cold." They more often develop the fever, sneezing and runny nose that signal a major problem for the pet owner.

Cats are infected when virus particles floating through the air enter the mouth or nose and grow on the cells lining the nasal passages. These viruses become entrenched in the cat's respiratory system, causing symptoms that last a few days or weeks or turn into a chronic condition. There are also cases where an apparently healthy pet carried a hidden virus infection but resisted it until subjected to crowded living conditions, poor diet or a similar stressful situation.

Feline respiratory disease is espeically severe in catteries or humane shelters where the infection can move swiftly from animal to animal. It's not unusual for professional breeders to see nearly half their animals affected at one time. Cats kept in private households are not affected quite so often because the opportunity for expoure is less.

In cats, respiratory disease can be caused by at least three different viruses and one parasitic organism. Sometimes these agents work in combination and so weaken the cat that it becomes susceptible to additional bacterial diseases.

The organism that causes most feline respiratory disease is a virus. Cats do not seem to develop any long term immunity to this virus, and can carry it long after their symptoms have disappeared. Although mortality is low in mature cats, most of which recover completely, the virus is devasting to young kittens. Many die, and survivors can be stunted for life.

Vaccines that will protect a cat or kitten from respiratory disease have been perfected in the last five years, and are now widely available from veterinarians across the country. Some products are given as nose drops, others are injected.

One vaccination a year is sufficient for most cats, although an occasional animal may require two doses six months apart for complete protection. It is especially important to protect kittens, as the temporary protection they receive from nursing a vaccinated mother disappears within six to 12 weeks after birth. Breeders often begin inoculating kittens at five weeks of age and repeat the vaccination until they are certain the kittens have established their own immunity, usually at about 12 weeks.

Cats with respiratory infections have special problems. Often they become dehydrated, develop painful mouth ulcers, refuse to eat, become depressed and highly susceptible to pneumonia, and may lose considerable weight.

Treatment consists of antibiotics, medicated ointments and fluids, plus tempting bits of food and comfort from you. During and after treatment, the convalescing pet sould be protected from all types of physical stress.

As the "cold season" progresses, keep in mind that vaccination against feline respiratory problems is much easier than treatment and better for the health of your pet.

Who Is Spannaus Kidding?

Following editorial is from the Glenwood Tribune:

If he hadn't said it with a straight face, we would almost be inclined to think that Warren Spannaus was being mischievous when he addressed the Minnesota Retail Merchants Association at their Alexandria convention last week.

Spannaus, the DFL attorney general who is also running hard for his party's gubernatorial nomination next year, made some remarks that made us wonder if the person making them hadn't switched political parties.

Spannaus spent most of his speech telling the businessmen what he would do for business should he be elected governor. Spannaus said he would seriously examine tax incentives for business expansion and location in the state; would look closely at what neighboring states are doing to help small businesses find venture capital; would seek ways to help businesses in border communities that must compete with firms in other states; would find a better, less costly way to finance workers compensation insurance; and would consider increasing state support for high technology research.

Now, all this sounds wonderful, but we don't think anyone there was misled at all because a leopard doesn't change its spots overnight, and we doubt very much that if Spannaus was elected, small business would be benefitted much, if any.

In the first place, it's because of DFL legislatures and DFL governors in recent years that business finds itself in such a poor position when competing against businesses in contiguous and other states. No one is to blame for the high corporate and business income taxes, the high workmen's compensation rates and the high personal income taxes but the DFL legislatures and governors in the past. They are the ones chiefly responsible for Minnesota's poor business climate, and for Spannaus to say anything contrary is to turn his back on his own party.

Political talk is mighty cheap, and Spannaus proved this in his speech to the store retailers. If Spannaus is to be elected with DFL and organized labor backing, he is almost committed to high taxes on businesses and high workmen's compensation rates.

Dave Roe and organized labor aren't going to let him forget his past and what he owes organized labor. So mark Spannaus' remarks down to political rhetoric and nothing else. Spannaus and the DFL party aren't going to change their spots overnight or in many years. History has taught us that much.

Imagine Saying All That . . . .

Columnist Lois Trapp in the Grafton Record hits another familiar and pleasing chord with the following comments:

I seldom feel old, although my birth certificate would tell you that I was not born yesterday, or even the day before. Being old is a state of mind, I deep telling myself. I am not an old fashioned fuddy-duddy.

It is the back pages of the magazines that make me wonder, the pages that have the music, art and book reviews. I find that I don't seem to know what they are talking about, or if I do know, I don't like it.

I read reviews of two important books — at least the reviewers seemed to think them important by the pages devoted to them: "Rabbit is Rich," by John Updike, and "The Hotel New Hampshire" by John Irving. Irving, whose "The World According to Garp" was a best seller, is considered one of our leading writers. I found even the book review slightly obscene, and I wondered why such garbage should be "important."

Of course, in a society where the most popular afternoon soap opera has a hero who is a former Mafia front man and a rapist to boot; where all the characters had or are having affairs, illegitimate children, or have bumped off faithful lovers, it is not surprising. (There I go showing my age again.)

Now here is one from the music reviews. "Junie Morrison's 'Junie 5' is so eccentrically electric that, ironically, the wide audience of dancers, pop fans and rap freaks may not become aware of it." Of course, I don't know who Junie Morrison is, but just what is an eccentrically eclectic pop-funk record?

They all lose me somewhere. This sentence from an art review: "In juxtaposing a changeable line with an overriding 'oneness', Tobey was able to imbue his various surfaces with a sense of transcendence." Even looking at the picture, I couldn't see that.

As for modern poetry, raised as I was on Robert Frost and Edna St. Vincent Millay, I don't even understand the poetry, to say nothing of the critical reviews.

What these reviews tell me is that I don't understand modern music, art or poetry — and I don't much like modern fiction. I am getting outdated and set in my tastes, and that of course is part of getting old.

I could quit reading the reviews, of course, but every day there is less to read. "The "women's" magazines are all recipes, pictures of high fashion or afghan patterns, and the other magazines get thinner and thinner, or else I am reading faster.

Yet, as I read, I often think of a favorite story of one of my friends. She was a kindergarten teacher and one day in the fall she found her young charges all excited about the misbehavior of two of her boys. They had pulled up some onions from someone's garden on their way to school and were having a fight with them, swinging them at each other by the dried stems.

Calling in the culprits, she gave them a long but gentle lecture, as kindergarten teachers are wont to do; all about how disappointed she was in their behavior and how she expected her boys and girls to act like little ladies and gentlemen.

"Now, what do you have to say?" she concluded.

And one of her little angels looked at her and said: "Imagine saying all that about a Goddamn onion."

Perhaps I should console myself with that story that the problem is not in my aging mind. In this era when media publicity can make a Shakespeare out of a hack, a pop music star out of a kid who "never took a lesson in his life," a work of art out of a soup can, what is a critic to do? He has that space to fill and he well may be hard-pressed to find anything intelligible to say.

Instead of worrying, the next time I read one of those reviews, I will just say to myself: "Imagine saying all that about Truman Capote," or "Imagine saying all that about Willie Nelson."

Goldwater Tells 'em Off

Following editorial is from the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

Barry Goldwater is threatening to become downright lovable in his autumn years. The crusty senator, whose name once was thought of as synonymous with everything on the political far right, told off the Moral Majority and "New Right" the other day, and told 'em off good. He deserves the applause of all who admire forthright honesty.

"'The specter of single-issue religious groups is growing over our land," said Goldwater in a statement he prepared for the Congressional Record. "The uncompromising position of these groups is a divisive element that could tear apart the very spirit of our representative system, if they gain sufficient strength."

Then the Arizonan got down to cases, "I am frankly sick and tired of the political preachers. . . telling me as a citizen that if I want to be a moral person I must believe in 'A', 'B,' 'C,' and 'D.' Just who do they think they are. . . to presume to claim the right to dictate their moral beliefs to me? I am warning them: I will fight them every step of the way if they try to dictate their moral convictions to all Americans in the name of 'conservatism.' "

Bravo, Barry! A lot of his fellow Americans, with less prestige to back up their comments, have felt that way ever since the Rev. Jerry Falwell & Co. began trying to ram their particular beliefs down everyone's throat. So have some of Goldwater's colleagues, who haven't spoken out because they don't have his intellectual courage.

Goldwater didn't mention names in his formal statement, but in remarks to reporters he identified Falwell, along with three Republican senators he said were of the New Right: Jesse Helms and John East of North Carolina and Jeremiah Denton of Alabama. He expressed a particular aversion to Dengon's bill to establish a federal program to discourage teenage promiscuity. "Oh, God," he said, "There's no way. How the hell could you regulate that?"

Far from diluting his credentials as a conservative, Goldwater's remarks strengthen and clarify them. His is the conservatism that holds, as he said in his statement, " a deep, abiding respect for the Constitution (and) the freedoms that document protects." Among those freedoms, the senator reminds us, are "freedom of religion and freedom of speech for everyone, not just those who follow one religious faction."

Hints For Homeowners

Protecting Your Drapes, Upholstery and Carpeting

Consumers today are investing more money into decorator drapes, upholstery and carpeting to improve existing homes rather than move into new homes with higher interest rates. To protect important investments on major household items, utilize the expertise of local professional drycleaners to learn what spots and stains can be cleaned at home, how to clean various spots and which stains should be left to the professional.

The first important step to better care is to buy quality merchandise that comes with complete cleaning instructions, say experts at PPG Industries, a leading manufacturer of perchlorethylene drycleaning solvent. For example, some furniture slipcovers which cover foam rubber cushions cannot be cleaned even if the slipcover is zippered indicating easy removal.

In some cases, the fabric may have a special finish on the underside for better fabric feel and when washed or drycleaned it becomes limp. A consumer can never ask too many questions about the care of whatever item is purchased.

Buying drapes, or fabric to make them, can run into hundreds of dollars. Yearly drycleaning ensures longer life for this investment. All drapes should be lined for protection from the sun and the fabric should be Sanforized or pre-shrunk. When sewing, use proper needles and thread to avoid puckering. Thread that has been pulled too tightly will shrink when cleaned later.

On upholstery and curtains, several spots can be safely cleaned at home such as spots made with alcohol, chewing gum or jelly. Other items, however, like ink, chocolate and oils should be treated professionally.

Since upholstery comes in such a variety of fabrics and materials as well as stuffings and paddings, PPG experts note that cleaning techniques are different for each style. Professional drycleaners or specialists have the proper solvents, detergents, brushes and special equipment for applying and drying.

In some cases homeowners can remove certain spots without professional help. However, PPG experts advise consumers to get to know their local drycleaner better and to take advantage of available fabric expertise. In certain cases, immediate spot cleaning by the homeowner and later overall, thorough cleaning by a drycleaner will save the life of a cushion, carpet or curtain and protect an important household investment.

Looking Backward

1921 — 60 YEARS AGO

Mayor John Bratud and the entire group of councilmen announced they would file for reelection following a mass meeting urging that action. — Mrs. H.W. Millar and daughter were forced to flee in night attire when flames attacked the Millar home on Riverside avenue. — University extension service will present a night class in business law under the leadership of H.O. LEGISLATIVE REPORT

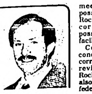
by LeRoy Stumpf

STATE REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT 1B



On September 15 and 16 House members met in St. Paul for a mini-session. Committees met to preview issues that will come before the 1982 Legislature when it convenes in January. Following are summaries of several committee meetings that may interest you.

The environment and natural resources committee met to review copper-nickel exploration in Minnesota. Jack Malcolm, planning director for Minnamax — a northern Minnesota copper-nickel mining project — presented a status report to the committee.

Malcolm told legislators that due to current economic conditions, copper-nickel mining in northeastern Minnesota is simply not financially feasible. The retail price of copper is approximately one-half of what it was just one year ago.

Also at the September 15 meeting, the department of natural resources came before the committee with a final report on the "Minnesota Peat Program". The five-year program evaluated the environmental, social and economic consequences associated with peatland development.

The department recommends that experimental use of Minnesota peatland should first be demonstrated on a small scale before the decision is made to increase lease sizes.

According to figures presented to legislators, a 3,000-acre peat site, the recommended maximum allowable, could supply a 30-MW electric generating facility with about 20 years of fuel.

The House agriculture committee met to discuss agricultural land preservation and conservation in Minnesota.

The chairman of the joint House-Senate committee looking into the problem, Sen. Myrton Wegener, reported to the group that Minnesota is losing between 50,000 and 100,000 acres of prime farmland every year. Nationwide, the figure is over three million acres lost per year.

Along with the recognition that Minnesota farmland waste must end, must come a dedicated willingness on the part of the Legislature to do something about it. It is hoped that 1982 will be the year that progress can be made on passing strong legislation combatting the problem of Minnesota's disappearing farmland.

The criminal justice committee discussed changes made in state sentencing guidelines and the Wisconsin-Minnesota inmate agreement.

Jan Smaby from the sentencing guidelines commission told committee members the commission had implemented necessary revisions in Minnesota's sentencing guidelines in accordance with new laws passed by the '81 legislature. Included in those revisions was the upgrading of first-degree murder charges.

The sentencing guidelines commission is implementing a state-wide study into the effectiveness of new laws and how they affect the court system. A report on this should be ready for the legislature in February.

Corrections commissioner Jack Young told committee members about the Minnesota-Wisconsin inmate agreement. So far one contract has been signed to bring 50 Wisconsin inmates into Minnesota's prisons and 20 men are already housed in St. Cloud at a cost to Wisconsin of $1,000 a day.

A second contract is in the writing for up to 250 Wisconsin inmates. The per diem amount on the second contract will be $59 a day, or nine dollars more than the per diem figure on the first contract. This new money will aid with completion of the Oak Park Heights maximum security prison.

The health, welfare, and corrections division of the House appropriations committee also discussed progress on the new Oak Park Heights prison.

Corrections commissioner Jack Young told committee members the facility should be ready for inspection in December. Construction on the prison is about 10 weeks behind schedule (the original finishing date was September 1) because of worker strikes.

So far five staff members have been hired. When the prison opens in March it should have 93 employees and it is estimated when five of the eight units are filled there will by 175 employees.

Some discussion centered around Wiconsin's long-term plan for housing inmates in Minnesota. The state has set aside $9.9 million for the program, but is researching its own capabilities for handling its prison population problem.

Final discussion at the meeting involved the possibility of using the Rochester state hospital as a correctional institution, possibly a high security facility for women.

Commissioner Young concluded, by saying the corrections commission will review the potential of Rochester. The commission is also investigating the effect of federal aid cuts on the Minnesota corrections program.

The health and welfare committee reviewed possible effects on Minnesota's health and welfare budgets because of cuts in federal assistance scheduled to go into effect October 1.

Maureen Bellis, legislative analyst with House Research, provided an overview of the omnibus reconciliation act of 1981 — federal legislation imposing cuts in health and welfare aids to states.

Representatives from the state welfare and health departments then outlined the exact effect of those cuts on their departments. The welfare department will be especially hard-hit as the Reagan administration's plan is to decrease federal aid for medicaid, AFDC, foodstamps, mental health, social services and chemical dependency.

Total estimated dollar reduction for these state programs is $37.4 million. Concern of the departments, as told to committee members, is the short time frame in which it has to implement required federal assistance changes. A delay in implementation of federal law changes could result in further loss of federal money.

Committee members discussed the fact the Minnesota legislature will be hard-pressed to pick up the dollar gap left by federal aid.

If you have any questions on these or others issues around the state, please feel free to write me at Route 1, Box 47, Plummer 56748, or phone 465-4274.

In 1941, the first federal activity to promote fair employment practices was the Fair Employment Practice Commission, which sought to eliminate discrimination in hiring in the defense industry, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Community Action Agency Conducts Annual Meeting

Annual meeting of Northwest Community Action, Inc. (NWCA) was conducted at the Badger public school recently. Reports for the program year 1981 were given. The NWCA, which is observing its 16th full year of operation, serves the counties of Roseau, Kittson, Lake of the Woods and east Marshall.

During the program year a total of $1,937,520 had been received in federal grants for programs such as home-head start, Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), northwest chore service, home improvement administration, Minnesota housing finance emergency energy grant, weatherization of homes and fuel assistance programs in Kittson, Lake of the Woods and east Marshall counties, outreach activities and for administration.

Of the grants received, a total of $1,677,093 had been expended at the end of the program year August 31. Balance is carried forward in programs funded into this year.

Katie Laffin, outreach coordinator, gave a report on the outreach activities which included 579 new and follow-up referrals to other agencies and 1,173 fuel assistance applications (507 elderly). Eleven energy conservation grants were approved and completed as were 22 Minnesota Housing and Finance Agency (MHFA) home improvement grants; 345 applications were taken for youth employment with 209 youth being employed in the summer and in-school program, 449 homestead tax and rent credits were prepared for a total of $66,000 in tax refunds and 392 weatherization applications were taken. Outreach also works with the advisory boards in their communities, helps with low income elections, gives information on low interest loans through the banks and Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA) and other housing loans and provides information to students on various grants and workstudy programs.

LaVerne Swan, senior citizen coordinator, gave a report on activities of her department including the newly started chore service. Other programs which have been initiated under Mrs. Swan in the past seven years are: transportation, telecare, senior employment and coordination with the seven meal sites administered by the Tri Valley opportunity council. Other duties include establishing new senior citizen centers, writing proposals for renovation and building of new centers and for equipment for the centers, assisting in securing a consignment craft store for the seniors which supplements their income, and organizing county committees on aging, and legal service.

Heavy chore service, which began in June, includes the counties of Kittson, Marshall and Roseau. Program provides in-home services for an extended period of time for people, 60 years of age or older, who are unable to do the work themselves, regardless of income. Cost of the service is $3.35 per hour. Recipients of the service contribute in accordance with their ability to pay and are asked to pay all or as much of the total cost as they can afford. Program, at present, has 75 participants with the majority able to pay full cost.

Mrs. Swan was recently selected one of 19 delegates from Minnesota who will be attending the National White House conference on Aging, which is conducted every 10 years to develop programs for the aging.

Older Americans have become the fastest growing segment of our population. Because of lower death rates and longer life spans, the number of people aged 60 and over has increased four times as fast as the number under 60 since 1900. At the turn of the century, there were only 4.9 million Americans aged 60 and over, and the average life expectancy at birth was 47. Today, there are 34 million older Americans, and the average life expectancy is 73. The trend toward a "graying America will continue in the future. In 1981, one out of every seven Americans is 60 or over. But when today's preschoolers turn 60, one out of every four will be that age or older.

Randy Nordin, energy coordinator, discussed the weatherization program. During the past 12 months 349 homes were weatherized. On the average, $425 is spent on each home. Living in these homes were 823 people of which 254 were elderly.

Nordin said his crews have 71 homes to weatherize from now to the end of December. Although over 200 applications have been received, coordinators will not be able to take care of them all due to a cutback in the program.

Earl Ryden spoke on the energy crisis intervention program. This program has limited funds to provide assistance in emergencies and to provide alternate energy such as wood or solar heat. Sixty-three applications have been received for these items. Program also provides information on energy saving tips and programs NWCA offers in the energy field.

cancer answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers;
I've heard of a cancer that only attacks children. It's called Wilm's tumor. How common is this cancer and what are its symptoms?
Sarah

Dear Sarah:
Wilm's tumor is a relatively rare type of cancer. It usually occurs in children from infancy to age 15 and most commonly between ages two and five.

Wilm's tumor is a cancer of the kidneys. The most common first sign of the disease is a lump in the belly or a swollen abdomen. Sometimes blood in the urine is the first sign. Of course these symptoms can be caused by infections or conditions other than Wilm's tumor. It's important that a child be taken to a doctor at the first sign of bloody urine or a lump or swelling in the abdomen.

Wilm's tumor is one of the few types of cancer that can be hereditary. Parents who had the disease when they were children or know of other family members who had it should be especially alert. The child's doctor should be told about the family history as well.

Fortunately, Wilm's tumor is one of the success stories of modern cancer treatment. It is the most frequently cured of all childhood cancers. It can be cured in nearly all cases if the tumor is found early.

Dear Cancer Answers:
My doctor has advised that I have a colonoscopy because of some bowel problems I've been having. He says he wants to rule out the chance that it is a tumor. What is a colonoscopy and how is it done? Is it painful?
B.W.

Dear B.W.:
Colonoscopy is a test used to diagnose colon problems that cannot be detected by x-ray procedures. The instrument that is used, called a colonoscope, is a flexible tube through which doctors actually can see the inside of the colon.

You probably are familiar with the proctoscopic examination, or procto. A doctor inserts a lighted metal tube, called a proctoscope, into the anus to examine the rectum and lower portion of the colon. because the proctoscope is rigid it can only be used as far as the first bend in the colon, normally less than 12 inches.

Colonoscopy is similar to proctoscopy except that the tube-like instrument is flexible and can bend with the normal bends in the colon.

Patients usually are told to eat only liquid foods for one or two days before the examination. The doctor will prescribe laxatives and an enema to clean out the bowels before the exam. A sedative is given just before the examination to help the patient relax.

A colonoscopy usually is done with the patient lying on his side with his knees drawn up to his abdomen. The colonoscope, which is well lubricated, is inserted with slow pressure through the anus into the rectum. The doctor gradually advances the instrument looking for any signs of disease along the inside walls of the colon. During the examination the doctor may need to fill the colon with air periodically in order to see the walls better.

After the doctor completes the examination, the colonoscope is slowly withdrawn.

There usually is some discomfort associated with a colonoscopy. The patient will feel a fullness in their abdomen while the colonoscope is being moved through the colon. There may also be some crampy abdominal pain. The discomfort usually goes away as soon as the colonoscope is removed.

Dear Cancer Answers;
A friend of ours just found out he has lung cancer. It had already spread so far when they found it that they can't operate and take it out. This man has had regular check-ups over the years. Why didn't the doctors find it sooner? Wouldn't it have showed up on his chest x-rays?
E.P.

Dear E.P.:
Early detection of lung cancer by x-rays is very difficult. Even the most modern x-ray equipment can find only about 25 per cent of lung cancers while they are still small enough to remove surgically. Very small tumors do not show up on x-rays.

The National Cancer Institute is supporting a large research project to try to find ways to catch lung cancers early. Volunteers who are heavy smokers, and therefore at high risk for developing this kind of cancer, are checked periodically. They receive chest x-rays and a sputum test. The sputum test checks for any abormal cells in the sputum (the material a person brings up from their lungs when they cough).

The research has shown that some lung cancers can be found at an earlier stage using this screening method. It has not yet shown, however, whether routine screening of people without high risk or symptoms of lung cancer is effective. Unfortuantely many lung cancers are difficult to cure even in the earliest stages.

Dear Cancer Answers:
I am a woman in my 30's. I have had numerous bladder infections in the past the they are getting harder to control. During the past two years, I've had several cystoscopies of the bladder which have revealed ulcers and other unexplainable sores. Needless to say, I fear cancer of the bladder. Could this problem cause cancer, or is it possible that I have bladder cancer? How would this be diagnosed?
Miss T.W.

Dear Miss T.W.
The symptomes you describe are probably due to inflammation or infection of the bladder, and not cancer. However, you should continue to have regular medical checkups to exclude the possibility of bladder cancer. Your urologist (or family physician) seems to be keeping close track of your condition, judging from your letter.

Diagnostic studies for bladder cancer include actual examination of the bladder with a thin, lighted tube (cystoscopy), biopsy examination of a piece of the bladder tissue, and microscopic study of the urine for the presence of cancer cells sloughed off by the bladder.

It may reassure you to know that bladder cancer accounts for less than five per cent of all cancers. Also, it tends to strike persons much older than you—being most common in the 50-70 age froup. Moreover, three of every four bladder cancer patients are men.

Inflammation and infection of the bladder are relatively common in women your age. But where cancer is concerned, no risk is worth taking. Talk to your physician about having diagnostic tests at appropriate intervals that will exclude the possibility of cancer.

Dear Cancer Answers:
Five members of my family have had cancer and I'm a little worried about how this affects the chances of my getting cancer. What can you tell me about family tendencies to cancer?
Tim

Dear Tim:
Cancer is such a common disease that most families have a few affected members, and, by chance, some will have many. Limited data suggest that, when a family member develops cancer of the stomach, large intestine, uterus, prostate, lung, female breast, or possibly, ovary, other blood relatives have increased risk of cancer affecting the same organ. Certain combinations of these tumors may also occur more frequently within families.

The amount of increased risk among relatives of adult cancer patients has not been determined. It is also not known if this familial tendency reflects inherited characteristics or environmental factors, such as diet or occupation, which may continue unchanged from one generation to the next.

Evidence is more conclusive for a few types of childhood cancer. Retinoblastoma, a rare form of cancer of the eye, is known to result from a mutation that can be inherited. When an identical twin has childhood leukemia, the probability that the other twin will develop the disease is about one in five, a degree of risk far higher than the level in the general population. Brain tumors and sarcomas (tumors of muscles and-or connective tissues such as bone and cartilage) seem to occur more frequently than expected in brothers and sisters of children with these tumors.

A number of other uncommon types of cancerous and precancerous conditions also show marked hereditary patterns. The most important one among adults is multiple polyposis of the colon, which is characterized by hundreds of polyps scattered throughout the large bowel. The polyps can become cancerous; however, if the trait of multiple polyposis is diagnosed early in life, the cancer may be prevented by surgery.

The National Cancer Institute's clinical epidemiology branch is conducting studies of cancer-prone families. If you feel you would like to inquire further into this potential cancer risk, please write to Dr. John J. Mulvihill, Head, Clinical Genetics Section, Clinical Epidemiology Branch, Room A521, Landow Building, National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Maryland 20205.

Granola Chippers-- Especially For Homecoming

There are many kinds of homecomings. There are the wild, boisterous cheering ones after the big games.

There are the quiet, mellow ones after moonlit, autumn hayrides.

And there are a multitude of mini-homecomings, for instance, every afternoon when the children and their friends race through the back door as they come in from school.

All "homecomings" are suitable occasions for Granola Chippers, made to be served with milk or hot chocolate. Granola Chippers are easily prepared by parents in a hurry or even the children themselves. Children can help mix four ingredients: chocolate chip cookie mix, butter, an egg and 100% natural cereal. (The 100% natural cereal, by the way, is really six ingredients: rolled oats, whole wheat, coconut, almonds, honey and brown sugar.)

So welcome the children home with Granola Chippers. And keep them on hand all fall and winter for drop-in guests. They take so little time and keep you so prepared.

Granola Chippers

One	15-oz. pkg. chocolate chip cookie mix	1/2	cup butter or margarine, melted
1	cup 100% natural cereal	1	egg

Heat oven to 350°F. In large bowl, combine all ingredients. Mix for 2 to 3 minutes with spoon or fork until ingredients are well blended. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 12 to 13 minutes for chewy cookies or 14 to 15 minutes for crisp cookies. Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet; remove to wire cooling rack. Makes about 3 dozen.

Gov. Quie's Column

Tackling the Job Climate Issue

My administration has set a firm course for the recovery of Minnesota's economy. As part of this effort, I have set as my highest priorities the continued improvement of our job climate and the restoration of confidence in Minnesota as a good place to do business. We must have a strong job base.

On Sept. 26, in a speech to Minnesota Associated Press Editors in Duluth, I outlined my proposals to accomplish these goals. These proposals will help create a receptive job climate and an optimistic business community in Minnesota. The following is an outline of my program for economic recovery.

Minnesota's workers' compensation system must continue to be reformed. High workers' compensation rates in Minnesota are the single biggest obstacle to new manufacturing businesses locating in Minnesota. And too often, high workers' compensation rates are the major reason why businesses choose to leave our state.

Workers' compensation rates can be lowered without denying fair compensation for workers injured on the job.

Reduction of corporate income taxes will be another focus of my programs for upcoming sessions of the legislature. Small firms in Minnesota are burdened by a corporate income tax of 12 percent. This is the highest corporate income tax rate in the nation. Because small businesses can be the greatest source of new jobs, it is important that they be encouraged to grow and expand here.

The unemployment compensation system must also be revised. As with workers' compensation, the unemployment compensation system is too costly for many employers in Minnesota. We can develop an unemployment insurance program which makes the system more fair and equitable.

As I announced previously, we have taken steps to have Minnesota's depreciation schedules brought in conformity with federal depreciation schedules. Where necessary, we will have these changes formalized legislatively.

Reduction in commercial-industrial property taxes will be another key area of my program. Present commercial-industrial property tax rates are higher in Minnesota than they were in California prior to Proposition 13.

Other areas of my program include the following: continuing to control personal income taxes through indexing, scrutininzing state regulations and mandates, bringing our capital gains tax in line with federal rates and further paring of state spending.

We are in a difficult economic period. For this very reason we must vitalize the private sector, because it is clear that the quality of life in Minnesota, for which we are so proud, is tied, like a steel knot, to our ability to retain and create good jobs.

FIRST AID FACTS

Is Your First Aid Kit As Well Stocked As Your Pantry?

Keep first aid kit well stocked.

Most homemakers keep their pantries and freezers well stocked so that they can serve nutritious meals to their families. Ask yourself if you have given the same time and consideration to your first aid kit or medicine cabinet, so that you can be prepared to meet minor emergencies.

Before answering, check your supplies against the list below. Do you have:

- First-Aid cream or topical antibiotic for treating wounds and preventing infections
- Band-Aids in assorted sizes for minor cuts, abrasions and puncture wounds
- Butterfly closures, special bandages that hold wound edges firmly together to facilitate proper healing
- Sterile gauze pads, both non-stick and regular, for larger wounds which require custom bandaging. Non-stick pads are needed for burns, infections or wounds that tend to ooze.
- Large adhesive pads (over sized Band-Aid type dressings) to cover large areas of the body
- First aid tape, both narrow and wide, to secure dressings
- Rolled gauze to secure sterile dressings, especially for those areas of the body which are difficult to bandage, i.e. knees or elbows

In addition you should have these items handy: rubbing alcohol, witch hazel, a non-perscriptive pain killer such as aspirin or its equivalent, an ice-pack, enema bag, mild soap, sterile eye-wash and an eye-wash cup, thermometer, tweezers for removing splinters and a pair of scissors which should always be kept with your first aid supplies.

In order to be prepared for poison accidents you should also have on hand activated charcoal, which soaks up ingested poisons and syrup of ipecac to induce vomiting.

First aid experts and doctors agree that you'll be prepared for most home emergencies if you have these items readily available when accidents occur. They also suggest that all members of the family should know where first aid supplies are kept in each home so that they may respond quickly when there is no time to spare.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The Budget Cuts: Should Business Fill The Gaps?

Ever since Congress passed President Reagan's sweeping budget and tax cuts, a chorus of voices, including some from the administration, has been calling upon the business community to demonstrate its "social responsibility" by filling various gaps left by these cuts.

That notion brings to mind some intriguing questions and possibilities:

Which company will volunteer some of its employees for duty when OSHA loses a few inspectors?

Which business will assume the cost of photographing different colored streamers as they are tossed from an airplane — a project funded recently by the National Endowment for the Arts?

Let's get serious about this question. What is the role of business in an era of federal budgetary austerity? Should business match, dollar for dollar, the reductions that have been pared from the federal budget?

According to Patricia Harris, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare during the Carter administration, the answer is yes. "Business," she writes in a recent article, "is now vulnerable to concrete demands for financial support of activity which the federal government has abandoned." Various administration officials have been flirting recently with the same idea. In the process, they are undermining one of the chief premises of the president's economic program.

To claim that there is an urgent need for the private sector to replace budget cuts with its own brand of social welfare spending is to say, "You were right all along, bureaucrats. There is no fat in the federal budget. Every program and every expenditure is essential. Any cuts we make must automatically result in reduced services."

Up to now, Congress has only reduced the budget increases planned by the previous administration. There are many more billions which can be cut from bureaucratic overhead and from those who don't deserve program benefits — without adversely affecting the poor.

The challenge facing the business community is not to make the same mistakes government has made by sinking valuable resources into ineffective programs, but to better channel the things we do best toward meeting the important goals of our society.

Historically, private enterprise in America has been extremely successful at generating profits for stockholders and jobs for workers, and in the process, many other benefits which, together, have provided Americans with the highest standard of living ever known: health insurance, pensions, education, vacations and consumer comforts to name a few. Good business has enriched the tax coffers of local, state and federal governments as well, so that they are able to provide for those less fortunate than we.

That has been the traditional role of business in meeting the social needs of Americans — no small achievements! But we must do more.

If there is still any disagreement about social goals such as equal opportunity for women and minorities, a healthy environment and a clean, safe workspace, you won't hear it from the overwhelming majority of business people. A strong consensus has emerged over the importance of these goals. The only disagreement that remains is how we can best achieve them. As business takes advantage of the new incentives to expand, modernize and create new technologies and new jobs, we must do more to direct growing economic opportunities to those who have been traditionally disadvantaged.

The opening words of the U.S. Chamber's mission, affirmed by over 170,000 business members, are "to advance human progress..." Not business progress, but human progress. Economic opportunity — not social welfare spending — is what business is best at providing. Thanks to the turnaround in economic philosophy in Washington, we will be able to provide more of it in the 1980s, and we are going to do a better job at spreading it around to everyone.

In an earlier column, I discussed the role of the business community in an era of federal budget austerity, and concluded that business should do a better job at the community level to direct increased economic opportunities to those who have been traditionally bypassed by society.

Now another question comes to mind: What is the role of the individual American at a time when the federal government has both restored incentives for individual initiative and reduced the parameter of its involvement in our lives?

Let me state at the outset that this new role need not be discussed in terms of new burdens, but rather, new challenges and opportunities which restore in individual Americans a renewed sense of self-esteem, purpose and personal control over their lives. A reevaluation of our own responsibilities and opportunities can be defined in at least four ways:

1. Do For Thyself. Abe Lincoln expressed it best more than a century ago when he said, "You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do for themselves." Yet, in recent decades many Americans have grown accustomed to expecting the federal government to write our pension checks, pay our medical bills, subsidize our children's higher education and many others. And why not? Taxes on the average American worker have increased by 249 per cent over the past ten years alone and he or she now works until May 10th for various governments before the yearly tax bill is paid.

As taxes are reduced and incentives restored to our system, so should the dependence on government be reduced. A good example is found in providing for retirement. With the enactment of tax features such as Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) every American now has a choice: Should I rely upon the government's financially troubled Social Security system to provide a full retirement income? Or should I meet this responsibility myself by depositing the extra take-home pay from my income tax cut into a tax-deferred IRA and create a sizeable nest egg for my family upon retirement? The choice should be obvious and even exciting.

2. Seek Just Rewards. Our policy makers are finally waking up to the fact that the American economy is not a fixed, static entity with limited rewards to be divided according to whichever special interest group squeaks the loudest. It has been and can always be a dynamic, expanding system in which the rewards of every individual can grow commensurate with increases in his output. As the rules of the free marketplace are reaffirmed, each of us has a responsibility when setting our prices or seeking our wages to do so according to the dictates of productivity growth and the marketplace — and not by running to Washington for special favors or making demands we just don't deserve.

3. Volunteerism. One of the most erroneous and demeaning propositions of liberalism is the notion that if government doesn't perform a particular service for those less fortunate than we, it simply won't be performed at all. Now is our chance to prove just how wrong that thinking is. As government pares back some of its functions, we as individual Americans must join with our neighbors, organizations and businesses on the local level to help other neighbors who are in need. Americans have a long tradition of meeting this responsibility and I have no doubt we will reaffirm it in this new era of private sector initiative.

4. Send Clear Signals to Legislators. We often criticize the folks we sent to Capitol Hill for trying to play both sides the fence on issues. But to a great degree, the contradictions we see in our legislators only reflect those in ourselves. How many of us have urged our Congressman repeatedly to cut spending and get government off our backs, only to advocate full funding for programs that benefit us personally? Our legislators are human beings and political animals. They want to conform to our wishes, but to do so they must have our clear, consistent support for budget control and a reduced role for government, even if this means cuts in programs we personally favor. President Reagan put it very simply to his Cabinet recently: "If not us, who? If not now, when?"

Leftover Turkey Is Great For Lunch!

Variety is the spice of life and that's especially true to the brown bag carrier! If you're the lunch packer at your house, here's Turkey 'N Cheese Sandwich. It's a good change of taste without much effort. And the beauty of this sandwich is, it can be prepared ahead and placed in the freezer!

Leftover turkey joins grated carrot, salad dressing and American Cheese Food Singles for a colorful and nutritious sandwich. And this sandwich is a real inflation fighter.

Assembly line sandwich making can save you valuable minutes each morning. Most sandwiches will keep well in the freezer up to one month. And to prevent the hamburger bun from being soggy from the moisture in the filling, spread softened butter to the edge. Just pop frozen sandwich into the brown bag and it will thaw by lunchtime.

The lunch bunch at your house will be glad you discovered Turkey 'N Cheese Sandwich. And for once you'll agree — leftover turkey can be a blessing!

Turkey 'N Cheese Sandwich

Filling:

1 cup cooked, cubed 1/4" LAND O LAKES Turkey
1/4 cup grated carrot
1/4 cup salad dressing
1/8 tsp. salt
1 tsp. prepared mustard
4 hamburger buns, split
LAND O LAKES Sweet Cream Butter, softened
8 slices LAND O LAKES Process American Cheese Food Singles

In 1-qt. bowl stir together all filling ingredients. Spread hamburger buns with butter. For each sandwich, cover 1/2 bun with a slice of cheese and 1/4 cup filling. Top with second slice of cheese and other half of bun. Wrap each sandwich in aluminum foil; freeze. Pack frozen sandwich in lunch bag. Sandwich will thaw in 4 to 5 hours. YIELD: 4 sandwiches.

If you own a painting for less than a year and donate it to charity, your federal income tax deduction is limited to the amount you paid for the item, CPAs say. When you own the painting for many years and then donate it to an art museum, CPAs say you can deduct the full fair market value. For a painting that you've owned for a long time and donated to a hospital you can deduct only 60 per cent of the amount the painting appreciated between the time when it was purchased and when it was donated.

TRF Teachers To Begin Strike Action Tuesday

Meeting with state mediator Dick Springer most of the day Thursday, Thief River Falls board of education and representatives of the Thief River Falls Education association failed to reach accord on a contract for the 1981-82 and 1982-83 school years. As a result, the strike authorization committee of the TRFEA has called a strike of District 564 teachers for Tuesday morning.

In a memo sent to the superintendent of schools, school board and news media Friday, the strike authorization committee noted that it had voted unanimously for the Tuesday strike.

"The board's last offer would leave the Thief River Falls teachers approximately $800 to $1,200 per teacher below the average of comparable schools in our region," the memo stated. "Our negotiating team is willing to meet with the board at any time to reach a fair and equitable settlement."

In a notice to parents, the TRFEA gave warning that the association and its members assume no liability for accidents nor responsibility for students during a strike. "Furthermore," the notice said, "the TRFEA will not in any way tolerate the involvement of children in the strike action.

"Your children's welfare is our primary concern. However, we cannot be responsible for their welfare when it is placed in the hands of others," the notice stated.

While the mediation session Thursday did not bring about agreement on the two-year contract, both sides agreed it was helpful in resolving a large number of language items which had previously been in contention. The items were reduced from approximately 30 in number down to about four, all of which are money items and have a bearing on the final financial agreement.

Although mediator Springer left at 4 p.m. to attend a mediation session at Crookston beginning at 5 p.m., talks continued between the board and teachers until about 6 p.m. At the official end of the mediation session, the board and teachers were still approximately $1,100 apart on the average teacher salary.

During the mediation, the board increased its average total money offer per teacher from $4,250 at the beginning of mediation to $4,500 at the end of the day. During the day the TRFEA reduced its comparative request from $6,046 to $5,600.

Dale Folger, who chairs the TRFEA negotiating team, said his team had unofficially offered to split the difference after the mediator left, but that the offer was refused. The $4,500 increase offered by the board and the $5,600 increase requested by the TRFEA remain the last official figures in contract negotiations.

Efforts were made during the weekend to arrange a proposed salary schedule reflecting the board's last offer. The proposal would reduce the 15-step salary schedule now in effect to 13 steps in the second year of the two-year contract.

For the first year of the contract (1981-82), the BA level salary would range from $13,552 for a first-year teacher to $19,885 at the top step of the BA level. For the second year of the contract (1982-83), the BA range would be from $14,762 to $21,665.

On the MA level, the 1981-82 contract offer ranges from $15,664 to $21,967 while the 1982-83 offer ranges from $17,031 to $23,934.

Serving with Folger on the TRFEA negotiating team are John Egge, vice chairman; Edith Etter and Lambert Brunkhorst with Pat Johnson as recorder. They were joined at the mediation session by Ed Liepold of St. Paul, assigned by the Minnesota Education association to serve the Kramer-Brown Uniserv unit.

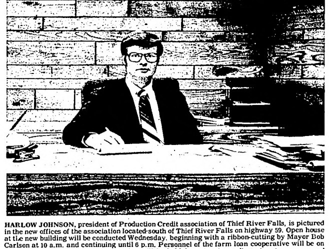
Negotiating for the school district were all members of the school board, headed by Ken Wiebolt as chairman; Supt. Robert Block; and John Roszak, representing the Peterson and Popovich law firm assisting the board in negotiations.

Although there will be no school Tuesday and buses will not run, all other employees of the district are expected to report for duty on the regular schedule, Supt. Block said. While regular bus routes will not be in operation, the alternate schedule published in the Times last week will be put into effect to serve students in the non-public schools in the community.

Supt. Block commended the action of the TRFEA in announcing the strike several days ahead of time, thereby making it possible for parents to make arrangements for their children during the normal school day.

At this time no further meetings between the TRFEA and the school board have been scheduled. The board has adopted the position that if a strike occurs, it will remain in effect until a settlement has been reached.

RESTING PEACEFULLY in his mother's arms at Northwestern hospital, Michael Scott Fillmore is unaware that his birth Wednesday morning marked a first for Northwestern hospital and was involved in some unusual circumstances. Ione Fillmore of Middle River was being rushed to the hospital on highway 32 early Wednesday morning by her husband Tom, when their car and a car driven west on Third street collided in the intersection. An ambulance was summoned and Mrs. Fillmore gave birth to Michael during the several block ride to the hospital. It was the first birth in an ambulance since the hospital assumed the local ambulance service in 1969. No one was injured in the accident, although damages were estimated at $500 to the Fillmore car and $2,500 to the Mustang driven by David Salder of Carbondale, IL. Ambulance attendant assisting with the birth was Dennis Carlson and driver was Rita Sikorski. Both are emergency medical technicians. The Fillmores have three other children, Charlene, 14; Shelly, 10; and Todd, 6. Michael Scott weighed six pounds, 15 ounces and was 20½ inches long. Among the gifts he and his mother received at the hospital was a flower arrangement from Sadler, driver of the other car involved in the collision.



HARLOW JOHNSON, president of Production Credit association of Thief River Falls, is pictured in the new offices of the association located south of Thief River Falls on highway 59. Open house at the new building will be conducted Wednesday, beginning with a ribbon-cutting by Mayor Bob Carlson at 10 a.m. and continuing until 6 p.m. Personnel of the farm loan cooperative will be on hand to provide tours, free registration will be held for a tractor radio to be given away and refreshments will be served.

CETA Youth Program Said Successful

(Following article appeared in the October issue of "Minnesota CETA News".)

When he was in the Navy, Curt Howe supervised 35 Navy personnel on a ship when he was stationed in the Pacific.

It was a different story when he accepted a supervisor position for the Thief River Falls CETA program this past year. Howe managed 26 low-income, high-school drop-outs in the city's youth community conservation improvement project that ended September 30.

"It was definitely a new experience," Howe said. "I had to be stricter with the students than with the sailors."

Participants were referred to the program through probation officers, the sheriff and through their friends on the street. Targeted toward high school drop-outs, the program hoped to teach the participants a trade and encourage them to pursue a career. Students received training in carpentry, masonry and electrical construction through the area vocational school. CETA reimbursed the vocational school for its services.

What did the students do with all of this training?

"We put in 2,360 feet of sidewalk," Nancy Mathiason, program coordinator, said. "We set up 12 new park benches and we replaced 44 curbs to be accessible to the handicapped."

Materials for these projects were supplied by the city of Thief River Falls, Mathiason said. The community also helped to find supervisors, like Howe, for the two-year long project.

"I can't think of anyone who isn't pleased with the program," Howe said. "It's probably the first time we've had new sidewalks in here since the WPA days. You can just see it's a success.

Look For Five Class Of 1932 Graduates

Reunion committee for the Lincoln high school class of 1932 is seeking information on five of the class members whose circumstances or whereabouts are unknown.

Anyone having information about or addresses for Harold (Pete) Englund, Harold (Temus) Johnson, Clifton Hanson, Richard Mickelson or Evelyn Korstad who were members of that class is asked to contact Verna Noper at 681-1367.

Strike To Halt Church Class

In the event that the Thief River Falls teachers go on strike as announced Tuesday, there will be no religious release time classes at Trinity Lutheran church on Wednesday, according to Rev. Berton R. Hushagen, pastor. The cancellation of release time classes applies to fourth through ninth grade — all classes offered each Wednesday.

Film Series At RLF Church Oct., Nov.

A film series featuring family expert James C. Dobson, will be shown at the Bethany Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls October 18 and 25; and November 1, 8, 15 and 22 at 7 p.m.

Entitled "Focus on the Family," the series presents seven of Dobson's most popular presentations, all of which were filmed live at family life seminars.

Titles of the films to be shown include, "The Strong-Willed Child," "Shaping the Will without Breaking the Spirit," "Christian Fathering," "Preparing for Adolescence," part 1 — "The Origins of Self-Doubt, part 2 — "Peer Pressure and Sexuality"; "What Wives Wish Their Husbands Knew About Women," part 1 — "The Lonely Housewife," part 2 — "Money, Sex and Children."

Dobson is associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the University of Southern California school of medicine. He is a licensed psychologist in California, a husband, father and author of several best-selling books. He also speaks on a radio series, "Focus on the family," which is syndicated to 134 stations. A free-will offering will be taken.

Establish John Steidl Fund At Northland

Establishment of a John Steidl memorial scholarship fund is taking place at Northland community college in Thief River Falls. Steidl, who was among the first instructors when the college was established here and had been at Northland for 14 years, died recently of cancer at the age of 39.

Persons interested in making a contribution to the scholarship fund may send it to the John Steidl Memorial Scholarship Fund at either Northland community college or Northern state bank where the fund has been arranged.

Members of the Northland faculty have made arrangements for the fund and are organizing its administration.

Conference On Planning Set On October 28

Conference on planning issues and practices will be held for elected officials, community planners and other interested persons at 8 a.m. Wednesday, October 28 at the Best Western motel in Thief River Falls.

Topics for discussion will include: Why plan?; legal aspects of planning; functions of planning commission and other government units; zoning ordinances; subdivision regulations; guidelines for conducted meetings; and a guide to resources.

Persons wishing to register may call Jack Quinlivan at 681-6780.

David Aas In Study Program At Oak Ridge

Three students and one faculty member at St. Olaf college, Northfield, are doing research at Oak Ridge national laboratory (ORNL) in Tennessee this fall. ORNL is one of four energy-related production and research facilities operated by Union Carbide corporation's nuclear division for the department of energy.

Among the students is David J. Aas, mathematics and physics major who is assigned to the health and safety research division at Oak Ridge. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls in 1978 and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Aas.

Visiting faculty member is George Hardgrove, the program's resident director. Hardgrove is a chemistry professor and is working in the biology division at ORNL.

Aas, Hardgrove and the other two students are among 28 students and four faculty members participationg in the Oak Ridge science semester program sponsored by the Great Lakes colleges association and the Associated Colleges of the Midwest.

During the three-and-one-half-month program, the students will conduct independent research under the guidance of ORNL staff members.

SPECIAL FEELINGS accompanying the honor of being named homecoming queen were witnessed by Robyn Dallmann Friday at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. Robyn received her crown from football captain Rob Jorstad as Danny Odegaard sang the homecoming theme song, "You Decorated My Life." All interested persons, as well as former board members, are invited to the meeting.

Although the library will be closed today in observance of Columbus Day, meeting room doors of the library will be open for the meeting.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Patterson - Kompelien Vows Spoken In Illinois

Rebecca Ann Patterson of Dover, Del., and Kevin Merle Kompelien of this city exchanged marriage vows recently at a two o'clock wedding at the North Suburban Evangelical Free church, Deerfield, Ill.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Patterson of Hartley, Del., and Mr. and Mrs. Everett M. Kompelien, rural Thief River Falls.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony were Rev. Lee Eclov and Rev. Fritz Dale. The groom's uncle, Randy Moe, served as organist, playing the traditional wedding march as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. During the ceremony, the groom sang, "The Lord's Prayer," and "Wedding Prayer;" and Susan Eclov, a friend of the couple, sang "You're A Gift."

On the altar were yellow carnations and babies' breath, matching the flowers that graced the candelabra. Marking the pews along the white carpeted aisle were white ribbon bows, ferns and clusters of babies' breath.

The bride was attired in a sleeveless gown with a wide Victorian ruffle of crystal pleated Chantilly lace outlining the sheer chiffon yoke. Venice lace was appliqued at the high neckline, fitted waistline and on the bouffant silk chiffon skirt edged with a deep Wedgewood lace ruffle that flowed into a semi-cathedral train. Complementing the skirt was an overlay of crystal pleated Chantilly lace, also edged with a Wedgewood lace ruffle. Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to a derby bridal hat appliqued with Chantilly lace motifs. She carried a small nosegay of yellow roses with white statice and babies' breath, tied with white picot ribbon.

Karen Lewis of Wilmington, Del., a friend of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an empire fashioned crystal pleated, gown of light blue qiana with a wide swaf-effect collar in front and back. Her butterfly sleeves were edged with Venice lace. She carried two yellow roses accented with babies' breath and maize ribbon.

Similar attire was worn by the other attendants: Barb Quinn, Highwood, Ill., a friend of the bride; Konnie Christensen, Thief River Falls, a sister of the groom; and Karen Eklind, Park Ridge, Ill., a friend of the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was his cousin, Randy Trontvet of West Fargo, N.D., and originally from Thief River Falls. Groomsmen were Ken Kompelien, Thief River Falls, a brother of the groom; Kent Christensen, Thief River Falls, a brother-in-law of the groom; and Brian Nygaard, Des Moines, Iowa, a cousin of the groom. Serving as ushers were Roger Eriksson, New Hope and formerly of this city, a cousin of the groom, and Jimmy Rosco, Dover, Del., a cousin of the bride. Like the groom, they wore gray stroller tuxedos with a white boutonniere on their lapel.

The bride's mother, who also served as the bride's personal attendant, was attired in a floor-length, light blue polyester gown featuring a chiffon print cape-effect collar. The groom's mother wore a floor-length gown of a light blue celesta floral print. Their corsages were orchids.

Honor guests were the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moe and Mrs. Bella Kompelien of Thief River Falls.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Orville Trontvet and Mr. and Mrs. Algot Eriksson and Peter of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dalager, Mentor; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Nygaard and Kari of Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Augan and Andrew of Minneapolis, Jim and Barb Roscoe of Dover, Del.; Jean Colona, Newark, Del.; Rick and Karen Roscoe, Trenton, N.J.; and Norm and Cindy Kane, Milwaukee, Wis.

A reception in the Swanson Fellowship hall of the church followed with the youth pastor Rev. Fritz Dale and his wife, Connie, as host and hostess. Janny Roscoe, a cousin of the bride, presided at the guest book as members of the high school youth group, Kim Link, Kirsten Trafton and Cheryl Sowersby ladled the punch.

Centering the serving table was a tiered and pillared white wedding cake with lemon filling. The cake was iced in white, decorated with yellow and blue roses and topped with a double bell ornament and a lace heart. It was baked, cut and served by Karen and Sandy Soderberg.

Waitresses were Bev. Faugerstrom, Marie Gersdorf, Cathy Cutter, Jolene Carlson and Marian Stenkraus, women of the congregation. At the gift table were Beth and Nathan Dalager, cousins of the groom.

For their wedding trip the couple traveled to Thief River Falls by way of Milwaukee, Wisconsin Dells, St. Paul, and Itasca State park.

The bride is a graduate of Trinity College, Deerfield, Ill., and is currently employed at the Klothes Kloset in this city. The groom, a graduate of University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, is employed at the Evangelical Free church in this city. The couple is at home at 712½ Red Lake boulevard. Valley Home Events Reported By Ella Overum

Highlighting the Valley Home activities for the month of September, according to the report from the Home reporter Ella Overum, was the nursing home queen contest held at Bemidji.

Representing Valley Home at the event was resident Pauline Culver, who was selected queen from the 12 contestants entered from area nursing homes. Her escort was Albert Berge, also of Valley Home. They were accompanied to Bemidji by Mrs. Mildred Brekke, the administrator, and Gail Zacharias, the activities coordinator.

Ten residents noted their birthday in September. Noting birthdays and the dates were: Selma Kortesmaki, September 1; Gunnar Sundberg, September 4; Albert Swanson, September 5; Betsy Ness, September 10; Albert Berge, September 14; Louise Bjerk, September 16; Hilda Bakke and Joe Pletchett, both on September 18; Christine Trulson, September 21; and Gilbert Bakke, September 23. All were honored jointly at a birthday party that included lemon ice cream dessert provided by the Home together with contributions from Gunnar Sundberg, Albert Swanson, Albert Berge, Louise Bjerk and Joe Pletchett. Each honoree received a card with a cash gift from the Home as well as a birthday card from the Catholic Daughters, who visit the Home the first of each month. Serving special treats on their birthdays were: Selma Kortesmaki who served ice cream and cake; Hilda Bakke, ice cream; Mildred Brekke, ice cream bars on her birthday, September 25; and Gail Zacharias, ice cream bars on her birthday, September 3.

Devotional programs during the month were given by Rev. Carl Andersen of Trinity Lutheran church; Rev. Don Knutson of Redeemer Lutheran church; Rev. Dave Super of St. Bernard's Catholic church; Rev. Melvyn Budke of the United Methodist church; and Rev. J. Hovland of Trinity, who served Holy Communion the fourth Wednesday of the month.

Tuesday evening services were led by Dean Paskewitz. His guests were the Robert Bohn family with Gloria Lee as pianist, the Don Johnson family, Norris Trochmann and Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Trochman.

Sunday morning devotions were by Lester Brekke, LeRoy Knutson, Rueben Haugen, Bill Wagner, Gary Hodne and son of Newfolden and Rev. Raynard Huglen, also of Newlolden. Rev. George DeWall and his family of the Bible Baptist church were in charge of Sunday afternoon services; Judith Wold led Bible study every Tuesday morning; and the priests of St. Bernard's parish offered Mass every week.

Special programs were presented by Mrs. Walker of Oklee, who gave a piano recital; Bernie Novak and Luther Haugen of Warren, who gave a violin and piano concert; and the St. John youth group, who sang to the residents and staff. Members of the Anna circle of Trinity Lutheran church visted with the residents and served a variety of breads with the afternoon coffee, as did the Hannah and Grace circles of Zion Lutheran church, who held their regular circle meeting in the Royal room. The Lincoln high school CAP students: Wanda Sylvester, Paula Meyers, Jenni Garr, and Debbie Erickson, presented a program on September 30.

Activities outside the home included trip to the Gavin gardens at St. Hilaire to the Pioneer Village church to hear Rev. J. Riveness with Mr. and Mrs. Brekke providing the rides, and to the Dorothy Johnson farm near St. Hilaire with Gail Zacharias and Nancy Hendrickson, accompanying the group. While at the Johnson home, the group was served fresh rolls and coffee before picking pine cones to be used in the craft room.

In bowling, the Valley Home team won against the Oakland Park bowlers in a game at Valley Home.

Shirley Foss Of Bagley Speaks At Zehlian Meeting

Shirley Foss, owner and operator of Hembygd, a Scandinavian import gift shop at Bagley, was a guest speaker at the Zehlian General Federation of Women's club meeting held Wednesday afternoon at the Dee Forney home.

Mrs. Foss, who has made an intensive study of Scandinavian traditions and the Nissi and Troll little people folklore, told of the many superstitions and traditions prevelant in those countries. An accomplished vocalist, who has been soloist for many years at the St. Lucia observance in Bemidji, Mrs. Foss also sang three Scandinavian folksongs.

Jan Peterson served as cohostess at the meeting.

The next meeting of the group will be October 21 at 9:30 a.m., at the Margaret Saetre home. Elizabeth Hailey's book, "A Woman of Independent Means," will be reviewed and discussed.

Christine Jevne Is Honored On 84th Birthday

Mrs. Christine Jevne of Holt was honored on her 84th birthday on Saturday, October 2, at a party at Middle River at the home of her daughter, Cleo Henning. The event began with a potluck dinner featuring birthday cake, pumpkin pie and ice cream.

Present for the occasion were: Mrs. Jevne's other daughter, Ferne Nygard, and five of her six grandchildren: Jerome Henning, Jeanelle Johnson, KayDell Super, Jon Nygard and Kendall Nygard. JoAnn Paulson was unable to attend but sent a gift and birthday greetings. Also present were all seven of Mrs. Jevne's great-grandchildren.

Guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Sig Nygard of Ogema, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Nygard, Ehron and Stephanie of St. Louis Park, Dr. and Mrs. Kendall Nygard and Travis of Fargo, N.D., Mrs. Chris Saustad and granddaughters, Jennifer and Christen of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Super, Kristina and Kara, and Cleo Henning of Middle River and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Johnson and Sue Olson of Holt.

Following the presentation of the gifts and cards, the honor guest responded with words of appreciation for the honor shown her.

Homemakers Of Rocksbury Study Natural Foods

Rocksbury homemakers held their October meeting at the Riverside Terrace with Olga Engelstad and Evelyn Nelson as hostesses.

The lesson on selecting and preparing natural foods was given by Gina Gunderson and Synneva Engelstad. They stated that natural foods have no additives or nothing taken away. Uses of to-fu, a soybean curd, and carob, which replaces chocolate, were listed and information was given on growing and using sprouts. They also gave a demonstration on sprouting seeds at home. To add interest to the lesson, they served a variety of natural foods which they had prepared.

Members participated in the lesson by naming some natural foods they had eaten that day.

Evelyn Nelson presided at the meeting which opened with the reading of the club cread by Clara Voldness. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite flower. Coming events discussed were a calligraphy workshop on handwriting to be held this month, the annual holiday fair set for November, and the November meeting to be held at the home of Gloria Johnson. Door prizes were won by Dolly Mead and Synneva Engelstad.

Members attending the meeting, in addition to those already mentioned, were Viola Husby, Hildur Lian, Ivadell Reierson, Bertha Anderson, Gladys Heinze and Julia Finstad.

Guests were Alice Engelstad and Valborg Hanson.

Fall Plantings Studied By Deer Park Gardeners

"Fall Plantings" was the topic studied at the meeting of the Deer Park garden club held at the home of Inga Coan.

Leading the topic was Dorothy Svanjord, who listed varieties suitable for planting in this area. She gave tips and reminders in growing perennials, suggested collections that could be planted formally or informally, and stressed the importance of well-worked soil to make planting more satisfying.

President Marion Marquis presided at the meeting that began with members answering roll call by giving a "First Sign of Fall."

The program for 1982 was outlined by secretary Lauretta Stucy and approved by the members. The theme will be "Nature's Friends;" and the club flower will be the Zinnia. Society dues were increased and were collected by club treasurer Norma Hanson. A motion was also approved to raise traveling expenses to district meetings from seven cents a mile to 14 cents.

District treasurer Norma Hanson reported at the annual meeting of the 13th District Horticultural society held at Roseau. She stated that the Country store, that has been a feature at district meetings, will be eliminated next year due to lack of interest in many of the clubs.

Following the meeting, a luncheon was served by the hostess.

Members present were Luella Peterson, Helen Chervestad, Willa Prestegaard, Theodora Anderson, Norma Hanson, Ethel Wiseth, Lauretta Stucy, Dora Derosier, Elva Fiedler, Selma Sanders, Marion Olson, Dorothy Svanjord and Mrs. Coan. Mildred Carey was a guest.

The November meeting will be held at the Lavonne Radniecki home. The craft will be "Wall Hangings."

Food Program Income Limit Is Lowered

New U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) income eligibility guidelines issued recently will lower the maximum income limit of people receiving benefits under the special supplemental food program for women, infants and children.

According to assistant secretary of agriculture Mary C. Jarratt, the new rules will set the maximum income limit at 185 per cent of the official poverty line instead of the previous 195 per cent poverty, plus a standard deduction.

"The change will allow more of those at the lower end of the income scale to participate, by removing from eligibility some people at the higher income limit," Jarratt said. "It is a matter of targeting benefits so those in greatest need can be served."

States may set their own income cutoff limits anywhere between the new federal guidelines and their own limit for free or reduced-price health care. However, income limits may not be set lower than the poverty line.

To qualify for participation in the program under the new federal limits, the annual income for a family of four may not exceed $15,630, or 185 per cent of the poverty line.

Previously, the same family was eligible for the program with an income, plus a standard deduction, that totaled $17,560.

About 2.2 million participants now receive nutrition education and health benefits from the program, which is administered nationally by USDA's food and nutrition service.

Program provides supplemental foods and nutrition education to pregnant and breast feeding women and infants and children up to age five from families with an inadequate income who are at nutritional risk, Jarratt said.

New rule implements a provision of the Omnibus budget reconciliation act of 1981.

Program is operated in cooperation with 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and 29 Indian agencies. USDA provides cash grants for the program to state health departments, which in turn distribute funds to participants and for specified administrative costs, including those for nutrition education.

Three categories of food packages are issued each month. Each package costs USDA about $28 per month. Regulations specify the maximum quantities and types of foods provided. Foods include infant formula, cereal and juice for infants.

Children and pregnant or breast-feeding women may receive milk, cheese, cereal, juice, eggs and dry beans or peanut butter.

Non-breast-feeding, postpartum women may receive milk, cheese, cereal, juice and eggs. There is also a special package for women and children with special dietary needs which includes formula, cereal and juice.

New income guidelines for all family sizes for the continental U.S., as well as guidelines adjusted for the cost of living for Alaska, Hawaii, and Guam, will be published in the September 25 Federal Register.

200th Anniversary Of Yorktown Battle Noted

by David M. Maxfield and Janet DeCosmo
Smithsonian news service

The setting is deceptive: lovely 18th-century houses, gently rolling landscape, an expansive view through the hazy sun of the slow-moving York River, a scene of peace at Yorktown, VA.

But it was here that the British under the command of Gen. Charles Cornwallis were drummed into submission by an American army and an allied French force during the decisive battle of the Revolutionary War 200 years ago this month.

There was blood spilled on all sides, but in fact more Frenchmen than Americans died here to bring independence to the colonies.

Anniversary at Yorktown, October 16-19, has special meaning for the French, who helped the colonists plan, finance and fight their way from the dark days of 1778 until 1783, when at last the Treaty of Paris recognized the United States of America as a free nation.

"France helped make it possible to terminate an exhausting conflict which neither the British nor the colonists could win," says Philip K. Lundeberg, curator of naval history at the Smithsonian's national museum of American history.

Yorktown observance this month, according to its planners, is as much a reaffirmation and tribute to France's role as it is an American celebration of the triumph over colonial rule.

"Deeply imbedded in the collective memory of Americans," Stanley J. Idzerda, editor of the Lafayette Papers at Cornell university, has written, "is the cardinal fact that when help was needed for this country's survival. . . . that help came first, and it came with prodigal consistency, from France."

France and the United States have differed and disagreed over the years, as might be expected of relatives, but both, Idzerda added, "have seemed to sense a common bond in being the first modern nation-states born in revolution."

Even before the French-American connection was bonded by their respective rebellions, the French influence in the Colonies was apparent. During the 17th and 18th centuries, such radical French political philosophers as John Calvin, Jean Jacques Rousseau and Charles Louis Montesquieu dared to suggest that governments rested on the consent of those governed and that there were certain rights no state should deny its citizens.

These ideas were avidly read by American intellecturals and statemen — among them Tom Paine, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin — who would frame the intellectual basis for independence and, later, the state and federal constitutions. (Coming full circle, the leaders of the 1789 French Revolution would borrow heavily from American thinking and draw inspiration in writing the French Declaration of the Rights of Man from the constitutions of the individual states, particularly Virginia's bill of rights.)

But political idealism was not the only reason the French-American connection was so solidly welded. There were practical considerations as well, and there was the not-so-small matter of French pride injured by the humiliating treaty of 1763 that ended the Seven Years War and stripped France of most of her colonial empire.

In a revealing memorandum written in April 1776 by a key member of Louis XVI's circle, the reasons for France's future involvement in the American cause were put directly. "If we accede to the desires of the Colonies," the document began, "it appears that the following advantages will result: first, the power of England will be irreparably diminished and ours will increase in proportion; second, her commerce will be irreparably damaged; third, . . . we could recover a part of the possessions which England took from us."

Then, too, French trading companies craved more direct access to American markets than the British had allowed earlier. And the French intelligentsia looked upon the colonies as a laboratory for testing their political theories.

The king and his court, however, were not unsympathetic to the intellectual foundation upon which the Revolution was being built. Louis XVI, after all, had warmly welcomed two of its chief conceptualizers, Adams and Franklin, at the luxurious court of Versailles. Because the Declaration pictured the British king as a despot and tyrant, "the French could support it," Idzerda writes, and Louis could support it "for he would not wish to be considered a tyrant."

For the Americans, the alliance with France was a grave necessity. As the war with Britain escalated, the Colonies grew desperate for outside assistance — for supplies, equipment and experienced military leadership.

As early as 1775, the Colonies had cast aside their deep mistrust of foreign alliances — "they would entangle us in future wars in Europe," in Adams' words — and sent out feelers for help in France and elsewhere.

France began aiding the American cause secretly and in a limited way in 1776, but once the Colonies declared independence, the French government began meeting officially in Paris with Colonial representatives, among them Benjamin Franklin.

Lingering doubts the French held about joining the American cause were dispelled in December 1777 when the Americans defeated the British at Saratoga, N.Y., in one of the pivotal battles of the revolution. Louis directed that treaty negotiations begin at once, and two months later, two pacts, one military, the other commercial, were signed by the colonies and France. The allies pledged "not to lay down their arms" until independence had been won. Substantial aid from the French armed forces, however, would not follow immediately.

French-American bond, though forged between the leadership of the two countries, was warmly endorsed by both the French and American publics. In France, Franklin was lionized by the French people. His portrait could be found all over the city, and the round fur hat he wore low on his forehead became the rage as all the French ladies rushed to their milliners to buy hats "a la Franklin."

On the other side of the Atlantic, the Americans were showing equal respect for a young Frenchman, the Marquis de Lafayette, who sailed to America in 1777 to join Washington's ragtag army.

Despite the desperately needed leadership that Lafayette and other French officer volunteers provided the American army early in the war, little was going well for the colonial cause. The British "considered the revolution a joke," according to the Rev. Herbert Stein-Schneider, president of the LaFayette-Rochambeau Society in Washington, D.C., "because the insurgents had no professional soldiers, no artillery, no navy and, above all, no money."

Even George Washington, writing to a representative in Paris to press for more French aid, despaired: "Withoug a foreign loan, our present force, which is but a remnant of an army, cannot be kept together in this campaign. We are at the end of our tether, and now or never deliverance must come."

Deliverance did come. In 1781, the French court responded to accounts of French officers who had seen American conditions first hand. ("Incredible that troops almost naked and poorly paid should behave so well under fire," said one.) France sent 5,500 seasoned soldiers commanded by Gen. Rochambeau, new artillery and a large supply of gold francs. And most important to the war's eventual outcome, Louis' foreign minister assured the Colonies that a fleet commanded by Adm. de Grasse would be available for action off the Atlantic coast that fall.

Meanwhile, stymied in the north, the British forces had looked to the south for victory. Trying to split the southern from northern Colonies, Gen. Cornwallis moved into the Carolinas, but his force was unable to control much territory in the region. Feeling that southern Colonies could not be held until Virginia came under control, Cornwallis set out for stragegically located Yorktown, near the Chesapeake Bay.

When the enemy's position was discovered, Washington and Gen. Rochambeau, saw their long-awaited opportunity. Earlier plans for an attack against British forces in New York were scrapped. They told Lafayette to keep Cornwallis occupied in Yorktown, confirmed de Grasse's intention to move to the Chesapeake to prevent the British from escaping by sea and then began moving their own armies south. "The Yorktown campaign was a miracle of coordination," the Smithsonian's naval curator Lundeberg says. "Things worked out in a providential fashion."

De Grasse's fleet arrived at the Chesapeake first and, September 5, drove off the British in a sea battle that historians consider key to Yorktown — and the entire war. "Without the naval victory of de Grasse," the late historian Samuel Eliot Morison has written, "it would not have been the capitulation of Cornwallis but that of Washington that history would have registered."

Hemmed in by the French-American force commanded by Washington, Cornwallis' troops surrendered at Yorktown October 19. The next day, the defeated general wrote British commander Henry Clinton, based in New York, "Sir, I have the mortification to inform your excellency that I have been forced to give up . . ." And two months later in London, Lord North, George III's foreign minister, moaned when he heard the news, "Oh God! It is all over!"

As a postscript to this story, it should be pointed out that the once cordial, working relationship between the French and Americans cooled considerably following Yorktown. First, despite the terms of the 1778 alliance, the colonies signed a preliminary peace treaty with Great Britain late in 1782 without even informing the French. Then, the new nation defaulted on both the principal and interest of loans for the war effort (although it was not pressed by the French for repayment).

Finally, the new republic seemed determined to put as much distance as possible between itself and France, as the French revolution became more radical and bloody after 1789. April 22, 1793, President Washington declared the United States neutral in French affairs.

Washington went even further in his 1796 farewell address to the nation, warning the states "to steer clear of permanent alliance with any portion of the foreign world." Despite those words and despite America's off-and-on again flirtation with isolationism, the sentimental alliance with France repeatedly has been buttressed over the decades with cultural, economic and military links. And it is appropriate that the paramount symbol of the French revolution, the key to the Bastille, sent to Washington and carried across the ocean by Tom Paine, holds a place of honor at Washington's home, Mount Vernon.

Collectors Must Wait Patiently For Rewards

In the struggle against inflation, more and more people are investing in coins, stamps, antiques or other collectibles in the expectation that increases in their value will offset inflation's impact.

Because this is becoming an important facet of personal money management, the Minnesota society of certified public accountants (CPAs) have talked to experts familiar with the investment potential of collectibles. And the first observation reached, according to the Minnesota Society of CPAs, is that predicting growth in value is hazardous, and that the prudent collector must patiently await the reward. Nevertheless, collectibles do hold out advantages as tangible, practical assets.

While stocks or commodity prices fluctuate daily, the value of collectibles changes over longer periods of time. The holding period for a known piece of art is generally from five to 10 years, with more substantial profits being made between 30 and 40 years after the initial purchase.

To increase the value of a collection, expert collectors advise accumulating a complete set of rare or limited items. If, for example, you buy a set of four vases created by a particular craftsman, one piece at a time, the price of the fourth vase will be higher than the first three already obtained. Possession of the complete set makes the vases more rare and the collection more valuable.

But, when collecting rare items, CPAs warn, you should exercise caution. Limited editions meant to produce instant collectors items do not appreciate automatically. Many editions are limited by time. If a large number of people order before deadline, the number produced will be large. If the edition is limited by size, the manufacturer could produce many coins, plates or prints. Ask the dealer how many of the edition are available, if it is the only edition and whether any reproductions were done by the original artist.

If you are thinking about collectibles as a way to protect your money, CPAs advise that you follow the approach taken by successful collectors, which is deciding which collectibles you like and their possibilities for appreciation before you buy. To make the most of any opportunities for growth in your collectibles' value, CPAs say you should specialize or concentrate on a line of quality items.

Before you buy, consult either a catalogue or an expert. Read all available information on your field, including collectors' newsletters, trade magazines and books. Many established fields have societies formed to keep you up to date on current trends and "hot" items, as well as to provide space for trade advertisements and communications between members. Remember, CPAs advise, to include the cost of this information when you are estimating the expenses of collecting.

Although up to $12 million a year is spent on antiques, good pieces are still available for less than a non-collector would imagine. In some fields beginners can acquire a valuable collection by spending $50 to $100 per month. The best place for novice collectors to buy is a local antique shop or an auction gallery. Most galleries have experts available to help you evaluate any pieces that interest you. Ask the expert or the dealer any questions you have about the piece and its origins. Find out if they will guarantee the authenticity of an object and always examine the item first hand for flaws.

The value of an object, CPAs say, depends on its quality, because that is what makes it saleable. In addition to quality, the attractiveness, perfection and rarity of an object make it desirable. The more desirable an item, the higher its value.

CPAs remind you that when an item is finally resold, auction galleries and dealers charge anywhere from five per cent to 25 per cent commission, which is sometimes split between the seller and the buyer. And an item consigned to a dealer or gallery takes several months or longer to sell. Thus, CPAs say, if you want readily convertible assets and a highly liquid investment, some collectibles may not fit your needs.

Collectibles, CPAs say, are not automatically classified as investments in the eyes of the IRS. While the capital gains tax does apply to profits made from resale of a collectible, a loss cannot be deducted from your federal income tax unless you show that you intend to make a profit. Consider the tax implications of the new tax law in determining whether your collectibles can be treated as an investment, and also to find out how to calculate the capital gains tax. With careful buying of quality goods, you can sometimes protect and enjoy your money more by purchasing collectibles.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, are the people who have never heard the Gospel really lost? What happens to them? Please give Scripture.

A. Many people say, "How can we say God is fair if He sends people to hell who have never heard of Him?"

Whatever God does, it is going to be fair. But many people feel if that were true, then He would let everybody into heaven — or at least all the good people.

Genesis 18:25 (Living Bible) says, "Should not the Judge of all the earth be just and fair."

Every person, no matter what his geographical location, has at least two sources of information about God to which he can respond.

Nature is one source. Everyone has the same natural wonders around him, and they point to a superior being beyond man whom anyone may choose to seek.

Romans 1:20 teaches, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are created, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse."

Psalm 19:1-3 says, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth His handywork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard."

But nature is not our only source of information about God. Another one is within ourselves — our conscience. Our conscience tells us about sin; the difference between the way we live and the way we know we ought to live.

Romans 2:15 teaches, "There is a law written in our hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts accusing or excusing one another.

When someone looking at nature and his own conscience wants to find the source of goodness and righteousness, God promises He will reveal Himself to that person.

Missionary records are filled with stories of people from isolated areas who had no exposure to the Bible or to anyone who knew the message of Christianity, yet were seeking a good and loving God. God answered their search by leading some missionary to them to tell them about Christ.

God does not send people to eternal punishment. People send themselves there. God gives everyone a chance to receive Christ as their personal Saviour or to reject Christ and choose eternal punishment. John 3:18, John 3:16

The everlasting torment which anyone may endure will be simply the inevitable results of his own deliberate and persistent choice of sin.

If you have any questions that you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Accountants Show How To Compute Living Cost Index

Do you really know how you are doing financially? Are you better off this year than you were last year, or did that last raise all but scuttle your hopes for financial independence?

Here's how to determine where you stand financially according to the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs). This may help you get a firmer control over your finances.

The object, say the CPAs, is to keep a step ahead of the Consumer Price Index (CPI), which means holding your living costs below national averages.

CPI figures are based on a survey of urban consumers which represents about 80 per cent of the population. Unfortunately, the CPI does not include income taxes, which to many families is the largest and fastest rising expense.

Compare your expenditures for each index category for the same month this year and last. Then compare it with the national figures. For instance, if you spent $600 a month for housing in February 1980 and $660 this February, then your housing index increased 10 per cent. (If you did not change residence, your costs may not have increased at all). In February of this year, the national increase for housing was 12.1 per cent. So your rate of increase was lower, and you are ahead of the CPI housing average.

Total your expenses for the index categories. Be sure housing includes rent or mortgage payment and interest, plus taxes and maintenance. Food costs include beverages and eating out as well as your groceries. Transportation includes your car expenses as well as public transportation. Don't forget to include insurance payments in the medical care category. Apparel, entertainment and "other" are the remaining categories. Other includes education, tobacco and toiletries.

The CPI for February 1981 was 11.3 per cent higher than it was a year ago. The index stood at 263.2, meaning that it cost $2.63 to buy something that cost $1 in 1967.

The CPI is used as an escalator caluse in wage contracts covering more than eight and a half million workers. Fifty million recipients of government pension benefits (including Social Security) and food stamps have at least part of their incomes adjusted upwards with the CPI.

Prices of individual items included in the CPI are moving up at many different rates and the collection of goods and services that make up the index are of varying importance in the budgets of the 60 million households in the U.S. For instance, if you are a two-car family and both you and your spouse drive to work, your transportation index will be considerably higher than that of the family with one worker who spends $1.40 a day for the bus.

However, if the increase in your own transportation budget is higher than the national increase of 13 per cent, you would be well advised to take a careful look at those expenses. Perhaps you can bring them under control by either getting rid of one car, or dropping the collision insurance on the older car. Compare your cost-of-living increases against the national averages. Increases in the CPI transportation index stem largely from soaring energy costs.

Remember, too, that you probably do not fit the government's CPI model one-income family with two children. Now that more than half the American families have two paychecks, and fewer children are being born, this model is out of date. Also, housing statistics reflect the high mortgage interest rates. But since fewer people buy homes today, the department of labor statistics may give more weight to rents.

Now that you've calculated your cost of living index, has your income increased? Overall cost of living increase this year is around 10 per cent. If your income has not matched that figure, you will have to find ways to cut your cost of living index. That's the road to financial independence.

Compassionate Friends Meet In Crookston

Next meeting of the "Compassionate Friends" will be October 19 at 8 p.m. in Crookston at the Presbyterian church. Meetings are regularly scheduled for the third Monday of each month at the same time and at the same place.

Plans were made at the September meeting to initiate proceedings to become a recognized chapter of the national organization. Monthly meetings have shown a growth in members and a need for such a group has been expressed in the community. United States national chapter is located in Oak Brook, IL.

Meetings of the compassionate friends provides bereaved parents a time to talk about the lives of their children who have died.

"To be able to freely talk about the child is important to parents and confirms the fact that their child was a part of life on this earth," a recent article stated. "There is an emotional need to talk about a child with other people and to share past incidents of his or her life. Bereaved parents find themselves isolated when their friends and family are fearful to discuss past incidents that relate to a child who has died. This is distressful to parents who would find comfort in knowing others have not forgotten their child. Bereaved parents need to know that their child is remembered and his or her short life touched others."

Most difficult step for bereaved parents is to appear at the first compassionate friends meeting. Couples are encouraged to come to the meetings together. This is also a time for the fathers to share their frustrations and conflicts with the grief process and the male image.

Contact persons in the Crookston area are Dr. Cliff and Gladys Stadem, Mrs. Doris (Stanley) Davis, and Jack and Audrey Eickhof.

Ex-Military Personnel Miss Jobless Pay

Ex-military personnel who leave the military voluntarily or fail to reenlist when eligible will be disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits due to changes in the federal unemployment insurance law passed by the last Congress, according to Gene Sampson of the Minnesota department of economic security.

Sampson, director of the unemployment insurance benefits branch, said the changes affect personnel terminated from military service on or after July 1, 1981, and for weeks of unemployment beginning after August 13, the date the amendment became law.

Under the new amendments to the law, ex-servicemen and women must now meet three conditions to qualify for benefits.

Individuals must have been honorably discharged or released under honorable conditions. Other types of discharges or releases will not be acceptable for unemployment benefits.

Individuals cannot have resigned or voluntarily left the military. Claimants will be considered to have voluntarily left the service if they could have reenlisted but did not. Individuals will be considered to have resigned by their own request if the reason is for hardship or retirement.

Ex-military personnel cannot have been released or discharged "for cause," as defined by the U.S. department of defense. "For cause" conditions pertain to serious infractions of military regulations.

Failure to meet any of the qualifying conditions will result in cancellation of wages earned by ex-military personnel during their military service. Wages earned during a specified base period determine an individual's unemployment benefit amount.

Under the old law, individuals who voluntarily left the military with honorable discharges were eligible for unemployment benefits. Cancellation of unemployment benefits occurred only when a person was discharged under other than honorable conditions.

Woman Bishop, Gang Leader At UMgathering

First woman bishop and a "street-wise" evangelist will headline a statewide rally of United Methodists October 23-24 in the Minneapolis auditorium.

Marjorie Matthews, bishop of the Wisconsin area and Tom Skinner of New York City will speak to the 'UMgathering' Saturday, October 24. A massive choir, jazz band and nationally-known musicians will also perform for more than 5,000 persons expected to attend this first such event for Minnesota United Methodists.

Bishop Matthews was elected to her position in July, 1980. First woman to hold such a high office in the church, she says she will be a bishop for the whole church and not just for women or any single segment of the Christian community.

Receiving her Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1970 and a Ph.D. in 1976, prior to ordination she was in business for many years, holding local, state and regional offices in the national federation of business and professional women.

Skinner has lived in New York City all his life and in teen years led a street gang called the Harlem Lords. Now he says he is committed to raising a new generation of leadership which will have "the vision and courage to love and to lead."

REV. DONALD RONNING, Fargo, will speak at special services conducted at the Bethlehem Lutheran church in Newfolden and Alma Lutheran church, rural Argyle, October 18-20. Public is invited to attend. Theme of the services will be "O For a Closer Walk With God." Ronning will speak during the regular morning worship services October 18 which begin at Alma at 9:15 and at Bethlehem at 11. That afternoon, Ronning will speak to the youth at the Bethlehem church at 2:30. Special evening services beginning at 8 p.m. will be conducted at Alma October 18 and 20 and at Bethlehem October 19. There will also be one-hour Bible study luncheons at Bethlehem October 19 and 20 at noon. No advance reservations are required.

The evangelist says part of his leadership program is teaching people to love one another, beginning with the potential leader knowing and loving himself and having what Skiller calls a "right relationship" with God.

The rally begins Friday evening, October 23, and continues Saturday, October 24, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Event is open to all and the $5 registration (includes both days) may be made through local United Methodist churches or by sending a check (payable to "Minnesota Annual Conference") to Metro District Office, 122 W. Franklin St., Room 400, Minneapolis, MN 55404.

Nan Hamberg Services Held At Karlstad

Mrs. Nan Hamberg, 94, of Karlstad died Wednesday morning at the Hallock hospital. For the past 10 years, she had been a resident of the Hallock Nursing home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nan Hamberg were held Friday at 10:00 a.m., at the Bethel Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Martti Wilkman officiating. Mrs. Oscar Yngve was the soloist and Mrs. Terry Johnson, the organist. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery. The Collins Funeral home, Karlstad, was in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Nathan Britten, Tim Nordin, Ken Pagnac, Doug Nordin, Loren Germundson and Jim Sollund.

Mrs. Hamberg, the former Nan Johnson, was born Oct. 28, 1888 in Sweden to Carl and Anna Johnson. As an infant, she moved with her family to Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, where she attended school and grew to womanhood.

In 1909, she was united in marriage to J. Alfred Hamberg at Winnipeg. The couple lived in Winnipeg until 1917, when they moved to Karlstad, where they purchased the Herman Nelson restaurant. They operated that business for two years before they bought the former Alfred Dagen garage, which they operated until Hamberg's unexpected death in October of 1930. Following her husband's death, Mrs. Hamberg joined the Nordin family. She maintained her residence in the former Nordin Hotel where she was employed until its closing in 1969. She continued to live with the Nordins until she became a resident of the Hallock Nursing home.

She was a member of the Bethel Lutheran church of Karlstad and over the years was active in a variety of community affairs.

He only survivors are a nephew and a niece.

In addition to her husband and parents, she was preceded in death by several brothers and sisters.

Bruce Legg, 83, of this city, who resided at 804 North Knight, died unexpectedly Sunday evening at his home.

Funeral services for Bruce Legg are pending. The Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Joel Evenson, Son Of Mitch Evensons, Dies

Joel Hugh Mitchell Evenson, 17 month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Evenson of this city, died unexpectedly Friday morning at the United Hospital, Grand Forks, N.D. A viral infection was listed as the cause of death.

Funeral services for Joel Evenson will be held today (Monday) at 2:00 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Carl Andersen officiating. Jeanne Harger will serve as organist. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Joel Hugh Mitchell Evenson, a son of Lois and Mitchell Evenson, was born May 12, 1980 in Thief River Falls. He was baptized Oct. 5, 1980 at Trinity Lutheran church.

He is survived by his parents, two brothers: Cory and Todd, both at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nichol, Bottineau, N.D.; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Evenson, Minot, N.D.; his great-grandmother, Mary Evenson, and several uncles, aunts and cousins.

Torkel Knutson Dies October 5 In Minneapolis

Torkel A. Knutson, 75, of 3444 Aldrich Avenue South, Minneapolis, a former sheriff of Polk county, died Monday, October 5, a victim of leukemia. Knutson had been hospitalized since July 27.

Funeral services for Torkel A. Knutson were held Wednesday in Minneapolis at the Werness Brothers chapel. Interment was the following day in the Augustana cemetery at Halstad.

Torkel A. Knutson, a son of Aslak and Gunhild Krossen Knutson, was born in Equality township, north of Oklee. He was married in 1936 at Twin Valley to Orianna Flesjer.

Knutson was a state highway patrolman from 1934 to 1940; sheriff of Polk county for two terms (1942-50) and operated a general store in Twin Valley for 13 years. Since 1966, he and his wife have lived in Minneapolis. He was a member of the Bethlehem Lutheran church, Minneapolis.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Robert, who left in July with his family for Seoul, Korea where he is teaching in the Seoul foreign school; two granddaughters, and a sister, Anna Knutson, Bagley.

Services Held Here Sat. For B. Skjerping

Funeral services for Bennie Skjerping, 85, of Effingham, Ill., and formerly of Thief River Falls, were held in Thief River Falls on Saturday at 2:00 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Skjerping died Tuesday at Effingham.

Rev. J.M. Hovland, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, officiated at the services. Organist and soloist was Mrs. Arnold Hammer. Interment was in the Bethany cemetery.

Pallbearers were Theodore Skjerping, Donald Skjerping, Willis Skjerping, Jerome Skjerping, Bruce Skjerping and Floyd Skjerping.

Bennie Skjerping, a son of the late Tobias and Gurine Grove Skjerping, was born July 25, 1896 at Fisher. In 1904, he moved with the family to Smiley township, Pennington county, where he attended school and grew to manhood. He was confirmed in the Bethany Lutheran church in that area.

Skjerping worked in various places until settling in Springfield, Ill., where he was employed in construction. Since 1974, he had resided at Effingham, Ill. He never married.

He is survived by one sister, Ella Skjerping, Thief River Falls, and several nieces and nephews.

Dear Readers,
Modern research indicates that most mental and attitude changes seen in 'old' people are not biological effects of aging. They are the result of social pressures. The elderly should resist the stereotype of being mentally and physically infirm, slow on the uptake, and rigid in their ways. With good nutrition and physical activity, living fully can continue.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

Indicators Only Serve As Guide To Economic Trends

How reliable are economic indicators commonly used to describe economic trends? Can the consumer price index, the Dow Jones industrial average, or other well-known indicators, be trusted to help you reach important personal financial decisions?

According to the Minnesota society of certified public accountants (CPAs), certain indicators are vital in helping people understand the directions the economy is taking. But these indicators should not be regarded as barometers, measuring with scientific precision all the key elements, then predicting what's to come. Here are the chief indicators with advice from CPAs on how to apply them to personal finaicial questions.

Consumer price index (CPI) is the most commonly used measure for the cost of living. Salaries and pension plans are frequently scaled by this index, which traces the increase or decrease in the cost of food, housing, clothing, medical care and transportation. Calculated monthly, the index tracks the direction and rate of living costs. Last year, according to the CPI, the cost of living increased more than 12 per cent. The CPI has decreased slightly this year with an increase of 10 per cent from April 1980 to April 1981.

First thing to do is compare the CPI with your income. If your income did not increase at least 12 per cent last year, your living standard is in jeopardy. To improve it, you must increase income faster than prices are rising.

If the CPI had increased steadily over the past six months, this might be a good time to start looking for a higher salary to meet increased living costs. A steady rise in prices usually indicates business growth.

Dow Jones industrial average: Almost every TV newscast seems to close with the latest position of this indicator, which measures the action of 30 stocks selected because of their high quality, total market value and broad base of public ownership. These stocks reflect overall market action, and the average is readjusted daily to reflect any fluctuations in these 30 stocks.

The stock market tends to attract investment when the inflation rate begins to decline — or speculators decide it is about to decline. This may lead you to invest in stock or mutual funds. The stock market is usually one of the earliest indicators of changes in the economy. It declines before a business recession appears. It also will turn upward before the end of a recession, so watch this one closely. The Dow Jones tends to move in the opposite direction from interest rates, but there have been occasional exceptions.

Treasury notes: When the interest rate rises on short term borrowing by the government, it means inflation is continuing. When rates drop, it means inflation may be slowing down. These rates reflect the investment judgment of thousands of professional bond traders, which makes this index one to watch most closely.

Prime rate: This measures increase or decrease in the cost of credit or borrowing, but only for the relatively few most creditworthy business customers. Nevertheless, this rate influences other interest rates. If the prime rate goes up, anticipate that interest rates on money market funds will also increase and you may expect higher yields on investments.

Housing starts index measures the number of new housing units on which construction has begun. This index has been depressed since the mortgage interest rate began its upward surge in recent years. Although increased slightly in the spring, it plummeted again in May. Increased housing starts usually indicates a better market for home buyers. However, this index is based on all housing starts, so a block of luxury high rise condominiums in a resort area could increase the index even though in actuality this would not reflect the market for single family homes.

Economic indicators cannot advise on specific investment opportunities, but if properly applied, they can offer useful clues to economic trends.

'Don't Be A Dummy On Halloween'

McLaughlin and Timothy

"Don't be a dummy," says Marie McLaughlin, nationally known ventriloquist, in talking about Halloween safety for kids Marie and her dummy Timothy have been touring the country for years but this year Tiomthy has become officer Timothy and is warning kids to have a safe Halloween.

"Kids and candy are a Halloween tradition," said Marie, "and nothing should change that. But Tim and I hope to make children more aware of their own safety when they're trick or treating. Somehow when Tim talks, children listen!"

In addition to newspaper warnings and school visits, Marie and Tim recently filmed a safety message which will be aired on national television as a safety reminder to children and their parents. "Halloween is one of the most exciting holidays of the year for children, and it's so easy for them to forget everything else while rushing from house to house for goodies," says Marie. "We hope that parents and schools will take some time to review Tim's safety tips with the children."

Tim's suggestions for Halloween safety include the following:

(1) Wear bright clothing; (2) make sure you can see well and walk easily in your costume; (3) carry a flashlight; (4) go with a friend or an adult; (5) don't eat unwrapped candy or gum; (6) do your trick or treating as early in the evening as possible; (7) bring your treats home before eating them; (8) do your trick or treating in your own neighborhood; (9) don't enter a stranger's home; and (10) remember to say thank you.

Crookston Theatre To Host Workshop

Crookston community theatre will present an all-day workshop on set construction and design under the direction of Jim Scott, October 17 in room 202 (near the stage) at Central high school in Crookston.

Workshop will be conducted in two sessions, at 10 a.m. with a bag lunch break at noon, and at 12:30 p.m. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Fees for the workshop will be $4 for adults (18 years and older) and $2 for students. Fees for community theatre members are half price. Persons may become members at the workshop to enable them to pay a half price fee also. (Community threatre membership is $10 for family, $6 for singles, and $3 for students).

Participants are asked to bring a bag lunch for the noon break, a standard 12-inch ruler and come dressed to work with stage equipment.

$500 CHECK from American Legion Post 117 in Thief River Falls was presented recently to Inga Geving, president of the Pennington county historical society, by Ollie Botner, American Legion commander in Thief River Falls. Monies will be used for wiring in the Burlington Northern depot at the Pennington county pioneer village for the installation of lights. Depot presently houses a patriotic room, open for displays by VFW and Legion members, a doctor's room, county room, warehouse room, meeting room and dairy room.

Scott, a long-time veteran of community theatre, plans classes in the basic use of common power tools, set assembly and general how-to methods. He was technical director and stage manager of Crookston community theatre's most recent production, "The Sound of Music."

For more information, contact "Key" at 281-5225 or "June" at 281-4491. Those interested may pre-register by enclosing a fee with their name, address and telephone number to P.O. Box 264, Crookston, MN 56716.

Learn To Buy Meat For Best Cost Savings

By learning a few of the "what's" and "how's" of meat-buying, you can save money and trim your overall meat bill.

Take, for instance, the three common U.S. department of agriculture grades for beef, veal, lamb and mutton: prime, choice and good. These grades predict the "eating quality" of the meat. They're based on the color, firmness and marbling of the meat in relation to its age. Prime, having the highest "eating quality," is the most expensive grade. But the less-expensive, leaner grades give you more actual meat—and a bit more protein, minerals and vitamins—per pound than prime.

With ground beef, on the other hand, the leanest grade is also the most expensive. But, in the long run, it's usually the most economical. That's because it retains a greater percentage of its original weight after broiling or frying than less expensive grades, so go with ground sirloin rather than chuck for savings.

Remember also that smart shoppers choose from a variety of meats and cuts for bargains. How about pork shoulder or bacon slab for a change? Or the so-called "miscellaneous" meat items, like sausage and whole-piece bologna? And don't forget fish, another protein-packed member of the meat group.

Furthermore, if you learn to do your own butchering, you can purchase larger cuts and whole pieces—and save money. That's because you'll get more meat per pound since muscle, or meat, grows faster than bone in animals. For instance, there's proportionately more meat in a large chicken than in a small one.

Minn. D-Day Scheduled For November 19

Minnesota D-Day, the statewide "don't smoke" project, is scheduled for November 19, coinciding with the national Great American Smokeout.

"D-Day will be different this year," says general chairperson Buddy Ferguson, public education officer with the Minnesota department of health. "No longer will we be asking smokers to return signed pledge cards indicating their intentions not to smoke on D-Day."

This D-Day will emphasize providing help to state smokers who are looking for ways to "kick their habits." A toll-free phone number will be promoted beginning in mid-October which will enable tobacco-users to order a free "Quitter's Packet."

"Our objective," Ferguson reports, "is to bring state smokers in touch with a variety of stop-smoking alternatives; to help bring smokers a step closer to permanent smoking cessation."

Those wishing to get on the list to receive the quit-smoking materials should write: Quitter's Packet, Minnesota D-Day Headquarters, 614 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55102. Free packet will be mailed when it is available around October 15.

D-Day is cosponsored by the American lung associaton of Minnesota and the American cancer society, Minnesota division.

Gas Industry's Capital Needs To Quadruple

Capital requirements of the natural gas utility industry from now to the year 2000 are expected to exceed $402 billion, over four times the current level invested, $65 billion.

In addition to outlays in utility and pipeline construction, the gas industry, like all energy industries, now is faced with huge demands for capital as it develops new sources of supplemental supplies such as coal gasification, liquefied natural gas and gas from Alaska, Canada and Mexico.

Gas industry spokesmen say that in order for the natural gas utility industry to attract sums of this magnitude over the next 20 years, federal tax policies must be developed which recognize long lead times associated with development of these sources.

The Reagan tax program now enacted, takes an important step towards this goal, they say, by permitting an accelerated depreciation rate for energy investments and by allowing utility shareholders to re-invest their dividends.

While developing these projects will require a substantial increase in the gas utility industry's capital needs, industry spokesmen claim supplemental gas represents significantly less investment power per delivered unit of energy than electricity from coal or nuclear power.

Teen Pregnancy Problem Is Considered

Viewpoints on teenage pregnancy were recently expressed by a coordinator of a project of the Council on Quality Education — a project designed to develop a program to help small schools eliminate sex bias. Information was supplied through the Minnesota women's education council.

Empahsis through the story referred to the debate between professionals and parents on the causes and possible cures for the increase in teenage pregnancies.

Causes cited for the problems included a "promiscuous soceity," a "sex-drenched" media, women's liberation, birth-control, family planning clinics, sex-education classes, working mothers and absent fathers.

As a result, there are calls for greater parental control, greater teen responsibility, more education, less education, more prevention, less prevention. And still the problems exist, she stated.

Continuing issue, according to the coordinator, possibly lies with one of soceity's age-old assumptions — that a woman has value only in relationship to a man.

"We must implement the anti-sex bias guidelines in curriculum and guidance to train girls to value their lives aside from their ability to establish a relationship with the opposite sex," the writer stated.

If the problem is to be brought under control, she added, it won't be done just by increased sex-education and the dispensing of contraceptives; it will be because many young women change their minds about the value of their lives.

Ex-Servicemen May Not Qualify For Jobless Pay

Ex-military personnel who leave the military voluntarily or fail to reenlist when eligible will be disqualified from receiving unemployment benefits due to changes in the federal unemployment insurance law passed by the last Congress, Gene Sampson of the Minnesota department of economic security has announced.

Sampson, director of the unemployment insurance benefits branch, said the changes affect personnel terminated from military service on or after July 1, 1981, and for weeks of unemployment beginning after August 13, the date the amendment became law.

Under the new amendments to the law, ex-servicemen and women must now meet three conditions to qualify for benefits.

First, individuals must have been honorably discharged or released under honorable conditions. Other types of discharges or releases will not be acceptable for unemployment benefits.

Second, individuals cannot have resigned or voluntarily left the military. Claimants will be considered to have voluntarily left the service if they could have reenlisted but did not. Individuals will be considered to have resigned by their own request if the reason is for hardship or retirement.

Third, ex-military personnel cannot have been released or discharged "for cause," as defined by the U.S. Department of Defense. "For cause" conditions pertain to serious infractions of military regulations.

Failure to meet any of the qualifying conditions will result in cancellation of wages earned by ex-military personnel during their military service. Wages earned during a specified base period determine an individual's unemployment benefit amount.

Under the old law, individuals who voluntarily left the military with honorable discharges were eligible for unemployment benefits. Cancellation of unemployment benefits occurred only when a person was discharged under other than honorable conditions.

AMERICAN KNOW-HOW — IT'S THE SPECIAL INGREDIENT THAT'S HELPED BUILD A STRONG COUNTRY

That know-how is also the key that has spelled success for America's 50,000 cooperatives and their 60,000,000 member-owners who take pride in what their cooperatives can do. For example, there are cooperatives for electric and telephone service, farm marketing and farm supply, credit unions and farm credit, housing, food, insurance, health care and day care.

The cooperative way of conducting business has proven to be both highly efficient and economical. That's why cooperatives have been around for so long — in urban, rural and suburban areas — located in every state from coast to coast. And that's why new cooperatives are being formed today.

Cooperatives are good for their communities — they provide jobs and services that benefit everyone. And thriving communities mean a better America in every way.

A Strike Is Called

Official notification was received by the board and superintendent of School District 564 in a notice dated Friday that the teachers of the district will begin their strike action on Tuesday. It shouldn't be a shock to anyone that the strike will be held.

It was almost a month ago when the Thief River Falls Education association notified the school board of its intent to strike by giving official notice of that intent. And it was a week of so ago that an overwhelming majority of the teachers gave their strike authorization committee the authority to call the strike. The potential for the actual walk-out has been visible for a long time.

We don't like strikes — by anybody, any time — but it must be recognized that this strike is legal according to Minnesota statute and the procedures leading up to it have been proper in that light. And we believe the strike authorization committee deserves credit for giving advance notice to the board and superintendent, rather than walking out on schools full of children and creating potential problems in that regard.

It is possible at this writing that the strike may not occur. Agreement to a settlement would result in avoiding the strike. It is an unlikely circumstance, but possible as negotiations can continue. Since a settlement must come at some time, one must assume communication lines are open.

But negotiations have been underway for a long time, for one thing, and opportunity for a legal strike is a new power, for another. New strike authority is something like a new vacuum cleaner — it doesn't do anything until you plug it in and give it a try. Don't think there aren't people in the MEA state office who aren't eager to see their locals hit the streets.

Public sector strikes are a fairly new ballgame in Minnesota. In private industry when strikes are successful in raising wages and benefits, prices on manufactured goods increase to cover the boosts. The public then decides if it will pay the increased price, and if it won't there are production cut-backs and personnel lay-offs to reduce total cost.

In the public sector, alternatives are few. Taxes can be raised only a limited amount. Public officials are not accustomed to making severe cutbacks in programs and people, as they will likely have to do. In those cut-backs there will be some people who will be hurt. It can't be avoided.

Whatever else they may do, strikes don't make any more money available than existed without them. They concentrate effort and attention on a specific area of operations, generally at the expense of other areas. In vital services their affects are soon felt. In industry geared to production, withholding of productive labor puts pressure on management.

A teacher's strike, for all practical purposes, isn't that big a deal in the short term. It's like the two-week Christmas vacation a couple of months early, or even the three-month summer vacation in the fall and winter. The house doesn't burn down, crime isn't rampant, the garbage is collected and the mail comes every day. Unless you have school age children, you might not be aware there is a strike at all.

Education is necessary. . . sometime. It should be available to everyone. . . sometime. We should expect to pay for it. . . within reason. What is reasonable may as well be determined without a strike as with it, but if a walk-out provides the teachers and their association with some sense of accomplishment and a chance to say "I guess we showed you" when it's all over, perhaps it will serve some purpose. From our viewpoint, that's about the only purpose a teacher strike will serve.

Poetic Protest

One of our readers showed us this poem a couple of weeks ago and suggested that we run it sometime soon. The author is unknown:

If God Went On Strike

It's just a good thing God above
Has never gone on strike
Because He wasn't treated fair,
Or things He didn't like.
If He had ever once sat down
And said, "That's it — I'm through!
I've had enough of those on earth,
So this is what I'll do!
I'll give My orders to the sun,
Cut off your heat supply,
And to the moon, 'Give no more light,
And run the oceans dry.
"Then just to make it really tough,
And put the pressure on,
'Turn off the air and oxygen
Till every breath is gone."
Do you know He'd be justified,
If fairness were the game,
For no one has been more abused
Or treated with disdain
Than God — and yet He carries on,
Supplying you and me
With all the favors of his grace,
And everything for free.
Men say they want a better deal,
And so on strike they go;
But what a deal we've given God
To whom all things we owe!
We don't care whom we hurt or harm
To gain the things we like,
But what a mess we'd all be in
If God should go on strike!

Orange Road Signs? We'll Take em!

Isn't it strange how opinions vary in accordance with situations?

For instance, a recent editorial commentary by Larry Davenport, staff writer in the North Hennepin Post, points out a general metro area irritant:

"Do you hate orange as much as we do?" he asks. "We don't mean oranges. Nor do we mean the color of pumpkins. We don't even mean the Orange Crush of the Denver Broncos.

"No, we mean the orange of those pesky diamond-shaped road construction signs. Someone said there are only two seasons in Minnesota: winter and road construction.

"We have an idea to save the state of Minnesota thousands of dollars. As you know, the state has thousands of those orange road construction signs up everywhere. Every mile or so on any road in the state there's a road construction sign.

"Why not save money by taking all of those down and re-cycling them and putting up only a few signs. . . one on each highway going into Minnesota? Each would say, 'Now Entering Road Construction Zone. Welcome to Minnesota'."

Obviously Davenport hasn't been everywhere in Minnesota to assess the situation. At least in this part of the state, and we would suspect in other northern areas, road signs indicating construction underway are as rare as a pothole on a metro freeway.

We don't get road construction signs up this way very often. We use up our quota and then some of "Bump", "Rough Pavement", "Narrow Bridge", "Weight Restricted", "Dip", "Slow", "Caution", "No Shoulders", "Reduce Speed" and any number of other signs made necessary by inadequate or deteriorating road conditions.

It's not that the highway officials up here don't know any better or don't do their best for us. District engineer Bob Wolfe and his staff over in Bemidji do their darnedest to wring every nickel they can out of the state program to keep the wheels turning up here in the northland, and they sincerely try to make the most of what allotments they can get.

But let's face it. The biggest bucks still find their way into improvements and maintenance in the metro area, regardless of the cutbacks and the austerity programs lamented by the department of transportation. We get the schoolboy allowance while the metroites get the executive salary.

Orange signs, Larry? Give us some of the work that goes with them and we'll take a whole bunch of 'em off your back. We'll even trade you some of those other warning signs for 'em. After all, we wouldn't want to short you folks down there on anything.

Salvation May Be 80 Proof

Following editorial is from the St. Paul Pioneer Press:

The sorry state of Minnesota's economy is having predictable effects on the population and the proof is right there in Al Quie's disastrous revenue reports. The tax take in just about everything is down. People aren't making enough money to pay enough income taxes to keep the state afloat; they're not spending enough to pay enough sales taxes.

But they are buying booze and dying like crazy. Only estate taxes and liquor taxes are pouring into the capitol in greater-than-anticipated amounts. If things continue to grow worse, the state's salvation may lie in sin and death, at least until all taxpayers drink themselves into the grave.

Borrowed Nonsense:

Two bar patrons were watching the 10 o'clock news when a story covered a man standing on a ledge of a tall building. "Bet you 10 bucks he jumps," the first said. "You got a bet," said the other. The man jumped. As he picked up the money, the first man admitted, "I saw him jump on the six o'clock news." "So did I," said the other, "and I didn't think he'd be dumb enough to do it again."

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

It didn't take long. Less than two months after Congress finally bit the budgetary bullet and passed President Reagan's spending cut package, a major effort is afoot in Congress to unravel that package by restoring one of the biggest single cuts: social security's minimum benefit.

What is the minimum benefit and just who would be adversely affected by its elimination? Those questions have been lost in a rhetorical barrage from certain lawmakers who claim that millions of elderly Americans would be cut off from their only means of survival should this cut go through. The fact is that over 96 per cent of Americans who now receive social security would not be affected in any way by the elimination of the minimum benefit.

Provision of a minimum benefit is seen by many as a basic floor of support for those who would be destitute without it. Currently, that benefit guarantees social security recipients at least $122 per month. However, because they also receive cost of living increases, many minimum benefit recipients actually get much more.

No one takes issue with the concept of providing for every single elderly American who could not otherwise survive without our help. But who is getting the minimum benefit, and how would they be affected by its elimination? A breakdown of recipients reveals the following:

(1) 56 per cent of the three million minimum benefit recipients would still be entitled to social security benefits equal to the minimum even if it were eliminated.

(2) 22 per cent would automatically qualify for supplemental security income and could get an amount greater than they now receive from the minimum benefit.

(3) 17 per cent already receive other pension income or have employed spouses.

(4) The remaining five per cent, of which little is know, would fall into one of the above groups.

In other words, of all minimum benefit recipients, only the third group would be adversely affected by its elimination. However, for these people the minimum benefit amounts to an extravagant and undeserved windfall at the expense of 115 million working Americans and their employers who finance the social security system.

As for those minimum beneficiaries who are in poverty, they should be cared for — and they would be. Programs such as supplemental security income on the federal and state levels, food stamps and medicaid can now provide a couple with up to $13,860 in payments and benefits per year. The minimum benefit is simply no longer needed because other programs now exist which will do a better job of providing essential support to the nation's needy elderly.

Social security is not welfare. It is a retirement fund to which most of us contribute all our working lives. Those who have contributed little or nothing and who, nonetheless, need our help, should get that help from welfare programs, and not put a financial strain on the already strapped social security retirement fund. Those who don't deserve the benefits they are getting should be removed from the social security rolls.

Elimination of the minimum benefit will save American taxpayers some $7 billion over the next five years. Congress took a giant step forward by moving this summer to eliminate what is a duplicate benefit for some and an undeserved windfall for others. Congressional action to restore this unnecessary benefit would not only represent a major step backward from the goal of a balanced federal budget. It would also indicate to American workers, many of whom are worried about the financial health of social security, that Congress still has not mustered the political courage to take the tough steps we all know are necessary to keep the retirement system afloat.

I received one of those "Dear Friend" letters recently, the salutation on which is a sure sign that I have become the target of some fund-raising campaign. In this case, the letter was from Rep. Fred Richmond (D-N.Y.), chairman of the Congressional arts caucus education fund. I'd like to share the highlights with you:

"If current proposals to slash federal arts funding in half are successful...we would have only $88 million to fund this country's 1,800 symphony orchestras, 35,000 community theaters, and thousands of museums, botanical gardens, zoos, arts centers and opera and dance companies.

"The proposed cuts in the federal arts budget could cause major economic and cultural disasters all over America.

"Join us and play an important role in saving the arts in America...We need your support to demonstrate that Americans are willing to protect their cultural heritage."

The situation sounds desperate, doesn't it? To hear Rep. Richmond tell it, our nation would crumble into cultural and economic ruins should the budget reduction slated for the National Endowment for the Arts take effect.

Well, the Congressman can breathe a little easier now. Congress has rejected the administration's bid to slash the budget for the arts in half, though it did cut it from $159 million this year to $119 million next year. But this budget battle is far from over. Rep. Sidney Yates (D-Ill.), chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which has jurisdiction over the arts endowment, has announced that he will fight to increase its funding during the next stage of the Congressional budget process—appropriations.

Also unresolved is the larger question of what role the federal government should play in subsidizing the arts. Rep. Richmond and his allies, who include many star performers, obiviously believe that the arts in America would be decimated without a federal arts bureaucracy making artistic judgments for us and doling out our tax dollars accordingly.

In fact, the arts are flourishing in America. Rep. Richmond's own figures presented at the beginning of his letter are a good indication of that! They are succeeding with over 90 per cent of their financial support coming from the business community, private foundations and the audiences themselves — support which has been growing year by year.

For example, six million people went to the opera in America in 1976. In 1980, attendance totaled 13 million. In 1965, 10 million people attended the nation's symphonies; by 1979 that figure had reached 28 million. It is clear that the performing arts in this country are making it in the marketplace, which is where they belong. As such, I can't think of a more appropriate place for the budget axe to fall.

Rep. Richmond concludes his letter by calling upon us to "protect our cultural heritage." Americans have been doing just that in recent elections by rejecting the idea that a centralized government in Washington should define and fulfill our every need—and by reaffirming our beliefs in private enterprise, individual initiative and personal freedom. It is precisely that heritage which continues to lead men and women from every walk of life—including the arts — to beat paths from all over the world to America.

Serious Crime Rises 6.3% From Year Ago

Serious crimes in Minnesota increased 6.3 per cent during the first six months of 1981, compared to a similar period in 1980, according to statistics released by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

The 84,736 offenses were 6,905 higher than the 1980 total, according to a report including statistics for murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny, vehicle theft and arson.

Vehicle theft, down 14 per cent, was the only offense showing a decline for the period, dropping from 5,195 to 4,467.

Rural areas showed another large increase, 13.1 per cent. Burglaries increased to 5,377 from 4,516 and larcenies jumped to 8,771 from 7,755.

Other significant points in the report showed that violent crimes increased 8.7 per cent; of 35 murders during the period, 17 were the result of gunshot; of 4,467 vehicles stolen, 2,965 or 66.4 per cent were recovered; 704 arson cases were reported, up from 674 during the same period in 1980; property loss from arson for the six-month period in 1981 was estimated at $1,990,831 compared to $1,652,598 in 1980.

Energy, Food Prices Show Fluctuations

U.S. average price for all types of gasoline decreased slightlyto $1.348 in August, the U.S. department of labor's bureau of labor statistics (BLS) reported in releasing the average retail prices for energy and food items for the month.

These average prices are collected by BLS in conjunction with the consumer price index.

August prices of leaded regular gasoline average $1.310; unleaded regular, $1.376; and leaded premium, $1.444. In the 28 cities for which gasoline prices are published, prices for all types of gasoline averaged highest in Honolulu and Anchorage and lowest in Kansas City and St. Louis.

U.S. average price per gallon of fuel oil decreased to $1.246 for August. In the 16 cities for which fuel oil prices were published, the price per gallon averaged highest in the New York metropolitan area and lowest in Minneapolis and Portland, Ore.

U.S. average price for 500 KWH was $36.496, up 75.2 cents for August. The August price for 40 therms of natural gas was $19.836 or 46.1 cents higher than July. The average price for 100 therms was $45.922 or 60.5 cents higher than July.

Average retail prices increased for 48 food items and decreased for 39 food items in August 1981 with the greatest activity occurring in the meats, poultry, fish, and eggs and the fruits and vegetables groups.

Nineteen increases and 10 decreases were reported for meats, poultry, fish and eggs, items this month with the largest changes being decreases of 14.8 cents for porterhouse steak and 9.4 cents for sirloin steak. All pork prices were higher with a six-cent increase for rump portion ham recorded as the greatest in the meats, poultry, fish and eggs category.

Thirteen increases and 11 decreases were reported for fruits and vegetables items. Notable increases included a 13.1 cents rise in lemon prices and an 8.5 cents rise for red Delicious apples. But, as in the case of meats, the largest changes were decreases, with Thompson seedless grapes down 36.7 cents, sweet peppers down 19.5 cents, and cucumbers down 11.5 cents. All processed items in this group were higher.

Changes split evenly in the other foods at home group where eight increases and eight decreases were reported in August. All prices for sugar and sweets were lower with the biggest decrease a 2.9 cents drop for hard solid candy. The largest change in the group was a 22.4 cents decrease for plain instant coffee in 3.1 - 6 oz. sizes which continued a trend that began in June. Average prices for dairy products also split evenly but all changes, except a one cent decrease for ice cream, were less than a penny.

Five increases and seven decreases were reported for cereals and bakery products where the sharpest change was a 3.5 cents decrease for salted soda crackers. But most changes in this group were less than one cent.

New Members Elected To Mn. News Council

Minnesota news council has elected George Brooks, former owner of KCUE-AM-FM, Red Wing, and Donald Egert, vice president, Tri-State Broadcasting, KDIO-AM, Ortonville, to one-year memberships.

Brooks was formerly a board member of the Minnesota Broadcasters association and a representative to the National Association of Broadcasters. He is now retired. Egert also had a career in broadcasting spanning 26 years.

Minnesota news council is an independent organization which provides a forum for resolving disputes between the public and newspapers and broadcast stations in the state. The council's 24 members, drawn equally from the public and the news media, examine complaints alleging inaccuracies, unfairness or unethical conduct by Minnesota news organizations.

The council cannot penalize news organizations or impose sanctions to enforce its determinations. Instead, it depends on public airing of the dispute for its impact. Council findings are reported by newspapers and broadcast stations throughout the state, regardless of outcome.

Quie Lends Support To 4-H Program

Support and encouragement for the 4-H organization has been expressed by Gov. Albert H. Quie, in celebration of national 4-H week noted October 4-10.

In a recent letter from the governor's office, the following statements were made:

4-H youth development is America's largest out-of-school program for our country's youth. I was impressed to learn that, here in Minnesota, 4-H reaches 153,000 people annually through its great variety of projects, activities and programs. Variety not only includes the type of activities involved, but extends to the audiences and the settings."

"It is of great benefit to young people to take part in the 4-H program," he continued. "The potential brought forth is considerable. At times, members even surprise their parents, as expectations are not only met, but surpassed. When I was at the 4-H building during the 1981 Minnesota state fair, I enjoyed the exhibits very much and was impressed with the effort and quality of work involved."

In conclusion, the governor stated, "The 4-H members, leaders and parents I have met in my travels around our state reinforce my favorable feelings about the people of Minnesota. I value them as positive, constructive and creative people, and feel that the 4-H program has contributed toward their development as valuable citizens."

In addition to these comments, Elmer L. Anedersen, who is presently serving on the board of trustees of the Minnesota 4-H foundation, stated:

"I am happy to congratulate the Minnesota 4-H youth development program on their continued success in working with young people. The new 4-H theme, "Pathways to the Future" expresses the sense of direction and importance felt by 4-H staff and 17,000 volunteer adult and junior leaders who work with Minnesota's 73,000 4-H members."

"I am happy to be serving on the board of trustees of the 4-H foundation," he added. "Through this group we hope to raise financial support that will guarantee the continuation of existing 4-H program, explore innovative program opportunities, support 4-H volunteer leadership and provide recognition for 4-H members."

Cancer Society Picks Officers For 1981-82

Dr. Joseph A. Cella, Edina, was elected president of the American Cancer Society, Minnesota division, inc., at the group's annual meeting October 2-3 in Rochester.

Dr. Cella has been an active volunteer with the society since 1964 and during the past two years served as division chairman of service and rehabilitation.

Guest speaker at the meeting, attended by approximately 300 Minnesota volunteers, was Joseph H. Young, District of Maryland, court judge and immediate past chairman of the board of the American Cancer society. Judge Young also presented national awards to representatives of United Way of the Minneapolis area, General Mills, Inc., and the Minnesota division for cooperative efforts in bringing health education programs to the worksite.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting were Marvin Jacobson, St. Paul, chairman of the board; James. E. Krook, M.D., Duluth, president-elect; Mrs. Kay Horsch, Golden Valley, chairman of the executive committee; Mrs. Muriel Bauman, Hibbing, secretary; Terry Quinn, St. Paul, treasurer; and Mrs. Bonnie Carlson, Minneapolis, assistant treasurer.

New board members are John Herath, Bemidji; Mrs. Thomas Henderson, Winona; Mrs. Joseph Fournier, Fairmont; Robert Cobb, Ph. D., Minneapolis; Bruce A. Peterson, M.D., Minneapolis; Everett J. Schmitz, M.D., St. Cloud; and Charles Eisenbeis, M.D., Mankato.

Setting Goals Eases Strain On Finances

Who makes the financial decisions for your family? You, or the economy itself? What you decide depends on the condition of the economy — and you can't do much to change that — but there are still options open to you, if you know how to take advantage of them, according to the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

Making financial decisions is easier if you set goals for your life and subscribe to sufficient "hazard insurance" so sickness or fire, for instance, cannot wipe you out.

Before you can make decisions, you need to gather certain data. CPAs advise arranging finances to identify patterns and then drawing up an effective plan for spending, saving and investing to achieve goals — both long-term and immediate. Realistically consider your earnings potential, then think ahead to where you will be in five or 10 years.

If you know your net worth, understand cash flow and tax planning, and can function within a workable budget, you should have no trouble making wise decisions.

Assuming that "needs" such as retirement and college planning are taken care of, but you want to learn to make better use of whatever is left over after the necessities, all of your decisions would have to be based on your goals and your tax bracket.

Once your financial picture emerges clearly, you need to know how to "read" key economic indicators, such as the Dow Jones Average and the Consumer Price Index.

Most economic indicators hint that inflation is here to stay, but don't really answer such questions as how fast inflation will rise, or how it affects interest rates, the stock market, the number of homes to be built or unemployment rates.

Even though inflation pushes up prices, it has some advantages. For instance, borrowing often makes sense during inflation because it gives you leverage and allows you to pay back with cheaper dollars. Commodities, collectibles and metals may be wise investments in periods of inflation. You might decide to borrow to invest, because the time to incur long-term debt — so long as you can afford it — is when you anticipate an accelerating inflation rate.

On the other hand, the richest stock market rewards may occur just before an inflation rate starts to decline, so that may lead you to a decision to invest in stock or mutual funds.

There are many decisions you need to make about your cash management during inflation. Leaving cash in a checking and savings account may not be wise, when you can "lend" your money out at high interest rates. Emergency funds are better off in a day-of deposit-to-day-of-withdrawal account, or a money market fund with check writing privileges. If you worry about checks bouncing, protect yourself by applying for over-draft privileges. Now is the time to apply for a line of credit at your bank so when you need to borrow to take advantage of acquiring an appreciating asset, you can do so promptly.

Keeping aware of developments affecting the economy is the only way a family can learn when to make financial decisions so that they can not only keep up with inflation, but manage to get ahead. For instance, when interest rates fall, the stock market usually (with some exceptions) improves because it reduces the attractiveness of money markets and bonds.

Housing starts may be up — that is, more builders start to construct new homes — even while housing sales are down. The Consumer Price Index may indicate that the overall cost of living has increased 12 per cent, but that the cost of apparel, for instance, has not increased. That could be the time to buy your new wardrobe.

You can decide whether or not you want to leave a millionaire in your family — no matter what the shape of the economy. Invest $8,000 in a tax exempt trust fund with a 15 per cent annual yield and that one-time investment will amount to one million dollars in 30 years. You could make your grandchild rich, although at the current rate of inflation, that million may only be worth $33,000 in 30 years.

CORWNING MOMENT of Homecoming coronation ceremonies at Northland Community College, brought an expression of surprise to the face of Queen Karla Nelson as last year's queen Beth Nichols placed the crown on her head. The instant caught other finalists Pam Swenson and Jody Pederson off-guard for just a moment too. Other activities during the program included a comedy skit, pep talks, and a eulogy to the memory of John Steidl, 14 year instructor at the college, who recently died of cancer.

Work Begun On Alaskan Gas Pipeline

By the mid-1980s, natural gas from Alaska will be transported to the lower-48 states, by pipeline and ship. Construction has already begun on the southern portions of the Alaskan natural gas transportation system which will carry gas supplies from Prudhoe Bay to U.S. cities. In addition to the pipeline, a project which calls for bringing Alaskan liquefied natural gas (LNG) to California in cryogenic tankers has received final approval from the Department of Energy (DOE).

Alaskan gas pipeline is being built by a consortium of 11 U.S. pipeline companies, as part of the 4,800 mile Alaskan natural gas transportation system. A financing plan to provide $30 billion is currently being developed by project sponsors for the Alaskan portion.

Plans call for the pipeline to bring about 26 trillion cubic feet (Tcf) of proved gas supplies into the U.S. through Canada. Once inside the U.S., one leg of the pipeline will go to San Francisco and the other to Chicago.

Northwest Alaskan pipeline company will build the Alaskan portion and the Canadian portion will be constructed by Foothills Pipe Line Ltd. and its subsidiaries. Pacific gas and electric company will build the pipeline leg to San Francisco and the Northern border pipeline company, a consortium of midwestern pipeline companies, will construct the Chicago leg.

Initial construction or "prebuilding" of selected segments of the line will allow it to deliver surplus Canadian gas to U.S. markets until the Alaskan gas can be transported. This prebuilding will also help the U.S. and Canada avoid higher inflationary costs through an earlier installation of facilities.

Alaskan LNG project will transport natural gas from Cook Inlet area by pipeline to a proposed liquefaction facility in Nikishi, Alaska, where it will be loaded onto liquefied gas tankers and shipped to Point Conception, California. There the LNG will be regasified and distributed to consumers in the nation's existing million mile pipeline network.

It is anticipated that North Slope Alaska gas could be providing as much as 1.4 trillion cubic feet of gas supply by 1990 and perhaps as much as 3.0 Tcf by the year 2000.

Pipeline construction is expected to take about five years once the project is begun. Design capacity for the pipeline is 2.6 billion cubic feet (Bcf) per day, with the possibility of expanding capacity to 3.4 Bcf-day.

Production of Alaskan natural gas is an important future supply source for heavily populated areas where clean burning, efficient natural gas is a vital element in helping to meet environmental goals.

Proved reserves of natural gas in Alaska at the end of 1979 were at 31.9 Tcf. Current natural gas use in the lower-48 states is about 20 Tcf annually. Alaskan gas will make a vital contribution in the next few years to the nation's goal of reducing its dependence on foreign oil sources and developing a domestic energy capability.

NW Hospital Auxiliary Meet Set Tuesday

An informative meeting for all Northwestern hospital auxiliary members and their guests will be conducted tomorrow (Tuesday) at 7:30 p.m. at the day-night unit, third floor, Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.

Dr. Steve Levinson, clinical director at the day-night psychiatric unit at the hospital, will speak on "Exploring the Role of the Mind in Sickness and in Health."

A door prize will be given and dessert and coffee will be served after the meeting.

Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to contact Karen Vigstol, volunteer coordinator, 681-4240, extension 190.

Strike Threatens Sports Teams

Impending teacher's strike in the Thief River Falls school system will have a major effect on the Lincoln high school athletic program. If the scheduled strike materializes as scheduled Tuesday the Prowlers will automatically forfeit a volleyball match scheduled that night in the Lincoln gym against Marshall County Central and a swimming meet that evening in the Franklin middle school pool against Detroit Lakes.

In addition, the cross country team will be forced to miss a scheduled appearance at the Park Rapids invitational that afternoon and the tennis team may be forced to drop out of the North Half Region 8AA tournament finals, if the favored Prowlers were to win quarterfinal and semifinals matches that were scheduled to be played here today (Monday). The strike would also sideline the Prowlers for Wednesday's North Half Region 8AA individual tennis competition in Grand Forks.

Friday the Prowlers would have to forfeit a scheduled football game at Fergus Falls.

Depending upon the length of a strike, much of the remaining 1981 Lincoln fall sports schedules could be erased.

The football team, after its scheduled Friday appearance in Fergus Falls, is to play Friday, October 23, at East Grand Forks and Friday, October 30, at home against Crookston.

Cross country team has its two main events of the fall season coming up — the Tuesday, October 28, Northwest Athletic Conference meet at Crookston and the Saturday, October 24, Region 8AA race at St. Cloud.

Remaining volleyball matches are scheduled Tuesday, October 20, vs. Moorhead; Thursday, October 22, at Fisher; Tuesday, October 27, vs. Crookston; Thursday, Oct. 29, at East Grand Forks; and the North Half Region 8AA tournament beginning Nov. 5 at Bemidji.

Swimming season, because of the later start, extends into late November. The Prowlers are scheduled to compete Tuesday, October 20, vs. Grand Forks Central; Saturday, October 24, at Brainerd; Thursday, October 29, at Fergus Falls; Thursday, November 12, at Moorhead; Tuesday, November 17, at Bemidji; and the Section 3 swimming and diving championships at Bemidji State University Nov. 24.

Those are varsity dates. Junior varsity, sophomore and freshman events would also be canceled.

MSHSL Discusses Swimming Issue

As reported here earlier, the representative assembly of the Minnesota State High School League will vote March 26, 1982 on a plan to drop sponsorship of the sport of swimming and diving for 1982-83.

Larry Larson, administrative assistant for the MSHSL, explained the MSHSL board of director's rationale behind the proposal with this item published by the league:

"Statewide competitive inequities have resulted for students who elect to participate in the school-sponsored swimming and diving programs for several reasons such as: a scarcity of qualified teacher-coaches; utilization of the same coach for both the school and non-school teams; duplication of school and non-school administered swimming and diving programs; and differences in geographical competitive swimming and diving opportunities.

The emphasis in swimming and diving programs has shifted from a seasonal school-sponsored sport to a year-around non-school sponsored program. This shift makes it appropriate for the schools to relinquish the sport to the non-school organization that provides, promotes and manages a comprehensive year-around program in competitive swimming and diving.

Approval of the amendment will enable students to participate in both individual and team competition with the non-school swimming organizations in local, state and national events during the school year and during the summer vacation months."

Miscellaneous

+Park Rapids high school football coach Andy McCarty told Mike Gravdahl of the Park Rapids Enterprise that Detroit Lakes has "the greatest high school passing attack I've ever seen — bar none" after his Panthers shaded the Lakers 19-13 in a recent Mid-State Conference game that went into overtime. "They have some great gifted athletes," McCarty added. "We rushed well, tipped the ball five times, had fairly good coverage and bumped the receivers at the line and they still caught the football." However, he noted that Detroit Lakes "has one weakness," saying the Lakers "couldn't run the football." The Lakers showed the same tendency in a 13-8 win over Thief River Falls earlier this year when they passed for 182 yards but rushed for just 78.

Lumberjacks Edge Prowlers 3-0 In Overtime

In what will probably be remembered as the most frustrating defeat of a frustrating 1981 Lincoln high school football season, the winless Prowlers lost an agonizing 3-0 homecoming game in overtime to unbeaten Bemidji Friday.

Only scoring of the game was a 17-yard field goal on the final snap of an eight-play overtime session by Bemidji's versatile Daryl Strunk.

"I don't know what it takes to win a ball game," sighed Thief River Falls coach John Schmitz. "The kids come out, play hard and give it all they have, and what do they have to show for it . . . a 0-6 record."

It was the fourth time the Prowlers have lost by a touchdown or less this fall and for the sixth straight week they have a defensive effort that deserved to win a ball game. However, they were also shut out for the third time, although the offense could hardly be faulted on this one since a day-long rain that was added to already-standing water turned the Thief River Falls athletic field into a quagmire.

The two long-time rivals spent most of the night slipping and sliding and doing little on offense in the slick mud except straight-ahead dive plays. The waterlogged gridiron, and the two defenses, kept scoring opportunies to the minimum.

"We didn't move the ball," admitted Bemidji coach Ray Kavanagh, whose team netted just 113 yards and only 65 of that rushing, "but the weather had so much to do with it."

However, Kavanagh also gave some of the credit to the Thief River Falls defense. "I thought Thief River came out and played well," he said.

"On this stuff, you can't produce any offense," confirmed Schmitz, whose Prowlers did manage to collect a modest 154 yards, 120 of it on the ground.

But Thief River Falls only came up with one scoring threat — late in the first half when Jeff Imgrund fielded a 21-yard punt by Strunk and returned it six yards to the Bemidji 32-yard line. Then facing a fourth-and-10 call, quarterback Brent Schmitz passed to wide receiver Dave Upham over the middle for a 12-yard gain to the 19 with 24 seconds remaining. The Prowlers never got closer, though, as two Schmitz passes fell incomplete; they pick up one of their 11 penalties; and Schmitz was sacked back at the 32 as the half came to an end.

And it got worse in the second half when the Prowlers never crossed the mid-field stripe.

Bemidji, thanks to an interference call that gave the Lumberjacks a first down at the Thief River Falls 12-yard line, could have gotten on the scoreboard in the third quarter. But looking at a fourth-and-five from the Thief River Falls seven, the Lumberjacks went with a field goal try from the 14. Strunk's kick was ruled wide to the right with 3:04 remaining.

Next Bemidji series also threatened to break the scoreless deadlock when Strunk found flanker Craig Smith on the right side for a 26-yard pass play to the Thief River Falls 15. The drive was killed, however, when Imgrund, a cornerback, stepped in front of Stunk's third down pass from the nine intended for Kent Kavanagh in the end zone. Imgrund looked like he had clear sailing down the sidelines the full 100 yards, but was just tripped up by the intended receiver.

Both teams made tactical errors in the confusion before overtime — when both teams are given an opportunity to score in four plays from the opponent's 10-yard line. Thief River Falls won the coin toss, but chose to go on offense first instead of following the normal procedure of electing to play defense first and force the other team to show its hand on offense. Bemidji, in turn, had its choice of which goal to defend, and the Lumberjacks didn't play it smart, either, when they said they'd start with the wind at their backs; fine, except that in the event of a field goal attempt, Strunk would be kicking into the breeze.

Thief River Falls' four-play offensive series included a four-yard plunge by fullback Jim Dillion; a three-yard gain by Schmitz around the right side to the three-yard line; a two-yard loss when halfback Tom Ose was tripped up at the five trying to go wide to the right; and an incomplete fourth down pass by Schmitz, who rolled to his right and floated the ball into the corner of the end zone for wide receiver Ken Bakke. It was nearly a spectacular catch by Bakke, who stretched, got his hands on the ball and was able to drag his feet across the end zone just inside the line. The offical was ready to signal touchdown, but the wet ball slipped through the receiver's hands. Incomplete.

Bemidji's shot at offense from the 10 started with halfback Troy Hendricks getting just two yards. Strunk passed on second down, with defensive back Dan Odegaard getting his hands on the ball in the end zone. Like Imgrund earlier, Odegaard also had an open field ahead of him for what could have been a game-winning interception return for a touchdown. But he couldn't hold on. Incomplete. Hendricks reached the three on a third down carry, setting up Strunk's tie-breaking kick. A one-yard penalty on the Prowlers for encrochment moved it a shade closer and he drilled it cleaning through the uprights for his first field goal of the year. The wind, it turned out, wasn't a factor.

"It was quite obvious he (Strunk) could kick a field goal after he missed that earlier one," noted Schmitz. "We just had to hope for a bad snap or hope that we could push them back out of range."

It was the Prowlers' scond-ever overtime. They beat Bemidji 18-12 with the tie-breaking procedure in 1976.

A PASS RUSH by Northland defensive end Mike Busse (30) forced Hibbing quarterback Kevin Nevala out of the pocket in the first quarter of the MJCAA Northern Division community college football game played in Thief River Falls Saturday. Busse helped lead the Northmen to a 9-0 shutout of the Cardinals.

Tournament Play Starts In Tennis

Post-season play was scheduled to start today (Monday) in North Half Region 8AA high school tennis.

Quarterfinal and semifinals matches were set for Thief River Falls and Detroit Lakes, with the finals of the team-competition planned Tuesday at 4 p.m. at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Scheduled first round matches in Thief River Falls today had Bemidji playing Crookston and East Grand Forks facing Thief River Falls at 10 a.m. The winners were to square off at 1 p.m. for a berth in Tuesday's finals.

Meanwhile at Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls and Moorhead were first round opponents, with the winner taking on Detroit Lakes for a shot at the finals. The Lakers received a first round bye.

Coaches seeded Detroit Lakes No. 1 in the North Half Region 8AA tournament, followed by No. 2 — Thief River Falls; No. 3 — Bemidji; No. 4 — Moorhead; No. 5 — Fergus Falls; No. 6 — Crookston; and No. 7 — East Grand Forks. Park Rapids, the eighth North Half Region 8AA school, does not have a girls' tennis team.

Tuesday's winner will advance to the 1981 Region 8AA championship match against the South Half Region 8AA winner Monday, October 19, at St. Cloud.

North Half Region 8AA individual play is scheduled to be held Wednesday beginning at 9 a.m. at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Tennis Sites Are Changed

Rain this morning (Monday) forced a switch in sites for the quarterfinals and semifinals in the North Half Region 8AA girls high school tennis tournament.

Opening round matches involving Bemidji-Crookston and East Grand Forks-Thief River Falls at 10 a.m., along with a semifinal match featuring those first round winners at 1 p.m. were moved from Thief River Falls to Bemidji by tournament officials.

Mark Stock Scores On Safety, Fumble Recovery . . .

Northland Defense Produces 9-0 Homecoming Win Over Hibbing

Members of the Northland community college defensive unit apparently decided enough is enough Saturday. After watching four weeks worth of outstanding defensive play result in just one victory because of the inability of the offense to move the football, the defense took matters into its own hands, scoring all the points in a 9-0 homecoming victory over Hibbing.

It was a defensive struggle from start to finish. The two teams entered the game knowing their defensive play was far superior to their offensive efforts, and to insure a low-scoring affair, the muddy Thief River Falls athletic field looked more like a torn-up cow pasture than anything else, making both offenses useless.

Highlighting the Northland defensive effort for the second straight week was the brilliant play of sophomore Mark Stock, a noseguard-defensive tackle from Mahnomen. A week earlier he came up with eight unassisted tackles and nearly destroyed Vermilion singlehandedly, but still was on the losing end of a 7-6 score. This time he made sure that would'nt happen again, recovering three fumbles, returning one for a touchdown, and gaining credit for a safety when he nailed a Hibbing ball carrier in the Cardinals' end zone.

Only other point of the game was Don Hudec's conversion kick. And Hudec is a member of the defense — a starting linebacker.

"Mark Stock is just unbelieveable," praised Northland coach John Helley. "He is a super athlete."

Defense has long been a Northland forte, but this was only the second shutout in the school's history — the first one being a 7-0 win over Hibbing on a rainy Thief River Falls athletic field three games into the 1979 season.

"We put our best athletes on defense," explained Helley, "no doubt about it. They're all good athletes, and they're all playing well."

Scoring chances were at a minimum Saturday afternoon. Northland managed to come up with 151 net yards, but most of it seemed to be in the two steps forward and two steps backwards situation as ten penalties and five fumbles slowed things down. It was even worse for the Cardinals, who generated just 66 yards worth of offense and racked up a whopping 15 penalties for minus-151 yards and fumbled five times. They went nearly the entire second half without a first down when their deepest penetration was the Northland 49.

It wasn't totally unexpected. First-year Hibbing coach Tom Harms said his team hasn't shown much offense this fall, and to complicate matters, starting quarterback Dave Kopler of Hibbing missed the game with an ankle injury. "He can throw the football," noted Harms. "That's something the Cardinals didn't do Saturday. Gaining just five yards with their passing game.

Just when it looked like the game was a sure bet to go into the books as a scoreless tie, the Northland defense broke the ice late in the third quarter on Stock's safety.

The two-pointer was set up when Northland sophomore Jeff Westberg, punting for injured Dean Dokkin, booted a 37-yarder that wound up at the Hibbing one-yard line. Coby Burslie, a sophomore defensive back from McIntosh, made an outstanding effort on the play to run down the ball and keep in from going into the end zone for a touchback that would have given Hibbing the ball at the Cardinals' 20.

Two plays later quarterback Kevin Nevala tried to sprint to his right, but Stock broke through and hauled him down from behind for a 2-0 game with 3:06 to play in the third quarter.

Stock came up with his second fumble recovery of the game at the Hibbing 21 early in the fourth quarter, but watched as the Northland offense wasted that opportunity.

Moments later he decided to do it himself, breaking through and stripping the ball out of the hands of Danny Anza at the 20 and making a solo sprint into the end zone. Ironically, it was Anza's first snap as the Cardinals' quarterback as Harms sent his prize linebacker in on offense in an attempt to spark the morbid attack. Hudec's kick completed the scoring with 10:57 remaining.

Harms could find little fault with the Cardinals' defense. "Our defense played super. They had a helluva game," he said, citing Anza, 170-pound freshman from Spring Valley, N.Y., who ranks as the leading tackler in the five-state area Region 13 defensive charts, and defensive end Jay Caufield, a 225-pound sophomore from Lansdale, PA.

The win improved Northland's record to 2-3, snapping a frustrating two weeks worth of losses. "They earned it," noted Helley. "It wasn't given to them. They played hard defensively. We knew it would be a defensive game. We didn't know if we could get out offense going on this field."

They didn't have to. The defense did it for them.

Northland faces a major task Saturday with a 1:30 p.m. game at Fergus Falls, the 1981 MJCAA Northern Division favorite.

Northwomen Take Brainerd In 3-Straight

Northland community college remained unbeaten in Northwest Division volleyball play Friday by sweeping Brainerd 15-2, 15-8, 15-13 in the Northland gym.

"We played fairly aggressive and didn't give them a chance to get set up," explained Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "We kept them off balance."

The victory improved Northland's overall season record to 9-7. More importantly, the Northwomen have beaten all three of their Northwest Division rivals — Brainerd, Fergus Falls and the University of Minnesota-Crookston — and appear to be in the driver's seat for a state tournament berth that will go to the top two regular season division finishers.

Northland will host the North Dakota State School of Science (NDSSS) Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Northland gym.

Oklee Girls Win Plummer Invitational

Oklee emerged as the champion Saturday in the sixth annual Plummer invitational high school volleyball tournament.

The Bobcats won the four-team round-robin event with a perfect 3-0 record, followed by Plummer with a 2-1 mark, Mentor 1-2 and Goodridge 0-4.

Final match of the day featured a showdown Oklee and Plummer, both sporting 2-0 records at that point. The Bobcats edged the Cardinals 18-11, 19-17 for the title.

Earlier, Oklee defeated Goodridge 18-10, 18-1; Plummer outlasted Mentor 18-17-18-20, 18-9; Plummer got by Goodridge 18-3, 10-18, 18-14; Mentor handled Goodridge 18-16, 18-5; and Oklee knocked off Mentor 18-5, 18-10.

The Prowlers' Denise Opdahl (right) and Susie Waale were crouched at the net ready to receive the ball from the Rams, who were in the process of "bumping." Roseau defeated Thief River Falls 18-5, 18-14, ending the Prowlers' three-year championship reign in the eight-team event.

Middle River Stops Erskine 13-12 In Battle Of Unbeatens

Jon Neumann kicked the game-winning conversion point in the second quarter, then sacked the quarterback when Erskine tried to come up with a winning two-point conversion pass in the fourth quarter Friday in leading Middle River to a 13-12 rain-soaked North Tri County Conference high school football win.

The game matched two unbeaten teams, and despite the rain it lived up to its advance billing. "It was an excellent ball game," said Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "A hard hitting game. It was probably one of the best football games played in Middle River in a long time."

Middle River did its scoring in the first half and Erskine responded in the second half.

It started with the Skippers' Doug Kilen scoring on an eight-yard run in the first quarter. Steve Bengtson scored from four yards out early in the second period and Sparby, after having what he considered the Skippers' best offensive play stopped short of the goal ine on the previous extra-point attempt, elected to call on Neumann for the kick. Neumann, a senior who missed the 1980 season because of a back problem, was called on to kick extra points for the first time this week when he was 1-for-3 in a 35-0 win over Plummer.

There was considerably more pressure on him Friday, but his kick was solid and it proved to be the winning point.

Erskine came up with a pair of Francis Pries touchdowns after intermission, including an 11-yard run in the third quarter and a four-yard effort midway through the final period that closed the gap to 13-12.

But the Comets came up empty-handed on both conversion tries. The first one, a run, was stopped short of the goal line, and Neumann broke through for his sack on the second try to preserve the win.

"Our defense shut down their running game," pointed out Sparby. "It was an excellent team effort," he said, although he was especially pleased with the play of Ryan Johnson and Kilen at the linebacking positions, and Neumann at defensive end.

The weather hurt the offense, along with an ankle injury that slower quarterback Mike Peterson, taking away the Skippers' potent option game.

However, despite limited mobility in the first half, and just a two-minute appearance in the second half after he reinjured the ankle just before intermission, Peterson "was the difference in the game," according to Sparby.

Peterson's only playing time in the second half came after an Erskine punt wound up at the Middle River two-yard line with about two minutes remaining. Bengtson, the workhorse in the Middle River backfield, was sidelined by a leg cramp at that point and the Skippers were running low on numbers in the backfield when Peterson limped back into action. That enabled Kilen to move from quarterback to his normal blocking back spot, and that combination enabled the Skippers to pick up the two first downs they needed to run out the clock.

Middle River, now 6-0, can wrap up the North Tri County Conference title and earn a spot in the post-season Minnesota State High School League nine-man state playoffs by winning two of its final three starts. All three will be Tuesday afternoon affairs, beginning tomorrow when Middle River hosts Mentor at 4 p.m.

HIBBING DEFENSIVE END Jay Caufield (36) closed in on Northland runningback Darcy Harbott and nailed the Thief River Falls freshman for a four-yard loss in the first quarter of Saturday's community college football game played in Thief River Falls. The Northmen once again had troubles of offense, but the defense came through with flying colors in a 9-0 homecoming game victory over the Cardinals.

Marshall County Central Beaten By Stephen 6-3

Marshall County Central failed to capitalize on several scoring opportunities Friday and ended up losing a low-scoring 6-3 Top of the State Conference high school football game to Stephen at Newfolden.

What little scoring there was came in the second half. Dave Kragness kicked his first field goal ever, a 26-yarder in the third quarter for a 3-0 Marshall County Central lead, but Stephen won it on a three-yard fourth quarter touchdown pass from Wayne Carlson to Doyle Laudal.

A 36-yard pass play from Carlson to Ken Kuznia set up the game's only touchdown. The Marshall County Central defensive back slipped on the play. Kuznia caught the ball and stumbled to the three. It took the Tigers four plays to get into the end zone with about four minutes remaining in the game.

"It was a good ball game," reported Marshall County Central coach Sam Gebhart. "We picked up some yards, but we made mistakes when we got it into scoring position."

Marshall County Central reached the Stephen one-yard line in the first quarter before running out of downs, then had two fumbles and an interception kill promising drives later.

A final shot at winning fell by the wayside with 1:30 left when a fourth-and-two pass fell incomplete at the Stephen 20-yard line. Gebhart was second-guessing himself on that one, with an effective Marshall County Central ground game capable of getting those two yards. The receiver was open on the play, but the ball was overthrown.

"It (the loss) was disappointing," said Gebhart. "We had our chances to win it. We apparently just lack the ability to put it in the end zone."

The Nordics finished with 225 yards worth of offense, 149 of it on the ground, with Bill Johnson getting 97 yards on a busy 29-carry night. Stephen was held to 122 yards, 82 on the ground. Al Lindemoen led the Nordics with 12 tackles and an interception, with Scott Anderson getting 13 tackles, Ron Koestner 10 and Grant Nelson eight.

Marshall County Central, 3-3, will play Tri-County high school Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Karlstad.

Kevin Frazer blocked a Goodridge punt early in the third quarter, picked the ball up and ran 37 yards for a touchdown that sparked Clearbrook to a 26-12 North Tri County Conference win in a high school football game played at Clearbrook.

The Hornets led just 12-6 at the time of Frazer's play. "That was the turning point of the game," explained Goodridge coach Rick Nelson, whose team had a first down on a fake punt erased by a penalty just before the block.

Clearbrook went on to build a 26-6 lead before Ken Frazer of Goodridge scored his second touchdown of the game on a two-yard fourth quarter run.

"Actually, we were happy with the way we played overall," said Nelson. "We played well, except we made five mental mistakes that beat us."

Quarterback Darren Snobeck threw two first half touchdown passes to give Clearbrook at 12-0 headstart. Ken Frazer scored on an 11-yard run in the second quarter to cut the gap to 12-6 at halftime before his namesake turned it around with his big third quarter play.

"It was a well-played game despite the (wet) conditions," noted Nelson, who cited the defensive play of Darrell Wiskow, Bruce Kiesow and Jeff Langan.

Goodridge, 1-5, tackles Gonvick-Trail Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Goodridge.

Huskies Lose To Tigers 2-0 In Volleyball

Stephen defeated Goodridge 18-13, 18-7 Thursday in a high school volleyball match at Goodridge, dropping the Huskies' season record to 1-8.

"They all played very well," mentioned first-year Goodridge coach Connie Mariska. "We have several good saves and many good serves, but they (Stephen) were just too much for us."

Goodridge visits Oslo tonight (Monday) in the Huskies' only outing this week.

Rams Beat Prowlers In Volleyball Title Match

Three-year Thief River Falls championship reign in its own Northern Lights invitational volleyball tournament ended Saturday night when Roseau breezed to an 18-5, 18-14 victory over the host Prowlers in the finals of the eight-team, all-day affair in the Lincoln high school gym.

The loss spoiled an otherwise solid day of volleyball for the Prowlers, who defeated McIntosh-Winger 20-18, 18-12 to start the fourth annual tournament and beat Bemidji 18-15, 18-16 in the afternoon semifinals.

Roseau advanced to the finals by knocking off East Grand Forks 18-8, 18-11 and Crookston 18-8, 18-12 before the Class A Rams added Thief River Falls to its list of Class AA victims.

"You used to be able to figure that all the Class A teams would end up in the finals and semifinals while the Class A teams would play in the consolation round," noted Thief River Falls coach Sharon Stauss. "But now everybody is so even you never know what to expect."

However, she didn't expect the Prowlers to play so poorly in the late-night finals, which started some 11½ hours after their 9 a.m. opener.

"We just made all the mistakes," she said. "They (Roseau) deserved to win. They were always the aggressors, and we blew it on our own, too, when we got the ball."

Roseau never trailed in opening up a 3-0 first game lead, then making it 6-1 and 13-3 en route to a surprisingly easy 18-5 win. The Prowlers made mistakes in every area of their game, including a season-low 60 per cent serving success, which displeased Stauss more than anything else.

"All it is," she explained, "is concentration, that's all. We have girls who serve 90 per cent in practice all the time. They have to be able to do that in games."

Thief River Falls made it look like things might get squared away at one game apiece when the Prowlers bolted to a 7-0 second game lead. But Roseau battled back and went up 10-7 when senior Meg Derry came up with back-to-back ace serves during a string of five service points.

It was close the rest of the way, but the Rams never relinquished the lead. Sitting on a 16-14 edge, they won it when junior Karlyne Kovar finished with two serves the Prowlers weren't able to field cleanly.

"You can't come from behind (after a first game loss) in this game," offered Stauss. "It's just too hard."

The invitational results left the Prowlers with a 7-5 season record. Area Class A power Red Lake Falls beat them 18-11, 18-13 in a well-played match Thursday at Red Lake Falls.

McIntosh-Winger bounced back from its opening loss to Thief River Falls for a consolation championship Saturday, beating East Grand Forks 18-7, 17-19, 18-10 just before the Prowlers-Rams finals. Crookston defeated Bemidji 18-13, 18-8 in the third place match.

Bobcats Blank Cardinals 22-0

Unable to run in the mud, Oklee used the passing combination of quarterback John Cyr and receiver Matt Radniecki to defeat Plummer 22-0 Friday in a North Tri County Conference high school football game played at Oklee.

"Plummer didn't give us anything on the ground," admitted Oaklee coach Dale Svaren. "It was muddy and they stacked us up pretty well. But Cyr did a real good job passing."

Cyr finiahed 9-for-18 for 166 yards passing, including a pair of touchdown passes to Radniecki, who caught five passes for 107 yards.

"We got beat in the secondary," acknowledged Plummer coach Gary Brantl. "We shut them down on the run, but got beat on the pass. There were a couple of crucial plays, too. I don't think the final score was an indication of the way the game really went."

Oklee scored in the first quarter one play after a high snap on a Plummer punt set the Bobcats up at the Cardinals' 14-yard line. Cyr found Radniecki 1-on-1 with a stumbling defensive back for the touchdown, then passed to Loring Mercil on the two-point conversion.

That was all the scoring until a Plummer fumble set up a three-yard touchdown run by Darrin Tougas in the third quarter.

Final touchdown came late in the game when Cyr hit Radniecki with a short pass that was turned into a 56-yard scoring play.

Both coaches found reason to be satisfied defensively. Ricky Dulka, Cyr and Mike Vettleson finished 1-2-3 in the Oklee defensive charts with 24, 20 and 19 points, respectively. Brian Fisher led the Cardinals with seven solo tackles, including two quarterback sacks, while Gary Torkelson, Troy Gustafson and Mike Konickson also made their presence felt on defense.

The outcome left Oklee 3-3 and Plummer 2-4. The Bobcats play at Erskine Tuesday, with the Cardinals hosting Clearbrook that night at 7:30.

DNR NEWS

During September, the first month of the DNR's new anti-poaching program, state conservation officers made 18 arrests based on information supplied to them by concerned citizens.

Under the TIP (Turn In Poachers) program, a private non-profit group, "TIP Inc.", pays cash rewards for information leading to arrest of violators of Minnesota fish and game laws and guarantees anonymity for tipsters.

Ray Sanbeck, DNR program coordinator, said $800 in rewards were paid out during the month. However, more than half of the people contacting the department said they were not interested in a reward but just wanted the DNR to put a stop to the violations they had witnessed or had knowledge of.

During September the department received 312 phone calls on a special TIP phone number — toll free for persons outside of the Twin Cities: 1-800-652-9093.

Sixty-three of the tips were referred to field conservation officers and 42 are still under investigation.

Nine arrests were made under the program for over-the-limit fishing violations, three for illegal bear hunting and two each for closed season offenses involving deer, waterfowl and fur or trapping.

"Based on the first month's activity," said Sanbeck, "the TIP program had produced results beyond our most optimistic expectations.

"I think one of the reasons has been the wide publicity given to the program, including the phone numbers that people can call. I belive that in the past many persons who wanted to report violations simply did not know how to contact the department's enforcement officers.

Sanbeck added that Minnesota citizens have always been willing to report violations of the game and fish laws "but now they have a greater incentive and convenient way to do it."

Department of Natural Resources reports that the Minnesota pheasant population this fall is substantially higher than in recent years.

Roger Holmes, chief of the section of wildlife, said last year's fall pheasant population was higher than at any time during the preceding decade, and the population this year is 31 per cent larger than in 1980.

Central counties again have the highest pheasant densities, reflecting the shift of the population center away from the intensively-farmed southwest, but populations still do not equal those in the early sixties," he added.

Holmes noted that the Hungarian partridge population is virtually the same as last year's record high.

"Unlike the pheasant, Huns can survive in intensively-farmed areas and are most abundant in the southwestern counties," he said.

Sharp-tailed grouse populations are declining in the northwest. "Loss of habitat through succession and conversion to agriculture is responsible for the long-term decline in sharptails," said Holmes.

"Our spring drumming counts indicated that the ruffed grouse breeding population was about 20 per cent below last year's," he said. "Reproduction appears to have been only fair, so fall grouse populations will be lower than last year."

Holmes noted that the classic 10-year ruffed grouse cycle appears to have stalled early and that the population has begun to slide. "Next spring we'll know for sure," he said.

"Rabbit hunters will find their quarry more abundant this year," said Holmes. "Cottontails are more numerous this fall than they have been in over a decade. Greatest densities were recorded in east central and southeastern counties."

Minnesota state parks are still open and the public is being urged to visit them and enjoy the fall colors, the department of natural resources said.

Park officials said they are receiving many calls from people who have the idea that the parks have been closed down for the winter.

"Not so," said Don Davison, DNR director of state parks. "Campgrounds and picnic areas are open. Though showers are off in some parks, water and other utilities are still in service. Camping fees have been reduced according to services available.

"Naturalists are on duty at several parks to help make your autumn visit a memorable one.

"Visitors will find that the parks are not nearly as crowded in the fall, wildlife is often more visible as they make their prepartation for the coming winter, and the scenery, with the fall colors, is spectacular."

"For an even greater value — the 1982 annual vehicle permits are now available, giving you 15 months of use for the price of 12."

Alumni Meet Won By 1974 Lincoln Grad

Lonnie Olson, a 1974 Lincoln high school graduate, was the winner Friday in the first Lincoln varsity-alumni cross country meet held in conjunction with the school's homecoming activities.

Olson covered the two-mile course, which started near the Thief River Falls athletic field and finished in front of the grandstand prior to the kickoff of the Thief River Falls vs. Bemidji football game, in 10:30.

Lincoln varsity runners took the next six spots, headed by Lon Aune in 10:33; Matt Grabanski 11:04; Todd Broadwell 11:12; and Chuck Lowell 11:13 to round out the top five finishers.

Only two other alumni runners were on hand, with Greg Ness and Mark Broadwell, a pair of 1980 Lincoln graduates, placing eighth and 11th, respectively.

Winning the girls' portion of the event was the Prowlers' Kristy Forsberg with a 12:59 two-mile run.

John A. Steidl

1942-1981

John Steidl had an appealingly quiet and determined courage. He was a thoughtful activist, a philosopher, a historian, and a singular friend to those who loved him. In efforts which we shared, I sometimes wondered whether he understood my objectives. It was not until late in our friendship that through him I came to understand the proper relation between setting objectives and performing duties. I regret that I had not told him earlier: Thank you, John, for giving inspiration, for guidance, for conscience.

PICKING HIS WAY through the middle of the Hibbing defense, Northland community college quarterback Scott Wiebolt gained 11 yards before being brought down by the Cardinals' Chris Vlatkovich (23) and Terry Vesel (72) late in the fourth quarter of Saturday afternoon's homecoming game played on the Thief River Falls athletic field. The Northmen won the MJCAA Northern Division game 9-0.

EXTRA TINE on the right side brought the total number of points on this buck's otherwise symmetrical rack to nine. Bowhunter Jim Ortloff, Thief River Falls, took the deer just before sundown Wednesday from the same tree-stand west of St. Hilaire where he shot his buck last year.

cancer answers

"Cancer Answers" is a weekly column sponsored by the Red River Valley Medical society, the Red River Valley unit of the American Cancer society and the Thief River Falls Times. Questions may be mailed to the editor, Thief River Falls Times. All questions will be answered, and those of a general interest will be published in "Cancer Answers."

Dear Cancer Answers:

A friend of mine just found out from his doctor that he has bladder cancer. He told me that he knew something was wrong when he saw blood in his urine. Is this the first sign of bladder cancer, or do you think he may have ignored previous warning signals?

James S.

Dear James S.:

No, your friend probably did not ignore anything — the first sign of bladder cancer is usually blood in the urine. The color can range from a smoky shade to a deep red, depending on the amount of blood present. Urine may have blood in it one day and be clear the next. In fact, sometimes weeks may go by and the urine will remain clear. Eventually, though, the bleeding will reappear.

Generally, pain is not associated with the bleeding. Sometimes, though, the patient will feel discomfort. He may also have to urinate more frequently than usual. Occasionally blood clots form, causing painful muscle spasms in the bladder.

Bloody urine can be a warning signal of bladder cancer, but it can also be a sign of other serious conditions, such as benign (not cancerous) tumors, infection, or bladder stones.

Anyone who has blood in the urine should see a doctor immediately. Whatever condition is present should be treated.

Dear Cancer Answers:

What does a polyp look like? If your doctor tells you that you have a polyp, should you have it removed?

I had the imprssion that polyps could turn to cancer. If this is true, how long does it take? Also, where do polyps grow in the body?

Concerned and Confused

Dear Concerned:

A polyp is a small abnormal growth of tissue. The bulb, or body of the polyp, can be smooth and round, or cauliflower-like. The stalk can be extremely long and slender, or short and thick.

Whether a polyp should be removed depends on its location, if it is causing problems, and — most important — if it could become cancerous. In general, polyps should be removed. But a person's doctor may have special reasons for leaving a polyp alone, as in the case of polyps of the vocal cords, which are not really polyps at all.

Polyps that have the potential of turning to cancer take varying lengths of time to undergo this change. It depends upon the kind of polyp and the type of cancer.

Polyps grow in various places in the body, but always on the moist, smooth surfaces called mucous membranes. Polyps grow in the nose, stomach, womb, uterine cervix (opening of the womb into the vagina), and colon — among other places.

Polyps in the nose are usually associated with swelling and redness, but sometimes they accompany malignant tumors. Small polyps in the stomach are almost always benign; larger polyps may be malignant.

Since cancer of the womb is often preceded by polyps, these polyps are considered an important warning signal — although seldom cancerous in themselves. Polyps of the uterine cervix are rarely malignant, and are very easily removed.

Colon polyps usually are benign. To be on the safe side, however, physicians usually recommend removal of polyps found in the colon. In special circumstances, a doctor may do repeated examinations to detect any changes taking place in the size or shape of the polyp.

Dear Cancer Answers:

How are cancer cells different from normal cells? How can doctors recognize cancer cells in tissues? How do these cells spread to other parts of the body?

Helen A.

Dear Helen A.:

Physicians and specially trained technologists can recognize cancer cells by looking at them under a microscope. When a piece of tissue is taken from the body and examined microscopically, the normal cells have an orderly appearance. Also, they possess the distinctive features of the organ from which they came. The cells from the thyroid gland, for example, are very different from those of the lymph nodes. Normal cells from different organs carry genetic "messages" that determine their structure and function.

The cancer cell is disorganized. Although cancer cells usually bear some resemblance to the cells in the organ from which they were taken, their sizes vary more and they do not collect together in the orderly way that normal cells do. Their appearance and behavior are unpredictable.

In normal tissue, when one cell grows and meets another, further cell division is stopped or it continues in another direction that is in keeping with the over-all pattern of the tissue. In cancerous tissue, the cells tend to grow in unruly clumps. They climb on each other in haphazard fashion, and the growth of the tumor tissue is unrestrained by nature's organized rules.

Basically, cancer cells contain no genetic message that tells them when to stop growing. They simply keep reproducing. And the only way to stop them is to destroy them by radiation therapy or chemotherapy, or to remove them by surgery.

Cancer cells can spread in several ways. Some cancers, like certain skin cancers, simply keep growing in the same location — becoming bigger and bigger until they invade normal neighboring tissue and destroy it. Other cancers keep growing in the original site, but they also spread via the bloodstream or lymphatic system. (The lymphatic system drains fluids from the body tissues and also plays a role in fighting infection.) When this happens, the cancer cells break loose from the original tumor, get into the blood or lymph, and are carried to distant parts of the body. There they start forming secondary tumors — called "metastases" — further invading and destroying normal tissue.

This is why early diagnosis and treatment are so important. If cancer can be identified before the cancer cells have a chance to break loose from the original (or "primary") tumor, the chances for complete destruction of the cancer are excellent.

Arlan Stangeland

An Independent Stand

Work is now under way on the four-year Farm Bill (H.R. 3603). This bill will outline the shape of basic farm programs and the Reagan Administration's agricultural policy for the next four years.

I'd like to take a few minutes to explain why I am working for a stronger Farm Bill than President Reagan and the Senate have asked for.

From the beginning of his Administration, I have supported President Reagan's goals. I believe that restrained Federal spending will lower inflation and interest rates, that lower taxes will increase investment and employment, and that we will be able to balance the budget as the economy recovers.

But I don't believe that President Reagan's goals of higher employment and lower inflation will be helped by passing a weak farm bill.

The Administration's original outlook on the Farm Bill was two-fold and had a certain appeal. It is right to try to restrain spending. And it is right to work for a market-oriented, free enterprise philosophy for the farm economy . . . in normal times.

But these are not normal times.

The economic crisis in rural America is very real and growing worse every day.

+ Farmers and rural small businessmen bore the brunt of the wrong-headed Soviet grain embargo alone. The far-reaching effects of the embargo are still hampering farmers.

+For two years, farmers and small businessmen have been crippled by high interest rates. These groups can't pass the high cost of borrowing money along to the consumers.

+ Inflation, particularly the sky-rocketing prices of fuel and fertilizer, is hamstringing the farm community.

+ After the grain embargo, farm income dropped through the floor. It fell from $33 billion in 1979 to $19 billion last year, a decline of 40 per cent. And there is no sign of real improvement in the near future.

As of last month, farm prices were averaging only 61 per cent of parity. Sugar prices have dropped 29 per cent during the last three months. Corn is at 58 per cent of parity, and wheat and soybeans are at only 51 per cent. And because of record wheat and corn crops and carry-overs, prices for those commodities are going to be forced down again next year.

There is a need to maintain strong farm programs in the 1981 Farm Bill to offset the effects of the embargo, interest rates, inflation, and declining farm income.

The Administration is gradually realizing this fact and is making important concessions. Agriculture Secretary John Block has agreed to a 15 per cent set-aside provision for the wheat program. I had asked him to consider a 20 per cent set-aside to maintain stable prices, but this is a reasonable compromise. The Administration has also agreed to accept whatever sugar and peanut programs Congress agrees to.

Although we are gaining concessions from the Administration, a strong Farm Bill still faces opposition from urban representatives who incorrectly believe that a strong Farm Bill will increase food prices and from representatives who want to reduce overall spending.

The House Agriculture Committee's proposal will not rip off the consumers. Most of these programs provide support that is well below market prices. This is proven by the fact that, even with Federal farm supports, the American consumer spends only 16.2 per cent of his income on food, while Soviet consumers spend 45 per cent of their income just to put food on the table.

As to the argument that Congress should reduce the Farm Bill to decrease spending, I would point out that most of these programs only provide loans to food growers and processors that help them to pay their debts and prepare for the next growing season. These loans are repaid to the Federal government with interest.

Some Congressmen are saying that every program should be reduced significantly in an effort to reduce the deficit. They're forgetting that farm programs have already had their cuts. During the past 10 years, most domestic programs have been increased significantly, some by as much as 700 per cent. But during that same period, commodity programs have been decreased by 48 per cent.

And if you are trying to hold down spending, it seems wiser to support modest farm progams now than to pay for expensive remedial action later.

I still support President Reagan's efforts to cut spending, balance the budget and restore the economy. But voting for a weak Farm Bill is making the wrong cuts, in the wrong places, at the wrong time.

There are no jobs to be had on abandoned farms . . . no taxes to be gleaned from idle fields.

Because a strong farm economy is crucial to our recovery and because rural American has suffered long enough, I feel obligated to work for the strongest Farm Bill possible. I am with President Reagan on his general goals, but the time has come to make an independent stand.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Oscar Christenson, who passed away 13 yrs. ago Oct. 2, 1968:

He left us quietly, his thoughts unknown
But left us a memory we are proud to own.
So, treasure him, Lord, in your garden of rest
Tell him we miss him and wish him the best.

Sadly missed by wife, Hazel Christenson and family. 1t79c

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

October 12, 1981
Official Proceedings
Board of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
September 29, 1981

Pursuant to adjournment, the Pennington County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls at 10:00 a.m. September 29, 1981.

Members present: Hoffman, Grabanski, Koop, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

The minutes of the meeting held September 8 were read and approved as read with the exception that the manhole mentioned in that part of the minutes pertaining to the City of Goodridge should be designated as the manhole on the South side of the street.

A representative of the Goodridge Lion Club appeared before the Board inquiring about having "pull-tabs" at the Trapper & Trader in the Township of Goodridge. They would be on sale on Saturday and Sunday nights and every other Wednesday night with the Lions Club controlling them. The County Attorney advised that a new ordinance would be needed in order to sell the "pull-tabs". He also advised that the Lions would have to lease the premises.

The Pennington County Soil Conservation Board met with the County Board and presented a proposed budget for the year 1982. The new budget indicated a total of $36,326.00 with the County's share requested being $20,326.00. The County contributed $15,000.00 in 1981. After discussion the matter was taken under advisement.

Commissioner Tasa introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the County Board has been advised informally that there will be a petition for improvement of J.D. No. 41;

WHEREAS, this pending petition would change benefits immensely on JD No. 41;

NOW, THEREFORE, Be It resolved that any action on redetermination of benefits on JD No. 41 be delayed until said improvements occur or until the Board is officially advised that there will be no petition for improvement.

The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Hoffman and upon call for vote, was declared unanimously approved.

The Board discussed a replacement for Erling Torgerson who resigned on September 1 from the Red Lake Watershed Board. Verner Arveson was asked to appear before the Board and discuss the position. The position was then explained to Mr. Arveson. Moved by Commissioner Tasa, seconded by Commissioner Hoffman to appoint Verner Arveson to the Red Lake Watershed Board for the unexpired term ending January 10, 1983, to represent Pennington County. Motion carried.

Recommendations for the Use of Revenue Sharing Funds were discussed by the Board. These recommendations will be the recommendations of the Board at the proposed Use Hearing on October 13.

Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg to approve Revenue Sharing recommendations as follows: (Listed in order of Capital Improvements and Maintenance). Multi-Purpose, 101,359.00 and 22,575.00 and Libraries (no Capital Improvements), 16,500.00; With totals of 101,359.00 and 39,075.00. Motion carried.

Wes Glovik, Red Lake County Engineer, appeared at the Board's request to discuss the possibility of Red Lake County and Pennington County sharing the same County Engineer. Wes Glovik was willing to try it but an agreement would have to be reached with Red Lake County first. It was decided the Board should set a date to meet with the Red Lake County Board to discuss this further.

Acting County Engineer discussed the problems relating to the Highway Department. Indicated a request had been received for more gravel on Erie Road. Office Manager reviewed budget figures tentatively proposed. No action taken.

Sheriff Richards was in to discuss matters involving the Sheriff Department.

County Auditor briefly discussed some budget matters. No action taken.

County Auditor presented the bill for the Emergency Agreement entered into after entering an agreement for replacement of part of the Courthouse roof. When the roof was opened to be repaired, it was discovered that the entire roof had to be replaced. Moved by Commissioner Hoffman, seconded by Commissioner Tasa that the County pay the total bill for reroofing less $1,000.00 to be held until final inspection is made of the job. Motion declared carried.

Board approved issuing a duplicate warrant for a lost warrant.

Moved by Commissioner Koop, seconded by Commissioner Stenberg that the meeting adjourn to convene at 10:00 a.m. October 13, 1981. Motion carried.

School Board Proceedings

October 12, 1981
Regular Board Meeting
Ind. School Dist. No. 564
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
September 14, 1981

A Regular Board meeting of Independent School District No. 564 was held at 7:00 p.m. on September 14, 1981, in the Board Room of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Arnt Aune, Wally Grovum, Larry McDowell, Greg Pribula, and Ken Wiebolt. Also in attendance was Robert Block, Superintendent.

Chairman Ken Wiebolt called the meeting to order and established that a quorum was present.

Prior to regular Board business, a session was held with Diane Paulson regarding salary for the AVTI Business Manager position.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by G. Pribula to approve the MINUTES of the August 24, 1981, Regular Board meeting. Motion carried unanimously.

Dr. Ruberto gave a brief review of the report distributed to the Board members regarding a proposal written by Dr. Benson concerning children with emotional and behavioral difficulties in the Thief River Falls Public Schools.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and Seconded by G. Pribula to authorize the exception from established attendance areas for the 1981-82 school year for a 5th grade student to attend Mark Twain Elementary as requested by the parents, Wayne and Sharon Smith; whereas, the student has been in attendance at Mark Twain and no overcrowding problem exists in that school. Motion carried unanimously.

Kay Fleegel presented a report regarding the present lunch program. She stated that the salad bar at Lincoln is a success; however, total participation in the lunch program is down approximately 15 per cent in all the schools.

A motion was made by W. Grovum and seconded by G. Pribula to approve the employment of Diane Paulson as Business Manager at the AVTI at a salary of $17,900; effective September 15, 1981; 6 months probationary period with salary to be reviewed July 1, 1982. Motion carried unanimously.

Discussion was held concerning the present teacher grievance which resulted in the Board requesting the Administration to furnish them with materials regarding the grievance inorder for Board members to evaluate then make a recommendation when the grievance reaches the Board level.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by W. Grovum to establish the Northwest Vocational Center rental fee at $1.26 per square foot for the 1981-82 school year. Motion carried unanimously.

The Board was notified of a Bus Driver's Association Hearing scheduled for Tuesday, September 15, 3:30 p.m. in the Pennington County Courthouse.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Aune to hold a Meet and Confer meeting with the TRF Education Association on September 28, 1981, 8:00 p.m. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by W. Grovum to establish a charge of $3 per week per child on a space available basis for busing students from Discovery Place if they are not located on a regular route. A roll call vote was taken which resulted in the following: A. Aune - yes; W. Grovum - yes; L. McDowell - no; G. Pribula - yes; and K. Wiebolt - yes. Motion carried.

A motion was made by A. Aune and seconded by W. Grovum to authorize the Administration to post for up to four Elementary Girls Fall Activities Coach positions. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by W. Grovum to approve an extension of 15 days for the Teamsters grievance denied by Board action on August 24, 1981, regarding Articles XI, 11.4, and XII, 12.4 of the Labor Agreement. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by L. McDowell to deny Teamsters grievance dated September 2, 1981, regarding Article XXXIII, Salaries, of the Labor Agreement; thus allowing the grievance to proceed to Step 4 of the grievance procedure. Motion carried unanimously.

Material was distributed for information only regarding the possibility of a federal energy conservation grant.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by A. Aune to adopt a policy which states that a football game will be considered forfeited if a school is not able to play as contracted because of a teacher's strike. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by W. Grovum to adopt a policy which states that interscholastic athletic events interrupted by a teacher strike shall have one full week of practice before a team, or individual is allowed to play in a scheduled game or event after the season resumes. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by A. Aune to deny for safety reasons and the precedent it would set the request of Mr. Bob Puetz to place a temporary sign on school district property east of the AVTI directing people to his place of business. Motion carried unanimously.

A discussion was held regarding the question of a closed or open campus at the Middle School. The campus is presently closed for 6th graders and semi-open for 7th and 8th graders whereby students must have their parents permission to leave campus. It was suggested that an evaluation be done again this year with input from parents.

A motion was made by G. Pribula and seconded by L. McDowell to accept the resignation of John Kopari, Social Studies Instructor at Lincoln High School. Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by L. McDowell and seconded by W. Grovum to accept the resignation of Brian Nelson, Carpentry Instructor at the AVTI. Motion carried unanimously.

Notice of Public Hearing

Pursuant to the provisions of Title 23 United States Code, Section 128, notice is hereby given that the Minnesota Department of Transportation, Operations Division, is affording a public hearing to discuss the location and design features concerning improvements to T.H. 59 between First St. and C.S.A.H. 62 in Thief River Falls.

The public hearing will be held at the Thief River Falls City Hall on October 20 at 7:00 p.m. and is sponsored by the City of Thief River Falls.

The project will involve construction of traffic signals at First St., widening of the T.H. 59 roadway to construct right and left turn lanes with concrete and painted medians, and construction of frontage roads. The design concept calls for the closure of most business entrances to T.H. 59, providing instead, access to frontage roads with access to T.H. 59 at First St., Sherwood Avenue, Greenwood Avenue and C.S.A.H. 62.

The general public is invited to present testimony at the public hearing regarding this project or submit written testimony postmarked no later than October 30, 1981, to R. E. Wolfe, District Engineer, Attn. Steve Baker, Mn-DOT, Box 727, Bemidji, MN 56601.

In addition to location and design features, the following items will also be discussed:

1. Social, economic and environmental effects.
2. Tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction.
3. Relocation assistance programs.

The project Development Report-Environmental Assessment for this project along with maps, drawings and other pertinent information will be available for public inspection at the Mn-DOT Resident Office located at Zeh and State St. in Thief River Falls.

CPA Quiz Assists Budget Planning

Although inflation may erode savings, retirement resources and family security, it should not be viewed as a relentless, irresistible force. "You can do something to counteract its effects, and help yourself to greater financial security," says the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

Pooling the expertise of its 4,500 members, the CPAs prepared a quiz that calls attention to those pitfalls that most threaten to derail financial plans. If you find yourself answering "yes" to even half of these 10 questions, you are probably headed for real financial troubles. If that's the case, remedial steps may be needed.

(1) Do you rob Peter to pay Paul? If yes, and you put off paying some bills to use the money to pay other bills, you are living beyond your means. You need a workable budget. Set up a cash flow chart so you can see where your money comes in and where it goes. This will help you plan so you will have cash when you need it.

(2) Do you save for a rainy day? If yes, you are plainly worried about some catastrophe that could wipe you out financially. You might be better off with hazard insurance. That is, sufficient protection against calamities affecting life, health, property or job. Insurance permits you to cope with emergencies without dipping into capital. Determine your insurance needs by computing how much loss you could absorb without denting your capital base. Once you are adequately "covered" for a rainy day, then build an investment pool for achieving your goals.

(3) Do you charge everything? If so, maybe you are using credit to buy "things" that will wear out even before they are paid for. Before using credit ask yourself why you want the item; how serviceable is it; and how much can you afford to repay each month? If the price of a major item is rising 10 per cent in a year, it may be wise to use credit. Don't forget to calculate the tax deduction on the interest rate.

(4) Do you put all your eggs in one basket? If so, you risk losing everything if the basket breaks. Don't put all your money in a single stock, commodity or money market fund. Should that investment fail, so will you. CPAs suggest you diversify to spread the risks.

(5) Are you an impulse buyer? If so, you probably have not set goals and spending priorities. By setting goals and a budget, you are less inclined to spend money on impulse. Wise spenders set aside a modest allowance for this sort of spending, thus bringing a bad habit under control.

(6) Do you live for today? If so, it means you don't have a financial plan. That lack could lead to your having to live on social security benefits alone when you retire. You must plan for the future. Start now, because the longer you wait, the less you will be able to amass for future goals. If you are 30, and put $50 a week into a 15 per cent tax-deferred investment, you would have over three million dollars at age 65.

(7) Do you keep a nest egg in a savings account? If you do, consider investing it in something with higher yields. Keep in the bank only enough to cover expenses for short periods. The same amount of money invested in a money market fund, for instance, could generate three times the earnings.

(8) Do you believe all your taxes are inevitable ? They are not! You'd be surprised how many tax deductions people don't bother to claim. For instance, if you use the IRS sales tax table for your state, you probably don't bother to add your city sales tax (if you have one) to that figure. That's a loss that can reach a sizeable amount. Consider the tax aspect of everything you do with your money. Tax planning is a constant part of your financial decision-making.

(9) Do you often say, "I just don't know where the money goes?" If so, you had better start finding out. Go through your checkbook and add up what you are spending in quarterly periods. For the next two weeks, keep a notebook in your pocket and record expenses. This will help you find out where your cash goes. It is the first step toward setting up a realistic budget.

(10) Do you worry about money all the time? If you do, you may lack confidence in your ability to manage money. Talk with financial advisors, read books on money management, set up a good record-keeping system. The more you learn about managing your money, the less you will worry about it.

Area Students Receive UND Scholarships

Five hundred sixty students at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks have been awarded scholarships for the 1981-82 academic year, according to Robert Misenko, director of student financial aids.

Scholarship recipients from this area and the scholarships they received include the following: David Thompson (Lars Haugen), Middle River; Dee Nelson (Larimore Mathews), Goodridge; Kathryn Bacon (Larimore Mathews), David Donarski (Larimore Mathews), Mark Isaacson (J.F.T. O'Connor), and Brenda Johnson (Larimore Mathews), all of Thief River Falls; and Jill Parenteau, (Larimore Mathews), Brooks.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of scholastic ability, with the amount based on financial need. To qualify for scholarships processed by the UND student financial aids office, returning and transfer students must have attained a 3.5 cumulative grade point average (4.0 equals straight A). In most cases, freshmen ranked in the top 10 per cent of their graduating classes and had commensurate test scores.

Private donations from individuals, foundations and groups account for almost all of the funding for UND's academic scholarship program, Misenko said. The UND alumni association alone funds more than 125 separate named scholarship accounts, each providing from one to 50 annual awards. Support of these benefactors, Misenko added, has been invaluable both to the University and the recipients of these scholarships.

Jump Rope For Heart Program Set

Jump Rope For Heart program sponsored by the Minnesota association for health, physical education and dance will be conducted in schools throughout Minnesota the week of November 16-20.

Program promotes the value of lifelong physical activity to maintaining health as well as raising funds to aid the American heart association, Minnesota affiliate in its battle against heart disease.

Jump event features teams of six students jumping rope for a maximum of three hours. When one team member tires, the next begins. Students secure pledges for each minute their team jumps. All students are eligible for prizes which include T-shirts, windbreakers and warm-ups.

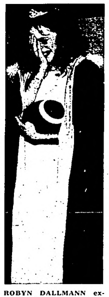
Last year a total of 158 schools participated in the program.

American heart association needs additional funds for research, community programs and educational programs if heart disease is to be controlled. Over $676,000 will be spent on heart disease research in Minnesota alone during 1981-82. An additional $116,270 will be provided for community service and educational programs in Minnesota.

Although efforts by the American Heart association have resulted in a 20 per cent decline in heart disease deaths over the last 10 years, heart disease still claims the lives of 975,550 Americans, including 17,000 Minnesotans last year.

Jump Rope For Heart participants will learn the importance of cardiovascular fitness through jumping rope and also will be helping to raise funds that will enable the American Heart association to continue to reduce premature death and disability caused by cardiovascular disease in Minnesota and across the nation.

To find out if there is a Jump in your area, call your local school or the American Heart association, Minnesot affiliate, Inc. toll free at 1-800-862-6044.



ROBYN DALLMANN experienced a tearful yet joyous event Friday when she was crowned 1981-82 homecoming queen in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. Robyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dallmann of Thief River Falls.

Study On AFDC, Welfare Monies Is Reported

A study on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program was recently reported by a program officer with the Urban Coalition of Minneapolis compiled for the Minnesota Women's Education council.

Resport indicates that 53,000 families in Minnesota receive AFDC help and 49,000 of these are single parent units. Average payment per family is $3,900 per year.

Other statistics reported included: (1) Most parents receiving AFDC help have been married and are separated or divorced (2) over three quarters of the families receiving aid have one or two children; (3) 55 per cent have at least one child under six; (4) 32 per cent of these single-parent adults are working and two-thirds of that 32 per cent work full-time but can't earn enough to get off welfare; (5) average length of time on AFDC is 2.9 years; (6) 52 per cent of AFDC families receive food stamps; (7) 30 per cent of these families own a car and average value of these cars is $743; (8) 17 per cent of the absent parents pay any child support; and (9) AFDC accounts for 22 per cent of Minnesota's welfare dollar.

Questoin posed throughout the article was, "Where are our welfare dollars going if AFDC recipients only get 22 per cent of that welfare dollar?"

Answers included the general assistance program, that helps single people in temporary need of assistance, battered women and children (accounting for two and one-half cents of each welfare dollar); Minnesota supplementary aid (which accounts for another cent of the welfare dollar); and medical aid (which accounts for 74 and one-half cents out of every welfare dollar).

Conference To Inform Small Business Set

Economic development conference for small business will be held October 28, at Best Western Motel, Thief River Falls from 11:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Persons starting, operating or expanding a business, or needing help with business problems are encouraged to attend to learn first-hand what, when and how assistance is available.

This conference is being conducted to inform small businesses about programs designed to help them get started and grow. Topics will include product development, marketing alternatives, problem solving, low interest loans, government procurement, financial assistance and much more.

Bankers, accountants, elected officials or others interested in the needs of small business in their community are also encouraged to attend to refer small businesses to available assistance.

Lunch will be served at noon, followed by a film on economic development in a typical city. There will be speakers throughout the afternoon with a "cracker barrel" session at 5:25 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. with Kent Eklund, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Energy, Planning and Development as the key speaker.

For pre-registration procedures call 281-1396.

School District 564 Teachers Go On Strike Here Tuesday

Teachers in School District 564 are in their second day of a strike against the district today with all striking members of the Thief River Falls Education association scheduled for picket line duty at the district's nine school buildings.

The strike was called by the TRFEA strike authorization committee late last week. A mediation session Thursday brought the teachers and school board closer together on an agreement, but final positions at that session still left them $1,100 per teacher apart on a two-year contract. The board had offered an increase of $4,500 over the two-year period with the TRFEA requesting $5,600.

President Mike Lehrer of the TRFEA said Tuesday that the strike involves 217 teachers and would affect about 3,200 students in kindergarten through the post high school are vocational-technical institute. He said 12 negotiations sessions had been held in addition to the mediation session Thursday and that there are still 15 unresolved issues to be negotiated.

Only one class was operating in the school district Tuesday (see story on this page), a first year carpentry class at the AVTI. A total of four teachers crossed the picket lines, including one at the AVTI, one at Franklin middle school and two at the Northwest vocational center. Supt. Robert Block said that not enough substitutes could be secured to open the schools, and students were advised to stay at home. Buses ran on a revised schedule to transport students to private schools in the community.

Lehrer said that the purpose of the strike is to accomplish a "fair and equitable settlement" with the school district which would bring the salary level of teachers here comparable to an average of the 15 schools in Region 6AA. Six months of negotiating had not produced a settlement, he said, and the strike action is intended to speed up the process.

He said he was pleased with the cooperation of substitute teachers in this district and from outside the district who refused to cross picket lines and allow schools to remain open.

He feels bad about the teachers who don't support the cause, he said, and added that individual cases will be reviewed on their own merits. In situations where it appears justified, non-strikers may be asked to terminate their membership in the organization. As non-members they would lose support of the local association, he said, as well as association benefits such as liability insurance, legal and economic services and other benefits.

There is no provision for levying of fines for non-participation, he said, but non-participants are subject to censure, although they are entitled to an appeal and hearing process. He said that the association has 217 members in School District 564 with only a few non-members on the faculty. Non-members pay 85 per cent of the MEA dues on a "fair share" support basis.

As of this morning it appeared unlikely that talks between the board and teachers would be resumed ntil at least Tuesday. Lehrer said the TRFEA has been told it should present a proposal in writing for board consideration and that the local association is prepared to make that proposal. It can not do so, he said, until a negotiating session is arranged with the board.

Picket lines were formed at the four elementary schools in Thief River Falls and at St. Hilaire, Lincoln high school, Franklin middle school, the school district service center (Northwest vocational center) and the area vocational-technical institute. Lehrer said the entire faculty would be involved in picket duty yesterday, today and Monday. Thursday and Friday of this week are not duty days due to the teachers association conventions.

After next Monday, he said, teachers will picket in four-hour shifts, half in the morning and half in the afternoon. If the strike is not settled following a week of that schedule, it will be reversed

PICKET LINES were established at about nine different buildings in School District 564 Tuesday morning as members of the Thief River Falls Education association went on strike. Mike Lehrer, president of the TRFEA, said the entire faculty would be involved full time in picketing yesterday, today and Monday, with half assigned to morning duty and half to afternoon duty after Monday. Approximately 3,200 students are affected by the walkout in kindergarten through the post high school AVTI. According to Lehrer, the local teachers association has been involved in 12 negotiation sessions and one mediation session without reaching agreement with the school district board.

One Class Persists In Spite Of Strike

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

"When it comes to applying my Christian beliefs to everyday life," Rod Johnson explained Tuesday afternoon, "this is where the rubber meets the road."

It was his way of explaining why he and his 21-member Carpentry I class at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute were carrying on teaching and learning as usual while the rest of the building was quiet and strikers walked picket lines outside.

"We took a vote on it," he said, "because we had to know what we would be looking at from an attendance standpoint. I told the students to vote as they felt, not to please me, and I warned them that a decision to attend meant a responsibility as well. Every one of them voted to go ahead with class and every one of them was in attendance this morning."

Johnson's class was the only one in session in School District 564 which was hit Tuesday by a strike by the Thief River Falls Education association. Three other teachers crossed picket lines Tuesday morning — one at the middle school and two at the Northwest vocational center — but there were no students in attendance.

Rod Johnson is not a defiant individual. He based his decision on what is to him a deep-rooted conviction of what he believes to be right in the eyes of God. . . to Whom he professes ulimate commitment. And he backs his decision with Biblical direction, pointing particularly to the 22nd and 23rd verses of the third chapter of Colossians: "Servants, obey your earthly masters in every way, not as men-pleasers when working under their eyes, but the unmixed motives out of reverence for the Lord. Whatever you do, work heartily for the Lord and not for men. . . "

Carpentry instruction at the AVTI has been Johnson's work for the past 10 or 11 years. Prior to that he spent from 1960 to 1970 in Ethiopia as a mission builder, constructing schools and other needed buildings. "To build a school in an area where the people have never seen a wheelbarrow is a challenging experience," he said. "Here we have been provided with a good building and equipment and ample supplies and I think we should be grateful."

Visiting in his office at the AVTI after the students had completed class for the day, Johnson thumbed through a Gideons International New Testament for additional reference. He found it in Luke 16, verses 14 and 15:

"The Pharisees were listening to all this and were sneering at Him, for they were lovers of money. So He told them, "You claim righteousness before human eyes, but God knows your hearts. What seems outstanding to men is abhorrent in the sight of God."

"This is really rich to me,"

Negotiations On Board Agenda

Discussion of a meeting date for continued negotiations with the Thief River Falls Education association on a contract for the 1981-1983 school years will take place at a general meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening in the school district service center.

School board chairman Ken Wiebolt, who has been spending the first part of this week in Chicago attending the meetings in connection with his duties at Northland community college, is expected to return today, and will be present for the Monday board meeting.

In addition to considering a date for a negotiations session with the TRFEA, the board will make decisions Monday regarding lay-offs of non-certified personnel in the district during the strike. All non-certified employees have been retained on a regular basis to date and that will be continued through Monday, according to Supt. Robert Block. Employees not normally on duty during the teachers' convention days Thursday and Friday will not report for work.

Because of several unique aspects of the Thief River Falls district, the teacher strike here affects a number of students from outside the district. The situation as it relates to the post high school AVTI is covered in a spearate story in this issue.

The Northwest vocational center — a cooperative which includes Thief River Falls, Newfolden, Middle River, Goodridge, Plummer and

Strike Affects AVTI Programs

Strike by Thief River Falls teachers is likely to have a special effect on the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, according to director Orley Gunderson.

The director noted that a number of students from outside the area had already left the community for their own homes and he expressed concern about the potential drop-out rate if the strike is prolonged. He said students had been urged to stay in contact with the school and encouraged to return when the strike is settled.

"It is important for students in this area and in other areas of the state to closely monitor the situation here through local and statewide media," Gunderson said. "Students may call us collect for current information and we encourage them to keep informed."

Gunderson noted that 48 of the AVTI's 49 teachers were on strike Tuesday morning. About 100 to 125 students showed up at the buildings as they had been instructed to do in the event that instructors crossed the picket lines or substitutes could be secured. Except for the Carpentry I class which continues to meet, the students were advised to return home.

A new program in farm operations was scheduled to begin with 29 students expected. Eighteen of the students reported but no in-

Mrs. Green Is Arts Council's New President

Marge Green was elected president of the Thief River Falls community arts council at the annual meeting held Monday at the Northwest regional library meeting room.

Other officers elected for 1981-82 were Tony Ricci, vice president; Barbara Jauquet, secretary; and J.J. Womack, treasurer. The business session also included a report of 1980-81 activities.

New members of the council include Barbara Jauquet, Betty Favor, Web Maves, Doug Enstrom, Ardis Botner and Gary Heaton. Appreciation was expressed to Madelyn Robarge, Dee Forney and Senora Skay for their years of past service on the council.

Sen. Boschwitz Staff To Visit TRF Oct. 21

Sen. Rudy Boschwitz's staff aides Evelyn Flom and Laura Larson will be in Thief River Falls October 21 as part of the senator's program to make his office accessible to constituents statewide.

"Responsible govenoment requires that our office be brought frequently to the people of Minnesota and I urge the people of Thief River Falls to take the time to visit with my assistants while they are in the area. In order to represent and assist you most effectively, we need to know your concerns about and problems with the federal government," Sen. Boschwitz said.

Flom works with communities as a field representative for Sen. Boschwitz and has been invited to meet with Mayor Bob Carlson, clerk-treasurer Gerald Wigness and several other members of the mayor's staff to learn more about local needs and discuss ways in which the senator's office and city officails can work together.

Larson is a caseworker for Sen. Boschwitz and serves as a liaison between constituents and federal agencies. She will be available to answer questions, take comments and offer assistance to residents of Thief River Falls from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Rex cafe.

Mushroom Picking Can Be Rewarding

by Dave Berg
Times Reporter

Not everyone who goes hunting in the fall is after big game or waterfowl. Some, armed only with a container, and traveling no further than the backyard (or perhaps just down the street; hunt for edible mushrooms.

While many people recoil in horror at the thought of eating "toadstools", a few read books, ask questions and end up becoming amateur mycologists, persons who study and enjoy the sometimes subtle, sometimes distinct flavor differences between the mushrooms available in the store and what nature provides.

To be sure, mushroom hunting should be approached with caution. Some of the most deadly poisons known to man exist in certain species of fungi. Names such as "Deadly Amanita" and "Death Angel" reflect the danger involved in eating even a small piece of them. Others, (such as the Psilocybe mushrooms), can cause hallucinations, and have been worshipped for centuries by Indian tribes in both North and South America, recently gaining popularity among the "drug culture" in this country and elsewhere. In some families of mushrooms the edible and poisonous types can only be identified only by conducting chemical tests.

So, how do people get started in this (seemingly dangerous) hobby? Most, like myself, "catch the bug" from someone else, who caught it from someone else, ad-infinitum. While many mushroom hunters jealously guard their secret patches, some, if caught in a moment of weakness, will share a sample of their catch. One taste, and I was hooked; like wild strawberries, the flavor of the "garden variety" just can't compare. Getting someone to show you where to pick, however, usually requires a SHAGGYMANES frequently grow in lawns, and are considered to be one of the "foolproof four" of edible mushrooms. This one was found on Duluth avenue in Thief River Falls.

INKY-CAP mushrooms like the Shaggymane do not last long, and begin to self-digest into an inky black liquid within a very short time after sprouting. If any part of the mushroom has turned black, it should not be eaten.

SOCIETY and CLUBS

Service Jewels Studied At WCTU October Meeting

"Jewels of Service," was the theme of the October meeting of the Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) held Friday afternoon at the Riverside Terrace apartments.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Stand Loyally," from "Second Century Voice of Song." To correspond with the theme, Mrs. Olga Larson led the devotional meditation, reading the fourth chapter of Philippians. She gave special emphasis to verse 13, "I can do all things through Christ, who strentheneth me." She stated that Paul, in his writings to the different churches, never pulled any punches. When it was necessary, he commended, rebuked and exhorted. In his attempt to define the love of Christ, he explained it using the measurements of breadth, length, depth and height. It was noted that God's love extends from eternity to eternity, includes all races, tongues and peoples of the world, is deep enough to reach the deepest sinner and high enough to lift that sinner out of hell and into the Father's house above. Acceptance of that love is a necessity in order to do the Lord's work. Mrs. Larson concluded by saying that many people fail in doing the Lord's work because of their own personal concern of being on the road to heaven or because they are too busy telling what the Lord has done for them to do anything for the Lord.

The program also included several articles read by the members and a guest, Mrs. Ruby Skidmore of Florida, a daughter of Mrs. Olga Engelstad. Mrs. Ruth Haugan and Mrs. Skidmore read "The Masters's Hands — Our Hands," and Geneva Overum read "Cocaine Peril: Drug of the 80's," an article from the Chicago Tribune reporting that cocaine usage had increased four times between 1975 and 1979. "An Early decision charted a Course," was read by Valborg Hanson and the Radio Releases by Hildur Lian, Olga Larson and Ruby Skidmore.

The group voted to renew the "Union Signal" subscriptions and to include the Lincoln high school library and Junior college library among the subscribers. Dues were paid and several gift subscriptions were accepted.

In an effort to gain new members, a letter to be sent to prospective members before November 1, was written.

G. Halvorsons Announce Birth of Thomas Gary

Rev. and Mrs. Gary Halvorson of St. James announce the birth of a son on Friday, October 9, at St. James. The child weighed 7 lbs., and 11 oz., and has been named Thomas Gary.

Mrs. Halvorson is the former Ruth Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hammer, rural Thief River Falls. This is Hansons' first grandchild.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson of Viroqua, Wis.

Star Homemakers to Meet At H. Andersons

Star homemakers club will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m., at the Harold Anderson home with Olien Kriel and Ruby Anderson presenting the lesson "Changing life styles to conserve energy."

Members are reminded to bring an item for the market basket, Christmas craft ideas and something for the potluck lunch.

DeLayne Rae Swenson And Ricky McBride Wed

DeLayne Rae Swenson and Ricky Arden McBride were united in marriage recently at a four o'clock ceremony at the Ringbo Lutheran church, near Holt.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Swenson of Holt. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Filmore McBride of Middle River.

Rev. Donald Fredine officiated at the double ring ceremony withnessed by approximately 200 relatives and friends. Pianist was Cathy Erickson, a friend of the couple. She played the traditional wedding march for the processional, and "We've Only Just Begun, for the recessional.

Soloists were the bride's cousin, Don Lunke, and a friend, Tammy Lord. Lunke sang "The Wedding Song," after the vows were exchanged, and "Follow Me," while the couple lit the unity candle using candles presented to them by their parents. As the couple presented long stemmed roses to their parents, Tammy Lord sang "The Rose."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents and brother Robert Swenson. She was attired in a white satin gown with an overlay of embroidered lace on the empire bodice and around the Queen Anne neckline. Lace also accented her long, sheer sleeves, trimmed the deep cuffs, and complemented her skirt that flowed into a train. Her veil of bridal sheer, edged with lace, was held by a lace headpiece with pearl accents. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, wine colored daisies, babies' breath and greenery. At the open neckline, she wore her grandmother's pearls.

Personal attendants were Renee Wilberg and Mary Clark, friends of the couple.

The bride selected her older sister Cecelia (Tootsie) Swenson as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were her other sisters: Becky, Cindy and Dawn Swenson. Cecelia and Becky wore wine colored, floor-length pleated gowns with wine colored shawls and hats. The other bridesmaids wore pink floor-length gowns, trimmed in wine, and pink hats, matching their gowns. They carried pink and white carnations, babies' breath and greenery.

Melinda Olson, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a white lace floor-length gown with matching lace hat and gloves. She carried wine and pink roses, babies' breath and greenery in a basket crocheted by the bride's grandmother.

The rings were carried by Ricky McBride, a nephew of the groom. He wore gray trousers and vest, a white shirt, and a wine rose boutonniere accented with babies' breath and greenery.

Attending the groom as best man was Chuck Olson, uncle of the bride. Groomsmen were the groom's brothers, Ronnie and David McBride, and the bride's cousin, Danny Newland. All wore silver-gray tuxedos, white ruffled shirts and pink and wine boutonnieres, featuring roses, babies' breath and greenery.

The groom wore the white uniform of the U.S. Navy.

Ushering the guests were Miles Garthus, cousin of the bride, and Al Dougherty, a friend of the couple.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Swenson selected a pink lace floor-length gown, complemented by a corsage of pink roses. A similar corsage graced the green floor-length gown worn by the groom's mother. Both fathers, and the bride's brother, Robert Swenson, wore the same attire as the groomsmen.

Honor guests at the wedding were Emma Swenson, grandmother of the bride; George Olson, grandfather of the bride. Coming from Germany to attend their grandson's wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Petry, accompanied by the groom's cousin, Mike Flory, also from Germany.

Diana McBride, a sister-in-law of the groom, presided at the guest book. Gift bearers were the bride's cousins: Shelly Fillmore, Nancy Newland and Nancy Theisian.

Following the ceremony, an outdoor reception was held in the church yard. Host and hostess were the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Garthus, who are also the bride's godparents; and the groom's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Les Saffeels.

Olivia Newland, cousin of the bride, and Eileen Frigard, aunt of the bride, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses and white wedding bells, accented with wine trim. Topping the cake, made by the bride's aunt and godmother, Kay Sistad, was a Christogram surrounded by wedding bells.

Pouring coffee were Jane Fillmore and Collette Olson, aunts of the bride. The punch was served by Charlene Fillmore and Sandy Sistad. Todd Fillmore distributed the rice packets and candy kisses. All are cousins of the bride.

Waitresses were Leone Skadsem, cousin of the bride; Kelly Erickson and Wannetta and Sharron Rostvet, all friends of the bride.

The couple is now at home in Chula Vista, Calif., where the groom, a Petty Officer second class, is stationed with with the U.S. Navy as an Aviation ANIT submarine warfare operator.

Boys Staters Speak At Legion And Aux. Meet

Guest speakers at the meeting of the American Legion post and its auxiliary were the 1981 Boys Staters; Keith Grochow, Lincoln high school representative, and Kenneth Frazer, Goodridge high school representative. Grochow, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Grochow, Thief River Falls, and Frazer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Euguene Frazer of Goodridge, were introduced by Boys State chairman Ormond Johnson.

Separate meetings of the two organizations followed.

At the meeting of the auxiliary, led by president Lovanell Kraemer, the membership chairman reported a total of 382 members. She urged those who haven't paid their dues to do so as soon as possible. Dues may be paid to any officer or mailed to Box 325, Thief River Falls. She also reminded the members with paid-up cards that they are eligible for a 10 per cent discount on their meals at the Legion club.

Mrs. Duane Kuyath, cochairman of the junior activities, reported on the activities in the junior department. She stated that the Children and Youth conference will be held at Pelican Rapids on October 18, and that a junior pep rally is slated for October 17 at Argyle. She asked members to encourage their daughters and granddaughters to become members of the junior auxiliary.

Poppy chairman Joyce Fowler announced that the 1982 Poppy days are scheduled for May 20 and 21. The event will also include a Poppy poster contest.

Announcement was made that the Fall Conference will be held May 6 and 7 at Mankato, and plans were made for the annual Veterans day dinner on November.

Lunch was served following the meeting with Junell Looker and Joyce Fowler as hostesses.

"Club Collect" Discussed At DeCor Meeting

"Club Collect," by Mary Stewart was studied at the meeting of the DeCor club of the Thief River Falls Federation of Women's clubs, held October 6 at the home of Carla Peterson. President Madeleine Scramstad presided at the meeting.

It was noted that the Collect was written as a personal prayer at Longmont, Colo., in 1904 shortly after Stewart completed college and prior to beginning her first job as principal for the local high school. It was offered for publication as a "Collect for Club Women," at a time when women working together with wide interests was something new. The first woman's organization to use the collect or to have it appear in their year books and biennial reports was the General Federation of Women's clubs. Since then, it has been used throughout the world. It first appeared in print in the column, "Club Notes," in the "Delineator," a woman's magazine no longer published. It became the club collect of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's club, organized in 1919 by Mary Stewart. She served on its national board for many years, represented the organization on the Women's Joint Congressional committee, supported the women's sufferage movement, worked with the United States government from 1921 to 1942 as assistant director general of the U.S. Employement service, department of Labor, and in the Office of Indian Affairs, department of Interior. She died in 1943 in Cincinnati.

Projects for the coming year were discussed and adopted, and the year's dues were paid. Several reports were also given. Included were a brief account of hosting the Friendship club at Oakland Park with Ellen Peterson, Mildred Wick, Ethel Aase and Geneva Overum, as workers; Everybody's Market with Ellen Peterson, Geneva Overum, Mildred Wik, Signe Miller and Carla Peterson participating in the project; and the previous club meeting report given by secretary Mildred Wik.

Members answered roll call by naming their favorite season of the year and giving the reason why it was their favorite.

'Sound Of Music' Opens MSU Season

"The Sound of Music," a musical play by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, will open the 1981-82 theatre season at Moorhead state university.

Two-act musical which had a record-breaking Broadway run and was made into a motion picture, will open October 22, and play for five performances through October 25. In addition to the Sunday evening performance, a special Sunday matinee has been scheduled at 2:15 p.m. All evening performances begin at 8:15 p.m. in the center for the arts on the university campus.

"The Sound of Music" boasts a memorable score which ranges from hilarious comedy numbers such as "The Lonely Goatherd" and "Do Re Mi" to the whimsical "Favorite Things" and the touching Austrian ballad, "Edelweiss." A frequently revived musical, the latest professional production which opened recently in London brought new acclaim to Petula Clark in the central role and the show itself was hailed as "Rodgers and Hammerstein's greatest work."

Regional Meet For Vocational Ed. Here Tues.

State board of education will host a regional input session to give the public a chance to comment on the state plan for vocational-technical education in Thief River Falls Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Meeting begins at 7 p.m. at the auditorium in Northland community college. It has been changed from the AVTI due to the teacher strike.

Brief presentations will be made by the following: Margaret Marvin, member of the state board of education, on "The Role of the State Board;" Dale Neppel, state advisory council for vocational education, on "The Role of the State Advisory Council;" Mel Johnson, manager, operational services section of the vo-tech division, state dept. of education, on "The State Plan and the Planning Process."

Discussion involving the audience starts at 7:45 p.m. with adjournment set at 9 p.m.

"Minnesotans are proud of our leadership in vocational technical education," said Patricia Weber, Slayton, presidnet of the state board of education. "Citizens have contributed actively to help vo-tech education meet local and regional needs. Now is the time to suggest new approaches to meet the needs of a changing economy and advancing technology."

State board encourages taxpayers, vocational instructors and students, and representatives of education advocacy groups to attend the seven hearings to be conducted throughout Minnesota.

State plan is a planning and policy-making document which directs decision making at all education levels, said Weber. Through it vocational-technical education programs are defined and structured.

If you have questions or wish for a copy of the state plan, contact Robert Bocklund, state plan specialist in the State Department of Education, 550 Cedar St., St. Paul, 55101 or call 612-296-2337.

One Class Held During Strike At TRF AVTI

Johnson said, "in that today our feeling is that life consists of the abundance of things. And we have much, much greater needs than just the abundance of things. . . understanding each other, and accepting each other, learning to accept the inequities of life, love and appreciation for one another. . . all of these things are some really great needs that we have, and certainly not money.

"This whole thing is because of money, isn't it? This whole strike business is because of money. I don't need more money. What I need is to be able to love and accept my neighbor and not to harbor any bitterness, ill will or ill feelings toward anyone whatsoever.

"I am not being judgmental on what they (striking teachers) are doing," he hastened to add. "I accept them for what they are doing. That's their decision and I can accept that. But the Christian must make his whole life revolve around the Lord. He relates everything in his life to the Lord — not just Sunday, but Monday through Saturday as well. I like the definition that says: Worry is simply taking care of this world's normal responsibilities as though God didn't exist."

Regardless of commitment to a cause, it would seem that stress must enter in when a person is a dissenter among conformists. Johnson believes stress is a human frailty.

"We went through an attempted coup d'etat in Africa," he said. "Bullets were flying and I found out what it was like to be surrounded by soldiers and hauled off to be questioned, simply because I was an American in a foreign country. Those were stressful times. But who is our provider? Who is our protection? To me, God only."

Johnson's Carpentry I students come from Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire, Deer River, Warroad, Badger, Ada, Mentor, Mahnomen, Roseau, Gatzke, Red Lake Falls, Strandquist and Mahtomedi. In class Tuesday they were reading blueprints and framing buildings to one-fourth scale. Doing it, Johnson insists, is far superior to reading about it.

Two of the Johnson children are AVTI students themselves — Danny in aviation mechanics and Holly in practical nursing. Another son, Stephen, is studying electronic instrument repair at the Red Wing AVTI and a third son, David, is taking post high school instruction at Prairie Bible Institute at Three Hills, Alberta, Canada.

Mrs. Johnson, Nancy, has been tutoring Vietnamese students until funding was recently cut off by the Reagan administration.

Johnson said he and his students were permitted to come to school Tuesday morning without incident and that he was appreciative of the fact and hopeful it would continue. He just wants to go on doing what he believes the Lord intended him to do.

Mushrooms Add Zest To Local Cuisine

solemn promise never to use their spot. "You've seen what kind of a place it grows in, now go find your own!" was the advice I got regarding Shaggymanes. I was greateful for even that much.

Mushrooms, being unable to manufacture chlorophyll needed for photosynthesis, are by necessity parasitic of saprophytic (feeding on living or decayed matter). This dependence causes the fungi to form very close relationships with their hosts, sometimes harming them, sometimes to their mutual benefit. Regardless, these close relationships sometimes dictate that certain types of mushrooms will grow only on or near certain types of plants. This can be one clue to finding and identifying them. Many also appear only during certain times of the year, including some that sprout through the snow on warm winter days.

Known by mycologists as the "foolproof four" the morels, puffballs, shaggymanes and the sulfur polypore are considered to be unmistakeable to identify by their distinct physical appearances. Of these, I have never tried the sulfur polypore, the morels are only available in the spring, and the puffballs are now mostly past the white stage in which they are edible. Incidentally, a friend picked one giant puffball last year that weighed 17 pounds.

The shaggymane is a mushroom that nearly anyone can find. It is most frequently found growing right in a lawn, preferring one which isn't mowed too frequently. It is available from late spring to early autumn, and recent wet weather seems to have caused them to pop up all over Thief River Falls.

Often found in clusters, it is easily identified by its long white cap and shaggy scales. It can reach a total height of 30 centimeters (about 11 and a half inches), with the cap alone reaching up to 12 centimeters (about four and a half inches). Most specimens will be about four or five inches high.

Also called the Lawyer's or Judge's wig, or Shaggy ink cap, it is "very good to eat if picked while the gills are closed and the cap is white," according to "Mushrooms and Toadstools" by Jacquelin Seymour, a Crescent Books publication available in the library. This edible, white state may last less than a day, however.

Belonging to a family of mushrooms known as the 'inky-caps", soon after it appears it begins a process known as auto-digestion, in which it just seems to dissolve into a black inky liquid. Picking does not seem to slow the process, hastening it if anything. The first time I gathered shaggymanes, I picked some on the way home for dinner and put them in the refrigerator, planning to fix them for supper. When I returned at suppertime, all that remained on the plate were the stems and a sticky black liquid. They should not be picked more than a few hours before you plan to eat. When cooked they retain their white color.

They can be prepared in any way that other mushrooms are enjoyed. On steak or pizza, sauteed in butter, or just raw in a salad are personal favorites. The less to interfere with the flavor, the better I like them.

A final word of caution: as with any new food, begin in moderation. Persons with allergies to molds and mildews should be especially careful. A positive identification should be made before eating any mushroom. "Old wive's tales" about non-poisonous mushrooms not tarnishing silverware, etc. are not reliable.

One pretty reliable method of telling whether a mushroom was poisonous was related to me by an old mushroom picker who said (jokingly): "When I find some mushrooms I'm not sure of, I just give them away, and tell the person I gave them to come and see me day after tomorrow if he likes them. If he shows up, we go picking together."

Karin Locken Services Held At Karlstad

Mrs. Karin E. Locken, 92, a longtime resident of Karlstad, died Friday morning October 9, at the Roseau Area hospital. She had been in failing health for the past three years and for the last year had been a resident of the Warroad Nursing Center.

Funeral services for Mrs. Karin Locken were held Monday at 2:00 p.m., at the First Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Donald Peterson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Thompson provided vocal selections as did Mrs. Oscar Yngve. Kirstin Olson served as organist. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery with the Collins Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Isaac Thompson, Peter Thompson, Ingvald Torgerson, Oscar Hageland, Hans Anderson and Dale Grandstrand.

Mrs. Locken, the former Karin Bolin, was born May 22, 1889 in Sweden to Erick and Anna Bolin. She attended school in Sweden and was baptized and confirmed there in the Lutheran faith. At the age of 17 years, she immigrated to the United States, settling in Marshall county, near Karlstad.

On Dec. 9, 1908, she was united in marriage to Ole Erickson at Warren. The couple farmed in Nelson Park township of Marshall county, west of Karlstad, until Erickson's death. She continued to live on the farm for many years, prior to moving into Karlstad.

On Nov. 4, 1958, she was married to Alfred Locken at Las Vegas, Nev. The couple lived in Marshall, Calif., for two years and then returned to Karlstad, where they resided until Locken's death. She continued living in Karlstad until she became a resident of the Warroad Nursing center.

She was a longtime member of the First Lutheran church of Karlstad.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Bert (Lillian) Germundson, Karlstad; two sons: Erick Erickson, Spicer; and Arthur Erickson, Fargo, N.D.; eight grandchildren, several great-grandchildren; a brother, John Bolin, and a sister, Anna, both living in Sweden.

Several brothers and sisters preceded her in death.

Sandra Roen, 93, Of Grygla, Dies Monday

Mrs. Sandra Roen, 93, of the Grygla community, died Monday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sandra Roen will be held Friday at 2:00 p.m., at Our Savior's Lutheran church, Grygla, with Rev. Percy Smerek officiating. Interment will be in the Rosebud cemetery at Thorhult.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home from Thursday noon until 9:00 p.m., and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services.

A complete obituary will be published in Monday's edition of the Times.

Bruce Legg, 83, Services Set For Thursday

Funeral services for Bruce Legg, 83, of this city, who died Sunday at his home, have been scheduled.

Services will be held Thursday at 11:00 a.m., at the United Methodist church with Rev. Melvyn Budke officiating. Mrs. Jeanne Harger will served as soloist; and Lloyd Marwood will sing with Grace Marwood as accompanist. Interment will be in the Minto cemetery in Minto, N.D.

Honorary pallbearers will be Shane Legg, Cory Legg, Tony Legg, Tron Olson, Brent Olson, Troy Hannon, Todd Hannon and Rodney Bustrak.

Serving as active pallbearers will be Russell Moen, Raymond Woods, Lee Ferguson, Bud Hewitte, Lewis Carpenter and Clarence Breiland.

Bruce Legg, a son of the late Aaron and Margaret Gibson Legg, was born Oct. 14, 1897 at Minto, N.D. He attended school and grew to manhood at Minto and later farmed in Forest River, N.D.

On Sept. 20, 1938, he was united in marriage to Sophie Lipsh at Pisek, N.D. The couple farmed in Forest River until 1956, when they moved to this area. They settled in Rocksbury township, Pennington county, where they farmed until retirement in 1965. Since then, they have made their home in this city.

Surviving are his wife, two sons: James Legg, Belle Plaine and Eugene Legg, Thief River Falls; four daughters: Mrs. Ervin (Joyce) Olson, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Wayne (Jo-Dale) Hannon, Grand Forks Air Force base, Grand Forks, N.D.; Mary Lou Rodahl, Farmerville, Tex., and Mrs. Andy (Rochelle) Chapa, Sherman, Tex.; 16 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Fayette (Edna) Ranney of Benson.

Four brothers preceded him in death.

John Silvola Services Held At Elk River

John (Jack) Silvola, 64, of Anoka and formerly of the Middle River and Goodridge areas, died October 7 at the Veterans hospital in Minneapolis where he had been a patient for five weeks.

Funeral services for John Silvola were held at Dare's funeral chapel in Elk River with Rev. Cedric Olson of the Central Lutheran church officiating. Interment was in the Lakeview cemetery in Elk River.

John Silvola was born in Soudan on Feb. 6, 1917. He was married to Jeanette Gustafson Carlson on Oct. 16, 1954. Since 1956, he had lived at Anoka.

Surviving are his wife, three step-sons: Robert Carlson, Wisconsin, Allan Carlson, Colorado Springs, Colo.; and James, Springfield, Mo.; two step-daughters: Barbara Lamson, Mankato, and Rochelle Scardina, Minneapolis; and ten step-grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters: Mary Kusmak, Goodridge; and Elvira Scott, Vernon, Texas; a foster brother, Bernard Metsa, Middle River; and two foster sisters: Martha Biskey, Sheridan, Ore., and Sara Kusmak, Thief River Falls.

Services Held For Edward Klemmetson

Funeral services for Edward Klemmetson, 86, of 906 Southeast Fifth Street, Willmar, were held Thursday at 10:00 a.m., at the Vinje Lutheran church in that city. Rev. Robert Ostergaard officiated. Interment was at 2 p.m., that afternoon in the Fort Snelling National cemetery in Minneapolis.

Edward Klemmetson was born May 9, 1895 at Ulen, one of 11 children born to Elling and Segre Severtson Klemmetson. He attended the McIntosh school and grew to manhood in the Ulen, Hazel and McIntosh area. Later he attended vocational school at Fargo, N.D.

He was married June 21, 1929 at East Grand Forks to Helmine Haugom. They farmed for 16 years and later Klemmetson became self-employed in the dry wall construction business. For the past 35 years, they have made their home at Willmar.

Klemmetson was a veteran of World War I, was a member of the VFW club, Finstad-Week post and the World War I Barracks.

Surviving are his wife, two sons: Ellsworth and Byron, both of Willmar; two grandchildren; and five brothers and sisters: Henry and Oscar Klemmetson, both of McIntosh; and Elida Elleson, Mrs. Odin (Manda) Hanson, and Alvin Klemmetson, all of Thief River Falls.

Volunteers Are Requested At Valley Home

Gail Zacharias, activities coordinator at Valley Home in Thief River Falls, has issued an appeal for volunteer assistance in many areas of activity for residents of the home for the aged.

In a letter addressed to churches, civic organizations and businesses in Thief River Falls, she notes that "many of you have contributed your time, talents and gifts for the enjoyment of the residents of Valley Home. All is deeply appreciated and a sincere thank you is expressed to each of you from us."

At present the home is involved in a fund raising project to purchase a large van or small bus for the home. A pancake supper is being planned from 5 to 8 p.m. November 5, along with a crafts sale at the same time and some volunteers will be needed to assist staff and residents in conducting the event.

Work is also being done to establish an auxiliary unit for the home, comprised of volunteers who would meet on a regular basis and be available to help serve teas and luncheons for special occasions as well as assist with other activities and crafts.

Other volunteers are welcomed as visitors, working with residents in baking, mending, hairdressing, reading, writing letters or going for walks. Residents of the home also appreciate entertainment and persons are encouraged to share their talents along those lines.

Zacharias notes that the home is also in need of donated items such as game prizes, gifts items, cards, craft supplies, yarn, old jewelry, sewing notions, pictures and posters, seasonal decorations and other items. Anyone interested in assisting may contact her at 681-3286.

Answers from the Bible by Pastor Don Peres

Q. Pastor Don, When I read the old Testament, the God of the Old Testaments looks like a God of hate, while the God of the New Testament is one of love. Why the difference?

A. This is one of the frequent accusations against the Bible is that it contains two different conceptions of God. The Old Testament allegedly presents only a God of wrath, while the New Testament alledgedly depicts only a God of love.

The Old Testament contains stories of God's commanding the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, the annihilation of the Canaanites and many other stories of God's judgement and wrath. The accusers claim this demonstrates a primitive warlike deity in contradiction to the advanced teaching of Jesus to love one another and to turn the other cheek, as contained in the Sermon on the Mount.

In the case of the Amorites, God gave them hundreds of years to repent, yet they did not. Noah preached 120 years to his generation before the great flood, but they would not turn toward God.

The true picture of God in the Old Testament is one of the very patient God who gives these people untold opportunities to repent and come into harmony with Him, and only when they continually refuse does He judge and punish them for their evil deeds.

II Peter 3:9 says, "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to usward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."

Ezekiel 18:23 (Living Bible) says, "Do you think I like to see the wicked die? ask the Lord. Of course not! I only want him to turn from his wicked ways and live."

We find judgement as well as love scattered very pervasively throughout the New Testament, and love and mercy as well as judgement throughout the Old Testament. God is consistent and unchanging, but different situations call for different emphasis. Therefore, when the two testaments are read the way they were intended, they reveal the same holy God who is very rich in mercy, but who will not let sin go unpunished.

If you have any questions that you would like to have answered from the Bible, please write Pastor Don Peres, Box 129, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

500 Retired Educators At Convention

More than 500 delegates attended the Retired Educators association of Minnesota (REAM) convention at the Duluth Normandy Inn recently. Representatives from Thief River Falls area locals attending the convention included Dr. and Mrs. David Brown, Goodridge; Myrtle Myrin and Bertha Hastad, Thief River Falls; Edna Casey, Red Lake Falls; and Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Knutson, Oklee.

Featured speakers were Dr. W.M. Swenson of Rochester and Reatha Clark King from Metropolitan state university. Since REAM works very closely with the Minnesota Senior federation, discussions focused on common problems of retirement plans, health insurance, legal and investment plans.

The REAM Northland local meets the third Wednesday of every month at 1:30 p.m. at the Thief River Falls regional library. All area retired educators are encouraged to attend. The next state convention will be held at Rochester on October 9, 1982.

On the national level the REAM becomes the National Retired Teachers association (NRTA) while the Minnesota Senior federation become the American association for Retired Persons (AARP) with one card of combined services. The N.W. Senior federation maintains offices in Thief River Falls at 202 East Second street. Its annual meeting will be held at the Best Western in Thief River Falls on December 10.

Council Passes Ordinance . . .

Possession Of Tobacco By Minors Made Illegal

Proposed use hearing on revenue sharing funds, an ordinance on tobacco possession by minors, and setting of polling hours were among subjects handled by the Thief River Falls city council in council chambers at the city auditorium Tuesday evening.

Two requests to be placed on the proposed revenue sharing budget were approved at the meeting. Rev. J. M. Hovland requested that $2,000 be budgeted for the Falls delivered meals program, and Randall Noper, representing the board of directors of Pioneer Village, requested that Inga Geving, director of the Pioneer Village, be given a salary of $3,300 per year. A letter signed by the board members stated, "We, of the board, feel very strongly that she should receive some compensation for her responsibilities and dedication to making that Village what it is today." The letter referred to the $3,300 as a "token salary for expenditures of time and responsibility." The request was approved.

No action was required, as the proposed use hearing is primarily intended to receive requests. A second hearing to set the budget is planned for December 8, at which time formal action could be taken on all City budgets for 1982.

With an anticipated 1982 revenue sharing income of $73,673, and $15,000 remaining from the 1981 budget plus about $2,000 interest, the city has a total anticipated revenue of $90,673. The total requested expenditures for the year total $75,200.

A request from the police department for an ordinance to help control smoking by high school students was again brought before the council. Juvenile officer Jim Haugen stated that a previous ordinance making it illegal for persons under the age of 18 to smoke was currently being tested by the kids. "It's pretty tough to walk up on five or six kids and they've all got cigarettes, but only one is smoking," he said. A requested ordinance making it a petty misdemeanor for persons under the age of 18 to possess cigarettes or tobacco related devices was passed by the council. Haugen commented that the ordinance would also improve their ability to deal with marijuana use.

City Clerk Jerry Wigness noted that the seven election judges in each of five wards, it was costing the city nearly $100 an hour to keep the polls open during an election, and suggested that since the only "race" was in the second ward, the polls could be opened at noon and closed at 8 p.m. on November 3. Council members agreed with the suggestions and passed a resolution to that effect.

In other business the council:

— granted city Planner Jack Quinlivan approval to apply for a state land use grant, to be used to develop controls necessary to implement the proposed comprehensive plan, dealing with new zoning ordinances for Thief River Falls and the two-mile limit. A hearing will be held the first of the year.

— as a creditor of Arctic Enterprises, (over $13,000; received a ballot for accepting or rejecting the plan for reorganization as part of bankruptcy proceedings. The plan was accepted.

— approved spending $500 for a feasibility study to determine suitability of the old library building as a senior citizen center. The study is necessary before applications for grants to improve the building can be applied for. Alderman Amborse Wysoski, chairing the meeting in the absence of Mayor Carlson noted that if the project of renovating the building was undertaken, the city would be committed to maintain it for 10 years. He also noted that such a project would not affect other residents of the building such as the nursery school.

— requested a feasibility study for proposed improvements to the alley between the new library, Bridgeman's and the medical office building. Proposed are a 24 foot alley with a six foot sidewalk. An estimated cost of $20,000 per party involved was mentioned.

— approved the purchase of a pickup and tar wagon by the street department with 1981 budgeted funds. The items were previously on the 1982 proposed budget.

— approved an agreement with the aeronautics division for state aids for maintenance and operation of the airport. The state will participate in a two-thirds basis, not to exceed $40,000 each year. This agreement will be good until June 30, 1982.

— approved spending up to $3,500 to have the City Code book brought up to date. It was last codified in 1977, and 53 ordinances have been passed since then.

— set a hearing for 7 p.m. November 10 on assessments for water lines installed on Fifth Street and sewer mains installed on Dewey Avenue. Alderman Bill Penning questioned the cost of engineering on the project, and asked Dave Kildahl of Stewart and Walker to provide a more detailed statement at the hearing.

— approved a progression raise for Donovan Erlandson of the street department to $1281 per month, effective October 1, 1981.

— received notice that Inter-City Gas Corporation has filed a rate increase. A hearing will be held at the Pennington County Court House, at 2 p.m. October 22.

— received notice from the Pennington County Assessor that the cost of assessing the city for 1982 would be raised to $17,000 from $15,000.

— asked to arrange a meeting with county commissioners to discuss an operations and maintenance agreement regarding Ditch 80. Opinions were expressed that the city was picking up more than their share of the costs. Alderman J.J. Womack commented that the maintenance "could become very expensive."

— moved to hold another "Local Government Day" on November 30, to include a dinner for HRA, Planning Commission, and Park Board members, and others as a "way of saying thank you" for their assistance.

Highway Funds To Be Subject At MGRI Meet

"There's no such thing as a free road," is the message coming from Washington. But, who should pay for Minnesota's roads, and what will be the federal government's role in future highway funding?

Timely answers to these tough questions will be provided at the next annual meeting of the Minnesota Good Roads, Inc. (MGRI), set for Thursday, Oct. 29 at the Sheraton Airport Inn, Bloomington.

Recent changes in federal government highway funding will be the topic of keynote speaker Francis B. Francois, executive director of the American Association of State, Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) of Washington, D.C.

Also at the meeting, a panel of agriculture and business-oriented highway users will discuss, "How much road can the user afford (and how to pay for it)?"

The day's agenda includes the panel discussionn at 10 a.m. and luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. with Francois speaking. The annual membership meeting and election of MGRI board of directors will follow.

CARPENTRY INSTRUCTOR Rod Johnson was on the job Tuesday at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, teaching a full class of 21 students in beginning carpentry. He is shown checking measurements on a scale model building which has been constructed with the use of blueprints. Johnson believes it is his Christian responsibility to his employers, his students and his Lord to continue his instruction. His students voted unanimously to continue the class and be in attendance and all 21 were on hand Tuesday morning.

Goodridge Area History Group Meets Saturday

Goodridge area historical society annual meeting will be conducted this Saturday beginning at 7:30 p.m. with a potluck supper at the Ethel Wiseth home.

Following the supper will be a business meeting, election of four directors, and the showing of the film "Seeds of Survival" depicting historical agriculture filmed at the Living History farm near Des Moines, Iowa. Everyone is welcome to attend.

It should also be noted that at the last regular city council meeting conducted in Goodridge, council members adopted a resolution declaring Goodridge a "Historical Town."

Resolution was presented by Norma Hanson, president of the Goodridge area histroical society and Marcella Hanson, secretary of the organization. Also present at the meeting were Dr. David Brown, treasurer and Bruce Bjerklie, board member.

It was noted that any projects that will be implemented by the society will be approved by the city council.

Permission was grented to the society at the meeting by council members to make improvements within the city of Goodridge by planting flower plots in the city park.

Minnesota Has 10 Recorded 'Quakes'

It happened at 11:55 a.m., January 28, 1939. Area newspapers received reports of dishes clattering, walls creaking, foundations rumbling. The epicenter of this earthquake was at Audubon.

Minnesotans are complacent about earthquakes, believing they don't happen amid show banks. But they do; witness the Morris tremors of 1975.

To keep watch over the Minnesota seismic zone, the Minnesota geological survey (MGS) and the nuclear regulatory commission (NRC) have placed seismographs throughout a belt running from Red Lake to south of the Twin Cities. Bemidji state university (BSU) recently became another observation post in the seismograph network.

"The seismograph is buried just north of town in the woods," explained BSU geology professor Dr. Robert C. Melchior. "We should be able to pick up underground nuclear tests in the Soviet Union and earthquakes at least as far away as the Aleutain Islands."

The instrument detects any earth tremor and feeds the information back to campus via telephone line where readings are monitored. The receiver and its readings are open for public view in the Sattgast second floor main office.

"Our job is to see that the instruments are kept in working order," continued Melchior. "We also maintain files of the readings." Seismograph data will be used in BSU geology classes to help students learn to interpret earthquakes.

The instruments were financed by the NRC and MGS primarily for academic reasons, according to Melchior. But Minnesotans have a practical interest in keeping watch on seismic occurrences.

Just how frequently can we expect to feel our businesses, schools and homes quake?

According to a report on the history of earthquakes in Minnesota by Harold M. Mooney of the University of Minnesota, our state is one of the lowest quake-risks in the nation. Only ten quakes have been recorded since 1860: Long Prairie (1960), New Prague (1866), Red Lake (1917), Staples (1917), Bowstring (1928), Detroit Lakes (1939), Alexandria (1950), Pipestone (1964), Morris (1975), and Sauk Centre (1979).

The earthquakes have been few and relatively nondestructive, with a maximum intensity of VII on the Mercalli scale. The Mercalli is roughly comparable to the Richter scale, which measures energy release magnitudes while the Mercalli measures visible surface effects such as ground damage and fatalities. According to the 1956 modified Mercalli, a VII quake would cause difficulty in standing upright, damage to masonry and furniture, dish clattering and waves on small ponds.

Even a few passive quakes can be a nuisance. Seismic occurrences affect building codes and, more notably, nuclear power plant design and location. Minnesota is rated as a seismic risk zone I (0 - minimum, 3 - maximum) by the uniform code of the international conference of building officials. This rating was amended in the state building code to zone 0, according to Mooney's report.

The NRC is interested in Minnesota seismic network readings because of ground stability implications for nuclear dump sites and power plants. Mooney's report places the Monticello plant "within the probably felt areas of three Minnesota quakes," and the Prairie Island reactor "within the felt area" of one quake.

Hazardous waste sites could also be affected by quakes. There are possible locations within the seismic belt, from Red Lake to the Twin Cities, but sites under consideration particularly to the north of the belt have displayed very little activity.

Minnesota lies on a very old, very stable part of the North American continental plate. Faults are few and their movement is infrequent, but inevitable. What is the probabilty of the quake exceeding VII? Of snowbanks and grain elevators collapsing into the bowels of the earth? According to Mooney, there is no way of knowing with certainty, but based on rough estimates, it may happen within the next 300 years.

CARRYING SIGNS proclaiming that the Thief River Falls Education association was on strike against School District 564, teachers walked picket lines Tuesday at all schools in the district. According to Mike Lehrer, president of the TRFEA, the strike involved 217 teachers who work in nine different buildings in the district. At the end of a mediation session held last week, the teachers and board of eudcation were $1,100 apart on request and offer for a two-year contract. The board had offered $4,500 as an average increase over the two-year period (22.9 per cent) and the TRFEA had requested $5,600 (28.2 per cent). Both figures are total figures, including fringe benefits.

Crop Forecast Generally Up From '80 Yield

First three weeks of September brought temperatures from normal to 10 degrees above normal and below average precipitation which was needed to accelerate the maturity of row crops that had fallen two weeks behind the five-year average during August.

By the end of September, row crops were about 1½ days behind the five-year average. Harvesting of corn, soybeans and sunflowers got underway about mid-month. There was a light freeze on September 17 and a killing frost on September 30.

Corn production as of October 1 is forecast at 737 million bushels, up three per cent from the September forecast. Acres for harvest remain the same, but yield per acre at 110 is up three bushels.

The soybean forescast at 155.1 million bushels remains unchanged from September 1.

Minnesota all wheat production is estimated at 144.9 million bushels, up five per cent from September forecast.

The first forecast of the sunflower crop places production at 887.5 million pounds, down 16 per cent from last year. Acreage for harvest at 710,000 remains unchanged from the June acreage survey.

Flax production at 1.2 million bushels is down 14 per cent from the previous month. Acres for harvest are unchanged but the estimated yield of 12.5 bushels per acre is down two bushels.

Dry edible beans are forecast at 1,339,000 hundred weight, unchanged from last month.

The state's sugarbeet production is forecast at 4.4 million tons, which is down three per cent from September 1. Acreage for harvest remains unchanged but yield per acre at 17 tons is down half a ton.

First forecast for fall potato production is estimated at 12,420,000 hundred weight, up 25 per cent from last year. Yield per acre is forecast at 180 hundred weight, compared to last year's 155.

Hay production is now estimated at 8 million tons, up 13 per cent from 1980. Acreage at 2.86 million is down from last year but yield at 2.81 tons per acre is up from 2.41.

Senator Gives Definition Of New Federalism

Senator Dave Durenberger outlined his definition of President Reagan's "new federalism" in his keynote speech to the National Association of Counties in Washington recently.

Durenberger told the conference, "Competition among each facet of government will be our means of keeping a check on the size of government's growth. The American people demanded a change from their elected officials, a government closer to the people. President Reagan promised that to the people when he was elected, and it will be carried out."

Durenberger is chairman of the Senate subcommittee on intergovernmental relations and a member of the advisory commission on intergovernmental relations and the presidential federalism advisory committee.

He told the county officials that the "new federalism" was "a return of responsibilities to state and local governments by a permanent reduction in the size of government, not just the same old fat bulging at different levels. It's nonsense to believe that state and local officials are somehow less compassionate or have less capacity for goodness than their federal counterparts. It's nonsense, of course, but widely believed around Congress," he said.

"People don't really need or want all the programs and regulations created by Congress in the last 20 years. The programs are a response to specific problems that could benefit from public expenditure, but the nature of the congressional process designs solutions and expenditures larger than they need to be.

"Local governments have always remained small because they can't tap the tax resources Congress can. Congress can falsely appear compassionate during the last 20 years because inflation alone let the federal government tax the income of our citizens at higher rates without lifting a finger to change the tax code. The indexing bill we passed in July won't allow for this any longer. The inflation bonus will no longer land in the lap of Congress after 1965.

"Competition among states and within states has placed a significant challenge with every governor, county commissioner and mayor in the nation. Sending a program to Washington to be funded from the national treasury has been an easy means to relieve local governments of this competitive burden. Sending the programs back is what the new federalism is all about; allowing those governments closest to the people to determine the best programs and the best solutions, reducing the size of government in America," Durenberger said.

The Minnesota senior senator promised that state and local government would not receive the new responsibilities without a reduction in federal red tape, bureaucracy and taxes.

International Horse Show Begins Thurs.

Three complete Appoloosa and quarter horse shows plus the open show will be conducted Thursday through Sunday at the Red River Valley winter shows building in Crookston during the 17th annual Great Midwest International horse show.

"This will be the first triple show we've held," said show secretary Tove Altepeter, Crookston. "We have received entries from Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan and Manitoba as well as throughout Minnesota and North and South Dakota."

Event begins with an Open show Thursday evening, featuring a jumping class, pleasure driving, tandem bareback and several horsemanship and game events.

"Friday, Saturday and Sunday will include halter and performance classes for registered quarter horses and Appaloosas," said show chairman Toby Solberg of Crookston. "Each day will feature 79 different classes."

"One of the highlights of the show will be the three go-arounds of the international barrel race," Solberg said. "The winner's times from each go-around will be averaged and the final results will be announced Sunday. The international barrel race trophy will be engraved with the winner's name and displayed at the winter shows building for the year."

Sunday afternoon's show will be highlighted by the final royal queen's ride and the coronation of the Agassiz riders queen for 1981-82. Reigning queen, Sue Tollefson of Crookston, will be hostess for the weekend equine extravaganza.

UMC Play To Involve Jury From Audience

Something new in theatricals will be the feature of the evening when the University of Minnesota — Crookston (UMC) Trojan Players present "Night of January 16th" in Bede Ballroom at 8 p.m. October 22, 23 and 24.

Play is one of the first in which the audience takes an integral part in the development and conclusion, according to Alice Moorhead, director of the Trojan Players.

As the audience enters, they may leave their names as candidates for jury duty. These names are given to the clerk of court, who places them in the drum, and the 12 that are drawn by lot are selected to serve.

Between the acts the jurors are led offstage to a small deliberation room. Each act represents one day of the trial. Just before the ending of the third act the jury retires for the last time to render a verdict. After a short discussion, for the sake of dramatic brevity, a majority vote is taken as decisive for this trial.

Woody Biomass Study Reviewed

Dr. Rouse Farnham

Insight into research being conducted by the University of Minnesota on woody biomass was presented to the Thief River Falls Rotary club meeting Monday by Dr. Rouse Farnham, professor of soil science at the university in St. Paul.

The program, to which members of the Thief River Falls Lions club were also invited, was arranged through the Minnesota Energy agency.

Dr. Farnham is considered an expert in peat soils and is a consultant to the state of Alaska on management of its 110 million acres of peatlands. He has visited Scandinavian countries and Ireland to study peat use which has been underway in those countries for many years.

Noting that Minnesota has a huge advantage over other states in the availability of land, Dr. Farnham said his research has been directed toward the production of alder, willow and hybrid poplar as an energy source. Much of the work to date has been done in the laboratory at the University of Minnesota and on peatland offered to the university studies by the Iron Range Resources commission near Eveleth.

The woody biomass from alder, willow and poplar can be converted into a number of energy sources, he said. Harvesting technology is being devised to cut the crop on a two to five-year rotation basis. By harvesting after the woody plants have dropped their leaves, he said, it appears that little fertilization is necessary to maintain stands which replenish themselves from shoots after cutting. Research in other countries indicates that replanting is not necessary more often than every 40 to 50 years.

Dr. Farnham used slides to illustrate how selected species of desirable plants are propagated in the laboratory and greenhouse and transplanted in the experimental plots. He also showed seedbed preparation and growth of the plants which are selected for hardiness in the Minnesota climate.

Citing Minnesota's necessity to purchase energy from other sources, Dr. Farnham showed how it would be a major economic advantage to the state to produce a portion of its own energy needs. That aspect of energy development from alternative energy sources needs to become more generally known, he said.

Dr. Farnham also said he believes a portion of the peatlands can be mined for direct use of the peat, leaving a base of about 18 inches of peat for growing of energy crops. "It's not like an iron mine where you leave a great big hole in the ground that won't produce anything else," he said.

Lung Ass'n. Issues 1981 Annual Report

Containing a description of the Christmas Seal supported programs and services directed at the prevention and control of lung disease in this state, the 1980-81 annual report of the American Lung association of Minnesota (formerly the Minnesota Lung association) has just been released.

Alluding to the 14 per cent increase in contributed income over the previous year, state lung association president Mildred B. Deanovic says, "It is my hope that such increased resources will enable the organization to expand services and respond to the unmet health needs of Minnesotans."

Year-around health activities mentioned in the report include free lung function testing of the high risk population in the state; professional seminars in chronic obstructive pulmonary diseease for nurses and respiratory therapists in five locations across Minnesota; Camp Superkids, the camp for children in the state who suffer from asthma; efforts to help people stop smoking, deter elementary school youngsters from beginning to smoke, and educate the public about the rights of nonsmokers; the campaign to promote clean air; and medical research into sudden infant death syndrome and emphysema.

The report concludes with the lung association's financial statement pertaining to the 1980-81 fiscal year. Total public support and revenue in fiscal 1981 was $1,042,894. Expenses were $990,986 for the same period. Year-end fund balance was $967,686.

Gov. Quie's Column

Charting Taxes and Spending Patterns

Taxes and spending are major issues facing our state.

To illustrate my administration's efforts to reduce taxes and hold down state spending this column will concentrate on two key areas: indexing income taxes and curtailing welfare spending.

Indexing Tax Relief

First, indexing. Indexing keeps your taxes from rising faster than inflation. In effect, indexing inflation proofs your taxes. With my urging, indexing was enacted in Minnesota in 1979.

With indexing you will not automatically be pushed into a higher tax bracket, (where you will be taxed at a higher percentage) if your salary is increased to match the rising cost of living. With indexing you may move into that higher tax bracket only if your salary rises faster than inflation.

Let's look at what indexing tax relief will mean to an individual family. According to the Minnesota Department of Revenue, with indexing, a family of four that earned $15,000 in 1979, and assuming that income keeps pace with inflation each year, will in 1990, pay $951 in income taxes. Without indexing, that same family will pay $2273. That's a difference of $1322 in that one tax year alone. In total, using current dollars, this family will save $6769 from 1979 to 1990 due to indexing.

Further, indexing holds elected officials accountable. Before indexing, lawmakers could count on increased tax revenues without ever having a vote for a tax increase. Now before than can take a higher percentage of your income in taxes, they will have to vote for a tax increase and then stand their own test at the polls.

Indexing is only one part of nearly $4 billion in total tax cuts enacted during my first term as governor. Of that $4 billion, indexing income taxes will save Minnesotans nearly $1 billion in the first four years of my administration. Property tax savings amount to $2.9 billion of the total tax savings from 1979 to 1982.

Holding Down State Spending

Since 1978 significant progress has been made in curtailing state spending. The 1979-81 biennial budget represented only a 14.8 per cent increase over the previous biennium. The current 1981-83 biennial budget is only an 18.3 per cent increase over 1979-81. These two budgets are the two smallest increases since records have been kept in their current form (1963).

Holding down the rapidly increasing costs of welfare programs has been one of the major goals of my administration.

The most dramatic welfare spending proposal for the 1981-83 biennium was a 53 per cent requested increase in income maintenance programs. (These programs include medical ssistance, General Assistance Medical Care (GAMC), Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), catastrophic health, Minnesota supplemental aid and general assistance.) After close scrunity, I proposed and the Legislature enacted a more reasonably 18 per cent increase in the funding for income maintenance programs.

By cutting taxes and holding down spending, Minnesota mirrors the economic policies of the Reagan Administration. These policies represent a policy of smaller government — a commitment to stop the growth of government and to give people only as much government as they want — only as much government as they can afford.

If the Thief River Falls teacher's strike continues and the Lincoln high school football team is forced to forfeit the rest of its 1981 schedule, the Prowlers will put an 0-9 record into the books, becoming the first Lincoln football team to go through a winless campaign since 1923.

On the gridiron the Prowlers were competitive, but winless this fall, losing to Grand Forks Red River 29-0, Detroit Lakes 13-8, Grand Rapids 13-6, Staples 15-14, Moorhead 16-0 and Bemidji 3-0 in overtime. With school officials here following a Minnesota State High School League (MSHSL) edict that calls for forfeits in the case where games are not played in the event of a teacher's strike, the Prowlers will be forfeiting their final three scheduled starts: Friday, October 16, at Fergus Falls; Friday, October 23, at East Grand Forks; and Friday, October 30, vs. Crookston.

Actually, that 1981 season finale would go into the record books as a double forfeit, according to the MSHSL, if both teacher's groups remain on their current strike status.

The 1907 football team was the first athletic squad to represent Thief River Falls high school. A complete list of won-lost records dates back to 1915, and since that year only two football teams have failed to win a game: 1923 squad that was 0-7 and the 1918 team that was 0-1 when the schedule was curtailed because of a flu epidemic.

The 1977 Prowlers came close to finishing winless, going 1-8 with only a 6-0 victory over East Grand Forks in the next-to-the-last game of the season.

EGF Eyes Football Playoffs

After writing last week that it didn't appear as if northwestern Minnesota would be represented in the 1981 Class A Minnesota State High School League state football playoffs, East Grand Forks has suddenly emerged as a likely candidate for post-season play.

The Green Wave collected an important 13-7 victory over Crookston Friday for a 3-3 season record, and will need to win two of their remaining three games to earn a Class A playoff berth. One of those wins must be a Friday, October 16, victory over Thief River Falls since the Green Wave, Pirates and Prowlers are involved in a three-way MSHSL arrangement as Class A independents. However, East Grand Forks may be collecting a 2-0 forfeit win over the Prowlers because of the teacher's strike here.

That would mean East Grand Forks would need to beat either Devils Lake Friday or Fergus Falls in the season finale to finish the required 5-4 and gain a playoff spot.

Miscellaneous

+Teacher's strikes in the area have forced officials to switch sites for a pair of high school cross country meets next week. The Tuesday, October 20, Northwest Athletic Conference meet, scheduled to be held at Crookston, will instead be run at Bemidji, while the Saturday, October 24, Region 8AA meet, scheduled to be held at St. Cloud, will instead be conducted at Alexandria.

+Kris Longfellow, grandson of John and Alice Wold of Thief River Falls and son of Judith Longfellow, a 1960 Lincoln high school graduate, was a recent participant in the Dixie youth baseball World Series held in Bartow, Fla. Kris, a member of the Rockdale, Georgia 11-12-year-old state championship team, is a hard-throwing lefthanded pitcher and outfielder who set a new Georgia state tournament stolen base record. Rockdale finished third in the World Series tournament that featured teams from Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi.

Clearbrook Is 40-6 Winner Over Cardinals

Clearbrook seemingly had an easy time against the Plummer defense Tuesday if you go by the Hornets' 40-6 margin of victory. But it was the Cardinals' offense that had to shoulder much of the blame for the North Tri County Conference football loss.

"Our offense gave up too many points," explained Plummer coach Gary Brantl, who watched Clearbrook score 20 points off his offense on a blocked punt, a safety and two interceptions that were returned for touchdowns.

"Actually, defensively we played pretty well after the first quarter," noted Brantl. "But our offense just didn't perform."

Clearbrook led 28-0 at halftime and had a 34-0 cushion before the Cardinals' Dean Sletten scored on a 20-yard fourth quarter run.

Plummer, 2-5, will play Gonvick-Trail Tuesday at Gonvick.

A BUMP by Northland community college freshman Kelly Thompson of McIntosh kept the ball in play Tuesday as the Northwomen faced the North Dakota State School of Science (NDSSS) in a college volleyball match played in the Northland gym. The visitors went home with a 15-13, 15-6, 15-11 sweep in the three-out-of-five game match.

Northmen To Challenge Fergus Falls Saturday

According to the pollsters, the Northland community college football team will be facing its toughest test of the 1981 season Saturday when the Northmen trave to Fergus Falls for a 1:30 p.m. Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) game against the unbeaten Northwest division-leading Spartans.

Fergus Falls, 5-0 for the year, is rated No. 14 in the national junior college athletic association (NJCAA) football polls.

"Fergus Falls apparently has a very fine football team," confirmed Northland coach John Helley. "They have lots of numbers (players) and a strong bench. They have a strong team."

The Spartans have had an easy time of it in five Northern Division starts, beating Mesabi 35-0, Vermilion 21-0, Hibbing 25-0, Brainerd 34-18 and Itasca 49-3 last week, although the Vikings were only down 14-3 at the half in that one.

Northland, meanwhile, is 2-3, having beaten the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) 26-13 and Hibbing 9-0 last week while losing to Golden Valley Lutheran 19-7, Mesabi 15-0 and Vermilion 7-6.

"We're going down there and give it our best shot," noted Helley, who realizes the Northmen face a difficult task. "We'll have to have a good day, no doubt about that. We've been playing good defense. If we can contain them, and just get our offense clicking . . ."

The offense. Its taken the brunt of the criticism this fall, seemingly undermining outstanding Northland defensive play week after week. In fact, last week it was the Northland defense that did the scoring with a safety and a fumble return by defensive lineman Mark Stock producing the 9-0 homecoming win over Hibbing.

However, Helley says the offense really hasn't been as ineffective as some people think. "Our stats aren't that bad," he said. "We're outgaining our opponents; we have 1,200 yards in five games; Wiebolt (quarterback Scott Wiebolt) is passing 50 per cent; and I think we've shown more versatility than our opponents with the shotgun, the I and the wishbone."

"But its been between the 20's," he admitted. "We just need a little better execution, that's all."

Northland will go into the game at full strength. Defensive end Dean Dokkin, who injured an ankle against Vermilion and did not play against Hibbing, will be in uniform Saturday.

After visiting Fergus Falls the Northmen will finish the season with games Saturday, October 24, vs. Itasca on the Thief River Falls athletic field and Saturday, October 31, at Brainerd.

North Half Region 8AA Tournament . . .

Prowlers Lose To Jills In Tennis Semifinals

Bemidji surprised Crookston and Thief River Falls Monday with quarterfinal and semifinal wins in the 1981 North Half Region 8AA girls high school tennis tournament.

Crookston, the Northwest Athletic Conference champion earlier this month, fell to the Lumberjills 5-0 in opening round play, while Thief River Falls, the tournament's No. 2 seed, lost to the surprising Bemidji squad 3-2 in the semifinals after registering a 3-2 first round victory over East Grand Forks.

The matches, originally scheduled to be played in Thief River Falls, were moved to Bemidji because of rain here. The Bemidji-Crookston and the Thief River Falls-East Grand Forks matches were played Monday morning inside the compact confines of the Nymore arena. The Bemidji-Thief River Falls semifinal match was moved outdoors.

"We beat them four times this year, but sometimes you just run out of luck," said Thief River Falls coach Whitey Olson.

Bemidji took Thief River Falls at No. 1 and No. 2 singles and at No. 2 doubles.

In singles play, the Lumberjills' Wendy Enright handled Christie LaCoursiere 6-2, 6-2 while teammate Jill Dunphy defeated Amy Thorstad 6-3, 6-0. Clinching the triumph, Bemidji's Kelly Downs and Leslie Erickson stopped Marsha Erickson and Penny Johnston 6-4, 6-0 at No. 2 doubles.

Winning for the Prowlers were Kim Lawrenz, a come-from-behind 4-6, 6-3, 6-2 winner over Kristi Bahr at No. 3 singles, along with Michelle Olson and Nancy Swasnon, easy 6-1, 6-1 winners over Jenny Smith and Judy Solhim at No. 1 doubles.

The Prowlers also had a more difficult time than expected against lightly-regarded East Grand Forks in the quarterfinals when the Green Wave came up with wins by Barb Summerlin and Angie Dallmann at No. 1 and No. 2 singles, respectively. But Thief River Falls swept the double matches and the margin of victory came on an East Grand Forks forfeit at No. 3 singles.

Bemidji swept Crookston in surprising straight-set fashion.

Olson acknowledged that the start of a scheduled teacher strike Tuesday probably affected the play of the Prowlers. Even with a pair of wins Monday, Thief River Falls would have been forced to forfeit the title match Tuesday because of the strike. Crookston was in the same situation.

"It's difficult to play well when you know you can't go on," admitted Olson.

Detroit Lakes, the tournament's No. 1 seed, won the North Half Region 8AA event with a 5-0 victory over Bemidji Tuesday. The Lakers had received a first round bye Monday while Moorhead eliminated Fergus Falls 4-1. Detroit Lakes then blanked Moorhead 5-0 in the semifinals that afternoon.

The Prowlers finished with an 11-2 dual meet record this fall. The strike will also force Thief River Falls to miss the individual portion of the 1981 North Half Region 8AA tournament, scheduled to be held today (Wednesday) at the Grand Forks Tennis Centre.

Bemidji 3, TRF 2

1. Wendy Enright (Bemidji) def. Christie LaCoursiere 6-2, 6-2.
2. Jill Dunphy (Bemidji) def. Amy Thorstad 6-3, 6-0.

TRFAHA Will Meet Monday

Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA) will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in room A16 at Northland community college.

Junior Varsity Football Team Is Beaten 8-0

A fumble late in the fourth quarter deep in Thief River Falls territory set up the game's only touchdown Monday as Grand Forks Central defeated the Lincoln high school junior varsity football team 8-0 at Cushman Field in Grand Forks.

The loss left Thief River Falls winless in three junior varsity starts this fall.

TWO NORTHLAND community college defenders — Kelly Thompson (6) and Deb Koskela (2) — went up in the air in an attempt to block a shot by Carla Arnhalt (45) of North Dakota State School of Science Tuesday afternoon in a college volleyball match played in the Northland gym. NDSSS swept the match 15-13, 15-6, 15-11.

Northwomen Lose Tuesday Match 3-0

Northland community college volleyball team, enjoying a great deal of success in the Northwest Division this fall where the Northwomen are 3-0, ventured outside divisional play Tuesday and came up empty-handed as a strong North Dakota State School of Science (NDSSS) swept the three-out-of-five game match 15-13, 15-6, 15-11 in the Northland gym.

The results left Northland with a 9-8 overall record. The Northwomen will wait until Friday, October 23, when they'll return to action against Northwest Division foe Brainerd.

Best volleyball yesterday afternoon came in the first game. The hard-hitting action featured great spikes, blocks, saves and sets on both sides. It was 13-13 before NDSSS collected the final two points.

"That was very good volleyball," acknowledged Northland coach Deb Jacobson. "Maybe if we would have won that one things might have been different."

But NDSSS won, and the visitors dominated play in the second game en route to an easy 15-6 win. They pretty much controlled things in the final game, too, building an early lead and coasting to a 15-11 victory made close at the end by a Northland rally.

"They're a real good team," pointed out Jacobson. "They're hard to play because they cover everything. We started to panic. They started thinking they had to do things not in their own area."

Northland's 1981 volleyball roster includes just two sophomores — Kathy Walker of Thief River Falls and Vicki Troska of Goodridge. The freshman on the team include Deb Koskela, Diane Zimpel and Kathy Skjerven of Plummer; Kelly Thompson, McIntosh; Shelly Taggart, Greenbush; Marlys Huot, Thief River Falls; and Kay Sorenson, Warren.

NDSSS' line-up included Warren sophomores Jill and Jodi Carlson.

John Campbell Will Address TRF Group

John Campbell will be the guest speaker Monday at a meeting of the Thief River Falls chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International at 7:30 p.m. in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

A Wadena native, Campbell enjoyed success as a member of the University of Minnesota football team and played 12 years in the National Football League. Now living in Burnsville, he is a frequent speaker at Christian Businessmen's Committees and a Full Gospel Businessmen's meetings. He also performs chapel services for the Minnesota Vikings and other visiting NFL teams. In addition, he coaches youth baseball, football and hockey teams.

At the University of Minnesota, Campbell played on a national championship team in 1960; appeared in the 1961 and 1962 Rose Bowl with the Gophers; earned All-Big Ten honors as an end in 1962; and played in six years with the Baltimore Colts. He was named to the NFL All-Pro team in 1968.

The presentation by Campbell is open free of charge to the public. A free-will offering will be taken.

Deer Hunters Told To Fold Tags Gently

Department of Natural Resources told deer hunters this week that some of the metal tags that are suppled with the deer licenses are breaking when they are folded.

Hunters commonly fold the long slender metal tags in order to carry them comfortably in their hunting coat.

DNR enforcement officials said hunters should not put a sharp crease in the tags when folding them, since this is what causes them to snap.

They said hunters who have their tag break should contact the nearest conservation officer who will supply them with a substitute tag upon receipt of the broken one.

Nordics Get Forfeit Win From Prowlers . . .

Marshall County Central Unbeaten In Volleyball

Unbeaten Marshall County Central high school volleyball team collected its easiest win of the 1981 season Tuesday when the Thief River Falls teacher's strike presented the Nordics with a forfeit victory over the Prowlers, who were scheduled to host last night's match.

Thief River Falls girls also had to forfeit a Tuesday dual swimming meet against Detroit Lakes in the Franklin middle school pool and members of the Lincoln high school cross country team were not able to compete that afternoon in the Park Rapids invitational as planned.

Start of the strike here Tuesday also immediately cancelled Thief River Falls' participation in today's (Wednesday) individual portion of the North Half Region 8AA girls tennis tournament and forced the Lincoln football team to hand Fergus Falls an early 2-0 forfeit decision for Friday's scheduled game on the Otters' field.

Marshall County Central volleyball coach Sarah Ackerman was looking forward to playing Thief River Falls. She figured it would have been a good test for her 14-0 Nordics, who have lost just three of 25 games this fall. They wrapped up a perfect 12-0 North Border Conference championship campaign Monday with a 14-18, 18-7, 18-2 victory at home against Badger.

"We have a very well-balanced team," explained Ackerman, who isn't afraid to praise her squad. "We have an excellent team," she says matter-of-factly.

What the Nordics have, according to Ackerman, is "four top spikers," in junior Sue Olson and senior Dorene Larson, who both have 55 aces in 25 games; senior Jill Johnson, with 46 aces; and senior Nancy Halvorson, with 32.

They also have "two excellent servers," she says, in seniors Tamie Anderson, who has 83 assists, and Shelly Hodne, who has 52.

And they're all capable servers, headed by Anderson, who has misfired on just one serve in 147 attempts, and Hodne, who leads the team with 43 aces out of 146 serves.

In addition to those six starters, senior Diane Maki sees action off the bench and is described by Ackerman as "a good attacker."

"We scramble a lot," Ackerman mentioned. "They really hustle."

Marshall County Central will be the favorite when District 32 tournament play starts November 3, but Ackerman says, "It won't be easy. It wasn't last year and it won't be this year." A year ago the Nordics had title thoughts, but watched as Kennedy walked off with the top prize.

And if they win a district title, the Nordics will have to contend with the likes of Red Lake Falls, Alvarado and Fosston at the Region 8A tournament, scheduled to be held at the new University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC) gymnasium. The Eagles, Indians and Greyhounds, along with the Nordics, are all considered state tournament-calibre volleyball teams.

Marshall County Central will be idle until Thursday, October 22, when the Nordics host Greenbush.

Eagles' Rally Beats Bears In Volleyball

Trailing 14-1 in the third and deciding game, Grygla-Gatzke rallied for a 19-17 victory and a 2-1 win over Lake of the Woods Monday in a high school volleyball match played at Grygla.

The Eagles opened with an 18-14 first-game decision, but the Bears eked out a 19-17 second game triumph and appeared to be on the verge of winning the third game when the hosts began their rally.

"That was a long ways to come back," acknowledged Grygla-Gatzke coach Curt Vandermeer.

The rally began with Sherri Anderson serving nine straight points to narrow the gap to 14-10. Becky Klein came off the bench and served the Eagles' to 15 points and Kim McLean got the last four points.

Anderson finished with 14 service points for the night, with McLean adding 12.

Grygla-Gatzke, 5-9 for the year, will be idle until a Tuesday, October 20, match at Middle River.

Voluntary Aid Boost For DNR

Nearly 10,000 unpaid citizen volunteers assisted the Department of Natural Resources on various programs during the 12-month period ending June 30, 1981, it was announced recently.

Officials said the total cost of the services provided by volunteers, if performed by salaried staff, would be over one million dollars.

Huskies Lose To Bulldogs

Goodridge scored first and last, but in between Gonvick-Trail scored more and won a 36-8 North Tri County Conference high school football game played Tuesday night at Goodridge.

The Huskies opened the scoring in the first quarter on a two-yard run by Ken Frazer. But a 24-yard pass from Mike Birkeland to Chad Bergerson and a 63-yard run by Al Wolden put the Bulldogs ahead 16-6 at the end of the first quarter.

It was 22-6 at halftime and 36-6 before Goodridge scored again, this time on a fourth quarter safety registered by Bob Miller, who made a tackle in the Gonvick-Trail end zone for the two-pointer.

"We had some kids who played really, really well," explained Goodridge coach Rick Nelson, "and we had some others who left their socks in the lockerroom."

The win improved the Bulldogs' record to 6-1. They'll host Plummer next Tuesday. The loss dropped the Huskies to 1-6. They'll be on the road Tuesday for a game against rival Grygla-Gatzke.

"We plainly got beat by a really nice ball club," noted Nelson. "They do a lot of things really well."

Nelson praised the play of Miller, Frazer and Bob Kiesow. "They played a real good ball game," he said.

Gonvick-Trail 36, Goodridge 8; Middle River 44, Mentor 6; Clearbrook 40, Plummer 6; Erskine 36, Oklee 6; McIntosh-Winger 34, Grygla-Gatzke 14.

Schedule

Tues., Oct. 20 — Goodridge at Grygla-Gatzke; McIntosh-Winger at Middle River; Plummer at Gonvick-Trail; Oklee at Mentor; Clearbrook at Erskine.

MIDDLE RIVER ball carrier Steve Bentson (44) tried to avoid an Erskine tackler Friday in the Skippers' key 13-12 win over the Comets in a match-up of unbeaten North Tri County Conference rivals at Middle River. Others in the photo include the Skippers' Jeff Cwikla (46), Doug Kilen (3), Ryan Johnson (84) and Jon Neumann (85), who was providing a block. (Photo by Alice Hofstad).

Steve Bengtson scored three touchdowns and rushed for 106 yards Tuesday afternoon to lead unbeaten Middle River past winless Mentor 44-6 in a North Tri County Conference high school football game played at Middle River.

It was the Skippers' seventh straight win this year. They'll try to wrap up at least a tie for the conference crown and assure themselves of a post-season nine-man Minnesota State High School League football playoff berth Tuesday when they host McIntosh-Winger.

Bengtson, who carried the ball 18 times for his 106 yards, scored on a one-yard plunge in the first quarter, added a seven-yard touchdown run to start the second quarter and broke free on a 37-yard scoring play to open the second half.

Middle River also picked up a safety in the first quarter when Ryan Johnson blocked a Mentor punt that went out of the end zone for an 8-0 lead.

It was 22-6 at halftime on the strength of touchdown runs by Bengtson and Doug Kilen, who scored from two yards out.

The Skippers did all the second half scoring as they rolled up 315 yards on the ground. Kilen scored twice and rushed for 77 yards on 12 carries to complement Bengtson's runnning.

Meanwhile, at Erskine, the Comets captalized on numerous Oklee turnovers to collect a 36-6 win Tuesday.

Erskine led 14-6 at halftime, with Oklee nearly scoring on a long pass play on the final snap of the half in an effort to tie it up. Rest of the points came in the third quarter.

Oklee scored on a second quarter 37-yard pass from John Cyr to Jon Lindquist, then nearly pulled off a nifty play at the very end of the half when Cyr passed to Kevin Enerson, who passed downfield to Matt Radniecki, who picked up 55 yards before being tripped up at the Erskine three-yard line.

The Bobcats got most of their offense in the air, passing for 187 yards, 132 of it on the arm of Cyr. Ricky Dulka led the Oklee defensive charts.

Oklee, 3-4, will be at Mentor Tuesday.

A SPECIAL PRESENTATION was made Friday by the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters club to the Lincoln high school football team during the 1981 Lincoln homecoming program in the school gymnasium. "The "Spark Plug Award" was given by the Boosters' Al Christofferson (center) to Lincoln team captain Rob Jorstad and head coach John Schmitz for the Prowlers' outstanding defensive play this fall. The team earned admiration from fans and from oposing players and coaches for their excellent defensive work in all six starts. However, the offense wasn't as effective and the result was six straight losses. That night the defense did it again, but the results didn't change as the Prowlers lost a 3-0 decision to Bemidji in overtime.

Subcommittee On Housing To Meet In TRF

At the invitation of Rep. LeRoy Stumpf, District 1B, the House of Representatives housing subcommittee will hold a public hearing in Thief River Falls at 7 p.m., Tuesday, October 20. The meeting will take place in the city auditorium.

Purpose of the hearing is to provide an opportunity for the public to testify on a wide variety of issues concerning manufactured housing and mobile homes.

Issues of concern to the subcommittee include mobile home court safety, mobile home landlord tenant law, antitrust issues and the enforcement of laws regulating mobile homes.

In conjunction with these issues the subcommittee will be looking at such questions as: Should mobile home courts be responsible for paying for such shelters? Should state law mandate that mobile homes be anchored or tied down? Is legislation necessary to clarify mobile home park practices such as requiring mobile home park prospective tenants to purchase mobile homes from park owners as a prerequisite to renting space in the park?

Stumpf said individuals who have concerns or want to comment on the issues will have the opportunity to testify before the subcommittee. He suggested that anyone whishing to testify should call committee administrator Mike Kuehn by writing to Minnesota House of Representatives, Room 337, State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155, or calling (612) 296-0518.

Board Of Realtors Oct. Meet Held

Guest speaker at the Thief River Falls area board of realtors October meeting was Einar Olafson, Grand Forks, North and South Dakota president of the Farm Land Institute (FLI) and realtor of the year in 1980.

Olafson's discussion concerned the advantages of extending realtor education through FLI and learning more about farm evaluations in this area.

Jan Kramer gave a report on the state convention in Rochester and explained the work of the Minnesota board of realtors in helping to reduce interest rates.

New members named to the board are John Eisbrener, T. Pauling and Leona Muxxy.

School District Teachers Go On Strike Tuesday with morning pickets drawing afternoon duty for the following week and afternoon pickets working the morning shift.

Picket lines will generally be in effect from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., except at the area vocational-technical institute where school hours are normally different from other schools in the district.

Headquarters for the striking TRFEA have been located in the 200 block of Main av. N. in space formerly occupied by the Twice But Nice used clothing store. Called the "Crisis Headquarters", the area serves as an organizational center for strike activities and may be contacted by phone 681-4826.

Negotiation On Board Agenda Monday Night

Strandquist school districts — is operated in the school district service center building and staffed by Thief River Falls instructors. Only two of those instructors crossed picket lines Tuesday and no classes are being held.

In addition to Thief River Falls students, the center involves 38 students from Newfolden, 18 from Middle River, 33 from Goodridge, 14 from Plummer (plus 19 in a building trades class at Plummer with an instructor there) and 16 from Strandquist (plus 16 attending Lincoln high school courses).

Since all of those five cooperating schools are in session, they must make alternate arrangements for the students who would normally spend two to three hours away from their home schools while traveling to and from and attending classes at Thief River Falls.

"My understanding is that all of the schools are attempting to provide some form of career education for their students during these first days of the strike," said Dick Kotschevar, director of the high school vocational center. "What the result will be if the strike continues for an extended period of time is presently unknown."

Kotschevar said he had also been in contract with the state department of education and has been informed that there are no other districts in the state involved in similar circumstances at this time. Should a strike cut the required hours needed for vocational instruction of students under the program, a special request of the legislature may become necessary, he was informed.

Strike Affects Programs At Local AVTI

structor was on hand and that course has been postponed for the duration of the strike.

All adult evening classes scheduled through the AVTI have also been postponed for the duration of the strike, Gunderson added.

The director advised students to be in contact with their financial aid sources to become familiar with the strike's effect on aid. He also said the FM radio station at the school, KAVS, continues to operate with student management in order to retain its licensure.

Offices at the vocational school will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and applications will continue to be received for this year's programs as well as enrollment for the 1982-83 school year, Gunderson added. Students and their parents from area schools are invited to visit the school and they will be given tours and accommodated by the administration and non-certified personnel.

"We want to retain the students who have allowed us to set a record enrollment this year," Gunderson said, "and to emphasize continued effort in attracting students for this year's programs as well as those next year."

Hanson's Bill For Beginning Farmers Told

Sen. Marv Hanson, Hallock, is sponsoring legislation to create a Minnesota state agency to help finance farm loans to beginning farmers. The state senate agriculture committee held a hearing on proposal this past week and further hearings will be held when the 1982 legislature convenes in January.

Hanson said the proposed new farm finance agency would focus on helping beginning farmers purchase the first parcels of farmland to get their operations going. Loans would be provided in two ways; one would be through the traditional direct mortgage of the farm and the other would be a loan to help with the down payment if the farm was being purchased by contract for deed.

Minnesota has the family farm security program presently. That program only guarantees farm loans though it provides some help with interest payments for the first 10 years of the loan which then have to be repaid in the next 10 years.

"My proposal is an addition to the family farm security program. We would continue that program but the proposed farm finance agency would issue bonds so that it would have funds itself to loan," Hanson outlined.

"We have young people all across Minnesota who want to farm and are willing to work hard to do so. They want to build a future for themselves and their families on the farm. Even with help from their own families, it's tough for many of them to get a start. I think this new proposed source of capital funds can help many of them.

"I am hopeful that as we work on this legislation a program will be developed that will aid beginning farm families in getting that very important start," Hanson concluded.

County ASCS Enters Grain Reserve Plan

Pennington County agricultural stabilization and conservation-service (ASCS) office has been authorized to accept the 1981 crop of barley and corn for entry into the three-year grain reserve program. Wheat has been eligible for the reserve program for the past few months.

Barley loans in the reserve program will have a premium of 12 cents per bushel above the regular loans. Loan rate for barley in Pennington county will be $1.97 per bushel, and corn at $2.44. Loan rate on wheat, in the reserve program is $3.58 per bushel.

Current interest rate of 14½ per cent will be charged for the first 12 months that the grain is in the reserve. After one year, the loan is interest free.

To encourage farmers to keep the grain in the reserve program until certain national price levels are met, advance storage at the rate of 26½ cents per bushel per year will be paid. This storage will be paid until the wheat prices reach $4.65, barley at $2.55 and corn at $3.15. When national prices reach these trigger levels, producers are released from their contract and are free to sell the grain.

Call the Pennington county ASCS office at 681-1612 or stop at 1305 Dale street in Thief River Falls for more details.

Smithsonian's Ape House Expected To Aid Reproduction

by Lawrence Howe
Smithsonian News Service

From within the spacious surroundings of his home, Azy's russet eyes focus curously on the gathering crowd below, his motionless body suspended from an overhead branch by a dexterous forelimb. As an inquisitive little girl presses her face against the glass cage, Azy, a playful four-year-old orangutan, responds quickly with an outstretched hand, his nimble fingers flexing as if to ask for the companionship of the young visitor. Immediately, the child's face brightens with an ear-to-ear grin and she becomes entranced with Azy's every move.

Such interactions between man and beast are a common sight in any zoo. But something special is happening here: Azy, the first second-generation orangutan born in the United States, is truly enjoying his modern new home at the recently opened great ape house at the Smithsonian's national zoological park in Washington, D.C.

The great apes — orangutans, gorillas, chimpanzees and pygmy chimpanzees — are our closest biological relatives. Collectively, through the depredations of man, they are facing extinction.

"By the end of this century," zoologist Miles S. Roberts says, "the great apes may be extinct in the wild. Our goal at the new house is to help ensure their survival in captivity by establishing breeding groups so we can expand captive populations and house them in settings that promote reproduction and social interaction."

This is no easy task. The major problem facing officials at the national zoo and elsewhere has been to get great apes born in captivity to breed. Captive-born apes have not experienced the extent of social interactions normally encountered in the wild and, as a result, the animals sometimes have indifferently toward the opposite sex. As Roberts puts it, "They're like humans. They can become bored with the same old partner."

The apes have reproductive cycles similar to those of humans. However, at best, in the wild, gorillas produce offspring once every four years; orangutans also reproduce infrequently. In both cases, the lengthy interval may be due to the comparatively long learning and growth period of young apes, which often remain with their mothers for up to four years.

The main emphasis of the new house will be on breeding gorillas and orangutans — the two most endangered species of great apes. There is an urgency in the zoo's mission, for the populations of these highly endangered animals continue to dwindle rapidly.

The orangutans are the most seriously endangered of the great apes. A mere 4,000 to 5,000 of these tree-dwelling creatures remain in the wild, inhabiting only the undistributed rain forests on the Indonesian islands of Borneo and Sumatra.

Approximately 15,000 lowland and less than 1,000 mountain gorillas remain in their natural habitats, primarily the lush tropical rain forests of Africa. Chimpanzees, the most familiar and adaptable of the ape species, number about 35,000 in the wild. They have a considerably larger range and, until recently, were found throughout much of tropical Africa.

Unfortunately, extensive lumbering and farming operations in the tropics are drastically reducing the apes' habitats. Orangutans, for example, require undisturbed forests with a wide variety of fruit trees. The creatures are adapted to eating fruits that appear at different times of the year. Disturbing the forests disrupts the entire ecosystem and ultimately affects the apes. And, because they live on islands, orangutans are considered to be more susceptible to rapid extinciton; scientists have found that animals inhabiting islands tend to become extinct much faster than their counterparts on the mainland.

Less indirectly, man has been a major predator of the gorilla and orangutan. Not only have they been killed for food, but the head, hands and genitals of these animals are used in tribal magic and are sold by poachers as collectors' items and trophies. The apes are also in great demand for medical research because their physiology is so similar to that of humans.

So what's in store for these endangered animals at the national zoo's new great ape house? First, there's plenty of room in a more natural and comfortable environment. Natural lighting and backgrounds of lush vegetation more closely resemble the apes' wild habitat. Instead of the commonly used steel bars, 1¼ inches of laminated glass runs the entire length of the enclosure, allowing visitors virtually an eyeball-to eyeball view of the apes.

The $3 million house is a hybrid design of other successful ape houses at zoos in the United States and Europe. The house is "furnished" with simulated trees made of fiberglass and cement — durable enough to withstand the pressure of 400-pound apes swinging and jumping on them. No zoo has ever tried these trees before, Roberts says, but the artificial material will be easier to maintain and more durable, while still keeping many of the features of real trees.

The outside yards, totaling almost a half acre in size, are expected to act as a psychological stimulus to increased social interaction among the apes. Trees, rocks and artificial climbing structures will keep the apes occupied and, zoo officials hope, alleviated the boredom often encountered within smaller enclosures.

If all goes as planned, Roberts says, the zoo will be able to establish cohesive family breeding groups of orangutans and gorillas. "The new facility eventually will be able to house 10 gorillas and 15 orangutans," he says, "although whether we reach this capacity rests entirely upon the animals' interactions."

To grow to this capacity, the national zoo also will have to exchange animals with other zoos in a constant search for compatible and productive mates. This will not only increase the numbers of apes in captivity, but will also help overcome inbreeding problems that arise when related animals breed with each other over successive generations. Inbreeding usually leads to increased mortality and reduced vigor in offspring.

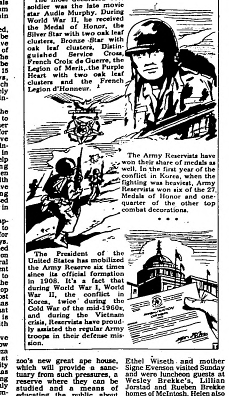
With few exceptions, captive-bred apes are unlikely to be released into the wild for several reasons, Roberts says. They usually have not reached the level of social interaction or developed their natural foraging instincts to an extent that would enable them to survive in the wild. Even if the apes were able to develop normally in captivity, in most cases their native habitat has either disappeared or what little habitat remains is already saturated with animals.

"The great apes have become victims of the plow and chain saw," says Dr. Geza Teleki, a primatologist at George Washington university in Washington, D.C., who has spent many years studying apes in the wild. "The only viable solution left is to concentrate on protecting the fractional habitat which still remains." Recognizing the problem, Indonesia and several African nations have established preserves to protect the apes' diminishing habitat.

While these preserves may help forestall the apes' demise, many scientists predict that the creatures' fate in the wild cannot be postponed forever. Even though preserves may be on the map, Teleki points out, protecting and managing them effectively is a difficult and expensive task. "Money and management don't mean a thing to a starving and war-torn nation," he says.

"And as long as the human population continues to increase," Roberts adds, "the apes' habitats will continue to be carved up to feed the hungry mouths of needy nation."

In this race against time, scientists continue to study the social and reproductive behavior of the great apes, both in their native habitats and in captivity. Says Dr. Thomas Lovejoy, vice president for science of the World Wildlife Fund-U.S.: "The great apes, who hold so many answers to our understanding of ourselves, are under heavy pressure everywhere. There is a dire need for proper captive facilities, such as the national zoo's new great ape house, which will provide a sanctuary from such pressures, a reserve where they can be studied and a means of educating the public about their importance and their plight." The hope is that information gained from these studies will help ensure the success of captive breeding programs so that, at the very least, zoos can secure a future for these endangered animals.



IT'S A FACT!

The most decorated U.S. soldier was the late movie star Audie Murphy. During World War II, he received the Medal of Honor, the Silver Star with two oak leaf clusters, Bronze Star with oak leaf clusters, Distinguished Service Cross, French Croix de Guerre, the Legion of Merit, the Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters and the French Legion d'Honneur.

The Army Reservists have won their share of medals as well. In the first year of the conflict in Korea, when the fighting was heaviest, Army Reservists won six of the 27 Medals of Honor and one-quarter of the other top combat decorations.

The President of the United States has mobilized the Army Reserve six times since its official formation in 1908. It's a fact that during World War I, World War II, the conflict in Korea, twice during the Cold War of the mid-1960s, and during the Vietnam crisis, Reservists have proudly assisted the regular Army troops in their defense mission.

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
Oklee, Minn.

Mrs. Ben Olson was pleasantly surprised on her birthday Saturday when the following came over with a potluck supper including a birthday cake and afterwards enjoyed playing progressive whist: Mr. and Mrs. Mac Stucy, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundeen, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Eisbrener and Mrs. Olson's husband Ben. Happy birthday, Alice!

Mrs. Clarence Howard and Mrs. Ben Olson came over with some goodies Friday and enjoyed visiting with Sena Chervestad. Signe Evenson also joined them.

Mrs. Darrow Lundeen, Mrs. Clarence Howard and Mrs. Ben Olson came over to the Orlando Chervestad home and planned the menu for the Sunday church dinner October 18 to be served following the 11:15 services. On the menu will be roast beef, mashed potatoes, buttered carrots, coleslaw and dessert. Also serving with the group are Mrs. Gary Lundeen, Mrs. Glen Jensen and Mrs. Rod Kragness. Everyone welcome.

Bonnie Halvorson of Thief River Falls was an overnight guest at the Richard Radniecki home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Stucy were luncheon guests Sunday at the Herb and Lottie Lundeen home.

Mrs. Richard Radniecki attended the citizen fun day in Oklee Friday at the center. Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Stolaas also attended from here. One hundred ninety-six dinners were served prepared by cooks Mrs. Al Radniecki, Jeanne Crook, and Mable Hestness. Two hundred fifty visitors enjoyed playing games and cards and dancing to the music of Ralph Berg, Vernon Iverson, Orlan Hanson and Vernon Wold of Trail.

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, Ethel Wiseth and mother Signe Evenson visited Sunday and were luncheon guests at Wesley Brekke's, Lillian Jorstad and Rueben Brekke homes of McIntosh. Helen also stopped into the Bennie Carlson home of Gully.

Saturday brunch guests at Richard Radniecki's were Virgil and Therese Radniecki. In the afternoon Lovonne was a coffee guest at the Les Schneider home in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Juell Chervestad and Orlando Chervestad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matheson, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Tasa, and Korydon Chervestad attended the funeral Wednesday for their cousin, Leonard Kjorvestad at the East Valle church south of Grand Forks. Leonard passed away Sunday morning from a heart attack at the age of 58. They were getting ready to dig their sugar beet crop the next week. Sympathy is extended to Bernice and daughter and relatives.

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad attended the funeral for John Steidl at the Redeemer Lutheran church Thursday. John was our Pennington DFL chairman. John has been battling with Hodgkins cancer for nine years and was doing fine until last week. He taught school at Northland community college in Thief River Falls until a couple days before his death. Sympathy is extended to his wife and family.

Dale Swenson celebrated his 15th birthday Saturday at the Orlando Chervestad home with a birthday luncheon. Special guests were his parents, the Jerry and Kathy Swensons and brother Doug of Hazel. Dale is staying at the Chervestad home and going to school in Oklee. Other guests were assistant pastor Roger Fueher, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Nelson and family and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Korydon Chervestad and family, Duane and Danny Nelson, Sena Chervestad and Signe Evenson.

Robert Flaten spent Saturday at his father's home, Carl Flaten, of St. Hilaire.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Myrum of Hibbing visited at the Fred Lundeen and Sarah Myrum homes for several weeks.

Orlan Stolaas was pleasantly surprised on his birthday Thursday evening when the following came over to enjoy a birthday luncheon: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Vad, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Arveson and Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lundeen, grandparents Olaf and Beatrice Stolaas. Happy birthday, Orlan!

Last Thursday Mrs. Fred Lundeen accompanied Mrs. Jarvis Torgerson of Thief River Falls to Grafton, ND. They helped Tilda Uggerud move back to her old town where she will make her future home. They also visited with Birdie Sundlund.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundeen attended the dinner at Salem Lutheran church north of Oklee Sunday and later drove to Thief River Falls to visit with brother Oscar Lundeen at Northwestern hospital, and were also coffee guests at the Gladys Groven home in Thief River Falls. Mrs. Bennie Johnson was also there.

Mrs. Julian Gunderson entertained afternoon coffee guests Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dalager of Greenbush, Mrs. Ted Dalager and Mrs. Ted Bergdahl of Thief River Falls.

Sunday dinner guests at the Orlan Stolaas home were Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lundeen, Mr. and Mrs. Galen Peters of Goodridge, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Stolaas. Afterwards all except Vincent attended the song fest at the Plummer church.

Friday Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Olson of Crookston visited at the Orlan Stolaas home.

Mr. and Mrs. Julie Gunderson entertained Saturday supper to the visitors from Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Olson, Mrs. Art Anson of Gonvick and Carla Johnson of Oklee, Audrey Stawarski and mother Birdie Gunderson.

Gladys Riendahl, Mable Hofstad and Birdie Gunderson attended a party at Gunda Syrtveit's last week.

Mrs. Adolph Peterson and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad attended the Deer Park garden club meeting at Bert and Inga Coan's home Tuesday afternoon in Goodridge. Marion Marquis, president, presided at the business meeting. Program yearbook was discussed. November meeting will be held at the Richard Radniecki home.

A luncheon guest at the Lloyd Larson home Monday last week was Larry Nelson from Bagley.

Eldon and Jim Moe, Alvin Halvorson and Lloyd Larson were fortunate to shoot a bull moose between Newfolden and Middle River on Sunday.

Several from our area attended the turkey supper served at the Zion Lutheran church in Viking Saturday evening.

Mrs. Alvin Halvorson and Mrs. Eldon Moe were Sunday afternoon visitors at the Peter Solem home. In the evening supper guests at the Solem home were Michael Solem, who is attending AVTI in Thief River Falls, and Cynthia Solem of Norden.

Mrs. Lloyd Larson was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Anne Muzzy in Thief River Falls Friday afternoon.

Supper guests at the Harold Halvorson home Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Larson, Heidi, Daniel and Wendy, and Brenda Hesse, all from Oklee.

Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf, Mrs. Leonard Yonke, Mrs. Alfred Solem, Mrs. Amy Jorde, Mrs. Belle Austinson, and Mrs. Donald Jorde attended a meeting of the Martha circle of Trinity Lutheran church ALCW at the church Thursday afternoon. Hostesses were Mrs. Ben Bendickson and Mrs. Irvin Iverson.

Mrs. Ethel Moe, Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas, Gena Gunderson, Synneva Engelstad and Goldie Halvorson attended the film, "Where Luther Walked", shown at St. John Lutheran church Sunday evening. The narrator of the film was Roland H. Bainton, who not only talked about many of the events in the life of Martin Luther but also acted out some of the episodes.

A Sunday afternoon visitor and supper guest at the Lloyd Larson home was Becky Wright. Evening visitors at the Larson home were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Halvorson and Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Halvorson, Lisa and Aaron.

Mrs. Alfred Solem and Mrs. Peter Solem and Andrew were Friday visitors at the Stanley Wick home in Grand Forks. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Solem were luncheon guests at the Lester Halvorson home in North.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Rondorf accompanied by Mrs. Clara Jaennette, visited Harvey Johnson at his home near St. Hilaire Sunday afternoon.

Marvin and Carol Yonke of East Grand Forks spent last Sunday at the home of his folks, the Leonard Yonkes.

Melvin Saugen left Monday, October 5, by bus for Royal Oak, Mich., where he was a house guest at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, William and Bernice Ketel, for a week. His sister, Inga Purdy from Walnut Creek, Calif., where she is a resident in a nursing home, is also spending 2-3 weeks at the Ketel home. Another sister, Thea Casey from Haymarket, Va., arrived at the Ketel home Saturday, October 10, to spend a few days. Melvin returned home Monday evening. He reported it rained when he left here and also rained when he got home, but said the weather in Michigan was nice and the scenery with all the colored maple and other leaves was beautiful.
